PROCEEDINGS AND DEBATES OF THE 108th CONGRESS, FIRST SESSION

Vol. 149

WASHINGTON, FRIDAY, MARCH 21, 2003

No. 46

House of Representatives

The House was not in session today. Its next meeting will be held on Monday, March 24, 2003, at 2 p.m.

Senate

FRIDAY, MARCH 21, 2003

The Senate met at 9:30 a.m. and was called to order by the Honorable CRAIG THOMAS, a Senator from the State of Wyoming.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Today's prayer will be offered by Rev. Charles V. Antonicelli, St. Joseph's Church on Capitol Hill, Washington, DC.

PRAYER

The guest Chaplain offered the following prayer:

Almighty Father, we bow before Your majesty in thanksgiving and praise. Help us to remember always that all we have comes from You.

Dear Lord, our thoughts and prayers this day rightly turn to the men and women of our military who are in harm's way. We implore You to watch over them and keep them safe. Watch over all civilians, too, Lord, and protect them from harm.

We long for "the tender compassion of our God" so that "the dawn from on high shall break upon us, to shine on those who dwell in darkness and the shadow of death, and to guide our feet into the way of peace." (Luke 1:78-79)

Gracious God, grant Your wisdom and love to all men and women of good will, especially those who serve in this Senate. Be their constant guide. Show them Your goodness today.

We ask this in Your Holy Name. Amen.

PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE

The Honorable CRAIG THOMAS led the Pledge of Allegiance as follows:

I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America and to the Republic for which it stands, one nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all.

APPOINTMENT OF ACTING PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will please read a communication to the Senate from the President pro tempore (Mr. STEVENS).

U.S. SENATE
PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE,
Washington, DC, March 21, 2003.

To the Senate:

Under the provisions of rule I, paragraph 3, of the Standing Rules of the Senate, I hereby appoint the Honorable CRAIG THOMAS, a Senator from the State of Wyoming, to perform the duties of the Chair.

TED STEVENS,
President pro tempore.

Mr. THOMAS thereupon assumed the Chair as Acting President pro tempore.

RECOGNITION OF THE MAJORITY LEADER

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The majority leader is recognized.

SCHEDULE

Mr. FRIST. Mr. President, this morning the Senate will resume consideration of S. Con. Res. 23, the concurrent budget resolution. The time until 9:45 a.m. will be used for debate, prior to the first vote which will begin promptly at 9:45.

ORDER OF PROCEDURE

I ask unanimous consent that following the first vote, the time until 10:45 be equally divided for debate between the chairman and ranking member or their designees; provided further that the next vote in the sequence begin at 10:45.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Is there objection?

Mr. REID. Reserving the right to object.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Nevada.

Mr. REID. It is my understanding that the two leaders are scheduled to go to the White House. Is that the reason? I want to make sure everyone understands that the majority leader is going to do what he can to move this bill and the fact that there is this window is not going to happen during the rest of the day; is that right?

Mr. FRIST. That is correct. The Democratic leader and the majority leader will be meeting with the President of the United States for a period of about 30 minutes to discuss the war. There will be a pause, and then after 10:45 we would expect votes to occur with 10-minute intervals thereafter.

Mr. REID. How many votes are we going to have this morning before the majority leader is obligated to leave?

Mr. FRIST. There will be one vote at 9:45, and then we will depart. We will resume voting at 10:45 or thereabouts.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Is there objection? Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. FRIST. Mr. President, last night the chairman and ranking member of the Budget Committee reached an agreement for the consideration of the first 10 amendments today. With the first 10 votes scripted, it will allow Members to review and prepare for the first couple of hours in the voting sequence.

I encourage Members who intend to offer amendments to notify the chairman or the ranking member so that their amendments can be placed in the sequence of votes. At this time, we are not encouraging further amendments. However, if Members feel compelled to offer them, I ask courtesy of that notification.

I remind all Senators that once the voting sequence begins at 10:45, Senators should remain in the Chamber or close by to avoid missing any votes. We will need to limit the votes in the sequence to 10 minutes each. We will stay until this resolution is completed. It may be a lengthy session today in order to conclude the process. I thank Members for their cooperation.

DEATH IN COMBAT

Mr. FRIST. In America this morning, there are several families who have awakened to the worst possible news: the death in combat of a father, a brother, or a son. In our thoughts and prayers today, I ask my colleagues to remember those who have sacrificed so much on the battlefields in the Persian Gulf. Every life is precious. Our mission goes on. Our military will complete the course our leaders have set. In the Senate and in everyday life, we should honor that sacrifice in how we comport ourselves.

Our service men and women are honorable, patriotic Americans, serving the cause of liberty, our liberty. I pray to God that we who have the honor to represent them continue to act in a manner worthy of them.

In this difficult time, I ask my colleagues to measure their words to remember those who are privileged to serve and to aspire to that same level of greatness. We will debate and we will disagree. We will differ in how we vote, but we are all Americans. The losses we have incurred will serve as a constant reminder for how fortunate we are for just that.

RESERVATION OF LEADER TIME

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Under the previous order, the leadership time is reserved.

CONGRESSIONAL BUDGET FOR THE U.S. GOVERNMENT FOR FISCAL YEAR 2004

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Under the previous order, the Senate will now resume consideration of S. Con. Res. 23, which the clerk will report.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

A concurrent resolution (S. Con. Res. 23) setting forth the congressional budget for the U.S. Government for fiscal year 2004 and including the appropriate budgetary levels for fiscal year 2003 and for fiscal years 2005 through 2013.

Pending:

Schumer amendment No. 299, to provide immediate assistance to meet pressing homeland security needs by providing funding in 2003 for first responders, port security, bioterrorism preparedness and prevention, border security and transit security, the FBI; to restore the elimination of funding of the COPS program, firefighter equipment grants, Byrne Grants and Local Law enforcement grants; to provide a sustained commitment of resources for homeland security needs without reducing funding to other key domestic law enforcement and public safety priorities; and to reduce the deficit.

Brownback amendment No. 282, to express the sense of the Senate that a commission be established to review the efficiency of Federal agencies.

Conrad (for Feingold/Corzine) amendment No. 270, to set aside a reserve fund for possible military action and reconstruction in Iraq.

Breaux Amendment No. 339, to reduce tax cuts by $375 billion and to reduce projected deficits by $464 billion.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Under the previous order, the time until 9:45 will be equally divided between the chairman and the ranking member of the Budget Committee.

Who yields time?

Mr. REID. On behalf of Senator CONRAD, we yield time to the Senator from New York.

AMENDMENT NO. 299

Mr. SCHUMER. Mr. President, the first vote will be on the amendment that I offered, along with many of my colleagues: Senator CLINTON, Senator DASCHLE, Senator BYRD, and Senator LIEBERMAN. It is the homeland security amendment that we debated. I remind my colleagues how important homeland security is, how we have to fight a good offense. Praise God, it seems as if that is going quite well in Iraq. It is also very important for us to fight defense and we have not been doing an adequate job.

I believe Senator COCHRAN will offer an alternative version later on today, but I would make two points about the Schumer amendment as opposed to the Cochran amendment. One is that the Cochran amendment is not as generous, as I understand it. I have just received it. It is even in this fiscal year, the 2003 fiscal year, when our police officers, our firefighters are hurting from one end of the country to the other, when our port security is not what it should be, when our rail security is not what it should be, the Cochran amendment is considerably lower.

I am sure if my colleagues go back and ask their police and fire departments which amendment they prefer, it is the Schumer amendment.

Second and more important, we have close to a $700 billion tax cut. We also have programs on education, on health care, on transportation, the FBI and everything else. The alternative amendment cuts every one of those.

Are my colleagues going to tell their police departments that they are going to take away Byrne grants and COPS money to give them this money? Are they going to take away fire money to give them this money? Are they going to cut road building? Are they going to cut the FBI? Are they going to cut everything that is in function 920 to do homeland security? Just as we should not be pitting the defense and the money needed for our soldiers overseas against domestic needs like education, health care and transportation, we should not be pitting homeland security against that. I ask my colleagues to think about it. We have a huge tax cut. This amendment takes a very small amount—in a quick calculation—less than 1 or 2 percent of that tax cut.

Where should the money come from? I don't believe we are actually going to cut education any further, no matter what this budget resolution does. I don't believe we will cut health care any further. I don't think we will cut road building any further. They are stretched to the bone because of the necessities of the budget.

This amendment offers the real chance at homeland security. This is the amendment. To insist that every dollar of the tax cut must be sacrosanct while we sacrifice the rest of the Government—when your school boards come to you, when your hospitals come to you, when your construction companies come to you, and your Governors and mayors and, of course, your police chiefs and firefighters, are you going to say you let them down?

I urge, I hope, I pray; this is a time when we need unity. There is no problem, none whatever, with taking a small amount, a total over 10 years of $38 billion, a total of over $5 billion this fiscal year, 2003, and next year, 2004, getting to $8 billion, out of that tax cut because that will fund homeland security.

I urge my colleagues to vote for this amendment and stand up for their local police, their local firefighters, their local schools.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, the two leaders have agreed the second vote should start at 10:30 and I ask unanimous consent that that be the case.

Mr. NICKLES. I have no objection.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The Senator from Oklahoma.

Mr. NICKLES. Mr. President, just for the information of our colleagues, we will have a vote to begin in a couple minutes on the Schumer amendment, and then the second vote will begin at 10:30 on the Cochran amendment that is also in relation to homeland security.

I urge my colleagues, with great respect, to oppose the Schumer amendment. His amendment would add $88 billion over 10 years for a variety of homeland security programs, law enforcement assistance. I contacted the Secretary of Homeland Security, Mr. Ridge, and asked for their position on this amendment. I ask unanimous consent to have printed in the RECORD a letter from Secretary Ridge: "The Administration opposes the pending Schumer amendment" in the second paragraph.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

DEPARTMENT OF HOMELAND SECURITY, OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY,
Washington, DC, March 21, 2003.

Hon. WILLIAM FRIST,
Senate Majority Leader,
Washington, DC.

DEAR SENATOR FRIST: I appreciate your leadership as Congress deliberates the FY 2004 Budget Resolution. I am writing to urge you and your colleagues to maintain an appropriate balance between adequate funding provided for homeland security programs, program levels that can be spent responsibly, and fiscal discipline.

The Administration opposes the pending Schumer amendment. Substantial additional funding levels in the Budget resolution could be diverted away from terrorism preparedness and into activities that are traditionally funded by state and local governments. Defending our homeland is not just about spending more money. We need to ensure that funding provided for "homeland security" is truly directed to programs that help protect America against terrorism—the President's FY 2004 Budget support these programs as does the Senate Budget Resolution.

The FY 2004 budget represents a doubling of funding for non-defense homeland security since the September 11th terrorist attacks. This year, the President is requesting $3,558 billion in First Responder funding for terrorism preparedness grants and training and assistance. The Budget also includes $4.8 billion for the Transportation Security Agency—this level will fund a complete airport screener workforce, maintain nearly 10,000 pieces of TSA screening equipment, ensure coverage on commercial aircraft with additional Federal Air Marshals, and assess methods for improved screening of air cargo on commercial flights. More than $1.6 billion is requested for biodefense research. Through this investment and the proposed BioShield initiative, the President is moving as quickly as possible to research, develop and procure bioterror countermeasures. The Budget also provides $6.7 billion for DHS's Bureau of Customs and Border Protection—this level will support the continued development of the comprehensive Entry/Exit system, infrastructure and technology investments including remotely operated infrared cameras to monitor isolated border areas, radiation detection and x-ray machines for inspecting cargo containers, and $62 million for the Container Security Initiative.

As I indicated on Wednesday, the President intends to send a supplemental appropriations request to Congress in the near future to support the homeland security efforts of state and local entities during this time of heightened threat.

Sincerely,

TOM RIDGE.

Mr. NICKLES. We have to decide, are we going to have individual Senators come here and say we know best, we ought to give the Secretary—this is a new Secretary, a new Department, where the funding for these items has more than doubled in the last 2 years—a very significant increase.

The increase we have this year over last year is 18.4 percent. In addition to that, when we vote on the Cochran amendment, we will be increasing funds for this function for fiscal year 2003, the year we are in, an additional $3.5 billion. That is more than enough to make up for any deficiencies in first responders and also gives additional money for other necessary items in homeland security. Senator COCHRAN will explain that amendment when we vote at 10:30.

I urge our colleagues to vote no on the Schumer amendment.

This amendment will have a 15-minute vote, and possibly the next amendment will have 15 minutes, and then we will have a series of rollcall votes. We have 10 amendments in the queue, and today we will possibly vote on a lot of amendments. We urge colleagues, particularly on the second round, to stay on the floor and to be as attentive as possible because we will try to stay to the 10-minute timeframe to accommodate as many amendments as are necessary.

I yield the floor.

Mr. SARBANES. Mr. President, I rise in strong support of the amendment offered by Senator SCHUMER that would provide $88 billion in desperately needed funding for homeland security efforts at the Federal, State, and local levels.

In the State of Maryland and across the Nation, State, local, and regional authorities have been called upon to meet the mounting challenges we face in strengthening our domestic security. Many of our local officials have accepted this challenge with great resolve, and there have been many improvements in protecting the American people against the increased dangers with which we now live.

Despite these efforts, homeland security enhancements remain woefully inadequate, and states, counties, and cities across the country are stretched to their financial limits. The U.S. Conference of Mayors and the National League of Cities estimate that over $3 billion has been spent by our cities toward terrorism preparedness. An editorial in today's Baltimore Sun highlights the serious costs incurred by the City of Baltimore, which are estimated at $12.5 million. Despite the City's best efforts, there remain serious concerns about its readiness for an attack. As the Sun asserts:

[a]mong them are the inability of Baltimore County, Baltimore City, and the Maryland State Police to communicate on a single radio system. Also, many police departments lack sufficient tools for coping with a disaster, such as equipment to detect radiation.

With the commencement of engagement by United States military forces in Iraq, we stand united as a country and will rally behind the men and women of our armed forces to give them the support they deserve. We must and will remain steadfast and resolute in our strong backing of the courageous men and women who are being sent into harm's way. As we demonstrate our support for our troops overseas, however, we must not relent in our support for the men and women who stand ready to protect us each and every day on our own shores.

This past Monday evening, President Bush declared that "[j]ust as we are preparing to ensure victory in Iraq, we are taking further actions to protect our homeland." In conjunction with the President's address to the nation, Homeland Security Secretary Tom Ridge announced the administration's decision to raise our threat assessment again to Level Orange. This time, however, the rise in threat level was accompanied by a broad plan to increase security across the country, dubbed "Operation Liberty Shield." This call to our nation's domestic troops—our firefighters, policemen, and emergency medical personnel—will not go unheeded. As the events of September 11 so horribly demonstrated, these brave men and women place themselves in harm's way each and every day, and will continue to face any danger to protect the freedoms and the lives of innocent Americans. In a very real sense, our troops abroad and our first responders at home stand together to provide for our common defense.

Law enforcement agencies and fire departments across the nation have been stretched even further by Reserve call-ups. A study by the Department of Justice has estimated that 44 percent of law enforcement agencies have lost members to the war effort, and, according to estimates, 75 percent of the Nation's firehouses are home to reservists.

As we continue to ask more of our first responders, the administration has repeatedly undermined the critical efforts of these brave men and women by consistently refusing to provide the resources they need to do their jobs. Just as we have made a commitment to supporting our troops abroad and providing them with the most advanced equipment, we must make a more concrete Federal commitment to our first responders.

The Assistance to Firefighters Grant Program has been a highly successful effort to get much-needed Federal support directly to the nation's firehouses. The Republican budget proposal directs only $500 million to this critical program. This represents a $250 million cut from the amount enacted for the current fiscal year, and $400 million less than has been authorized by the Congress.

The National Fire Protection Agency, NFPA, has found that a minimum of four firefighters are needed to safely attack an interior structure fire. The congressionally mandated "Needs Assessment of the U.S. Fire Service," published jointly by the Federal Emergency Management Agency and NFPA this past December, has shown that this personnel target is met in far too few cases. I have cosponsored legislation, introduced by Senator DODD, entitled the Staffing for Adequate Fire and Emergency Response Act, or SAFER Act, which would create a grant program specifically for the hiring of new firefighters to address this need. Senator SCHUMER's amendment would provide $11 billion over ten years toward the FIRE and SAFER Acts.

The Republican budget we have before us also cuts programs for state and local law enforcement by over $1 billion. The Administration has proposed eliminating the Byrne Grant program, zero funding the COPS hiring program, ending the Local Law Enforcement Block Grant Program, canceling the COPS in Schools program, and slashing the COPS technology program. Senator SCHUMER's amendment would restore these unwise cuts.

This budget does little to address the inadequate safeguards to our Nation's 361 seaports. One frightening estimate suggests that, of the 6 million shipping containers that enter the country each year, only two percent are actually inspected. The Port of Baltimore, in my own State, is one of the busiest seaports in the nation, handling over 30 million tons of cargo each year.

Last November we took a significant first step in improving port security by passing the Maritime Transportation Security Act by an overwhelming margin. I joined 94 of my Senate colleagues in supporting the passage of this measure, and the bill was signed into law by President Bush soon thereafter. However, while the Administration and my Republican colleagues supported the mandates offered in this legislation, they have again failed in providing the funding to fulfill these commitments. The U.S. Coast Guard has estimated that the cost to the private sector for port security improvements called for in the legislation would total $4.4 billion. This budget's entire allocation for port security is a meager $200 million.

I want to turn for a moment to the security of our Nation's surface transportation systems. Roughly one-third of terrorist attacks worldwide target transportation systems. According to the Mineta Transportation Institute, surface transportation systems were the target of more than 195 terrorist attacks from 1997 to 2000. Clearly, there is an acute need to improve the security of our transportation infrastructure, and particularly our nation's transit systems—buses, subways, ferries and light rail—which carry 14 million Americans every workday. A recent GAO study identified significant security needs at our nation's transit agencies, where, according to the study, "insufficient funding is the most significant challenge in making their transit systems as safe and secure as possible." In fact, at only eight of the transit agencies they visited, the GAO found over $700 million in identified security needs. And yet, the budget resolution demonstrates no commitment to helping transit systems become more secure. Despite the elevated risk levels we are currently experiencing, this budget provides only a minimal increase in Federal transit spending and dedicates no resources within the budget of the Transportation Security Administration for transit security. We owe it to our nation's transit riders to do more.

This week, the administration again pledged its support for increased funding for state and local governments toward homeland security. We have heard many of these pledges over the past year, and, unfortunately, the administration has repeatedly fallen short on its promises. The rhetoric of support for our nation's first responders and upgrades to our homeland security will continue to ring hollow if not accompanied by the resources desperately needed for these critical efforts.

I urge my colleagues to support Senator SCHUMER's amendment. If the Congress and the administration are to enact legislation signaling our commitment to securing the homeland, we must provide the resources to provide even the most basic levels of protection. We must demonstrate steely resolve in our efforts to protect our citizens and critical infrastructure, and this will not be achieved if the resources committed to the task are inadequate.

NOT VOTING—1

Miller

The amendment (No. 299) was rejected.

Mr. NICKLES. Mr. President, I move to reconsider the vote.

Mr. REID. I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. (Mr. CHAFEE.) The Senator from Oklahoma.

Mr. NICKLES. Mr. President, I thank my colleagues. That is the first vote. We will probably have several votes. We have already entered consent that the next vote will begin at 10:30. For the information of my colleagues, that will be on the Cochran amendment.

We allowed this amendment time-frame to extend. We are going to be much closer to enforcing the time limit of 10 minutes on the following votes. The next amendment will have a 15-minute time limit, but after that we expect to enforce the 10-minute time limit.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from North Dakota.

Mr. CONRAD. Mr. President, so we can alert colleagues to what we are faced with today, we have over 100 amendments that have been noticed to the managers. At three amendments an hour, maybe a little more than that, four amendments an hour would be 25 hours; three amendments an hour, 35 hours. So we will ask colleagues to call us and let us know if their amendments are that important to them or that they could wait for another day. I urge colleagues to talk with their staffs and alert us as to amendments that do not need to be offered today. That is No. 1.

No. 2, when we get into this, we will need to do these votes 10 minutes apiece, as the chairman has indicated. We will have to be very disciplined to do that. That is the only way we can get through these amendments in a way that will allow us to complete business on any reasonable schedule. We need to put colleagues on notice that that is the way the day will have to go if we are going to get done.

I yield the floor.

Mr. NICKLES. Mr. President, I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. NICKLES. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

MEASURES PLACED ON CALENDAR—H.R. 5, H.R. 975, H.R. 1047, AND H.R. 1308

Mr. NICKLES. Mr. President, I understand there are four bills at the desk which are due for a second reading.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator is correct.

Mr. NICKLES. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that it be in order to read the titles of the bills en bloc.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The clerk will state the bills by title.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

A bill (H.R. 5) to improve patient access to health care services and provide improved medical care by reducing the excessive burden the liability system places on the health care delivery system.

A bill (H.R. 975) to amend title 11 of the United States Code, and for other purposes.

A bill (H.R. 1047) to amend the Harmonized Tariff Schedule of the United States to modify temporarily certain rates of duty, to make other technical amendments to the trade laws, and for other purposes.

A bill (H.R. 1308) to amend the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 to end certain abusive tax practices, to provide tax relief and simplification, and for other purposes.

Mr. NICKLES. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the Senate proceed to the measures en bloc and object to further proceeding en bloc.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Objection having been heard, the bills will be placed on the calendar.

Mr. NICKLES. I thank the Chair.

Mr. President, I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. NICKLES. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. NICKLES. Mr. President, I believe the next amendment in order is the Cochran amendment.

I yield to the Senator from Mississippi.

AMENDMENT NO. 369

Mr. COCHRAN. Mr. President, I have an amendment at the desk.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Mississippi (Mr. COCHRAN) proposes an amendment numbered 369.

Mr. COCHRAN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that further reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

On page 46, line 21, increase the amount by $1,575,000,000.

On page 47, line 6, increase the amount by $875,000,000.

On page 47, line 15, increase the amount by $525,000,000.

Mr. COCHRAN. Mr. President, this amendment will increase the fiscal year 2003 totals in the budget resolution to provide an additional $3.5 billion in funding for homeland security.

Based on information about possible terrorist attacks against U.S. interests, the Secretary of Homeland Security earlier this week raised the national threat alert level to orange, indicating a higher risk of terrorist attack. We must support the actions being taken across our country to mobilize Federal response assets, strengthen the protection of our transportation systems, tighten security at our borders and ports, increase public health preparedness, and improve the capabilities of first responders.

Secretary Ridge confirmed in a letter today that a supplemental appropriations request will be sent to Congress by the President in the near future to support homeland security efforts. This amendment will accommodate additional funding to meet these immediate homeland security needs, and I urge Senators to support it.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that a copy of the letter I described addressed to the Honorable WILLIAM FRIST, Senate majority leader, from Tom Ridge be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

DEPARTMENT OF HOMELAND SECURITY,
Washington, DC, March 21, 2003.

Hon. WILLIAM FRIST,
Senate Majority Leader,
Washington, DC.

DEAR SENATOR FRIST: I appreciate your leadership as Congress deliberates the FY 2004 Budget Resolution. I am writing to urge you and your colleagues to maintain an appropriate balance between adequate funding provided for homeland security programs, program levels that can be spent responsibly, and fiscal discipline.

The Administration opposes the pending Schumer amendment. Substantial additional funding levels in the Budget resolution could be diverted away from terrorism preparedness and into activities that are traditionally funded by state and local governments. Defending our homeland is not just about spending more money. We need to ensure that funding provided for "homeland security" is truly directed to programs that help protect America against terrorism—the President's FY 2004 Budget supports these programs as does the Senate Budget Resolution.

The FY 2004 budget represents a doubling of funding for non-defense homeland security since the September 11th terrorist attacks. This year, the President is requesting $3.558 billion in First Responder funding for terrorism preparedness grants and training and assistance. The Budget also includes $4.8 billion for the Transportation Security Agency—this level will fund a complete airport screener workforce, maintain nearly 10,000 pieces of TSA screening equipment, ensure coverage on commercial aircraft of with additional Federal Air Marshals, and assess methods for improved screening of air cargo on commercial flights. More than $1.6 billion is requested for biodefense research. Through this investment and the proposed BioShield initiative, the President is moving as quickly as possible to research, develop and procure bioterror countermeasures. The Budget also provides $6.7 billion for DHS's Bureau of Customs and Border Protection—this level will support the continued development of the comprehensive Entry/Exit system, infrastructure and technology investments including remotely operated infrared cameras to monitor isolated border areas, radiation detection and x-ray machines for inspecting cargo containers, and $62 million for the Container Security Initiative.

As I indicated on Wednesday, the President intends to send a supplemental appropriations request to Congress in the near future to support the homeland security efforts of state and local entities during this time of heightened threat.

Sincerely,

TOM RIDGE,
Secretary.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Nevada.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, while the two managers are listening, we do not yet have a unanimous consent agreement that there will be 1 minute for each side prior to a vote. I am going to ask unanimous consent that that be the case.

Also, the two managers want to make sure the Chair enforces the 1-minute rule. The only way that can be enforced is that the Chair, when the minute is up, stops the person from speaking; otherwise, it runs into a minute and a half, 2 minutes, and we waste a great deal of time.

I ask unanimous consent that prior to each vote there be 1 minute on each side, and that be strictly enforced.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Mr. NICKLES. Mr. President, reserving the right to object, I would like to modify that. This consent agreement will be for this group of votes we now have planned.

Mr. REID. Not this vote right now.

Mr. NICKLES. For the 10 votes we have ordered, not necessarily for every vote we might have today. We will probably do that later.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Does the Senator modify his request?

Mr. REID. That is fine.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. NICKLES. I believe the Senator from New York wants to speak on the amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from New York.

Mr. SCHUMER. Mr. President, I am surprised at and happy to support the Cochran amendment. Unlike what I had been told last night, it does not take the money out of 920. It rather adds the cap. It is $3.5 billion of homeland security money which we very much need.

I hasten to add, I do not think $3.5 billion is enough. Our amendment had over $5 billion, and it does not go into 2004 and the outyears. We have a long way to go on homeland security, but this is a good first step.

I am delighted to support the amendment, and I thank the Senator from Mississippi for helping us raise the amount of homeland security money.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Oklahoma.

Mr. NICKLES. Mr. President, for the information of our colleagues, this will be a 15-minute vote. We plan on strictly enforcing this vote at 15 minutes. We plan on strictly enforcing the subsequent rollcall votes at 10 minutes.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to the Cochran amendment No. 369.

Mr. NICKLES. I ask for the yeas and nays on the amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there a sufficient second?

There appears to be a sufficient second.

The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk called the roll.

Mr. McCONNELL. I announce that the Senator from Tennessee (Mr. FRIST) is necessarily absent.

Mr. REID. I announce that the Senator from South Dakota (Mr. DASCHLE) and the Senator from Georgia (Mr. MILLER) are necessarily absent.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Are there any other Senators in the Chamber desiring to vote?

The amendment (No. 369) was agreed to.

Mr. COCHRAN. I move to reconsider the vote.

Mr. NICKLES. I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

Mr. NICKLES. Mr. President, I inquire of the Parliamentarian how long that rollcall lasted.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. It lasted 21½ minutes.

Mr. NICKLES. For the information of colleagues, the majority leader and minority leader were cut off; in the next vote we are going to cut off a lot of people if they are not here and voting within 10 minutes. I forewarn our colleagues. I will be fair and bipartisan. We will cut off people if they are not here to vote. We will limit the votes to 10 minutes.

AMENDMENT NO. 270

The next amendment in order is the Feingold amendment.

Mr. FEINGOLD. This amendment, which I offer with Senators CORZINE, DURBIN, GRAHAM of Florida, and HOLLINGS, would create a reserve fund to set aside $100 billion, an amount well within the range of available estimates, to fund military action and reconstruction in Iraq. We would pay for this by reducing the amount we would budget for tax cuts in the period covered by the budget resolution.

No one is certain how much the war with Iraq will actually cost, but we can be certain such a war will not be free. The Center for Strategic and Budgetary Assessments estimates that the total cost could range from $129 billion to $683 billion. Today's Wall Street Journal reports a supplemental appropriations request is expected shortly that will ask for $80 billion and that will cover just the first 30 days of the war. The day before yesterday the President said the war may be longer and more difficult than some predict.

Plainly, we are talking about a major enterprise and one for which we should budget. We are in a war. The budget must reflect it. This is no time for business as usual. We should prepare responsibly for that which is right before our eyes. I urge my colleagues to support the amendment.

Mr. NICKLES. Mr. President, I urge our colleagues to vote no on this amendment. We asked CRS to do a study on how we funded wars in the past, and did we do it in advance. Based on the examination of previous reviews, fronting for wars and other major military operations, it appears that Presidents have not requested and Congress has not provided funding for wars in advance of the start of operations; rather, administrations have requested funding after operations have begun and Congress has subsequently appropriated money to meet specific, documented budget requirements.

I urge my colleagues to vote no on the amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. SUNUNU). The question is on agreeing to the Feingold amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. There are now 2 minutes evenly divided.

Mr. LAUTENBERG. Mr. President, my amendment establishes a reserve fund for national defense and homeland security. The amendment is necessary because the budget resolution actually cuts defense spending by $103 billion below the President's request over that 10-year window. That is according to CBO and SBC. From 2004 through 2008, the Republican budget assumes defense spending at the level requested by the President. But the last 5 years of the budget window, from 2009 through 2013, the Republican budget resolution cuts $103 billion below the level CBO estimates.

I ask that my friends on the Republican side of the aisle be very careful when they look at the Republican message. It says the Lautenberg amendment reduces the growth package by $103 billion in budget authority and $88 billion in outlays. They don't say that the budget comes from the tax cuts.

Mr. LIEBERMAN. Mr. President, today, as the hearts and minds of all Americans are with our brave men and women in uniform who are embarking on the most perilous of journeys, I rise to speak in support of Senator LAUTENBERG's amendment and fulfill what I see as one of the most important duties of any Senator.

The Constitution of the United States invests the President with the authority of the Commander in Chief, but it also establishes the Congress as the guarantor of the quality and size of the Army, the Navy, the Air Force, and the Marines because it is the Congress that authorizes the expenditure of moneys to fund the military. As Senators we have a great responsibility to watch over those who man the walls of our Nation's defenses.

Along the Iraq-Kuwait border the U.S. military is striking. Our Armed Forces are engaged the world over in a fight against terror. Our uniformed commanders have testified before us that not since the Second World War has the U.S. military been so dispersed; not since that conflict have our Armed Forces been engaged with the enemy in so many locales and climes. My colleagues and I on the Senate Armed Services Committee are aware of the difficulties our soldiers, sailors, airmen, and marines and their families face as a result of these strenuous deployments. We have applauded the Department of Defense's efforts to address the quality of life of its troops. Following in the best traditions of this Chamber, we have worked together in a truly bipartisan fashion to increase military pay levels. We have addressed spousal benefits and we will, in the upcoming months of this Congress, debate, and I hope determine once and for all the issue of concurrent receipt. Year after year we strive to provide funding to equip our forces with the most advanced technology the world has ever seen.

Therefore, Mr. President, as a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee, as a strong supporter of our Armed Forces, as one who recognizes the strain of current operations upon our force structure and the importance of maintaining funding levels for the Department presently and for the foreseeable future, I cannot agree with any proposal which will reverse the important gains that we have made.

I believe we must oppose any attempt to decrease essential funding for our national defense in order to paper over the fiscal havoc that the President's proposed tax cuts cause. It is irresponsible to, when we are at war, when the challenges that our men and women in uniform face are so omnipresent, contemplate slashing the future funds that will make it possible for them to maintain their dominance into the next decade.

I direct my colleagues' attention to the Senate Republican budget resolution, which cuts defense spending after 2009 by more than a $100 billion—$100 billion.

The resolution calls for a $6.5 billion drawdown in 2009 from the funding level that the Congressional Budget Office estimates as required for the maintenance of the 2008 spending levels. In 2010 that shortfall would be $15.5 billion. A year later it is a $21.0 billion shortfall. A year later it grows to $27.5 billion. By 2013 the amount is $34.0 billion.

And why? To try to correct the fiscal damage the tax cuts have put us in. Now, I think we are all in agreement with Chairman NICKLES that the record-setting deficits that will be the bitter fruit of the President's tax cuts need to be dealt with. But to deal with them by cutting moneys that will fuel our planes, feed our marines, steam our ships, and arm our weapons is unfortunate indeed. I challenge the proponents of this plan to go out into the Kuwaiti desert and stand in front of a U.S. platoon, and tell them that the future funding that is to secure them better communications gear or more money to fund training or better body armor is being cut. Cut because the Senate majority refuses to take the President to task for pursuing fiscally irresponsible tax cuts on the eve of a war, and in the midst of an international campaign against terror.

The amendment that I rise in support of offers another way. Let's carve out a $103.5 billion fund from the $1.4 trillion tax cut and use it to create a designated fund for the defense of our Nation's security. In doing so we will serve to offset the proposed reductions in defense spending set forth in the Budget Resolution. By our actions we will prevent the diversion of cash from accounts that fund the defense of this country to an ill-considered, non-stimulative tax cut.

We are at war. Our military, the most powerful professional armed force ever arrayed on the face of the earth is shouldering a heavy burden. To discuss cutting the very funding that will keep them the preeminent military force is more than poor politics—it is irresponsible. I like to think that what Lincoln called "the better angels of our nature" still, in these troubled times, hold sway over our baser instincts. I urge you to support this amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Who yields time?

The Senator Oklahoma.

Mr. NICKLES. I urge my colleagues to vote no on the amendment. This is a good reason that maybe we should not have 10-year budgets. He assumes we should increase spending in some areas instead of defense, but there is not one line item that says 050. Nothing would increase money in defense under this resolution. It would increase taxes. It would increase spending, unspecified spending.

I urge my colleagues to vote no on the Lautenberg amendment.

AMENDMENT NO. 265

(Purpose: To eliminate tax cuts)

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report the amendment No. 265.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from South Carolina (Mr. HOLLINGS) proposes an amendment numbered 265.

Mr. HOLLINGS. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that further reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

(The amendment is printed in the RECORD of Tuesday, March 18, 2003, under "Text of Amendments.")

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from South Carolina is recognized.

There will be 2 minutes of debate evenly divided.

Mr. HOLLINGS. Mr. President, if you turn to page 6 of the budget, you will see that for the fiscal year we are projecting going into the red $484 billion; for 2004, $582 billion; for 2005, $556 billion. So for the 3-year period, that is $1.5 trillion going into the red. That is $1.5 trillion of stimulus.

If anybody wants to talk growth, you know dividends and the estate tax are not going to stimulate anything. This is $1.5 trillion of stimulus. The only thing that grows in this budget is the debt. So for those who are responding to the needs of the country, trying to get us to sober up and get back on track and get ahold of ourselves and quit running these horrendous deficits and spending Social Security, vote aye; for those responding to the needs of the campaign, vote no.

Mr. NICKLES. Mr. President, I urge my colleagues to vote no on this amendment. This amendment says there will be no growth package. It implies a tax increase in 2011, 2012, and 2013. That means a 10-percent rate would go to 15 percent; the child credit that would be $1,000 will fall back to $500; the marriage penalty would be increased.

I urge my colleagues to vote no.

Mr. AKAKA. Mr. President, I rise today to voice my disagreement with the priorities set forth in the budget resolution we have been debating, and support for the amendments offered by my colleagues from South Carolina and New York, Senators HOLLINGS and SCHUMER. With our Nation at war, we must do all we can to support our troops, ensure that our homeland is secure, and continue our emphasis on significant domestic priorities, such as education and health care. This is why I believe it would be unwise to enact further tax cuts that would pit these priorities against each other for limited Federal dollars and lead us further down the path to fiscal irresponsibility.

We have commenced military operations against an enemy who has defied efforts at international diplomacy. Without a doubt, these efforts will come at substantial cost which is not reflected in this budget. Proponents must rely on budget tactics to show that we can allow additional tax cuts to be passed. I would like to associate my comments with those of my colleague from North Dakota, Senator CONRAD, who rightfully attempted to enforce patriotic pause on this very point.

This budget repudiates our commitment to fight the evil of terrorism within our own borders. It fails to adequately fund homeland security, which is why I am a cosponsor of the amendment offered by my friend from New York, Senator SCHUMER, who has requested that $88 billion be provided over 11 years for urgent homeland security needs, including immediate funding for those on the home front—first responders, firefighters, port, border and transportation security. I also applaud the provisions for bioterrorism preparedness and threat and critical infrastructure assessment. At a time when threats to U.S. civilians within our borders are very real, we must not abandon, for the sake of tax cuts, our resolve to ensure the peace of mind of families at home and individuals in their workplaces—many who are praying for loved ones fighting in our armed services abroad.

This resolution calls for tax cuts that will do nothing to stimulate the economy, but would worsen the progressivity of the Tax Code. It would also rob our most important investment of required resources, and that is the investment in the education of America's children. We should be sending the message to our children that we will do all we can to give them the knowledge and tools to be able to meet future challenges that will face this country, when we in this body are long gone. Instead, if we pass additional tax cuts, we are saying that we will place political gain over a solid start in life for young Americans. This is why I voted for the amendment proposed by my colleague from Washington State, Senator MURRAY, along with others, that would have provided an $8.9 billion increase in education funding, as well as $8.9 billion for deficit reduction out of funding designated for tax cuts. This funding increase sought to fully fund the No Child Left Behind Act. We only began to fulfill some of the promises we made in passing this sweeping education reform law through the fiscal year 2003 appropriations process. We cannot let this investment waver in fiscal year 2004.

Finally, I oppose efforts to decrease Federal revenues sorely needed to ensure that all Medicare beneficiaries have access to the comprehensive prescription drug program that they deserve. Far too many seniors are currently unable to afford the costs of the prescription drugs that their doctors prescribe. Seniors must be able to obtain meaningful prescription drug coverage through the traditional Medicare Program. I supported the amendment sponsored by my colleagues, Senators BOB GRAHAM, DORGAN, and STABENOW, which would have made sure that a Medicare prescription drug benefit is adequately funded, by increasing the Medicare reserve fund by approximately $220 billion. The amendment would also have guaranteed that participants in traditional Medicare receive the same prescription drug benefit as beneficiaries that enroll in private Medicare health plans. The funding should be included in the budget resolution to adequately protect our Nation's seniors against the increasing costs of prescription drugs instead of to accommodate additional tax cuts. The Graham-Dorgan-Stabenow amendment would have reduced the size of the tax cuts in the budget resolution by approximately $400 billion and provided a clear choice between additional tax cuts or a meaningful prescription drug benefit.

The time has come to face our fiscal responsibilities honestly. Tax cuts are not the answer at this point in our Nation's history. I join with Senator HOLLINGS and other colleagues in opposition to the passage of additional tax cuts that would steal much needed revenues at a time of great need. I owe it to the people of Hawaii and we owe it to the people of America.

Mr. HOLLINGS. Mr. President, I ask for the yeas and nays.

Mr. NICKLES. Mr. President, the next two amendments that are in order are the Sarbanes amendment and the Crapo amendment. I believe they have been able to work something out. I thank them for that. We will save considerable time. I yield to the Senator from Maryland for a comment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Maryland.

Mr. SARBANES. Mr. President, I will be very quick. Senator CRAPO and I have been in discussions. We have reached an accord which will enable the managers to accept the amendment. This is directed to providing additional funding for the State revolving fund dealing with clean water and safe drinking water. There is an overwhelming need. The Federal involvement is a leveraging involvement for State and local governments to help address this important issue.

I am pleased to work with Senator CRAPO. We have come to a positive conclusion.

Mr. NICKLES. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to withdraw the Sarbanes amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. NICKLES. Mr. President, I yield to the Senator from Idaho for his amendment.

AMENDMENT NO. 317

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator is recognized for 1 minute.

Mr. CRAPO. Mr. President, I also appreciate Senator SARBANES and the other Senators in the Chamber who are so involved in working on this critical issue. Our water infrastructure needs in this Nation are crying out for attention. This is one of those areas we have to address in the budget. We have the kind of need that requires us to be focused and unified.

I am very pleased we were able to come together on an amendment today that will help us begin the process of addressing the crying need in our Nation's infrastructure for water systems. I thank the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Oklahoma.

Mr. NICKLES. Mr. President, I am not sure we called up the Crapo amendment. We withdraw the Sarbanes amendment. I do not believe we called up the Crapo amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report the amendment.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Idaho [Mr. CRAPO], for himself and Mr. SARBANES, proposes an amendment numbered 317.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Oklahoma.

Mr. NICKLES. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the Crapo-Sarbanes amendment be modified to include Senator SARBANES as a cosponsor. I thank my friend and colleague from Maryland for his leadership and willingness to work together. I am glad we can accept it, and I think we can have a voice vote.

Mr. BYRD. Mr. President, may we hear the reading of the amendment?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will read the amendment.

Mr. BYRD. Or reading can be dispensed with. We have not heard the reading of the amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will read the amendment.

Mr. JEFFORDS. Mr. President, I am pleased to be a cosponsor of the amendment offered by the Senators from Maryland and the Senator from Florida.

Today, we know that our Nation's waters are at risk. We have made progress since the days of the early 1970s when textile mills in Vermont turned river water the "color of the day" that was being used in the mill. It is almost unimaginable that wastewater would move directly from homes and businesses, untreated, into our rivers and streams.

Our towns and cities, along with the Federal Government, have invested billions of dollars over the last 30 years to build the infrastructure to treat our wastewater and drinking water. However, even with those investments, we continue to fail to fully protect our waters from pollution.

The EPA estimates that over 40 percent of our Nation's waters are impaired. That is close to half of our Nation's waters. Linger problems such as combined sewer overflows and ongoing challenges such as nonpoint source pollution continue to require our attention.

The progress we have made over the last 30 years stands on the brink of evaporation as the extensive water and wastewater infrastructure we have built is nears the end of its useful life. There are a number of estimates of the current funding gap in the areas of water and wastewater infrastructure.

The EPA estimates a $535 billion gap between current spending and projected needs for water and wastewater infrastructure over the next 20 years if additional investments are not made.

According to the Congressional Budget Office, the spending gap for clean water needs is estimated to be between $132 billion and $388 billion over 20 years and the spending gap for drinking water needs at between $70 billion and $362 billion over 20 years.

It is not solely the Federal Government's responsibility to fill this gap.

However, it is the Federal Government's responsibility to provide a reasonable investment in water infrastructure, given the size of the anticipated needs. The budget before us today fails to meet that responsibility. Those supporting the budget will say that it provides level funding for the Clean Water and the Drinking Water SRF.

They will say that the President's budget had such a low request for the Clean Water SRF in particular—one-half of traditional funding levels—that the funding level in this budget is an accomplishment.

The fact that the President failed to recognize our water infrastructure needs and requested such an inadequate amount of funding does not justify the same failure by the Congress.

I know that many Members of the Senate share this view. In December 2002, Senators SARBANES and VOINOVICH and 38 Members of the Senate from both sides of the aisle sent a letter to the President asking him to provide $3.2 billion for the Clean Water SRF and $2 billion for the Drinking Water SRF.

I ask unanimous consent that this letter be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

U.S. SENATE,

Washington, DC, December 10, 2002.

The PRESIDENT,
The White House,
Washington, DC.

DEAR MR. PRESIDENT: As you prepare your fiscal 2004 budget, we urge you to make investment in clean water infrastructure a top environmental and public health priority. Specifically, we ask that you provide for at least a $3.1 billion increase above the Fiscal 2003 request of $2.1 billion in the Clean Water and Safe Drinking Water State Revolving Funds (SRF) to help states and local communities meet water quality standards and restore the health and safety of our nation's waters.

This year marks the 30th Anniversary of the landmark Clean Water Act. Despite important progress over the last three decades, more than 40 percent of our nation's lakes, rivers and streams are still too impaired for fishing or swimming. Discharges from aging and failing sewerage systems, urban storm water and other sources, continue to pose serious threats to our nation's waters, endangering not only public health, but fishing and recreation industries. Population growth and development are placing additional stress on the nation's water infrastructure and its ability to sustain hard-won water quality gains. Today, maintaining clean, safe water remains one of our greatest national and global challenges.

On September 30, 2002, the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) released a Clean Water and Drinking Water Infrastructure Gap Analysis which found that there will be a $535 billion gap between current spending and projected needs for water and wastewater infrastructure over the next 20 years if additional investments are not made. This figure does not even account for investments necessary to meet water quality goals in nutrient impaired waters. As Administrator Whitman pointed out, "(t)he magnitude of the challenge America faces is clearly beyond the ability of any one entity to address."

It is vital that the Federal government maintain a strong partnership with states and local governments in averting this massive projected funding gap and share in the burden of maintaining and improving the nation's water infrastructure. An increase in funding for the Clean Water SRF to $3.2 billion and for the Drinking Water SRF to $2 billion in fiscal 2004 is the first step necessary to meet the Federal government's longstanding commitment in this regard.

Thank you for your consideration. The Administration's leadership is needed to ensure that our communities' water resources are kept clean and safe.

Sincerely,

Patrick Leahy; George Allen; Robert C. Byrd; Tom Daschle; Chuck Schumer; Tom Carper.

Mr. JEFFORDS. Mr. President, the President ignored this request.

On March 7, I joined Senators SARBANES, VOINOVICH, and thirty-seven Members from both sides of the aisle in sending a letter to the Budget Committee asking for these same funding levels.

I ask unanimous consent that this letter be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

U.S. SENATE,

Washington, DC, March 7, 2003.

Hon. DON NICKLES,

Chairman, Senate Budget Committee.

Hon. KENT CONRAD,

Ranking Member, Senate Budget Committee.

DEAR SENATORS NICKLES AND CONRAD: As you prepare the fiscal year 2004 budget, we urge you to make clean water and drinking water infrastructure a top environmental and health priority. Specifically, we ask that you provide for at least a $3.5 billion increase above the fiscal year 2004 request of $1.7 billion for the Clean Water and Safe Drinking Water Revolving Funds (SRF) to help states and local communities meet water quality standards and restore the health and safety of our nation's waters.

Despite important progress over the last three decades, the Environmental Protection Agency reports that more than 40 percent of our nation's lakes, rivers, and streams are still too impaired for fishing or swimming. Discharges from aging and failing sewage systems, urban storm water and other sources continue to pose serious threats to our nation's waters, endangering not only public health, but also fishing and recreation industries. Population growth and development are placing additional stress on the nation's water infrastructure and its ability to sustain hard-won water quality gains. Today, maintaining clean, safe water remains one of our greatest national and global challenges.

On September 30, 2002, the EPA released a Clean Water and Drinking Water Infrastructure Gap Analysis which found that there will be a $535 billion gap between current spending and projected needs for water and wastewater infrastructure over the next 20 years if additional investments are not made. As Administrator Whitman pointed out, "... (t)he magnitude of the challenge America faces is clearly beyond the ability of any one entity to address."

In May 2002, the Congressional Budget Office released a report that estimated the spending gap for clean water needs between $132 billion and $388 billion over 20 years and the spending gap for drinking water needs at between $70 billion and $362 billion over 20 years.

We are now writing to you asking that the Senate Budget Committee take the first steps needed to demonstrate leadership in helping our communities' keep our water resources clean and safe by increasing the budget allocation for Clean Water and Drinking Water SRFs to $5.2 billion.

It is vital that the Federal government maintains a strong partnership with states and local governments in averting this massive projected funding gap and share in the burden of maintaining and improving the nation's water infrastructure. An increase in funding for the Clean Water SRF to $3.2 billion and for the Drinking Water SRF to $2 billion in fiscal year 2004 is the first step necessary to meet the Federal government's longstanding commitment in this regard.

Thank you for your consideration.

Sincerely,

Akaka; Christopher Dodd; Charles Schumer; Joseph Lieberman; John Rockefeller; Jeff Bingaman; Blanche Lincoln; Dick Durbin; Susan Collins; Harry Reid; John Warner; Maria Cantwell.

Mr. JEFFORDS. Mr. President, the committee responded and provided a slight increase over the President's request. I thank the committee for that.

However, that slight increase comes nowhere close to meeting the huge water infrastructure funding gap. It comes nowhere close to meeting the funding levels that were endorsed twice by over one-third of the Senate.

Now is the time to increase funding for water infrastructure, not decrease it. We have the opportunity today to make an investment in our Nation's water infrastructure that will protect the gains we have made in the last 30 years. Without this investment, we run the risk of actually increasing the number of polluted waters in the country.

Before I close, I want to say a word about the economy. We must take action to prevent our economy from faltering. Investment in water infrastructure is estimated to create 40,000 jobs for every billion dollars invested. We are proposing to invest $5.2 billion in the State revolving funds. The States will provide a 20 percent match of just over $1 billion. This could create up over 200,000 jobs.

I urge my colleagues to support the amendment proposed by the Senator of Maryland.

By voting aye on this amendment, we can take direct action to improve both the State of our Nation's waters and the state of our Nation's economy.

Mr. BOND. Mr. President, I support my friend's amendment to increase Federal funding to $5.2 billion next year to help local communities provide our families and businesses with safe drinking water and clean waste water.

Our water pipes are aging and falling into disrepair. New regulations to treat stormwater are placing a huge burden on localities. Growth across the country, especially in the South and West, requires additional water funding.

In my own State of Missouri, we have small communities such as Pickering of no more than 150 people that still lack sewer systems. Mid-size cities such as Lebanon have tripled water rates and still can't afford new EPA regulations. Even our large cities such as St. Louis face many of the problems our aging eastern urban areas face. A recent series of articles in the St. Louis Post Dispatch highlighted St. Louis still using sewer pipes more than 100 years old and made of wood.

This crisis is too great for local communities to bear alone. Experts estimate the funding gap between what we as a Nation contribute and what is needed to clean and provide safe water at $500 billion over 20 years.

That's $25 billion per year. The Federal Government can't close that gap alone, but we must provide more than the current paltry $2.2 billion per year.

I urge my colleagues to support the Crapo amendment to increase vital water funds without depriving our citizens of their much deserved tax relief to spur economic growth, create jobs, and indirectly increase revenue for Government at all levels.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there further debate on the amendment?

The question is on agreeing to amendment No. 317.

The amendment (No. 317) was agreed to.

Mr. SARBANES. I move to reconsider the vote.

Mr. NICKLES. I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

Mr. NICKLES. Mr. President, I thank both our colleagues. We just saved at least 30 minutes. I thank them both very much for their cooperation.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from North Dakota.

Mr. CONRAD. Mr. President, I, too, thank our colleagues. Maybe this serves as a good example of how we might proceed.

Strike Section 211 and insert in its place the following:

SEC. 211. RESERVE FUND FOR THE INDIVIDUALS WITH DISABILITIES EDUCATION ACT.

The Chairman of the Committee on the Budget shall, in consultation with the Members of the Committee on the Budget and the Chairman and Ranking Member of the appropriate committee, increase the allocations pursuant to section 302(a) of the Congressional Budget Act of 1974 to the Committee on Health, Education, Labor, and Pensions of the Senate by up to $1,750,000,000 in new budget authority and $35,000,000 in outlays for fiscal year 2004, $26,250,000,000 in new budget authority and $14,963,000,000 in outlays for the total of fiscal years 2004 through 2008, and $95,881,000,000 in new budget authority and $72,880,000,000 in outlays for the total of fiscal years 2004 through 2013, for a bill, amendment, or conference report that would provide increased funding for part B grants, other than section 619, under the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), with the goal that funding for these grants, when taken together with amounts provided by the Committee on Appropriations, provides 40 percent of the national average per pupil expenditure for children with disabilities in the tenth year.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from North Dakota.

Mr. CONRAD. I thank the Chair. Mr. President, this amendment moves to keep the promise on IDEA. When the Federal Government enacted this program, it promised the States and the local jurisdictions that it would fund 40 percent of the expense.

We have never done that. We are at about half that amount. As a result, we have forced property tax increases all across America. This amendment says let's keep the promise on IDEA. We phase it in over 10 years. It costs $73 billion in outlays. It is paid for by the nonreconciled tax cuts. Let me emphasize to my colleagues, the nonreconciled tax cuts.

I hope my colleagues will give serious consideration to this amendment. Let's keep the promise on IDEA. Let's help those local jurisdictions at a time of enormous financial stress meet the need.

Mr. BAUCUS. Mr. President, I rise to pledge my continued support for the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act. Fully funding the Federal Government's share of special education costs is one of the most important investments we can make in our children and our schools. Funding IDEA to the full 40 percent will lift the burden of rising special education costs off the backs of our schools and enhance their ability to deliver a quality education to all students.

I have consistently fought to make full funding of IDEA a reality, and I will continue to build on the progress we have made.

But I am forced to vote against this amendment because of another concern, my concern with mounting deficits.

The budget resolution brought before us includes tax cuts that total $1.3 trillion. The budget also proposes that $725 billion of these tax cuts be enacted immediately, under the reconciliation process.

Two years ago, we passed a $1.3 trillion tax cut. I supported that tax cut. But those were different times. We had a surplus. We did not foresee the significant decline in revenues, or the deficits that followed.

This is not the time to reduce revenues by $725 billion. It would hurt our budget and our economy.

Why is $725 billion in tax cuts inappropriate at this time?

The most crucial problem is that it is not paid for. The budget resolution brought before us forecasts enormous deficits for almost the next decade. Reducing revenues by $725 billion adds to the already mounting deficits.

In order to prevent the passage of tax cuts that would drive up the deficit and hurt our economy, I believe that we must reduce the size of this tax cut.

I joined three of my colleagues in a letter that laid out these concerns. We pledged that we would not agree to tax cuts above $350 billion. This is crucial. The Budget Committee approved $725 billion in tax cuts, and brought it to the Senate floor. Along with my colleagues, I promised to vote to bring this number down by $375 billion.

In a narrowly divided Senate, it is important that both parties work together to come up with the appropriate spending and revenue targets for the budget. That is why I worked with both Democrats and Republicans. Together, we came up with a target of $350 billion for this tax cut, and we agreed that we would all stick to that number.

As part of our commitment to try to reduce the size of the tax cut approved by the Budget Committee, we also agreed that we would not try to reduce the size of the tax cut below $350 billion. That means I am forced to make difficult decisions. In order to keep my commitment to a more responsible tax cut, I have to vote against funding priorities.

During tough times, we must make tough choices. I chose to commit to a responsible tax cut. A tax cut that will prevent worsening deficits that would hurt our economy.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from New Hampshire.

Mr. GREGG. Mr. President, over the last 4 years, especially over the last 2 years President Bush has been in office, there has been a dramatic increase in IDEA funding. In fact, we have increased IDEA funding by almost 173 percent. Last year, we added $1 billion. This year, we added $1 billion. This budget will add $1 billion on top of that—$3 billion in 3 years. This has been a major commitment to IDEA. I will be following the amendment the Senator from North Dakota has proposed with another amendment which will add an additional $3.2 billion into IDEA. It is inappropriate to take the course of action which the Senator from North Dakota has proposed. We believe we can do it in a much more thoughtful and appropriate way with the following amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to amendment No. 376.

Mr. CONRAD. Mr. President, I ask for the yeas and nays.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there a sufficient second?

There appears to be a sufficient second.

The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from New Hampshire [Mr. GREGG] proposes an amendment numbered 377.

Mr. GREGG. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

(Purpose: To increase funding for Part B of the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act by reducing spending on other government programs by a commensurate amount)

On page 25, line 16, increase the amount by $969,602,000.

On page 25, line 20, increase the amount by $2,319,000,000.

On page 25, line 17, increase the amount by $19,392,040.

On page 25, line 21, increase the amount by $657,229,260.

On page 25, line 25, increase the amount by $1,751,850,600.

On page 26, line 4, increase the amount by $744,180,100.

On page 26, line 8, increase the amount by $115,950,000.

On page 42, line 6, decrease the amount by $2,319,000,000.

On page 42, line 3, decrease the amount by $19,392,040.

On page 42, line 7, decrease the amount by $657,229,260.

On page 42, line 15, decrease the amount by $744,180,100.

On page 42, line 19, decrease the amount by $115,950,000.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The amendment will receive 2 minutes of debate evenly divided on each side.

Mr. GREGG. Mr. President, this amendment represents another significant increase in IDEA funding. It represents a $3.2 billion increase over the next 2 years, which will mean that the total increase in IDEA funding over the next 2 years will be approximately $6.7 billion. That is a very dramatic increase that puts us clearly on a path toward full funding of the IDEA accounts, on which many have worked for a long time. I hope the membership supports the amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Who yields time in opposition?

Mr. CONRAD. I yield time to the Senator from Iowa.

Mr. HARKIN. Mr. President, this amendment is as phony as a $3 bill. It provides for 2 years of funding for the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act and then you drop off the face of the Earth. And it gets the money from—where? It gets it from nowhere. It is play money.

Later on, I will have an amendment that will really fund that. I have been working on an amendment with the Senator from Nebraska that will really put the money in there and get us fully funded for the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act by 2011. It will not be funny money, and it will not fall off the face of the Earth in 2 years like the Gregg amendment.

I ask for defeat of this amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to the Gregg amendment No. 377.

Mr. GREGG. I ask for the yeas and nays.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there a sufficient second?

There is a sufficient second.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk called the roll.

Mr. REID. I announce that the Senator from Georgia (Mr. MILLER), is necessarily absent.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Are there any other Senators in the Chamber desiring to vote?

The result was announced—yeas 89, nays 10, as follows:

NOT VOTING—1

Miller

The amendment (no. 377) was agreed to.

CHANGE OF VOTE

Mr. DORGAN. Mr. President, on rollcall vote No. 71, I voted nay. It was my intention to vote yea. I ask unanimous consent that I be permitted to change my vote since it will not affect the outcome of the vote.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Without objection, it is so ordered.

(The foregoing tally has been changed to reflect the above order.)

Mr. NICKLES. Mr. President, for the information of our colleagues, we will soon be voting on the Mikulski amendment. This will complete the first batch of amendments and Senator CONRAD and I will be working to put together a list of additional amendments. So I expect there will be some break, just for the information of our colleagues. We hope to begin—this vote will start in just a couple of minutes. I expect we will have another round of votes beginning probably close to 1:15.

Mr. SARBANES. A lunch break.

On page 28, line 23, increase the amount by $1,799,000,000.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. There will be 2 minutes of debate equally divided on each side. The Senator from Maryland.

Ms. MIKULSKI. Mr. President, my amendment would give a tax credit up to $5,000 to family caregivers. My amendment would help a family dealing with juvenile diabetes, a spouse taking care of someone with Alzheimer's, a parent taking care of an adult son with Down's syndrome.

My tax credit would pay for prescription drugs, home health care, durable medical equipment—things that give help to those families practicing self-help. These families face a tremendous financial and emotional burden. Families will deal with their own emotional burden, but I believe America should step up and help them with their financial burden as they deal with caregiving in the United States of America.

Mr. President, 125 million Americans have chronic conditions; 18 million of those are children. Family caregivers are often stretched to the limit, often working two jobs. This amendment costs $35 billion. We can afford it and we ought to do it.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Who yields time? Who yields time in opposition?

Mr. NICKLES. Go ahead.

Mr. GRASSLEY. I yield myself time.

Mr. President, I rise in opposition to the amendment. I obviously do not rise in opposition to the goals the Senator from Maryland seeks, because I, along with Senator GRAHAM of Florida—the two of us are sponsors of an amendment that would provide a $3,000 tax credit for family caregiving. But what we are involved with here is taking money from the tax reduction fund to put into another program. What we need to do is keep the tax reduction fund very strong because it is a growth package, it is a job package. We want to create jobs. We want an economic environment so when our men and women come home from Iraq there are jobs for our men and women. There is no job creation now. We want to create jobs. It is going to take a tax cut to create jobs.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to the Mikulski amendment No. 349.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, I ask for the yeas and nays.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there a sufficient second?

There is a sufficient second.

Mr. REID. I announce that the Senator from Georgia (Mr. MILLER) is necessarily absent.

NOT VOTING—1

Miller

The amendment (No. 349) was rejected.

Mr. REID. I move to reconsider the vote.

Mr. DORGAN. I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Nevada.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, the managers of the bill asked that I maintain the floor until they return at approximately 1:15. They ask that there be no amendments offered or debate on amendments.

Senator BYRD is here. And he usually, each spring, gives us a speech on springtime.

Is the Senator ready to speak?

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the Senator from West Virginia be allowed to speak as in morning business for up to 7 minutes.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Without objection, it is so ordered.

The Senator from West Virginia.

Mr. BYRD. Mr. President, I thank the Chair. And I thank my distinguished colleague, the Democratic whip, for his characteristic courtesy and attention to matters in the Senate, and his always readiness to help other Senators in getting recognition. I thank him very much.

SPRINGTIME

Mr. President, this is my 85th year, but it is my 86th coming of spring. I am 85 years old—85 years young—but this is my 86th first day of spring.

So, Mr. President, at long last spring has arrived. How sweet it is. How sweet it is. Spring has arrived.

After a long gray winter made darker by the specter of war, and with that conflict now upon us, it is heartening to be reminded of the great rhythm of the seasons and the renewal of the earth and the life upon it.

Now Nature hangs her mantle green

On every blooming tree,

And spreads her sheets o' daisies white

Out o'er the grassy lea

So wrote the poet Robert Burns.

On the world stage, war plays a leading role, demanding our attention with the strident clangor of steel and the tramp of marching troops. But in the wings, subtly repainting the background sets, spring softens the scenery and gives us hope for the rebirth of peace. Bright crocuses blanket the ground in a confetti of color and the green ink of new growth stains the tawny fields of winter. The redbuds cover the hillsides in a rosy blush as bare forests rush to cover themselves in verdant blankets of new leaves. Banks of nodding daffodils cheer the anxious hearts of families worrying over loved ones in uniform far from home.

Last year, a dry and mild winter caused spring bulbs to bloom in February. This year, as snowfall after snowfall piled up on lawns and roads, it seemed as if no flower could survive in the icy soil. Seed catalogs languished unread as we shoveled sidewalks and scraped windshields. We told ourselves that we needed the moisture and that the snow would replenish the groundwater, but these charitable thoughts faded as we faced another foot of new-fallen snow, another miserable commute, another slushy slog across parking lot melt. It was a long and wearing winter, and for those in the northern latitudes of the United States, it lingers on still. In Washington, and in West Virginia, however, we are emerging from our dens like bears—shaggy, lean, and hungry for spring.

Sweet is the breath of morn, her rising
Sweet
With charm of earliest birds; pleasant
The sun
When first on this delightful land he Spreads
His orient beams on herb, tree, fruit
And flower.

The poet John Milton wrote those words.

I look forward to turning away from the incessant news coverage of war, and I look forward to spending a few precious moments outside listening instead to the spring peepers—those little frogs whose singing brings back boyhood memories of long ago, bubbling springs along Wolf Creek Hollow in Mercer County, WV. Their singing coincided with the arrival of warmer weather and with it, a welcome respite from those bitter early morning walks to school, cold hands wrapped around my lunch pail handle, coat collar turned up against the wind that transformed tender ears into red popsicles.

As I tend to the simple routines of springtime—cleaning up the sticks and leaves strewn across the yard by the winter winds, preparing my small garden, of four or five or six or seven tomato plants weeding and fertilizing the lawn—I shall look upon the spring flowers in all their finery. The forsythia, the lilac, the hyacinth, all are undaunted by the code oranges and the code reds. They care nothing for al-Qaida terrorists or Tomahawk missiles, for M1-A1 tanks or F-117 bombers, for sandy battlefields or military strikes. In their benevolence, they show the same cheerful faces to Presidents and dictators, to soldiers and to the loved ones those soldiers leave behind. In their camps in Kuwait and in their bivouacs in the desert, our brave troops will not see a daffodil this spring. But God's daffodil are there for them, just as we are, our support as eternal and dependable as the arrival of spring. I hope that they can take comfort in knowing that the daffodils still bloom and that spring has come at last. With my prayers for their safety and quick success, I wish them the energy and purpose of spring. May they soon be restored to their loved ones, to us, to enjoy a beautiful springtime at home.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Nevada.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, normally when there are speeches given not on the subject matter of the debate, we ask that they be put someplace else in the RECORD. I think this speech on springtime should stay just where it is. This has been a very difficult morning. It is going to be a much more difficult afternoon and evening. The speech on springtime should appear in the RECORD for all eternity to show that there are other things we do that have more meaning sometimes than the meaningless votes we take.

I ask unanimous consent that the Senator's wonderful statement about springtime stay where it is. As busy as we are here, sometimes we don't think about it, but because of the Senator from West Virginia, we are forced to—speeches he has given on Mother's Day and Father's Day, and other such speeches that I will long remember. This speech on springtime has caused me to focus on springtime that I would not have done otherwise.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. BYRD. I thank the distinguished Senator from Nevada.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, we are going to be in a quorum call unless someone has a speech on a subject not related to the budget that they care to give. Senator NICKLES and Senator CONRAD asked that basically we be in a shutdown on the budget until they return, which should be in a matter of a few minutes. They wanted to come back around 1:15.

I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. NICKLES. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. NICKLES. Mr. President, we have tentatively agreed on an outline for amendments. I will read through these amendments. It is subject to change. I thank my colleague from North Dakota. We are working together and trying to accommodate Senators. Most of the amendment requests are coming from the minority side of the aisle, and that is the way it usually is on these resolutions. I understand that. We are going to try to move as expeditiously as possible. We are absolutely committed to finishing this bill. It is important we work together to try to complete it.

Some people are outside trying to rewrite amendments or write new amendments. I really discourage that. It is this Senator's intention to finish the bill. We have only been on it all week, and to have people in the drafting stage to see what they can come up with is not a good way to finish. We will be here until we finish.

I will not ask unanimous consent. I will list the order we expect just so Senators are notified and can be ready:

Senator CLINTON dealing with homeland security; Senator DORGAN dealing with veterans affairs; Senator BREAUX and others dealing with the $350 billion growth package; Senator KENNEDY dealing with Pell grants; Senator GREGG dealing with Pell grants; Senator BYRD dealing with Amtrak; possibly Senator MCCAIN on Amtrak; Senator BIDEN dealing with COPS; Senator HOLLINGS on port security; Senator NICKLES on port security; Senator BOND on highways; and Senator NICKLES on highways.

That is our intention. It is not a unanimous consent request. It is just our intention, a list, an outline for our colleagues. This will be another 10 amendments. I suspect three or four of these amendments will drop.

Mr. REID. Will my friend yield?

Mr. NICKLES. I will be happy to yield.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, I think the two managers of this bill have been fair in doing their best to list these amendments and have an orderly process to dispose of them. Not in this tranche, but maybe the next, I hope the two managers will consider having part of a unanimous consent agreement that—everyone has been here on time—if someone is not here to offer their amendment, I am not sure we should hang around and wait for them.

Mr. NICKLES. I concur.

We are ready to do business. I believe Senator CLINTON has a modification of her amendment to send to the desk.

AMENDMENT NO. 381

Mrs. CLINTON. Mr. President, I have an amendment at the desk and ask for its immediate consideration.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from New York [Mrs. CLINTON] proposes an amendment numbered 381.

Mrs. CLINTON. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

(Purpose: To raise the 2003 caps by $3.5 billion for homeland security funding through a Domestic Defense Fund at the Department of Homeland Security's Office of Domestic Preparedness in FY 2003 and to reduce the size of newly proposed tax cuts in the amount of $7 billion to pay for this amendment and for the cost of previously passed homeland security funding)

Mrs. CLINTON. Earlier today, the Senate passed an amendment offered by Senator COCHRAN—

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator will suspend. There is no time for debate on the amendment.

The Senator from Oklahoma.

Mr. NICKLES. Mr. President, for this list of amendments I have outlined, I ask unanimous consent that there be 2 minutes equally divided on each of these amendments.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The Senator from New York.

Mrs. CLINTON. Mr. President, earlier today, the Senate passed an amendment offered by Senator COCHRAN to increase homeland security funding by $3.5 billion in the emergency supplemental bill we will consider in the coming weeks. This is an important first step, but it is not nearly enough and it should be paid for.

Our cities have already invested $2.6 billion to protect the American home-front. This amendment adds $3.5 billion to Senator COCHRAN's amendment and takes the fiscally responsible approach of paying for the full $7 billion without reducing the reconciliation amount. I think we need to be much more vigorous in providing the funds that our police, our firefighters, and our cities need. This will help us move in that direction, and it will also be paid for, which is another important value that this budget should be trying to promote.

I ask for its approval and I ask for the yeas and nays.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there a sufficient second?

There appears to be a sufficient second.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

The Senator from Oklahoma.

Mr. NICKLES. Mr. President, I do not know when we can say enough is enough. We have doubled the funding for homeland security in 2003 compared to 2002. That is a result of 9/11, and appropriately so. The budget we have before us increases it another 18.4 percent. We have already increased homeland security an additional $3.5 billion as a result of passage of the Cochran amendment.

Senator CLINTON's amendment would just bump it up another $3.5 billion. That would be an enormous percentage increase. Right now, we have funds for homeland security State by State that are not being spent, for whatever reason. I urge my colleagues to vote no on the amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to amendment No. 381.

The yeas and nays have been ordered. The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk called the roll.

The result was announced—yeas 48, nays 52, as follows:

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Two minutes will be provided for debate, equally divided on each side.

The Senator from North Dakota.

Mr. DORGAN. This amendment adds $1.019 billion to the total amount in the bill for veterans discretionary programs. The amendment is paid for by a decrease in the tax cut in an equal amount, in addition to the additional spending on veterans programs that would be available to reduce the deficit.

With respect to veterans programs, let me say to the chairman and ranking member, I think they did some good work with respect to veterans medical care. They did actually add some money for veterans health care, veterans medical care. We all commend them for that.

We are still very short with respect to veterans programs dealing with research, with construction, with the administration that is needed in order to process the requests by veterans. There is a rather lengthy time lag in being able to process the request. The fact is, we need to provide sufficient moneys for this service.

At a time when veterans are in the field prosecuting this war, we ought to say we will keep our promise to veterans.

Mr. SPECTER. Mr. President, I am voting against Senator DORGAN's amendment, which proposes to add an additional $1 billion to VA discretionary accounts. I so vote because the budget resolution, as reported by the Budget committee, already makes significant additions in funding for veterans benefits. It is, I think, already a fair and just allocation of funding for veterans.

It seems to be the case that no matter how much funding is made available in a budget resolution, someone will always propose additions. For veterans this year, the budget resolution, as reported, contains unprecedented increases in VA discretionary funding; it increases VA discretionary funding by $3.4 billion over fiscal year 2003 levels, a 13 percent increase. The Budget Committee-reported resolution more than doubles the administration's proposed VA medical care funding increase of $1.5 billion, adding an additional $1.8 billion to this most critical budget account, as urged by Senators JOHNSON and ENSIGN in the Budget Committee's markup. In fairness, it is accurate to conclude that funding levels approved by the Budget committee do not short-change veterans.

Senator DORGAN's amendment would add funds to non-medical care-related accounts, such as construction, research, veterans cemetery administration, and veterans benefits processing. These are important accounts—and they have been increased significantly in recent years. Since 1997, Congress has provided funds to support a 40 percent increase in staffing for compensation claims processing. VA medical research funding has increased by 47 percent. Veterans cemetery administration funding has increased by 71 percent. Funding for the VA inspector general's office has almost doubled. And over 2.5 billion dollars' worth of major and minor construction projects have been funded. The present resolution will improve on this record by providing a 13 percent increase above 2003 enacted levels for such accounts. Construction funding alone will increase by 62 percent over the 2003 enacted levels.

I would like to see even greater increases; it would always be nice to add more funding for various worthwhile purposes. But, in fairness, veterans benefits must be considered along with proposed increases in education, health care, environmental protection, and many other worthwhile Federal programs. Viewed in this context, I think the proposed budget allocation is fair and just.

Mr. SARBANES. Mr. President, I rise today to express my strong support for the amendment offered by my colleague Senator DORGAN, to increase the amount of discretionary funding for veterans programs. I am proud to be an original cosponsor of this amendment—one that will go a long way in ensuring that our Nation's veterans receive the benefits to which they are entitled.

As you know, every year a coalition of our Nation's veterans advocacy groups comes together to compile the Independent Budget. This document—written by veterans for veterans—offers guidance to the Congress on the projected needs of our Nation's veterans in the coming fiscal year. I am pleased that during last week's markup of the Budget Resolution, the Senate Budget Committee, with my support, adopted an amendment to match the amount included in the Independent Budget to adequately provide medical care for the 6.5 million veterans enrolled in the VA health care system. This represented a nearly $2 billion increase over the funding level requested by the President.

Senator DORGAN's amendment will build upon this success by helping to provide additional resources to appropriately fund other key functions of the Department of Veterans Affairs. The Dorgan amendment adds $1.019 billion to the total for veterans discretionary programs to match the amount identified as necessary by the Independent Budget. Among other things, these funds will be utilized to significantly boost VA medical and prosthetics research, improve the processing of veterans benefits, fund much needed construction, renovation and maintenance projects, and ensure that are veterans are buried with honor.

Mr. President, our Nation's veterans, like the men and women in Iraq today, answered the call of their nation—marching into harm's way to preserve the ideals of liberty and democracy which we, as Americans, hold so dear. In my view, making sure that our veterans receive adequate and timely health care and the other benefits to which they are entitled is a small price to pay to express our continued gratitude for their unwavering service to our nation.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Oklahoma.

Mr. NICKLES. I urge my colleagues to vote no on this amendment. I think this is another case where I said no matter what we do in committee, no matter how much we add, someone is going to come up and say it is not enough. We increased the veterans budget altogether over 12 percent, $3.4 billion. We did 10 percent over the President's request, about $3 billion. We did a 14.7 percent increase in veterans health care.

This amendment not only has more increases but, in addition, it also reduces the tax cut. We are taking care of our veterans in this proposal with enormous percentage increases. I urge my colleagues to vote no on the amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to amendment No. 385.

Mr. DORGAN. I ask for the yeas and nays.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there a sufficient second?

There is a sufficient second.

AMENDMENTS NOS. 328 AND 282, EN BLOC

Mr. NICKLES. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to call up and pass amendment No. 328, sponsored by Senators WYDEN and KYL, regarding the national fire plan; and amendment No.

282, by Senator BROWNBACK, regarding a commission to review the efficiency of Federal agencies.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

The Senator from North Dakota.

Mr. CONRAD. Mr. President, there is no objection on this side.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered. The clerk will report.

The Senator from Oklahoma [Mr. NICKLES], for Mr. WYDEN, for himself, Mr. KYL, Mr. BINGAMAN, Mrs. MURRAY, Mr. JOHNSON, Mr. KERRY, and Mrs. FEINSTEIN, proposes an amendment numbered 328.

On page 42, line 19, decrease the amount by $15,000,000.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there further debate on the amendments?

The Senator from Oregon.

Mr. WYDEN. Very briefly, amendment No. 328 is a bipartisan amendment that Senator KYL and I have co-sponsored with Senator DOMENICI, Senator BINGAMAN, and others. It deals with the national fire plan. Suffice it to say, Senators know that the West over the last few summers has just been an inferno. We expect another very hot summer. This legislation is a bipartisan initiative which would allow us to set aside additional funds for forest restoration, hazardous fuels reduction and fire research, and real on-the-ground collaboration with States and localities to help them improve their environment and protect against catastrophic fire. It is backed by the timber industry and a host of environmental groups. I see my colleague from Arizona on the floor as well.

It is a bipartisan amendment on which Western Senators cooperated. I urge my colleagues to support it.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there further debate?

The Senator from Arizona.

Mr. KYL. Mr. Senator, let me add to the comments of my colleague from Oregon. I compliment him for the work he has done. This is a good example of bipartisanship in working to solve a national problem. The people from the Appropriations Committee, the administration, and the Democratic and Republican Parties in the Senate have come together to restore some of these funds so we could help to create healthy forests for the benefit of all.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there further debate?

If not, the question is on agreeing to amendments Nos. 328 and 282 en bloc.

The amendments (No. 328 and No. 282) were agreed to en bloc.

AMENDMENT NO. 339, AS MODIFIED

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Louisiana.

Mr. BREAU. Mr. President, we have worked in a bipartisan fashion. This amendment is sponsored by myself, Senator VOINOVICH from Ohio, Senator BAUCUS, and also Senator SNOWE. We have believed there ought to be a way of reaching an agreement on the size of the tax cut that is reasonable and more balanced than the $626 billion tax cut currently pending before the Senate.

There are some who have suggested that we would like to have no tax cut whatsoever. That would probably be the better course of action, if we could find the votes to do that, because conditions are dramatically different from what they were the last time we considered a major tax cut.

The last time we did a tax cut, we had a $5.6 trillion surplus. We do not have that surplus. In fact, we have a $300 billion deficit facing us. There is no pot of money to which we can go to have a large tax cut of that magnitude.

In addition to that, we are at war. We are not at peace.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator's time has expired.

Who yields time in opposition?

The Senator from Oklahoma.

Mr. NICKLES. Mr. President, it is my belief that if this amendment passed, we would take the growth out of the growth package. I call upon my colleague, the chairman of the Finance Committee.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Oklahoma has claimed the 1 minute in opposition. The Senator from Oklahoma has 1 minute remaining.

Mr. BREAUX. Mr. President, I make a point of order. I understood that the Budget chairman asked that we have 10 minutes on this because of the importance of the amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The request was for 10 minutes on the vote. Amendments have been given 2 minutes on each side, equally divided.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Oklahoma.

Mr. NICKLES. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that there be 5 minutes on each side for this amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The Senator from Louisiana.

Mr. BREAUX. I thank the distinguished chairman. I apologize for the misunderstanding. I will ask the cosponsors if they would like to make a comment.

The point is that we are at war. Turn on the television. Our men and women are fighting in the deserts of Iraq right now. We are being asked to cut tax revenues by $626 billion to pay for those functions. It would be one thing if we had a surplus out of which to take it. We do not. We are taking it out of a deficit. We are cutting taxes at a time of uncertainty while we are in the middle of a war. If we do need a tax cut of that magnitude, I would suggest we do it after the conflict is over, after we know how much it has cost, after we know how much we need to spend on programs such as Medicare and prescription drugs which are not included in this budget whatsoever.

The better course of action would be to adopt our amendment. It presents a $350 billion tax cut, which is half of what is pending right now, and it uses the remainder of those savings, which would be $275 billion, for deficit reduction.

Some may say, "That is not what I would like to do," but I think this is something that is politically possible to accomplish. We can always come back and increase the tax cut. That will be easy to do, if we know how much money we have to deal with. We simply do not know that now.

The wiser course of action would be to do what this amendment would do. I ask for a favorable vote for the bipartisan amendment.

I reserve any time I may have.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator reserves the remainder of his time.

Ms. SNOWE. Mr. President, our amendment is straightforward, responsible and practical. It reflects the reality of the confluence of circumstances we face—a war on terrorism and in Iraq, a struggling economy, increased homeland security needs, and increased Federal deficits, with this year's projected deficit already having increased by more than 54 percent.

The amendment is a carefully calibrated, balanced approach to respond to two compelling needs—first, to provide immediate, short-term stimulus to an economy that has lost 2.3 million jobs and, second, to avoid driving up deficits over the long term which, in turn, lead to increased long-term interest rates that would stagnate our economy.

Our approach is simple—we differentiate between those aspects of the growth package that truly provide quick, short-term economic stimulus and those that do not. For those that don't, let's debate them later, and if they have merit, let's pay for them as we go, not with deficit spending that threatens our economy in the future as well as our ability to address pressing national priorities such as strengthening Social Security and Medicare as baby boomers begin to retire in 2008.

Mr. President, our measure provides a "right-sized" stimulus of $350 billion while committing $376 billion to deficit reduction. It deserves strong bipartisan support, and I hope my colleagues will vote for this amendment.

I yield the floor.

Mr. KOHL. Mr. President, I rise today in support of the Breaux amendment to S. Con. Res. 23, the budget resolution. This amendment directs the Finance Committee to limit the amount of tax cuts that could be passed through the fast track reconciliation procedure to $350 billion over 11 years. The budget before us includes over twice that much in its so-called must pass economic stimulus package.

It is astounding to me that, on the eve of war, we are seriously contemplating $725 billion in tax cuts in the same budget that does not include a dime for the war or its associated costs. Our budget is a statement of priorities. Do we really mean to say that giving a tax break primarily to upper income taxpayers is 725 billion times more important than adequately fighting the war, rebuilding Iraq, and protecting our communities for retaliatory terrorist attacks?

Of course not. No one thinks that. But I do believe that some are using the diversion of war to rush through a tax cut that is fiscally irresponsible. No one wants to return to the days of deficit as far as the eye can see and debt capable of dragging our country down for decades, but that is what we'll get when we add a $725 billion tax cut to the necessary and massive costs of the war.

The Breaux amendment brings the fast-track tax cut down to $350 billion. I would prefer it to go much lower than that. In fact, I would prefer delaying all tax cuts and spending increases until we can put together an honest budget that looks at what we can afford to do in light of what we must do. But if the choice is between $725 billion for an ill-timed, ill-conceived idea and $350 billion for an ill-timed, ill-conceived idea, I will pick the latter and urge my colleagues to do the same.

Mr. HATCH. Mr. President, I rise today to urge my colleagues to reject the Breaux amendment to the budget resolution that would reduce the size of the President's growth and jobs plan to $350 billion. I think my colleagues all recognize that such a drastic reduction in the size of the growth package would make it most difficult for the Finance Committee to include the Bush proposal to eliminate the taxation on corporate dividends.

I know that a number of my colleagues have their doubts about the President's proposal to eliminate the double tax on dividends, and I would like to take a few moments to try to persuade them to support the President's proposal. Today, I will address two aspects of this important issue—how ending this double tax will help today's seniors, and how ending the double tax will impact our Nation's economic future.

First, let us talk about how the double taxation of dividends affects older Americans.

Our Nation's seniors have spent decades working long, hard hours, scrimping and saving for a well-deserved retirement, only to find that no matter how old they get, the tax man still has them in his sights. Age brings wisdom, but not tax relief.

Fifteen or 20 years ago, it was common tax-planning wisdom to defer one's income until the retirement years. Why? Because the tax rate faced by seniors was almost always lower than the tax rate paid during one's working years. Unfortunately, this is generally no longer the case. Millions of senior citizens are now paying taxes at as high or higher a rate in retirement than they did during their working years.

This year, I want to help President Bush change all that. The President has a plan for cutting taxes for seniors, and I intend to work with him to put his plan into law. We want to dramatically reduce the marriage penalty for seniors, we want to expand the 10-percent income tax bracket, and we want to speed up all of the rate cuts that are scheduled to be phased in over the next few years.

And on top of all that we want to eliminate the double tax on the dividends that seniors receive. This is the right plan for America's seniors.

All of the items in the President's plan are good ideas, but as I mentioned, today I would like to put particular focus on ending the double tax on dividends.

Over half of all income tax filers over 65 years of age pay tax on dividends, and over one-third of all filers between 55 and 64 have taxable dividends. People saving for retirement, and people close to retirement or working for an early retirement are paying a double tax.

Why do we call this tax on dividends a double tax? This is because under current law, a corporation hands over more than a third of its profits to the Federal Government in taxes, and then when investors get their share of those profits in the form of dividends, we demand that investors have to pay regular income tax on those very same dividends.

As President Bush keeps reminding us, taking income once is fair, but taxing it twice is not.

By the time State taxes are factored in, the combined Federal and State tax rate can exceed 71 percent. This is wrong, and it distorts the economy and correcting it will give many benefits to taxpayers and to the Nation as a whole.

We need to remember that this is not a question of rich versus poor. Older Americans with modest incomes receive substantial stock dividends. In fact, more than half of tax filers over the age of 65 earning between $30,000 and $40,000 per year receive taxable dividend income: 50.9 percent, to be exact. And because our Nation's senior citizens have been so thrifty during their lives, these dividend payments are very often sizable.

Elderly Americans who receive dividends and earn between $30,000 and $40,000 per year in total income receive an average of $2,008 every year of that income as taxable dividends. Even retirees who earn $15,000 to $30,000 per year receive substantial dividends. Fourty-four percent of the elderly in this category receive dividends, and these Americans have to pay a double tax on over $1,400 a year in dividends.

Older Americans across the income spectrum pay a double tax on their dividends, and it is time to end it. This will be a great boon to our Nation's elderly who have worked and saved throughout their lives for their retirement.

Now, I would like to turn to our Nation's economic future. A few weeks ago, Chairman Greenspan came up to Capitol Hill and told us that ending the double tax dividends was good tax policy, but he wanted us to do it in a fiscally responsible manner. Now, think it is fiscally responsible to end the double tax on dividends. I have no doubt that the static revenue estimate for the President's proposal is far too high.

Over my 27 years in the Senate, I have seen time and time again that tax cuts turned out to cost a lot less than the official estimates. We saw it on the capital gains tax cut and we have seen it in other tax cuts too. And with a policy that is as good for the economy's long-run health as ending the double tax, I am confident that the official revenue estimates are going to be far worse than usual. This tax cut is going to change the way America does business, and it will increase savings and capital formation.

This is not just my opinion. The Heritage Foundation has used a mainstream economic model to look at how ending the double tax is likely to help the economy. They conclude that ending the double tax will be revenue-neutral by year 9. So even if Congress lets spending grow at the projected rate, this proposal is an 8-year investment in our economy's longrun health, and then it starts to pay for itself.

Now I would like to see spending grow slower than the projected rate, so that we can balance the budget faster and so we can increase the size of the private sector, but even if Congress fails to slow down spending, this is still good longrun tax policy. If people think that ending the double tax on dividends will blow a permanent hole in the budget, they are living in a world of pure static-model fantasy.

In addition, I should point out that the Heritage economic model completely ignored the long-term structural reforms that this tax cut will bring about, reforms that will reduce the risk of future corporate bankruptcies. I am going to discuss those reforms in just a moment. So I believe that those 9-year-break-even estimates should be treated as a worst case scenario.

That is why I believe that ending the double tax on dividends is fiscally responsible. I have already addressed how this will help middle-income retirees. Now I would like to delve into why I am convinced this is good for our economy's future. On this issue, I would like to quote Chairman Greenspan. This is what the Federal Reserve Chairman said a few weeks ago:

I have always supported the elimination of the double taxation of dividends because I think it is a major factor restraining flexibility in our economy . . . and moving in the direction of improving flexibility has very large long-term payoffs.

Flexibility is an issue that Mr. Greenspan has emphasized a lot lately. He has reminded us, again and again, that our Government should do everything it can to make our economy as flexible as possible. Why does he want a flexible economy?

This is what he said, and I quote: "The more flexible an economy, the greater its ability to self-correct in response to inevitable . . . disturbances, thus reducing the size" of recessions. In plain English, he believes that if our economy is more flexible, then we will have smaller recessions, and less unemployment.

Further, Chairman Greenspan believes that Congress can do something about this. Congress can make the economy more flexible if we enact good policies, and we can make the economy less flexible if we enact bad policies. He said, and I quote, "We should be placing special emphasis on searching for policies that will engineer still greater economic flexibility and [we should be] dismantling policies that contribute to unnecessary rigidity."

And as the Chairman said, the double tax on dividends is a source of rigidity.

You might ask: How is cutting taxes supposed to make our economy more flexible?

Ending the double tax on dividends helps in two major ways: It cuts the risk of bankruptcy and it helps to make sure that investment funds flow to the right companies. Let me address these in order.

Why is it America's corporations load up on debt financing, despite the fact that high debt levels increase the risk of bankruptcy? Because our Nation's tax laws have always given them massive financial incentives to do just that.

The reason is simple. When a corporation pays interest to bondholders, that payment is taxed once—at the shareholder level. But when it pays dividends to stockholders, that payment is taxed twice—to both the corporation and the shareholder.

As leading finance scholars Richard Brealey and Stewart Myers write: "[T]he . . . United States tax system clearly favors debt over equity financing." If you tax stock payments twice but you only tax debt payments once, it is clear what companies are going to do—they will finance most of their business by borrowing.

By loading up on tax deductible bonds and bank loans rather than issuing new shares of stock, corporations, increase their chance of going bankrupt. We have seen this play out with WorldCom, with US Air, and most recently United Airlines. The media's refrain is always the same: "Today, a Fortune 500 company, burdened with debt, filed for protection from its creditors."

Our Tax Code should not encourage this behavior.

When corporations load up on debt, they commit too much of their cash flow to making interest payments, and the threat of bankruptcy becomes all too real. Once we change this policy, businesses will find that they have people lined up out the door to buy stocks that pay dividends. When companies see the clamor for dividend-paying stocks, they will have a much stronger incentive to pay for new projects and new factories by issuing new shares of stock rather than running to the bank for a loan.

And then if times get tough, businesses will not be as likely to declare bankruptcy and head to Federal court for a painful reorganization. Instead, many companies will be able to cut their dividend to shareholders, and continue business more or less as usual. Lower dividends are bad news for shareholders, to be sure; but it will spare society the pain of bankruptcy.

Ending the double tax on dividends will not end the business cycle, but it will make it easier to recover from a recession. Bankruptcies spread the pain of recession over months and years, and it can destroy sound companies that made the mistake of over-promising to banks and bondholders. This will not end bankruptcy, but it will prevent a few big ones now and then.

And this is not some untested pie-in-the-sky theory. All but two of our major trading partners give some kind of relief from the double tax on dividends. And the two countries that do not give relief—Ireland and Switzerland—already have much lower corporate tax rates than we do, so their double tax problem is not as bad as ours.

The mere fact that other countries are doing something does not prove that it is the right thing for the United States. What we want to know is, will our Nation get real, widespread benefits when we get rid of the double tax? Here we have to look at history.

New Zealand used to have a double tax on dividends, but they got rid of it in 1988. And what happened when they did that? When New Zealand completely eliminated the double tax on dividends, corporate debt levels fell, just as you would expect. Ending the double tax on dividends cut corporate debt levels in New Zealand, and ending the double tax on dividends will cut debt levels here, too. And our economy will be safer for it.

The Bush proposal to eliminate the double taxation of dividends will have a very positive effect on the economy, on seniors, on the tax system, and on taxpayers in general. I urge my colleagues to reject the Breaux amendment on the budget resolution, so that the Finance Committee can accommodate the dividends proposal in the tax bill we will be putting together in a few weeks.

Mr. KERRY. Mr. President, I rise to discuss an amendment offered by my good friend from Louisiana, Senator BREAUX. The amendment, which was No. 339 and has been described as the moderates tax amendment, would have reduced the size of the tax cut in the budget resolution from more than $700 billion to $350 billion. I would like the record to reflect exactly why it is that I voted for this amendment.

I voted for the amendment offered by Senator BREAUX because it presented our best chance to cut the size of the irresponsible tax cut in this budget. Let me be clear, Mr. President, I do not support a $350 billion tax cut as part of this budget. Had the Breaux amendment passed, I would have sought further reductions in the tax cut.

Today, America is at war in Iraq. We have troops in Afghanistan and the Philippines. We are fighting to keep our homeland safe from terrorism. We have pressing needs in health care, education, and other areas. The Nation is running deficits. State and local governments are in fiscal crisis. The economy is slumping. For these reasons, a $350 billion tax cut, just like a $700 billion tax cut, is wrong. Both proposals will dump debt on our children. And the President's plan is not only too big, but it unfairly favors the wealthiest among us over working families.

I have filed at the desk an amendment to this budget that I believe charts the right course. Consumer confidence is at its lowest level in 10 years. Some 300,000 Americans lost their jobs in February. State and local governments are in trouble. Families and businesses are hurting. We are running huge deficits, and we are at war.

Our economy needs help. Working families need help. But we shouldn't be burdening future generations with more debt. My amendment provides for a $150 billion tax cut for all Americans this year and next and it is paid for in the outyears. It will stimulate our economy without sticking our kids with the bill.

Without taking a dime out of Social Security or Medicare, we can give every American worker a one-time payroll tax holiday of more than $750 that is far more than President Bush's tax plan. We could pass a temporary job creation tax credit and help small businesses, all without adding to the "debt tax" on future generations.

It we pass the budget now before us—if we pass the President's plan—we will be spending our kids' money—and that is wrong. We need a tax cut that goes to working people who will spend the money—and we need a tax cut that is paid for. Let's do what is right and pass a real stimulus package, and let us do what average Americans do: Let's pay for it.

Mr. NICKLES. I yield 2½ minutes to the chairman of the Finance Committee.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Iowa.

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, obviously we need to be very bold in our response to the flagging economy. It is our obligation to the folks who sent us here. We need to respond. Both sides agree on that need, as do the centrists led by Senators BREAUX and SNOWE. The question is a difference of the size of the tax cut. I say be bold. We want American businesses, small and large, to grow. We want every American who wants a job to be able to get a job. We don't want to take any chances.

I understand the concerns of my friends from the centrist coalition. They are worried about long-term deficits. I am as well. I am more worried, though, about the spending side of the ledger. Senators BREAUX and SNOWE have a long history of trying to secure bipartisan consensus. We need more than $350 billion in tax relief to do the job the right way.

Don't get me wrong. If $350 billion is the number, that is the number that, as chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, I will work with. The Finance Committee will develop the best package we can. My point is, the Finance Committee can do more growth incentives with a number above $350 billion.

There is a war going on. When those men and women come home from the battlefield, we want a growing economy so that those folks will have jobs.

Mr. BREAUX. Mr. President, I yield the remainder of my time to the Senator from Ohio.

Mr. VOINOVICH. Mr. President, I want to share with my colleagues the fact that the budget deficit for 2003 and 2004, including Social Security and the cost of the war, is going to be over $500 billion. Again, in 2003 and 2004, including Social Security, it will be a half trillion dollars.

This amendment basically says the tax package will be at $350 billion. It also says if this Congress decides to go over $350 billion, we ought to offset it either by cutting expenses or, in the alternative, increasing other taxes that are less stimulative to the economy, and paying for a tax reduction that is more stimulative to the economy. It makes sense.

We are on the edge of a fiscal crisis in this country if we keep going the way we are, particularly with the war that is hanging over us today.

Mr. NICKLES. Mr. President, how much time remains?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator has 3 minutes 18 seconds.

Mr. NICKLES. Mr. President, I urge my colleagues to vote no on this amendment. I have great respect for my colleagues from Louisiana and Ohio, and the others who have sponsored the amendment. But it would basically gut the President's growth package, cut it in half. The actual tax cut would be $323 billion. We have an economy that is over $10 trillion or $11 trillion per year. Estimated revenues over this period of time are going to be $27 billion. If you want to make some changes that really stimulate and grow the economy and create jobs, I think the President has the proposal to do so. I am afraid that the proposal that would have $323 billion just would not do it. When we reduced the capital gains tax in 1997 from 28 to 20 percent, we created a lot of growth. That was a positive thing to do.

The President has a good proposal to grow the economy as well. I urge my colleagues to support the President and a real growth package that would really create jobs.

Then, on the concern for deficit reduction, I heard some people say it, but I don't see the votes showing the same conviction on deficit reduction with all the add-ons that we have been looking at in the last couple of days.

So I urge my colleagues to vote no on this amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Who yields time? There are 2 minutes 20 seconds remaining.

Mr. BREAUX. Mr. President, I will conclude my comments on this amendment by saying I think those who are concerned about fiscal discipline should be concerned about the state of the economy of this country. We are at war. We are not at peace.

We do not have a surplus of $5.6 trillion as we had the last time we did a major tax cut. We have no surplus at all. We are in deficit and we are increasing the deficit by a huge amount of money at a time of war and uncertainty in this country.

I think the conservative thing to do is be more careful with tax cuts. They are great things politically, but they are not free; we have to pay for them. We would be paying for it out of the deficit, and I think that is a serious mistake. We need to be responsible, and this amendment brings about a degree of responsibility that we all should be able to support.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Who yields time? The Senator from Oklahoma has 2 minutes and the Senator from Louisiana has—

Mr. BREAUX. I will not yield my time back. I have 2 other cosponsors who would like to be heard.

I yield to the Senator from Maine.

Ms. SNOWE. I want to make a couple of points. This amendment is straightforward, practical, prudent, proportional; it is a carefully calibrated approach in terms of whether we can afford a certain size growth plan. That is why we made the decision.

It wasn't a question of splitting the difference; it was a question of making a distinction in terms of what constitutes a stimulus, what we can afford to pay for, and what we cannot afford to pay for. That is how I approached this amendment.

I think it is important that we think carefully if we want to provide deficit financing for nonstimulative proposals. Finally, I should make the point that we see deficits way into the future, until the year 2013, at a time in which we have to address Social Security and Medicare. We cannot diminish our ability to address those critical programs and the challenges they face.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Montana.

Mr. BAUCUS. Mr. President, I have two additional points: One, we have never reduced taxes in a time of war. That is not the American way. We do not reduce taxes in a time of war. I ask you to just look at the TV screens. We are going to be over there for quite a while, in one way or another.

Two, there are many ways to stimulate the economy, not only through tax reductions. It is also by spending. We are spending dollars on homeland security. I urge my colleagues to vote for this amendment.

Mr. NICKLES. Mr. President, most individuals in this body support some size of growth package. A few were at zero, a few at $140 billion, some $350 billion, and some are with the President's package, which is $696 billion—$725 billion if you add refundables.

I yield time to Senator ALLARD.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Colorado is recognized.

Mr. ALLARD. Mr. President, I compliment the chairman of the Budget Committee. He put together a very responsible budget that includes a sizable tax cut—much more than the $350 billion that this amendment talks about. He eliminates the deficit within the 10-year period. It was a hard decision to make, but we need to cut taxes in order to stimulate the economy, if we really want to have the revenues as we move out in order to help pay for the war. We know that it is static scoring.

The President has come up with a plan that will truly stimulate the economy. I think the chairman of the Finance Committee has come up with an equally effective plan. We need to support the tax cut.

Mr. NICKLES. I yield the remainder of my time to the Senator from New Mexico.

Mr. DOMENICI. How much time is that, Mr. President?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. It is 40 seconds.

Mr. DOMENICI. I thank the Senator. First, I believe we have an excellent budget. Frankly, we are charged with a lot of things that we are going to try to do. Most important, we have to find something that will stimulate this economy. I, frankly, believe the President has come up with something very innovative, exciting, and it is apt to work; that is, to change the long-standing double taxation of dividends.

Frankly, I am not sure we know how to stimulate this economy with reference to tax cuts, but I do believe we know how to make this economy work far better if we change that part of our Tax Code. I think we should leave the tax numbers as they are and vote the amendment down.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator's time has expired.

Mr. HARKIN. I ask for 1 minute.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

The Senator is recognized for 1 minute.

Mr. HARKIN. Mr. President, my amendment simply holds the size of the tax cut to $350 billion. Any tax cuts beyond $350 billion would have to be offset under my amendment or they would face a budget point of order requiring 60 votes. Many colleagues may say, wait a minute, I thought that was what the underlying amendment does. The underlying amendment still allows for $940 billion in tax cuts in the future. It does reduce down to $350 billion the amount of tax cut under reconciliation, but it still allows for $600 billion more in tax cuts.

My amendment says $350 billion, and cap it at that. No more. Any tax breaks beyond that would either have to be offset or it would require 60 votes to overcome a point of order. It is very simple. It is a cap of $350 billion on tax cuts.

Mr. NICKLES. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to speak for 1 minute in opposition to the Harkin amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection? Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. NICKLES. Mr. President, for the information of our colleagues, we have had great cooperation on this bill. We have not had second-degree amendments. We have tried to avoid them and be expeditious.

We have not seen this amendment. I do know the effect of this amendment would be in the outyears we would be taking a 10-percent rate and making it 15 percent. I do know in the outyears we would eliminate the marriage penalty relief. I do know the effect of it would be reduce the child tax credit from $1,000 to $500.

I urge my colleagues to vote in favor of a motion to table the Harkin amendment. I make that motion.

Mr. HARKIN. I ask for the yeas and nays.

Mr. NICKLES. I make the motion to table the Harkin amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. A motion has been made to table.

There appears to be a sufficient second.

The question is on agreeing to the motion. The clerk will call the roll.

Mr. LOTT. Mr. President, I move to reconsider the vote.

Mr. CRAIG. I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Oklahoma.

Mr. NICKLES. Mr. President, in our list of amendments that we are working on, Senator KENNEDY is next. I believe we will be able to work that amendment out so we will not have to have a Gregg amendment as well. We will pass on both of those and probably accept Senator KENNEDY's amendment as modified in just a moment.

The next amendment on our list will be an amendment by the Senator from West Virginia, Senator BYRD.

Mr. President, can we have Senator BYRD's Amtrak amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. It has not yet been sent to the desk.

Mr. NICKLES. Does the Senator from West Virginia have the amendment? If not, we will find a copy of it.

Mr. BYRD. Mr. President, I suggest the absence of a quorum.

Mr. BYRD. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

AMENDMENT NO. 387

Mr. BYRD. Mr. President, I have an amendment. I send the amendment to the desk.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report the amendment.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from West Virginia (Mr. BYRD) proposes an amendment numbered 387. (Purpose: To provide adequate funds for the National Railroad Passenger Corporation (Amtrak))

On page 3, line 10, increase the amount by $912,000,000.

On page 21, line 24, increase the amount by $912,000,000.

On page 47, line 5, increase the amount by $912,000,000.

On page 47, line 6, increase the amount by $912,000,000.

Mr. BYRD. Mr. President, may we have order in the Senate?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senate will come to order.

The Senator from West Virginia is recognized for 1 minute on his amendment.

Mr. BYRD. Mr. President, the budget resolution currently before the Senate cuts funding for Amtrak by almost 22 percent. There is no question that this funding level will put Amtrak into bankruptcy during the next fiscal year. We must not let that happen. The bipartisan Amtrak board of directors has stated that Amtrak needs $1.8 billion next year to operate all its trains and make a minimum level of capital investment. That board includes several Republicans.

This amendment that I offer with Senator LAUTENBERG would fund Amtrak at that $1.8 billion level. It is paid for by reducing the tax cut by just $900 million for 1 year. We need to stop having our national passenger railroad service just survive from one financial crisis to the next. We need to allow the next president of Amtrak to continue to reform Amtrak, rather than oversee its liquidation.

I encourage all Senators to save rail service in this country and support this amendment.

Mr. SPECTER. Mr. President, I will vote in favor of the Byrd amendment to the fiscal year 2004 budget resolution to increase Amtrak's budget in fiscal year 2004 from $900 million to $1.8 billion because this level of funding is critical for Amtrak's continued operations next year. Without this additional funding, Amtrak would be forced to entirely shut down its operations.

This amendment does not take funding from the President's $726 billion growth package. This additional $900 million is offset from the $600 billion in tax cuts over the 10 years just as the $1.8 billion, accepted by Senator NICKLES, on the Kennedy amendment to add to the Pell Grants.

I am committed to the specified tax cuts over the next 10 years and there will be ample time to reallocate the $900 million for Amtrak as well as the $1.8 billion for the Pell Grants.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Who yields time in opposition? The Senator from Oklahoma.

Mr. NICKLES. Mr. President, I urge our colleagues to vote no on this amendment. I have the greatest respect for Senator BYRD and his support of Amtrak. I happen to be a supporter of Amtrak. But the net essence of this amendment would be to double the amount of money we have for Amtrak. We proposed $900 million. That happens to be what the Department of Transportation has requested. I remind our colleagues, a few years ago we were going to say that Amtrak would not need subsidies by this year.

If you look, this would more than double the amount of money. The largest subsidy it has ever received was last year and that was because of the supplemental, so to go from $490 million to 1.8 is more than doubling the Federal subsidies to Amtrak. Right now the cost in some cases from city to city exceeds that of air passenger service. I urge my colleagues to vote no on the amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to amendment No. 387.

Mr. BYRD. Mr. President, I ask for the yeas and nays.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there a sufficient second?

There is a sufficient second. The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk called the roll.

AMENDMENT NO. 311, AS MODIFIED

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, I call up amendment No. 311. I send a modification to the desk and ask unanimous consent for its consideration.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection to modifying the amendment?

Without objection, it is so ordered.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Massachusetts [Mr. KENNEDY], for himself and Mr. DODD, Mr. DASCHLE, Mr. FEINGOLD, Mr. BINGAMAN, Mrs. MURRAY, Mr. REED, Ms. CANTWELL, and Ms. COLLINS, proposes an amendment numbered 311, as modified.

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment, as modified, is as follows:

(Purpose: To increase the maximum Pell Grant from $4,050 to $4,500 at a cost of $1.8 billion and reduce the public debt by an additional $1.8 billion, both paid for by a reduction in the non-reconciliation tax cut)

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, I have offered this amendment on behalf of myself, Senators DODD, DASCHLE, FEINGOLD, BINGAMAN, MURRAY, REED, CANTWELL, and COLLINS. This amendment increases the maximum Pell grant by $500 at a total cost of $1.8 billion. It pays for those changes by reducing the nonreconciliation tax cut by $1.8 billion. If we do not accept this amendment, there will be 110,000 young people who are attending colleges who will lose their Pell grants. With the acceptance of this amendment, there will be more than 200,000 new Pell grant recipients, and it will help immeasurably the 4.9 million Pell grant recipients who come from families who average $15,000 in income.

Among the education community and students, there is broad-based support for increasing the maximum Pell grant. The following groups have stated their support:

American Council on Education.
National Association of Independent Colleges and Universities.

American Association of State Colleges and Universities.

American Association of Community Colleges.

United Negro College Fund.

Coalition of Higher Education Organizations.

United States Public Interest Research Group.

United States Students' Association.

The National Association of State Universities and Land Grant Colleges.

National Association of Community College Trustees.

Student Aid Alliance—an umbrella group of over 60 higher education organizations which includes the groups I just mentioned, as well as: American Association of Colleges of Nursing, American Association of Colleges of Pharmacy, American Association of Colleges for Teacher Education, American Association of College Registrars and Admissions Officers, American Association for Higher Education, American Association of University Professors, American College Personnel Association, American College Testing, American Dental Education Association, American Indian Higher Education Consortium, American Jewish Congress, American Psychological Association, American Society for Engineering Education, American Student Association of Community Colleges, APPA: The Association of Higher Education Facilities Officers, Association of Academic Health Centers, Association of Advanced Rabbinical and Talmudic Schools, Association of American Law Schools, Association of American Medical Colleges, Association of Governing Boards of Universities and Colleges, Association of Jesuit Colleges and Universities, Career College Association, Citizen's Scholarship Foundation of America, Coalition of Higher Education Assistance Organizations, College and University Personnel Association for Human Resources, College Board, College Parents of America, Council for Advancement and Support of Education, Council for Christian Colleges and Universities, Council on Government Relations, Council of Graduate Schools, Council for Higher Education Accreditation, Council of Independent Colleges, Council for Opportunity in Education, Educational Testing Service, Hispanic Association of Colleges and Universities, Lutheran Educational Conference of North America, NAFSA: Association of International Educators, National Association for College Admission Counseling, National Association of College and University Business Officers, National Association for Equal Opportunity in Higher Education, National Association of Graduate and Professional Students, National Association of State Student Grant and Aid Programs, National Association of Student Financial Aid Administrators, National Association of Student Personnel Administrators, National College Access Network, National Collegiate Athletic Association, National Council of University Research Administrators, National Education Association, NAWE: Advancing Women in Higher Education, University Continuing Education Association, and the Women's College Coalition.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that some of the letters from these organizations in support of this amendment and in support of increasing the maximum Pell grant be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

COMMITTEE FOR EDUCATION FUNDING,
Washington, DC, March 19, 2003.

MEMBER,
House of Representatives,
Washington, DC.

DEAR REPRESENTATIVE: The Committee for Education Funding, a nonpartisan coalition of 110 organizations reflecting the broad spectrum of the education community, strongly urges you to vote against passage of the House FY04 Budget Resolution, H. Con. Res. 95, reported out by the Budget Committee on March 12, 2003 and support amendments that restore cuts and increase education investment substantially. The Budget Resolution assumes a cut of 3 percent below the President's already low request for discretionary spending for education and related programs in Function 500, which includes vital funding for No Child Left Behind, students with disabilities, higher education, research, Head Start, and adult, vocational and technical education, and libraries. It also assumes terminating 46 important education programs totaling $1.6 billion. Moreover, it calls for a draconian cut of $9.7 billion over ten years for mandatory education spending on critical programs such as school lunch and student loans.

The budget resolution is especially objectionable in light of the urgent fiscal crisis in education resources at the state level; the escalating costs of federal standards and accountability requirements on elementary and secondary schools; and the explosion of enrollments of low-income postsecondary students. The federal commitment to education is now more crucial than ever to carry out school reform and ensure access to higher education for millions of students.

Again, we urge you to vote against the House Budget Resolution and support amendments that restore education cuts and make substantial increased education investments to move education from the current 2.8 cents on the federal budget dollar toward at least five cents and strengthen our economic and national security and the quality of education for all of America's students. Finally, we ask you to oppose amendments that increase funding for one education program by cutting another education program. Thank you for your support of education.

Sincerely,

DAN FULLER,
President.
EDWARD R. KEALY,
Executive Director.

STUDENT AID ALLIANCE,
Washington, DC, March 19, 2003.

Re: support Kennedy-Dodd amendment on Pell grants.

DEAR SENATOR: On behalf of the Student Aid Alliance—a coalition of over 60 higher education organizations representing students, parents, college presidents, financial aid administrators and others—we write to urge you to support an amendment to the FY 2004 Budget Resolution that will increase the Federal Pell Grant maximum grant by $450 to $4,500.

Should the funding of the Pell Grants increase by $1.8 billion, as proposed in the amendment, more low-income and first-generation students can pursue their higher education dreams. Many of these students are consumed with worry that the poor performance of the economy has seriously jeopardized their hope of college attendance. They are right to worry. Their concerns have a documented basis in fact: data from the Department of Education show that qualified low-income students are still only half as likely to enroll in a four-year institution.

The federal government's investment in student financial aid is less than one percent of federal spending, but as states continue to pull away from providing resources to the needy students, and as more students choose to pursue a college education, federal funding becomes even more essential.

Finally, the consequences of the Pell Grant amendment on the federal budget are negligible, but its consequences for the students in your state are significant. For them, it may mean the difference between going to college or not, or staying in college or not.

We strongly urge you to vote in favor of this important amendment.

Sincerely,

DAVID WARD,
Co-Chair.
DAVID WARREN,
Co-Chair.

ASSOCIATION OF JESUIT COLLEGES & UNIVERSITIES,
Washington, DC, March 19, 2003.

Hon. EDWARD KENNEDY,
U.S. Senate,
Washington, DC

DEAR SENATOR KENNEDY: On behalf of the Association of Jesuit Colleges and Universities (AJCU) and the twenty-eight institutions of higher education that we represent, I write in support of the Kennedy-Dodd Budget Amendment to increase the Pell grant maximum from $4,050 to $4,500 in FY04.

All of our Jesuit colleges and universities have been hard-pressed to meet the critical increase of over 25% in Pell eligible students over the past two years. Within one year, our 28 institutions had to increase the amount of institutional aid given to needy students by 10% to accommodate declining federal dollars. Institutional aid ranks as the highest funding category for our students at 47% on average, and federal aid dollars including Pell grants and campus-based aid programs totals 44%, while only 9% of aid originates from the states. Some of our institutions have been quite dependent upon state aid, but, because of the burgeoning state budget crisis, students have lost aid. For example, $1 million was cut in grant aid from the Illinois Grant Aid program for Loyola Chicago University students. Given the combination of state budget crisis and limited federal dollars, students are increasing loan debts, while institutions are increasing institutional aid. For many small and medium-sized institutions these institutional increases are straining the very financial fiber and well being of these colleges.

The economy has played another factor not only in diminishing college and university endowments, but, also in trying to raise endowment funding. Parents are really hard pressed because their savings have declined and their contributions have diminished substantially. Thus, the recession not only has impacted federal and state budgets, but also college and university budgets and in particular, parent's and student's budgets.

The Pell grant program remains the foundation program for providing more access for more students of need to secure a postsecondary education. Pell grants serve the neediest students across the country and open doors for many first generation students to pursue their dreams. Given the complex times that we live in, our primary purpose should always be to educate the best-educated populace in the world. An America that offers equal opportunity to those who are less affluent than others and who desperately want to contribute back to society. Thank you for your leadership in introducing this critical amendment. Our students are counting on your continued advocacy.

CHARLES L. CURRIE, SJ,
President.

Mr. KENNEDY. I have talked to the floor manager of the bill, and I hope he will be willing to accept it.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Who yields time?

Mr. BIDEN. I believe the modification has been cleared by staff. I may be mistaken.

Mr. NICKLES. Mr. President, I inquire of the Senator, is it No. 278 or No. 273?

SEC. 308. FUNDING FOR DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE COMMUNITY ORIENTED POLICING SERVICES PROGRAMS.

(a) FINDINGS.—The Senate finds that—

(1) State and local law enforcement officers provide essential services that preserve and protect our freedom and safety;

(2) with the support of the Community Oriented Policing Services program (referred to in this section as the "COPS program"), State and local law enforcement officers have succeeded in dramatically reducing violent crime;

(3) the COPS program is the only program in the Federal government that provides homeland security resources directly to law enforcement first responders;

(4) on July 15, 2002, the Attorney General stated, "Since law enforcement agencies began partnering with citizens through community policing, we've seen significant drops in crime rates. COPS provides resources that reflect our national priority of terrorism prevention.";

(5) On February 26, 2002, the Attorney General stated, "The COPS program has been a miraculous sort of success. It's one of those things that Congress hopes will happen when it sets up a program.";

(6) the Federal Bureau of Investigation's Assistant Director for the Office of Law Enforcement Coordination has stated, "The FBI fully understands that our success in the fight against terrorism is directly related to the strength of our relationship with our State and local partners.";

(7) as a result of the COPS program, State and local law enforcement agencies have received funds for more than 117,000 officers, 87,300 of whom are on the beat, fighting crime, and improving the quality of life in our neighborhoods and schools;

(8) the COPS program has assisted in advancing community policing nationwide;

(9) 86 percent of the Nation is served by a law enforcement agency that has full-time officers engaged in community policing activities;

(10) the continuation and full funding of the COPS program through fiscal year 2009 is supported by several major law enforcement organizations, including—

(A) the International Association of Chiefs of Police;

(B) the International Brotherhood of Police Officers;

(C) the Fraternal Order of Police;

(D) the National Sheriffs' Association;

(E) the National Troopers Coalition;

(F) the Federal Law Enforcement Officers Association;

(G) the National Association of Police Organizations;

(H) the National Organization of Black Law Enforcement Executives;

(I) the Police Executive Research Forum; and

(J) the Major Cities Chiefs;

(11) several studies have concluded that the implementation of community policing as a law enforcement strategy is an important factor in the reduction of crime in our communities;

(12) Congress appropriated $1,050,000,000 for the COPS program for fiscal year 2002 and $928,900,000 for fiscal 2003; and

(13) the President requested $164,000,000 for the COPS program for fiscal year 2004, $886,000,000 less than the amount appropriated for fiscal year 2002.

(b) SENSE OF THE SENATE.—It is the sense of the Senate that the levels in this resolution assume that an increase of $1,000,000,000 for fiscal year 2004 for the Department of Justice's community oriented policing program will be provided without reduction and consistent with previous appropriated and authorized levels.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. There will be 2 minutes equally divided on each side. The Senator from Delaware.

Mr. BIDEN. Mr. President, the COPS Program: $163 million. This amendment will take it up to what it has historically been for the last 8 or 9 years, about $1.16 billion. At the time we are cutting back FBI agents, we have cut the violent crime task forces, FBI agents no longer do interstate bank robbery, car thefts, et cetera. All local municipalities are in a hole. Everyone is in trouble. Deficits are high. We are worried about terrorism. The first guy who is going to run across a Bin Laden-type figure is not one wearing night vision goggles with the Special Forces. It could be a cop.

We are cutting back on homeland defense, local law enforcement. There has been an 83-percent cut from the COPS level we just approved in the omnibus bill just weeks ago. This will provide for 4,400 more cops at the very time—think about this—the entire FBI is 11,000 FBI agents. We are talking about adding 4,400 cops.

The COPS Program has worked. No one has a cogent argument as to why it has not worked. I urge adoption of the amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator's time has expired. Who yields time in opposition? The Senator from Oklahoma.

Mr. NICKLES. Mr. President, in function 750, which includes a lot of programs for local law enforcement, we have a 29-percent increase. The Senator's amendment would add an additional $1 billion on top of that.

I urge my colleagues to vote no. I yield to the Senator from New Hampshire the remainder of our time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from New Hampshire.

Mr. GREGG. Mr. President, the COPS Program was designed to put 100,000 new police officers on the street. We have, in fact, put 110,000 new police officers on the street.

In addition, the program has been replaced in large part by the huge amount of increases that are going into the First Responder Program, into the Byrne grant, into the LEA grant, and into the local law enforcement effort overall. We are dramatically increasing money in these accounts.

To continue a program that was supposed to fade out is totally inappropriate when we are already expanding the spending in these accounts by significant amounts.

Mr. DOMENICI. Does the Senator have time to answer a question?

Mr. GREGG. I have no idea.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Time has expired.

Mr. DOMENICI. I ask unanimous consent that the Senator from New Hampshire be permitted to answer one question.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Mr. BIDEN. Reserving the right to object, if I can have equal time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered. The Senator from New Hampshire.

Mr. DOMENICI. Have the budget rules changed? Is there some way that the Senator from New Hampshire can offer an amendment that will, in fact, increase the budget so the COPS Program will be paid for?

Mr. GREGG. The Senator knows the budget rules much better than I do. I think his answer is rhetorical, and the answer is no.

Mr. DOMENICI. That is correct. This amendment would not add to COPS. It will add to the budget.

Mr. GREGG. That is correct.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Delaware is recognized for 20 seconds.

Mr. BIDEN. Mr. President, this takes $2 billion out of the tax cut. It provides $1 billion for COPS, and $1 billion for reduction of the deficit.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to amendment No. 278, as modified.

Mr. CONRAD. I ask for the yeas and nays.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there a sufficient second?

There appears to be a sufficient second.

The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk called the roll.

The result was announced—yeas 48, nays 52, as follows:

The amendment (No. 278), as modified, was rejected.

Mr. NICKLES. Mr. President, we are making progress. I inform our colleagues, Senator CONRAD and I have had members inquiring how much longer are we going to stay. We are staying until we complete the bill. I urge Members not to generate amendments. We are trying to deal with them and we are trying to accommodate Members as much as we can. Sometimes we have had three or four amendments on one subject matter. I hope that does not continue.

The next amendment to be considered is the amendment from the Senator from South Carolina, the Hollings amendment.

Mr. HOLLINGS. On behalf of Senators GRAHAM of Florida and South Carolina, Senators BYRD, LIEBERMAN, CORZINE, SCHUMER, MURRAY, BIDEN, and others, this amendment is to fund the port security provisions that we passed unanimously through the Senate. We had funding at that time. The House would not agree and the law is there. The responsibility and the unfunded mandate is there upon the States. Now they have no emergency dollars and it is an emergency situation.

We have to have $1 billion this year and $1 billion next year. I wanted to first take the money from the tax cuts. That was not going to work, and then I was going to remove the caps and I retreated to the 920 offset. We are in a desperate situation. We have to have the money.

Last Congress, we passed the Maritime Transportation Security Act of 2002. This landmark bill reflects the first time that the federal government has imposed security requirements on U.S. ports since World War II.

People do not ordinarily think about what happens at our ports. They take for granted that goods from all over the world are transported through our ports at minimal cost. However, this system is in jeopardy because security has never been part of the equation, and for the first time, we are requiring shipments to not only be efficient, but efficient and secure. The current situation leaves us in jeopardy, because Al Qaeda could use one of the millions of marine containers that are shipped into the U.S. to carry a dirty bomb, they could also take over an oil tanker and use it as a weapon to attack our coastal cities.

The bill we passed last year, the Maritime Transportation Security Act, sets the stage for protecting our nation, and for protecting our homeland. Last year, when we were considering this measure, Senate conferees insisted that we needed a commitment to fund the important requirements and mandates of this act. But until now we have not agreed on how to fund this measure. We implored the administration to come up with their own plan to help us address the vital need to secure our ports and points inland from maritime attack, but they sat on the sidelines.

Faced with that inaction, we pushed our colleagues in the House to require user fees on cargo shippers, and on ships, in order to provide funds for security equipment and programs, and to help our first responders plan how they might counteract any attacks. But our friends in the House, primarily those at the Ways and Means Committee, said that it was not a user fee. When we convinced them that it was, they then said that revenues had to originate in the House. After that we said okay, you pass the bill on the House side, and then we will pass your bill in the Senate. Yet the goal post moved further away once again, when the house said that they couldn't agree on any user fee at all, and that the federal government should pay for port security in the budget. In the end, it was more important to pass the maritime security bill, and to impose the security mandates, so we required the Administration to submit their plans for funding port security to Congress within 6 months. Well, this years' budget proposes not one penny for port security!

As required by the MTSA, the Coast Guard has begun to survey security at U.S. ports, and preliminary estimates are that we will need 4.8 billion dollars to comply with the mandates. According to a "Maritime Security Notice" in the Federal Register of December 30, 2002, the total costs of implementing security in our seaports will reach $6 billion over the next ten years. The first year cost will be $1.4 billion. The costs are broken down by USCG as follows:

Vessel security: $1.1 billion over ten years,

Facility security: $4.4 billion over ten years,

Port Security Plans and Committees: $477 million over ten years.

This funding is crucial to the security of our homeland. A recent port security terrorism simulation was conducted by federal, state, and private sector experts to examine the consequences of a seaport attack. Their conclusions were stunning. The simulation indicated that within twenty days of an attack through U.S. seaports, the New York Stock Exchange would halt trading on the Exchange because of restated earnings estimates and shareholder panic. Retailers and manufacturers would be crippled by our inability to reopen U.S. ports so that their inventories could be replenished.

Last year, U.S. ports on the west coast were temporarily closed because of labor strikes, economists estimate that this closure cost our economy over two billion dollars a day. And, while we are spending billions of dollars each year to figure out how to shoot missiles out of the sky, we are spending practically nothing to protect against a weapon simply being put into a marine container, and shipped to the United States at a cost of less than three thousand dollars.

The economic impact of the closure of just the west coast ports pales in comparison to the economic devastation that would be the reaction to a dirty bomb imported in a container through the Port of Charleston or Philadelphia, or an intentional ship collision with an oil facility along the Houston ship channel, or the scuttling of a vessel blocking the Mississippi River maritime highway. Many Members are from States that would be directly impacted by a maritime terrorist event, and all will be effected by the economic fallout. As demonstrated by the port security simulation, a terrorist event will force the closure of every port in the country, potentially causing the destruction of our economic system before the ports could be cleared and reopened. Currently, we are only inspecting two percent of containers entering the U.S. We need to do better. The consequences are just too great to not provide the badly needed funds to upgrade port security.

For example, Tuesday, with the existing military situation and homeland security threat level at "high," the State of South Carolina has been forced to supplement the existing security at the Port of Charleston, and at nuclear power plants, by deputizing and reassigning 400 probation and parole officers. This extra security should be available from security professionals trained in transportation security, but these professionals are not available because we are not doing what is needed to secure our ports.

A failure in securing our ports from attack, will result in a catastrophic attack on our economy, and ultimately on the strength of our nation. We currently do not have an adequate security system at our ports, and there has not been any sign from the Administration that they will secure our seaports in the future. The Coast Guard, Customs and Transportation Security Administration are doing their best, but unless they are given the tools and the funding to help our ports and cities employ the security that we need, we will be defenseless from a catastrophic attack. In order to provide this critical funding I am proposing an amendment to the Senate budget resolution.

The amendment would add $1 billion annually, for seaport security needs, over the next two years. In order to pay for the amendment, the tax cut would be reduced by $2 billion. The one billion, per year, could be spent consistent with the Maritime Transportation Security Act of 2002, as follows: Maritime Administration, $610 million; $450 million, for grants to ports and waterfront facilities to help ensure compliance with federally approved security plans; $150 million; for grants to states, local municipalities and other entities to help comply with federal area security plans and to provide grants to responders for port security contingency response; $10 million, to be used in conjunction with the Federal Law Enforcement Training Center to help develop a seaport security training curriculum to provide training to federal and state law enforcement personnel, and to certify private security personnel working at seaports.

Coast Guard, $160 million; $50 million, for port security assessments; $50 million, for the establishment and operation of multi-agency task force to coordinate and evaluate maritime information in order to identify and respond to security threats; $40 million, to help implement the Automated Identification System, AIS, and other tracking systems designed to actively track and monitor vessels operating in U.S. waters; $20 million, for additional Coast Guard port security vessels.

The Border and Transportation Security Directorate, $230 million, $100 million, to Customs for the installation of screening equipment, and to be used to help develop new technologies to help develop and prototype screening and detection equipment at U.S. ports; $100 million, to TSA and Customs; $50 million each, to evaluate and implement cargo security programs; $30 million, for the Transportation Security Administration, TSA, to develop and implement the Transportation Worker ID Card, and to conduct criminal background checks of transportation workers who work in secure areas or who work with sensitive cargo or information.

I thank the distinguished chairman for his agreement. We could voice-vote to save time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Oklahoma.

Mr. NICKLES. I thank my friends and colleagues, Senator HOLLINGS and Senator GRAHAM of South Carolina, for their willingness to work with us to modify the amendment. We are happy to accept the amendment. That will eliminate two rollcall votes.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to amendment No. 343, as modified.

The amendment (No. 343), as modified, was agreed to.

Mr. HOLLINGS. I move to reconsider the vote.

Mr. NICKLES. I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

AMENDMENT NO. 358

Mr. NICKLES. I believe the next amendment will be offered by the Senator from Missouri, Senator BOND.

Mr. BOND. Mr. President, I call up amendment numbered 358.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Missouri [Mr. BOND], for himself, and Mr. REID, Mr. INHOFE, Mr. JEFFORDS, Mr. SHELBY, Mr. SARBANES, Mr. BYRD, Mrs. MURRAY, Mr. CHAFEE, Mr. WARNER, Mr. SPECTER, Ms. MURKOWSKI, Mr. LOTT, Ms. COLLINS, Mr. REED, Mrs. FEINSTEIN, Mr. LEVIN, and Mr. BROWNBACK, proposed an amendment numbered 358.

Mr. BOND. I ask unanimous consent reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

(The amendment is printed in today's RECORD under "Text of Amendments.")

Mr. BOND. Mr. President, there are stark needs for highways and transportation systems. The red column the President recommended, the green column across the chart shows what this budget proposes, and the budget before us proposes essentially flat funding for the next 6 years. The administration itself said the needs just to maintain highways are at this yellow line, which is way above.

Our amendment simply raises spending for highways over the 6 years to $255 billion and mass transit to $56.5-using dollars previously paid into the highway trust fund by highway users, and other items that have been identified by the President and the Budget Committee, such as transferring 2.5 cents for ethanol into the highway user funds.

Investing in highways and transportation is the best immediate stimulus we can have to the economy, creating jobs, and lowering highway deaths. I urge the support of my colleagues.

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, I commend my colleagues for their leadership on this bipartisan amendment to increase the level of Federal investment in transportation by over 40 percent in the next 6 years.

This amendment will enable the Environment and Public Works Committee and the Banking Committee to write their Transportation Equity Act for the 21st century, TEA-21, reauthorization proposals with adequate funding, and I urge my colleagues to support it.

Maintaining an integrated, efficient, and safe transportation system is one of the most important things we can do to get this faltering economy moving again. It is essential for maintaining the strength of our cities, and for promoting the growth of commerce and trade.

Of all the economic growth proposals that we will consider this year, few will produce a greater bang for the buck than increased Federal investment in the Nation's transit and highway system. According to the Department of Transportation, every $1 billion in surface transportation investment creates 47,500 jobs. With an economy losing 300,000 jobs each month, we cannot afford to ignore the job-creating power of transportation investments and the other benefits that they bring.

According to a report by the American Public Transportation Association, Americans took 9.5 billion trips on mass transit in 2001—the highest number in over 40 years, and a figure 22 percent increase since 1996. Of those trips, 54 percent were work related. I cannot imagine what would happen in cities like Washington, Chicago, New York, and Boston if these commuters rushing to and from their jobs were to lose public transportation as a viable option.

Perhaps such a scenario is too grim to consider, but we do have some idea just what those commuters would confront if they got off the trains and buses and back into their cars. In 2000, the average highway traveler spent 62 hours mired in rush hour traffic—a 38-percent increase over 1994. In fact, it is estimated that traffic congestion now costs Americans $67 billion each year—the cost of 3.67 billion hours in lost productivity and 5.7 billion gallons of wasted gasoline—wasted gasoline.

Unless we continue to build on the impressive investments made under ISTEA and TEA-21, I expect those congestion costs will rapidly multiply. How much they will increase is not known, but the Federal Transit Administration estimates that public transportation now saves the Nation $19.4 billion in congestion costs each year.

Unfortunately, this budget resolution does not provide room for building upon those two landmark transportation bills, and assumes a relatively flat level of funding for the next several years. These figures fall far short of what is needed simply to keep pace with the demands or exerted on our National Transportation System.

According to the American Association of State Highway and Transportation Officials, just to maintain the current conditions of our roads and bridges the Nation will need to invest approximately $92 billion each year for the next 6 years, and $19 billion for our transit systems. To actually improve these systems, the requirements are $125 billion for highways and $44 billion for transit respectively. Yet this budget provides only $32 billion for highways and $7.2 billion for transit this year.

By the end of the next 6-year reauthorization cycle, over 65 percent of the Nation's public transportation bus fleet and 54 percent of the country's subway cars, commuter rail cars, and light rail cars will be passed their useful lives, according to FTA.

If we don't replace the oldest vehicles in the fleet now, and repair those that can remain in revenue service for the foreseeable future, we will only be kicking our problems down the road. Ignoring these needs will only increase their expense, add additional financial burdens to State and local governments, and undermine the safety, security, and efficiency of our current transportation system.

It is also imperative that we boost funding for transportation investment now because of the new, post-September 11 security costs that States are facing to protect their bridges, tunnels, and subway stations.

A report by the Transportation Research Board, suggests that of the Nation's 600,000 bridges and tunnels, over 500 have been identified as critical links based on their size, traffic capacity, and strategic importance. If ever one of these bridges or tunnels should be compromised, the effect on commerce and trade in whole States and regions would be profound.

That same study, which was conducted with the input of the FTA and Federal Highway Administration, suggests that the cost of protecting these highway structures is approximately $6.8 billion over the next 6 years, with an additional $578 million required for ongoing security operations.

On the transit side, the security upgrades are expected to cost about $6.2 billion over 6 years, with an additional $500 million required for operating expenses.

Who is going to pay for these security requirements? The existing budget, which calls for essentially flat funding, does not anticipate a strong Federal role. At the same time, the States are in the midst of the worst fiscal crisis in nearly 50 years, and cannot afford these additional responsibilities.

Ultimately, the States will not be able to avoid this burden for the simple reason that they must protect their citizens. But with no additional revenues to pay for these costs, they will be forced to raid their long-term transportation budgets to pay for these new security responsibilities.

They are the ones who will have to finance additional State police details, construct physical barriers around the bases of bridges, install ventilation systems in tunnels, and create coordinated traffic monitoring and management computer systems. They will have no choice but to rob fund their immediate security needs at the expense of their long-term transportation improvement needs. And the cost of this may well be the long-term deterioration of their roads, bridges, tunnels, and public transportation services.

One final point I would like to make is that the terrorists of 9/11 closed our airports, and very nearly crippled the aviation industry permanently. However, because we had made critical investments in all modes of transportation during the past decade, intercity trains, the interstate system, and public transportation were able to fill the gap during those initial days following the tragedy. America did not stop moving.

We hope and pray that there will never be another major terrorist attack on our country, but cannot pretend that our bridges, tunnels, and train stations are not inviting targets.

Its essential, therefore, to provide the resources in this budget resolution to maintain a strong multimodal National Transportation System. With this amendment, which provides $255 billion for highways and $56.5 for transit over 6 years, we are taking a large step in the right direction.

I look forward to working with my colleagues to get a substantial reauthorization bill passed this year, as well as fully funding Amtrak and providing for increased aviation funding. We must meet all of these challenges, and meet them now.

Today's bipartisan highways and transit funding amendment is a critical step in that process. I urge all my colleagues to support it.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Oklahoma.

Mr. NICKLES. Mr. President, I have great respect for my colleagues from Missouri and Oklahoma and others who sponsor this amendment, but it is irresponsible to basically say 30 percent of highway funds will be funded out of general revenues. Highways have been built and paid for by and large by user fees, primarily gasoline taxes. This amendment says we have an increase in the deficit of about $63 billion over the next 6 years, meaning funded by general revenue financing. That is a mistake.

The Federal Government pays 80 percent of the cost of these highways. If you have general fund financing of them, there is no limit on the demands where people are saying we want you to pay for our roads.

This is over a 30 percent increase in the highway program, and basically it is unfunded. I urge my colleagues to vote no.

Mr. BOND. I ask for the yeas and nays.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there a sufficient second?

There is a sufficient second.

The amendment (No. 358) was agreed to.

Mr. BOND. I move to reconsider the vote.

Mr. REID. I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Oklahoma.

Mr. NICKLES. Mr. President, for the information of all of our colleagues, we will now vote on the sense of the Senate offered by Senator STEVENS and myself, and then Senator CONRAD and I will work on an additional list of amendments. It is very much our intention to finish this bill tonight.

I urge our colleagues to be a little more disciplined as far as sending amendments to Senator CONRAD. I appreciate the cooperation of our colleagues.

AMENDMENT NO. 391

Mr. President, on behalf of Senator STEVENS and myself, I send—is the amendment at the desk?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report the amendment.

Mr. STEVENS. Mr. President, I ask that the sense-of-the-Senate amendment be read.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report the amendment.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Alaska [Mr. STEVENS], for himself and Mr. NICKLES, proposes an amendment numbered 391:

At the appropriate place, insert the following:

SEC. . SENSE OF THE SENATE REGARDING HIGHWAY SPENDING.

(a) FINDINGS.—The Senate makes the following findings:

(1) Highway construction funding should increase over current levels.

(2) The Senate Budget Committee-passed Resolution increases Highway funding above the President's request.

(3) All vehicles, whether they are operated by gasoline, gasohol, or electricity, do damage to our highways.

(4) As set out in TEA-21, the direct relationship between excise taxes and highway spending makes sense and should be maintained.

(5) Highways should be funded through user fees such as excise taxes and not through the General Fund of the Treasury.

(b) SENSE OF THE SENATE.—It is the sense of the Senate that the Senate should only consider legislation that increases highway spending if such legislation changes highway user fees to pay for such increased spending.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Alaska.

Mr. STEVENS. Mr. President, embedded in this amendment is a provision that really intends to lift the cap so that the outlays under this concept of increased highway spending will not be charged back against the discretionary spending.

It is the intent of this sense-of-the-Senate to state that it is the Senate's position, that we support this increase only on the basis that it will not be charged against outlays to the discretionary spending and therefore reduce the amount of money available to the Appropriations Committee under this resolution.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Missouri.

Mr. BOND. Mr. President, I am assured by the staff, who are experts in this area, that will not reduce the money available for appropriations. I agree with most of the whereases in this amendment because it says that highways should be paid for by highway users. And, frankly, this returns to the highway trust fund almost $50 billion that has been paid in by highway users over the last decade. It also lays out other areas where there should be additional funds that the Finance Committee has already agreed we should pay.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. All debate time has expired.

The question is on agreeing to the amendment.

The Senator from Nevada.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, as a co-sponsor of the Bond amendment, I recommend that we accept it.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to the amendment.

The amendment (No. 391) was agreed to.

Mr. NICKLES. Mr. President, I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. STEVENS. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The Senator from Nevada.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, the two managers are going to work to come up with another list of amendments that we will work on. The chairman and ranking member said it will take about another 15 minutes for them to come up with another list. During the time they are gone, if somebody has some issue they want to talk about, Senator NICKLES and Senator CONRAD said they would have no objection to that—they can talk about anything they want.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from North Dakota.

Mr. CONRAD. Mr. President, let me say to Members on our side who have amendments pending, we had over 105 amendments noticed. Not all of those have been filed at the desk. We are asking Senators, if you have provided notice of an amendment but it could be put off to another day, please come to us now and advise us of that. We need to reduce the number of amendments.

We know that typically amendments Members have indicated an interest in sometimes fall away. Many times many of the amendments fall away. That would be helpful. With that said, I also want to advise Members, I do not see any way that this bill gets completed tonight. There are simply too many amendments Members have indicated they are serious about taking to a vote.

That does not mean we should not bend every effort to reduce the number of amendments outstanding so we could complete this as nearly as possible today, and finish up at a reasonable time tomorrow.

So this is going to be a challenge to all of us. If we do not do this, let me just say, there are still 85 amendments pending here. We have been doing about three an hour. If we continue on this pace, we are going to be here for another several days.

So I implore my colleagues, if you have given notice of an amendment, but you really do not need a vote on it, please advise the staff of that so we can whittle down this list.

Mr. REID. Will the Senator yield?

Mr. CONRAD. I am happy to yield.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, the two managers of this bill have worked very hard. Recognizing how hard they have worked, the staff has worked even harder. I have relayed to the majority leader that in addition to the fact that it is Friday, and we have all had a hard week, we have to keep in proper perspective, whether people want to acknowledge it or not, that we have had a number of Senators who have recently had surgery and have been ill. Not a single one of those Senators has come to me asking that we cut them some slack. But we know that we should do that. Some of them came back to work earlier than they should have. They have violated doctors' instructions to be here.

Senator BYRD has talked to us. We recognize that his wife is very ill. Senator BYRD is doing everything he can to keep a watchful eye on his wife.

I hope we have proven during this week—we, the minority—that we are not trying to do anything to slow up this important piece of legislation. I have trouble understanding what is the magic of finishing this bill today. If there is magic there, it would take magic to complete it because we cannot complete the bill today. It would be my recommendation that we work for a reasonable time this evening. If the leader wants to come back tomorrow, come back sometime at a reasonable time tomorrow, do that. But I have to say we would be better served by completing our work early this evening and coming back next week and finishing this bill. It would give us all time to work to winnow down this list of amendments. I will bet if we had the weekend to do it, we could work it out so there would not be a lot of amendments. Our being pushed into saying you have to finish this bill today or tomorrow is not logical.

I know there is pressure from a lot of places to finish the bill, but it is not the Democrats preventing the legislation from passing. We are doing everything we can to cooperate. I know there are people here who have had far more experience than I. This, to me, would be logical and sensible.

Senator BYRD asked me today how long we are going. I would like him to express to the Senate how he feels about this.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from West Virginia.

Mr. BYRD. Mr. President, there may be men and women dying right now in the Arabian desert. Here we are talking about a budget resolution which is required by law to be passed by April 15. The administration has not added one penny in this budget for the war. They have not added anything in this budget for the war.

If we were debating a war budget today, it might be different. But we are not debating a war budget. There is no money in this budget by the administration for the war. Yet we are fighting a war. Why the hurry, when the deadline is April 15? Why the hurry?

We have asked the administration, I have asked the administration and representatives of the administration what is the cost of the war. How much is it going to cost. What is the cost of this war. The Secretary of Defense has answered it is not knowable. Here we are, the elected representatives of the people who want to know something about the cost of the war. The administration has said: It is not knowable. The administration has said, in essence, wait until you see the supplemental. We will send you the supplemental.

The answer to our questions have been rather contemptuous, in saying: Well, we don't know the cost. We will let you know when we send up the bill.

Why don't we wait and see what the supplemental is going to ask for? Why don't we wait and see what the administration asks for in the supplemental before we proceed with the budget? I cannot understand the hurry. We have at least two Members who have had serious operations. I don't mind staying a little while longer, but I have a responsibility also at home. If it were absolutely necessary that we complete this budget tonight, I would stay as long as I could, and if I had to go home, I would go home and let the Senate finish it. But this resolution doesn't have to be done tonight. This is not a war budget. The administration has nothing in this budget for the war. The administration has stiff-armed, as far as I am concerned, the Congress, those of us who have wanted to know something about what are the costs of this war. The administration has given us the back of their hand.

Here we are; we are being asked to rush through a budget that is not a war budget, no money in this budget for the war, and yet there is a war going on right now. Go look at your television sets and see the destruction that is being rained upon a capital city of a state that has not attacked the United States. Why can't we wait until we find out what the administration is going to request in a supplemental and then deal with the budget?

There is absolutely no necessity for dealing with this budget tonight. Suppose you lose a man here in the Senate because we continue to press for action on this budget tonight? You could lose a man. You could lose two. We have had plenty of time. We have had plenty of time. The administration should have told us how much they need in the supplemental. I have a feeling we are going to be asked for $65 to $80 billion, maybe $100 billion for the war in that supplemental. Why not wait and see what the administration is asking for in the supplemental before we proceed with this budget?

We have a huge tax cut in this budget, $1.3 trillion in tax cuts. So we want to pass the tax cuts before we find out how much the administration is going to request in a supplemental for fighting the war.

Men and women are dying. We ought not be on this budget today. We ought to at least show some respect for our own men and women. We are sending our own men and women across the sea to a foreign land where they may die and their families here today are worrying and crying and praying about their loved ones. That is saying nothing about the Iraqi men and women, old women, young women, old men, young men, sick people, children, babies.

Mr. SANTORUM. Mr. President, what is the regular order?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. There is no debate in order at this time.

The Senator from West Virginia.

Mr. BYRD. Mr. President, I have been around here long enough to know what the regular order is. I also have been around here long enough to know that we are being asked to stay here and spend the rest of the evening. We may send some old men to their deaths by doing this. I have a sick wife. Sixty-nine days from now, if the Lord lets both of us live, we will celebrate our 66th wedding anniversary. My first duty is to her. There will be enough Senators left here to pass this bill if we want to stay that long. But I think it is unreasonable.

If there were a reason to stay here, I would say, let's stay here and do our duty. But there is no reason for that, except to get this resolution passed before we know what the administration is going to request in a supplemental to fight this war.

Now, call for the regular order if you want to. Mr. President, I say it is time that we agree on a few more amendments, act on a few more, and go over to next week. The administration, I understand, is going to fight me down at the White House to tell me about the supplemental next Tuesday as a ranking member of the Appropriations Committee. Let them tell us that first, and then let's complete action on this massive tax cut.

Mr. President, I hope reason will prevail today. There is time to pass this bill later. It doesn't have to be done today. Let's go home, at least out of respect for the men and the women who are being sent. They didn't ask to go to foreign lands, possibly to fight and die.

Mr. SANTORUM. Mr. President, I call for the regular order.

Mr. BYRD. Out of respect for those, Mr. President—

Mr. SANTORUM. I call for the regular order.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Further debate would require unanimous consent.

Mr. BYRD. I ask unanimous consent to proceed for 1 more minute.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. BYRD. Can we not at least respect the people who are being sent overseas to fight and die, possibly? Can't we, out of respect, at least shut down the Senate for today and go home? Why do we have to debate this while they are giving of their all? Remember, we are raining destruction upon a city of a state that has not attacked this country. There are men and women, old people and young people, sick and dying people there. At least we should have enough respect to quit now. We have done a good day's work. We passed 15, 16, 17 amendments by rollcall votes. Why do we have to continue? We don't have to—not for the political reason of getting action completed on this resolution before we find out what the administration is going to ask for in the supplemental.

I hope Senators will insist on our going over to next week. Our staffs haven't had a chance to read the amendments. Senators don't know what is in these amendments. I don't.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator's time has expired.

Mr. BYRD. Let's take the weekend and have our clerks read them so they can better advise us next week. I ask Senators to think about that.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Oklahoma is recognized.

Mr. NICKLES. Mr. President, I appreciate the concerns raised by my friend and colleague from West Virginia, who just doubled the subsidy for Amtrak over my opposition. The majority leader has asked me to finish this bill, and we are going to finish the bill. I regret it. I will tell you, I have been here 23 years. We usually spend 1 week on a budget. Undoubtedly, on that last day of the budget, we have a lot of votes. We didn't do a budget last year and we should have. Maybe I should have worked more with the chairman at that time to make that happen. The Congress didn't function because it didn't get the budget done. We are going to finish this budget this week—tonight or tomorrow.

I know there are a lot of amendments, but most of them are repetitive. We have dealt with almost every subject area in the budget. The budget is not an appropriations bill. The budget is not a tax bill. We have had people offer amendments as though this is going to micromanage section 750. We don't do that in the budget. We don't write tax bills in the budget. We have had umpteen amendments. Oh, this will finance this, or it will be that portion of a tax bill. That is not what a budget does. A budget says basically how much we are going to spend and how much we are going to take in.

We have a budget and we need to finish our work. I know it is unpleasant and painful, and I know people would rather be home with their families, but we have to finish. Two years ago, we had 34 votes—tons of votes. We eventually passed a budget. I congratulated Senator DOMENICI because it wasn't easy or pretty. That is the way we are right now.

I tell my colleague from North Dakota, we knew this was coming a couple of days ago. I know it will not be pleasant, and we are going to ask people, and some people have to catch planes, and that is unfortunate, but we are going to finish the budget.

All these amendments that are pending, for the most part, don't need to be offered. They can be offered if you want—we are going to set an amount for appropriations. Most of those amendments can be dealt with on an appropriations bill or on a tax bill. We are going to have both this year. So I urge my colleagues to show some restraint. I will work with my colleagues, and I think I have considered every amendment fairly. We have not postponed anybody's amendments. I think we have been as fair as possible to everybody. I might mention that 90 percent of the amendments offered on the other side—well, I will be happy to work with my colleagues, but I think it is important to finish our work, whether it is midnight tonight or tomorrow night. It is very much my intention to finish. I urge our colleagues to work together to complete our work.

Mr. BYRD. Will the Senator yield?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from North Dakota is recognized.

Mr. CONRAD. Mr. President, let me just say the chairman and I have worked together closely to try to move this agenda, to have amendments and do it in an efficient way. But I must say I don't see any earthly reason this bill has to be done today. The requirement is April 15. I think we are getting over the edge into unreasonableness. When one side gets unreasonable, that creates a reaction on the other side. I have tried to be reasonable, but I say to my colleagues, at some point it is going to be hard to feel that there is some rational reason for this press.

We can get this bill done, and get it done in a timely way, without going endlessly into the night. We went until midnight last night, the same the night before. I will tell you, I think we should press ahead, do additional amendments for a time, but I think we need to fold our tent and recognize that we need to come back tomorrow or Tuesday morning and finish.

I just ask my colleagues to think about that and, in the meantime, we can try to get an agreement on another tranche of amendments to work on.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Oklahoma is recognized.

Mr. NICKLES. Mr. President, I tell my colleague from North Dakota that I will let him know of this request.

I ask unanimous consent that the only amendments that be allowed to be considered be those filed and presently at the desk.

Mr. REID. I object.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Objection is heard.

Mr. NICKLES. Mr. President, I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The bill clerk proceeded to call the roll.

AUTHORIZATION OF USE OF FORCE

Mr. STEVENS. Mr. President, as President pro tempore, I ask unanimous consent to have printed in the permanent RECORD a letter I have received from the President consistent with its requirements under the authorization for use of military force against Iraq, Public Law 107-243.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

Hon. TED STEVENS,

President pro tempore of the U.S. Senate, Washington, DC.

DEAR MR. PRESIDENT: On March 18, 2003, I made available to you, consistent with section 3(b) of the Authorization for Use of Military Force Against Iraq Resolution of 2002 (Public Law 107-243), my determination that further diplomatic and other peaceful means alone will neither adequately protect the national security of the United States against the continuing threat posed by Iraq, nor lead to enforcement of all relevant United Nations Security Council resolutions regarding Iraq.

I have reluctantly concluded, along with other coalition leaders, that only the use of armed force will accomplish these objectives and restore international peace and security in the area. I have also determined that the use of armed force against Iraq is consistent with the United States and other countries continuing to take the necessary actions against international terrorists and terrorist organizations, including those nations, organizations, or persons who planned, authorized, committed, or aided the terrorist attacks that occurred on September 11, 2001. United States objectives also support a transition to democracy in Iraq, as contemplated by the Iraq Liberation Act of 1998 (Public Law 105-338).

Consistent with the War Powers Resolution (Public Law 93-148), I now inform you that pursuant to my authority as Commander in Chief and consistent with the Authorization for Use of Military Force Against Iraq Resolution (Public Law 102-1) and the Authorization for Use of Military Force Against Iraq Resolution of 2002 (Public Law 107-243), I directed U.S. Armed Forces, operating with other coalition forces, to commence combat operations on March 19, 2003, against Iraq.

These military operations have been carefully planned to accomplish our goals with the minimum loss of life among coalition military forces and to innocent civilians. It is not possible to know at this time either the duration of active combat operations or the scope or duration of the deployment of U.S. Armed Forces necessary to accomplish our goals fully.

As we continue our united efforts to disarm Iraq in pursuit of peace, stability, and security both in the Gulf region and in the United States, I look forward to our continued consultation and cooperation.

Sincerely,

GEORGE W. BUSH

Mr. NICKLES. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Mr. BYRD. Mr. President, I object.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Objection is heard.

The bill clerk continued with the call of the roll.

Mr. NICKLES. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. CORNYN). Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. NICKLES. Mr. President, we are going to soon ask unanimous consent to clear seven amendments that Senator CONRAD and I have agreed upon. Prior to that, though, I might ask the minority leader if he has an announcement to try to rally his troops.

Mr. DASCHLE. Mr. President, we have been in discussions for the last hour or so. I am calling a caucus for 6:45 to discuss our current situation and a series of ideas that might allow us to bring this debate to closure.

I do not want to discuss it here and now, but I hope Senators will attend at 6:45 and we will have more information at that time.

Mr. NICKLES. If the minority leader will yield, I would very much appreciate it—I know you don't want to get into the details, but having final passage of the budget by 7 o'clock tonight would be very much appreciated by all Members of the Senate.

I appreciate the cooperation of the minority leader.

AMENDMENTS NOS. 353, 283, 390, 388, 389, 309, 296 AS MODIFIED, EN BLOC

Mr. NICKLES. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that seven amendments—No. 353, Senators SMITH and CLINTON's sense of the Senate dealing with health care coverage; No. 283, Senator FEINSTEIN and others' sense of the Senate dealing with criminal alien assistance; No. 390, NICKLES' technical correction, Social Security administrative expenses; No. 388, Senator VOINOVICH's sense of the Senate CBO report on liabilities and future costs; No. 389, Senator HUTCHISON's sense of the Senate dealing with the Corps of Engineers; No. 309, BINGAMAN language change to Medicaid Reserve; No. 296, Senator ROCKEFELLER's sense of the Senate first responders, with a modification that is presently at the desk—be considered en bloc, agreed to, and the motions to reconsider be laid on the table en bloc.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Mr. CONRAD. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to be shown as a cosponsor of the Hutchison amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendments were considered and agreed to en bloc, as follows:

AMENDMENT NO. 353

(Purpose: To express the sense of the Senate concerning the expansion of health care coverage)

At the appropriate place, insert the following:

SEC. ____ SENSE OF THE SENATE CONCERNING AN EXPANSION IN HEALTH CARE COVERAGE.

(a) FINDINGS.—The Senate finds that—

(1) there were 74,700,000 Americans who were uninsured for all or part of the two-year period of 2001 and 2002;

(2) this large group of uninsured Americans constitutes almost one out of every three Americans under the age of 65;

(3) most of these uninsured individuals were without health coverage for lengthy periods of time, with two-thirds of them uninsured for over six months;

(4) four out of five uninsured individuals are in working families;

(5) high health care costs, the large number of unemployed workers, and State cutbacks of public health programs occasioned by State fiscal crises are causing more and more individuals to become uninsured; and

(6) uninsured individuals are less likely to have a usual source of care outside of an emergency room, often go without screenings and preventive care, often delay or forgo needed medical care, are often subject to avoidable hospital days, and are sicker and die earlier than those individuals who have health insurance.

(b) SENSE OF SENATE.—It is the sense of the Senate that the functional totals in this resolution assume that—

(1) expanded access to health care coverage throughout the United States is a top priority for national policymaking; and

(2) to the extent that additional funds are made available, a significant portion of such funds should be dedicated to expanding access to health care coverage so that fewer individuals are uninsured and fewer individuals are likely to become uninsured.

AMENDMENT NO. 283

(Purpose: To express the sense of the Senate that the States and localities should be reimbursed through the State Criminal Alien Assistance Program for the fiscal burdens undocumented criminal aliens place on their criminal justice systems)

On page 79, after line 22, insert the following:

SEC. ____ SENSE OF THE SENATE ON THE STATE CRIMINAL ALIEN ASSISTANCE PROGRAM.

(a) FINDINGS.—The Senate finds the following:

(1) The control of illegal immigration is a Federal responsibility.

(2) In fiscal year 2002, however, State and local governments spent more than $13,000,000,000 in costs associated with the incarceration of undocumented criminal aliens.

(3) The Federal Government provided $565,000,000 in appropriated funding to the State Criminal Alien Assistance Program (SCAAP) to reimburse State and local governments for these costs.

(4) In fiscal year 2003, the fiscal burden of incarcerating undocumented criminal aliens is likely to grow, however, Congress provided only $250,000,000 to help cover these costs.

(5) The 56 percent cut in fiscal year 2003 funding for SCAAP will place an enormous burden on State and local law enforcement agencies during a time of heightened efforts to secure our homeland.

(6) The Administration did not include funding for SCAAP in its fiscal year 2004 budget.

(b) SENSE OF THE SENATE.—It is the sense of the Senate that—

(1) the functional totals underlying this resolution on the budget assumes that the State Criminal Alien Assistance Program be funded at $585,000,000 to reimburse State and local law enforcement agencies for the burdens imposed in fiscal year 2003 by the incarceration of undocumented criminal aliens; and

(2) Congress enact a long-term reauthorization of the State Criminal Alien Assistance Program beginning with the authorization of $750,000,000 in fiscal year 2004 to reimburse State and county governments for the burdens undocumented criminal aliens have placed on the local criminal justice system.

AMENDMENT NO. 390

On page 8, between lines 13 and 14, insert the following:

(c) SOCIAL SECURITY ADMINISTRATIVE EXPENSES.—In the Senate, the amounts of new budget authority and budget outlays of the Federal Old-Age and Survivors Insurance Trust Fund and the Federal Disability Insurance Trust Fund for administrative expenses are as follows:

Fiscal year 2003:

(A) New budget authority, $3,812,000,000.

(A) New budget authority, $4,338,000,000.

(B) Outlays, $4,301,000,000.

(A) New budget authority, $4,424,000,000.

(B) Outlays, $4,409,000,000.

Fiscal year 2007:

(A) New budget authority, $4,522,000,000.

(B) Outlays, $4,505,000,000.

Fiscal year 2008:

(A) New budget authority, $4,638,000,000.

Fiscal year 2013:

(A) New budget authority, $5,471,000,000.

(B) Outlays, $5,439,000,000.

AMENDMENT NO. 388

(Purpose: To require annual reports on the liabilities and future costs of the Federal Government and its programs)

At the end of subtitle A of title II, insert the following:

SEC. ____ SENSE OF THE SENATE ON REPORTS ON LIABILITIES AND FUTURE COSTS.

It is the sense of the Senate that The Congressional Budget Office shall consult with the Committee on the Budget of the Senate in order to prepare a report containing—

(1) an estimate of the unfunded liabilities of the Federal Government;

(2) an estimate of the contingent liabilities of Federal programs; and

(3) an accrual-based estimate of the current and future costs of Federal programs.

AMENDMENT NO. 389

(Purpose: To express the sense of the Senate regarding the urgent need for increased funding for the Corps of Engineers)

At the appropriate place, add the following:

SEC. ____ SENSE OF THE SENATE CONCERNING PROGRAMS OF THE CORPS OF ENGINEERS.

(a) FINDINGS.—The Senate finds that—

(1) the Corps of Engineers provides quality, responsive engineering services to the United States, including planning, designing, building, and operating invaluable water resources and civil works projects;

(2) the ports of the United States are a vital component of the economy of the United States, playing a critical role in international trade and commerce and in maintaining the energy supply of the United States;

(3) interruption of port operations would have a devastating effect on the United States;

(4) the navigation program of the Corps enables 2,400,000,000 tons of commerce to move on navigable waterways;

(5) the Department of Transportation estimates that those cargo movements have created jobs for 13,000,000 people;

(6) flood damage reduction structures provided and maintained by the Corps save taxpayers $21,000,000,000 in damages every year, in addition to numerous human lives;

(7) the Corps designs and manages the construction of military facilities for the Army and Air Force while providing support to the Department of Defense and other Federal agencies;

(8) the Civil Works program of the Corps adds significant value to the economy of the United States, including recreation and ecosystem restoration;

(9) through contracting methods, the civil works program employs thousands of private sector contract employees, as well as Federal employees, in all aspects of construction, science, engineering, architecture, management, planning, design, operations, and maintenance; and

(10) the Bureau of Labor Statistics indicates that $1,000,000,000 expended for the Civil Works program generates approximately 40,000 jobs in support of construction operation and maintenance activities in the United States.

(b) BUDGETARY ASSUMPTIONS.—It is the sense of the Senate that—

(1) to perform vital functions described in subsection (a), the Corps of Engineers requires additional funding; and

(2) the budgetary totals in this resolution assume that the level of funding provided for programs of the Corps described in subsection (a) will not be reduced below current baseline spending levels established for the programs.

AMENDMENT NO. 309

(Purpose: To provide the Committee on Finance of the Senate with additional options to reform and improve medicaid without the need to resort to block grant allotments with predetermined growth rates, which fail to adjust for economic recessions, demographic changes, or disasters)

On page 63, beginning on line 12, strike "through" and all that follows through "rates" on line 14.

AMENDMENT NO. 296, AS MODIFIED

(Purpose: To express the sense of the Senate that the Attorney General should conduct a study on the need and cost to establish radio interoperability between law enforcement agencies, fire departments, and emergency medical services, and that Congress should authorize and appropriate $20,000,000 for grants to local governments to assist fire departments and emergency medical services agencies to establish radio interoperability)

On page 79, after line 22, add the following:

SEC. 308. RADIO INTEROPERABILITY FOR FIRST RESPONDERS.

(a) STUDY.—It is the sense of the Senate that the Attorney General, in consultation with the Secretary of Homeland Security, should conduct a study of the need and cost to make the radio systems used by fire departments and emergency medical services agencies interoperable with those used by law enforcement to the extent that interoperability will not interfere with law enforcement operations.

(b) GRANT PROGRAM.—It is the sense of the Senate that Congress should authorize and appropriate $20,000,000 to establish a grant program through which the Attorney General would award grants to local governments to assist fire departments and emergency medical services agencies to establish radio interoperability.

AMENDMENT NO. 283

Mrs. FEINSTEIN. Mr. President, this non-binding sense of the Senate amendment expresses that the budget resolution before us should accommodate an appropriation of $750 million for the State Criminal Alien Assistance Program—SCAAP—for Fiscal Year 2004.

I am pleased that Senators KYL, BINGAMAN, MCCAIN, and SCHUMER have joined me in introducing this important measure.

The bipartisan amendment I offer today with my colleagues would also put the Senate on record as favoring a restoration of fiscal year 2003 funding for this important program, which does so much to help State and county governments deal with the growing costs of incarcerating undocumented criminal aliens.

Without adequate funding, this fiscal burden will continue to fall on many of our local law enforcement agencies—including sheriffs, police officers on the beat, anti-gang violence units, and district attorneys offices.

The SCAAP program is based on the principle that when the Federal Government falls short in its efforts to enforce the laws against immigration violations, it must bear the responsibility for the financial and human consequences of this failure.

Thus, the SCAAP program properly vests this burden with the Federal Government when undocumented aliens commit serious crimes within our communities.

It does so by providing Federal reimbursement funding to the States and county governments for the direct costs associated with incarcerating undocumented criminal aliens, who are convicted of felonies or multiple misdemeanors.

Increasingly, State and county governments from all across the country have made use of these funds over the years. In fact, in Fiscal Year 2002, the number of State and local governments seeking SCAAP funding jumped 25 percent from the previous fiscal year.

The combination of this increase, and the fact that all 50 States and the District of Columbia receive some funding from the program, suggests that no State is immune from the fiscal costs associated with crimes committed by illegal aliens.

Today most States are encountering their largest deficits in more than 60 years. Indeed, the fiscal consequences of illegal immigration have contributed to this challenge.

In Fiscal Year 2002, State and county governments incurred more than $13 billion in costs associated with incarcerating criminal illegal aliens. These costs are expected to grow over the next several years, given the new challenges of terrorism and our efforts to enhance security within our Nation's borders.

California's border counties are among the hardest hit in terms of dollars spent on incarceration, prosecution and court costs for those in the United States illegally. I am greatly concerned about the substantial burden these immigration-related costs impose on the criminal justice system on our local communities, especially given the limited tax base and fiscal resources State and local jurisdictions are working with today.

The SCAAP program is not in place to prevent crime, but to fulfill portion of the Federal Government's responsibility, so local governments can use their limited resources for their own responsibilities, such as funding jail enlargement or new homeland security ventures at the local level.

At a time when cash-strapped State and local governments are being asked to do even more to protect our homeland, we cannot afford to eliminate vital funding that already falls far short of what local governments spend to incarcerate undocumented criminal aliens. In previous years, Congress has appropriated between $500 million and $585 million for SCAAP to alleviate some of the fiscal burdens placed on the local criminal justice systems.

In Fiscal Year 2002, Congress appropriated $565 million for this important program. Unfortunately, the prolonged debate over Fiscal Year 2003 appropriations produced budgetary pressures that resulted in a 53-percent drop in SCAAP funding for FY 2003.

SCAAP payments have never matched the true costs to the States dealing with this problem, but they have nevertheless been critical additions to prison and jail budgets. They have also symbolized the Federal Government's obligation to pay for the results of its failed immigration strategies.

These are challenging times in our Nation's history. And, we want, to the best extent possible, our constituents to feel secure in their homes and in their communities.

At a time when the Nation is focused on enhancing security within our borders, our States, and our local communities, a vital program like SCAAP should not be vulnerable to being under-funded or eliminated altogether.

The control of illegal immigration is a Federal obligation and we owe it to our States and local communities to provide them with the crucial Federal assistance they need to continue doing their job.

Again, I wish to emphasize that while this amendment would put the Senate on record as supporting this initiative, the amendment is not binding and therefore, does not require any offsets.

Mr. NICKLES. Mr. President, I thank our colleagues for their cooperation and I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. DASCHLE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. DASCHLE. Mr. President, the caucus, for the information of our Democratic Senators, will be in the LBJ Room, our normal caucus room.

I have something else, though, that I want to share with my colleagues.

CONGRATULATING SENATOR PAUL SARBANES ON CASTING HIS 10,000TH VOTE

Mr. DASCHLE. Mr. President, at 3:45 this afternoon, our friend and colleague, PAUL SARBANES, joined what is truly one of the most exclusive clubs in the world. He cast his 10,000th vote as a United States Senator.

Of the 1,875 people ever to serve in the Senate, only 20 others have ever reached this remarkable milestone. Remarkably, eight of the 21 "10,000 vote" Senators are serving in this Senate.

In addition to Senator SARBANES, they include our friends JOE BIDEN, Senator BYRD, PETE DOMENICI, FRITZ HOLLINGS, DAN INOUE, TED KENNEDY and TED STEVENS. I'm proud to note that, at least in this very distinguished caucus, Democrats still have a majority.

Reaching this historic milestone is just the latest remarkable accomplishment in what has been, by anyone's standards, a remarkable American success story. PAUL SARBANES is the proud son of Greek immigrants. His parents, Spyros and Matina Sarbanes, emigrated from the same town in Greece, but met in America. The Sarbanes family owned a restaurant in Salisbury, MD. They gave it a quintessentially American name: The Mayflower Restaurant. PAUL worked in the restaurant, and he and his family lived above it.

He graduated from a public high school and won a scholarship to Princeton University.

He was a Rhodes Scholar at Oxford University. After Oxford, he came home and, in 1960, earned a law degree from Harvard. From Harvard, PAUL SARBANES went to the White House, one of the "best and brightest" who answered President Kennedy's call to public service. He worked as Administrative Assistant to Water Heller, chairman of President Kennedy's Council of Economic Advisors.

He won his first elected office in 1966, to the Maryland House of Delegates, where he served for 4 years. In 1970, the people of Maryland elected him to the House of Representatives. In 1976, he won his first election to the United States Senate. In November 2000, he won his fifth election to the Senate, making him the longest-serving Senator in Maryland's history.

It's been said that there are two kinds of Senators: those who are here to make headlines and those who are here to make history. PAUL SARBANES is one of the history makers. He is one of the most modest men I know. He is also one of the most intelligent. He was a voice of reason on both the White-water and Iran-Contra committees. It was his leadership and his refusal to accept defeat—more than anything—that enabled us, in the last Congress, to pass the most far-reaching corporate accountability reforms since the Securities and Exchange Commission was created 70 years ago.

The Sarbanes-Oxley reforms will help prevent the kinds of corporate abuses that have so damaged our economy and shaken people's faith in the economic markets these last few years. They will protect people's investments, and their economic futures.

I learned a Greek word from PAUL SARBANES: "idiotes." It is the Greek root for the English word "idiot." But it has a different meaning in Greek. It means "someone who takes no part in the affairs of his community." In the Sarbanes family, it was almost a curse.

PAUL SARBANES' parents taught him that serving one's nation is a noble calling. I know they would be proud of him. So are we. I congratulate my friend on casting his 10,000th vote in the Senate—and on his long and exemplary career. I look forward to seeing him cast a few thousand more votes.

Mr. President, I yield the floor and congratulate our colleague.

(Applause, Senators rising.)

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Maryland.

Mr. SARBANES. Mr. President, I thank our distinguished leader for his very kind comments about the 10,000 votes I have cast in the Senate. I must say, if we keep doing these vote-aramas, everyone can aspire to reaching this goal in short order.

Our very able leader was very kind and generous in his remarks. I appreciate them very much.

I wish to register my deep appreciation to the people of my State who sent me to the Senate now for my fifth term and, therefore, made it possible for me to be here exercising my judgment on important issues that come before us. I certainly hope that people, looking back over that record, will think there was some quality in those votes as well as quantity.

I thank my colleagues for their constant support and the ability to interact with them as we deal with important matters of public policy. Even though we sometimes differ, we support one another in a very unique and, to some, not understandable way. I am in my 27th year in the Senate, and I am pleased to be in the company of those who our leader enumerated that have also passed the 10,000 mark. I particularly want to acknowledge my respect for Senator BYRD, who I think has cast more votes than anyone who has ever served in the Senate, and continues to be an example to us all.

I also would be remiss if I did not thank my family, my wife in particular, for their strong support over these many years now. And finally, I would like to thank the many staff members who have served me so well for these past 27 years.

Again, I thank all of those who have been so gracious to me in extending their best wishes and congratulations. And, in particular, I thank our leader, Senator DASCHLE.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from New Mexico.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, while Senator SARBANES is still here, I want to congratulate him.

Mr. SARBANES. I appreciate that.

Mr. DOMENICI. I am on that list. I just want to tell you, 10,000 is just the beginning.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Oklahoma.

Mr. NICKLES. Mr. President, I wish to join our colleagues in congratulating Senator SARBANES on the milestone, and his accomplishments in the Senate.

DEMOCRATIC CAUCUS

Mr. REID. Mr. President, I announce we now have a Democratic caucus in the LBJ Room. If all Democratic Senators can move over there, it would be greatly appreciated.

Mr. CHAMBLISS. I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. DURBIN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. DURBIN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to speak as in morning business for 5 minutes.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. DURBIN. Mr. President, we are all following, on a moment-by-moment basis, the developments in Iraq and the sad reality that this war is upon us, but we also have the great feeling of support for our men and women in uniform.

I was notified today that one of the first casualties in the war was from my home State. His name is Ryan Beaupre from Saint Anne, IL, a 30-year-old Marine Corps captain who was a pilot on the helicopter that went down with eight British commandos and four marines, a wonderful young man by all reports from a good family who attended Bishop MacNamara High School in Kankakee and then Illinois Wesleyan and enlisted in the Marine Corps and served his country so well. I have called his family today. Of course, they are grief-stricken, as is everyone in the community.

A special tribute was given to him today at his old high school, and I am sure there will be many more. Our hearts go out to the Beaupre family and all of their friends at this great loss.

We are fortunate in this country to have young men and women like him, willing to volunteer and to risk their lives for their Nation. We should remember the cost of war and remember how much we owe those who will step forward to defend this Nation in time of need.

I hope, before this debate on the budget resolution is over, to ask my colleagues in the Senate to consider an amendment which I hope to offer. If someone asked you today how much combat pay do we pay to the marines and sailors and soldiers and airmen for fighting the war in Iraq, most Americans would not know the answer. But combat pay for our soldiers and those who are risking their lives now in Iraq is $5 a day—$5 a day—$150 a month. That is combat pay for those who are in active military, as well as those who are activated.

Also, you might be interested in knowing how much we pay the families when we separate people and send them off to war. What kind of monthly supplement do we provide for the families who now have someone important in their lives gone for a period of time and have to struggle to try to keep things together when it comes to child care and added responsibility and added expenses? How much do we give to these military families? About $3.30 a day; $100 a month.

The amendment I am going to offer to the budget resolution will raise those two amounts, not to what they truly deserve but to show that we have not forgotten that they need more, to $500 a month for combat pay, and $500 a month to families who are separated because of this war.

It is a small token. It should be much more. But I hope my colleagues will seriously consider that amendment. As we all feel so good and so strong about the contribution of the men and women in uniform, let us not forget they deserve a helping hand and the combat pay differential as well as the assistance to their families.

I yield the floor.

Mr. LIEBERMAN. Mr. President, I wish to elaborate on Amendment No. 277, which would provide an additional $16 billion next year to fund our urgent homeland security needs. Because of the failure of the Schumer amendment—which would have provided a substantial but smaller increase in homeland security funding next year—it is clear that my amendment will not carry the Senate. Nevertheless, I would like to set forth the following statement on the reasons behind my amendment and the urgency of dramatically increasing our investment in homeland security.

America has the greatest military in the world—as we are witnessing in Iraq today—and we have it because we pay for it. For generation after generation, presidents, members of Congress, and the American people have come together across partisan divides and every other conceivable divide to invest what's necessary in our military, and in the men and women in uniform who make our military what it is.

If we want the best domestic defenses, we'll have to pay for them, too. But consider this comparison. Under the resolution before us, between this year's and next year's budgets, defense spending would be increased by some $19 billion. I support that increase. But over the same period, this resolution would invest only $300 million more in improving our homeland defenses.

Why? One reason and one reason only: the President's unaffordable, unfair, and unfocused tax cuts are leaving no room for necessary investments. They're crowding out every other priority. It's bad enough that they haven't done anything to create jobs, to grow the economy, to expand the middle class. On top of that, they have raided the national cupboard.

There's little money left for urgent needs—not for healthcare, not for education, not for Social Security or homeland security. Little money left for smart tax cuts that will spur real growth and innovation. Little money left to keep down the deficit at a time when we're looking at $2 trillion in additional debt.

I urge my colleagues to stop and think about this for a second. The President's budget would have us spend about $100 billion next year alone on brand new tax cuts for those who need them least. $100 billion of our national treasure on unfocused, unaffordable and unfair tax cuts when we are at war against terrorism here at home, forced to marshal our strength to defend against a ruthless and unpredictable new enemy. And that's to say nothing of the cost of the war to disarm Iraq, the peace that will follow, or every other critical need facing our country from healthcare to education to Social Security.

For this administration and those who support this resolution, all of those needs are down the list. Those needs can wait. Those needs can suffer. As long as someone preserves the precious new tax cuts—which will do little if anything to create new jobs—they're happy.

That's crazy. It's irresponsible. And it's downright unfair to those who are working day and night to protect us, and who desperately need new resources to do their job well.

My father ran his own small store and, like any decent businessman, he understood that making a good living and paying the bills started with sound and honest budget planning. If he needed to put a new lock on the door, he would set aside some money to do it.

Those who run our government now don't seem to get it. They underestimate or hide serious expenses. They squander money when business is bad. They overestimate revenue. And they seem to think that our security will magically fund itself, rather than setting aside money for it, as my Dad would have.

It's time for this administration and those who back this resolution to show some economic common sense. It's time for them to let go of their pet tax cuts and dedicate some resources to our critical common needs.

This amendment would do that. Rather than giving homeland security short shrift by settling for a paltry $300 million increase, it would start to put real dollars where the danger is. After extensive study and consultation with experts, I've determined it will take $16 billion to start truly raising our guard in the next fiscal year. That's what this amendment would provide.

How will we pay for it? It's an important question—and unlike this administration, we'll answer it. Because we understand, as the American people understand, that we can't have it all. Leadership is about making tough choices—about tradeoffs.

So we propose paying for this new investment in homeland security by redirecting $32 billion in new tax cuts proposed by the President. Half of that money will go toward deficit reduction—to start digging ourselves and our children out of the ditch of debt in which we now find ourselves. And half of it will pay for urgent homeland security improvements.

Aren't those two common goals, both of which will broadly benefit the American people, a far, far better use of our precious resources than brand new unfocused, unaffordable, and ineffective tax cuts to those who need them least? The answer is obvious to me. I hope it's clear to others in this chamber as well.

Let me now talk about some of the critical security needs that this $16 billion would help us meet.

Our commitment needs to start with first responders, who are our frontline troops in this homefront war. In communities across the country, our firefighters, police officers, and emergency medical technicians are struggling for the funds they need to meet the new threats we face. It's time for us to give them the support they need and their jobs demand.

This budget resolution would provide virtually no new funding for our first responders. Virtually no new funding—at this time of unprecedented need and danger. That's unacceptable. There is equipment to buy. There are professionals to hire. There are people to train. All of that—like it or not—takes money.

This amendment provides for $10 billion in FY 04—$6.5 billion above the President's request—to help first responders prepare for and combat terrorism, including attacks involving weapons of mass destruction. Additionally, the amendment provides for $1 billion in FY 04 for firefighter grants, money that would be available to hire additional firefighters. This is the first installment of the SAFER Act—of which I am an enthusiastic supporter—which would provide more than $7.5 billion over 7 years to help communities hire badly needed new firefighters. Unlike in the President's proposed budget, I believe that new funds should not come at the expense of existing programs for first responders like the COPS program, the Local Law Enforcement Grants, or the Byrne Grant program.

Within this overall commitment, $4 billion should be dedicated to helping first responders obtain interoperable equipment—a vital challenge that has been estimated to cost $18 billion overall.

Nor should we wait for the FY 04 appropriations cycle to help our first responders. The recently-approved FY 03 omnibus spending bill comes up far short for first responders. We will need to seize every opportunity to fix that, and I am cosponsoring amendments today to ensure that this happens. I will fight also for more money for first responders in the supplemental appropriations process.

Our second critical unmet priority is shoring up port security—which my amendment would accomplish by committing a $2 billion investment above the pending resolution.

About 7 million containers arrive at these ports each year, yet only a tiny fraction are searched. This poses a risk not only at the ports, but also inland—as many of those containers travel many miles to their final destination without being searched.

Yet the administration's budget proposal and this budget resolution mostly ignore the physical security of our ports. The Coast Guard has estimated that it will cost $4.4 billion to improve basic physical security at the nation's ports, starting with close to $1 billion the first year. In addition, the Maritime Security Act mandates certain security measures without providing a funding mechanism. In an effort to jumpstart these vital improvements, this amendment provides $1.2 billion in port security grants for fiscal year 2004.

Because the ports themselves are a potential target, we do not want to wait until dangerous containers arrive to investigate. Rather, we must "push the borders back" and identify and inspect as much high-risk cargo as possible before it enters our harbors. The Customs Service has made some valuable strides in this direction through the Container Security Initiative. This program stations Customs officers at overseas ports to allow for inspection of some containers before they begin their voyage to the U.S. Yet the Administration is not expanding this valuable program as forcefully as circumstances require. President Bush has requested $62 million for this program in fiscal year 2004, a request that is echoed in this budget resolution. My amendment would provide an additional $100 million to allow for aggressive and effective expansion of this program, and for related initiatives to inspect and track containers as close as possible to their point of origin.

Moving beyond physical security, my amendment would enable the Coast Guard to step up its supervision of the ports and adjacent maritime areas. I believe we must accelerate efforts to recapitalize the Coast Guard fleet—specifically, to speed up implementation of the long-planned Deepwater Initiative to upgrade and integrate the Coast Guard's fleet and related communications equipment. The budget resolution before us, following the President's budget proposal, has proposed $500 million for this project in fiscal year 2004, which is only enough to complete the project in 20 years or longer—the timetable outlined before the September 11 attacks. Clearly, current circumstances call for greater urgency. This amendment would provide an additional $700 million, for a total of $1.2 billion in fiscal year 2004, to complete the Deepwater Initiative in closer to 10 years.

In addition to the port security initiatives I have outlined, we must strengthen other components of our border security. In particular, the amendment calls for an additional $1 billion in FY 04 to increase border personnel and to improve information technology systems for the border. On personnel, we must strengthen the presence of Customs and immigration inspectors and of Border Patrol agents in key areas. Indeed, some of these enhancements were mandated by the Patriot Act and the Border Security Act but have not been funded and filled to date. I would allocate additional funds to hire at least 2,000–3,000 new border personnel. With respect to technology, it is especially critical that we expedite implementation of the biometric document system as mandated by the Patriot Act and Border Security Act. The biometric document system will include biologically unique identifiers for immigrants, reducing the risk that immigrants will enter illegally or under an assumed identity. The budget resolution before us clearly has not allocated significant new resources to achieve this new system in the required timeframe, or anything close to it. The additional $1 billion in my amendment would allow us to make significant progress on these border security needs.

We must also invest more in transportation security by increasing funding $1.7 billion over the levels proposed by the administration and the pending budget resolution. As we saw tragically on September 11, 2001, terrorists can exploit weaknesses in our transportation networks to turn them into instruments of terror. The Transportation Security Administration, TSA, was created to confront that grim reality, but it cannot succeed without more support from the Administration and Congress.

The TSA has made its initial mark at our airports, overseeing passenger screening and requirements that baggage be screened for possible explosives. Now, the agency must build on that work by expanding rapidly to other transportation sectors. Unfortunately, the budget resolution before us allows for neither task. It would provide just $4.8 billion for TSA in FY 04, a 10 percent decrease from the Administration's FY03 request of $5.3B.

My amendment calls for $1.7 billion in additional resources to improve transportation security. Among other things, this would restore the Administration's proposed cut to the overall TSA budget, ensure the agency can continue to fulfill its existing missions, and enable the TSA to begin to expand its work beyond passenger airline security to other critical transportation needs including bridges, railways, tunnels, subways and buses.

In addition to this general increase, the amendment would invest an additional $500 million in FY 04 on freight and passenger rail security enhancements, based on legislation approved by the Commerce Committee last session, S. 1991. The bulk of that money would fund security improvements for Amtrak, such as protection of bridges, tunnels and key facilities. Amtrak would also receive money to help improve equipment for emergency communications equipment and other security needs, and to train personnel to detect and handle potential attacks. With respect to mass transit, the amendment would provide $500 million for grants to address urgent transit security needs, as identified by GAO, including communications systems, surveillance equipment and mobile command centers. Additionally, the amendment would call for $200 million in FY 04 for bus security grants, as outlined in legislation S. 1739 that won the endorsement last session of the Commerce Committee. These grants would enable carriers to improve passenger screening, training and communications, surveillance equipment and other security measures.

Next comes preparing ourselves for bioterror attacks and attacks using other weapons of mass destruction—which demands an investment in FY 04 of $3 billion above the pending resolution. Some of the most chilling scenarios posed by homeland security experts are those of a chemical, biological or radiological attack. We are depending on our public health network to help prepare for and respond to such an assault. Yet these health providers have not been given nearly enough resources to fulfill this role.

For example, despite the scope of the threat and our relative lack of preparedness, the resolution would invest just $940 million—flat funding—in CDC grants to help state public health departments care for and track infectious disease outbreaks. That's just not enough. My amendment would provide an additional $1 billion in FY 04—essentially double the proposed and existing funding level—to help these departments detect and cope with a bioterror attack. Among other things, this funding could help defray the costs of administering the Administration's smallpox vaccination program.

In the same vein, my amendment would double the federal appropriation for the Health Resources and Services Administration, which provides money to help hospitals increase capacity, training and supplies. These improvements are essential if our hospitals are to be prepared for a biological, chemical or radiological event, yet, again, President Bush has proposed flat funding for this program. Instead, we should increase this account by $500 million, for a total of about $1 billion.

It will mean little to prepare our health infrastructure, however, if they have no tools to employ—no detective or preventive measures, or countermeasures to administer after an attack. The budget resolution would provide some new funds to confront this challenge—such as the proposed Project Bioshield—but those proposals do not go far enough and are not targeted effectively enough to provide the jumpstart we need in this area.

My amendment would call for an additional $1.5 billion for bioterror and other key research and development countermeasures—particularly efforts to get research from “bench to bedside,” translating basic discoveries into usable products. I recommend that the money be available through the following entities: the Homeland Security Advanced Research Projects Agency, HSARPA, the National Bio-Weapons Defense Analysis Center and the Strategic National Stockpile. Increased funding of these three programs would permit adequate funding of promising countermeasures research, essential investigation of the underlying mechanism of biological threats, and procurement of needed medicines and vaccines to our defensive pharmaceutical arsenal. In addition, some of this money should be available to compensate health care workers who suffer ill effects from the smallpox vaccination program urged by the President.

The last but by no means least funding priority I want to address today is permanent protection of our critical infrastructure, which demands a half-billion increase over the pending budget resolution. Homeland security experts have increasingly highlighted the vulnerability of the nation's critical infrastructure as one of the most dangerous gaps in our homeland defenses. About 85 percent of these resources—which include such vital systems as energy distribution grids, chemical and nuclear plants, or financial networks—are in private hands, complicating the process for assuring adequate security.

The administration, and the resolution before us, seem content to continue studying the vulnerabilities of these systems. They have requested about $500 million for this process in FY 04. This would enable far too sluggish progress for such a vital task. My amendment calls for an additional $500 million in FY 04 to get these assessments done at once so that we can move to create action plans and conduct needed security enhancements at the earliest possible moment.

Halfway around the world, the American military and our allies are fighting to disarm a dictator who refused to give up his weapons for 12 long years. I believe our brave men and women in uniform will accomplish their mission—and that when they do, the world will be a safer place for peaceful people, and a worse place for terrorists and tyrants.

But here at home, to guard the land beneath our feet, other men and women in uniform are engaged in another front of the war against terrorism—and unlike the men and women of our armed forces, we have not given them all the support, the training, the technology, and the resources they need to succeed.

We owe it to our nation and ourselves to do better. On September 3, 1939, shortly after Britain declared war on Germany, Winston Churchill said, “Outside, the storms of war may blow and the lands may be lashed with the fury of its gales, but in our own hearts this Sunday morning there is peace. . . . Our consciences are at rest.”

Our consciences as Americans—and as parents to our children—will only rest when we demonstrate the leadership and invest the resources to counter the fury the terrorists seek to bring upon us. Protecting the American people in an age of terrorism demands strong leadership and enormous resources—and it demands them now.

I yield the floor.

Mr. ENSIGN. Mr. President, the significant budget challenges faced by our Federal Government demand that Congress develop proposals for sound economic growth, while also working to cut wasteful government spending. The Budget resolution before the Senate today goes a long way towards accomplishing that goal.

Even before 9/11, we know now that our current recession began in late 2000.

The attack on America on September 11, the necessary cost of the war on terrorism, and now the threat of a war with Iraq have led to a dramatic deterioration of tax revenues, huge spending increases, and the return to budget deficits.

Over the last 2 years, revenues to the Federal Government have fallen by nearly 9 percent. And spending grew by 12 percent over that same period.

Unfortunately, revenues continue to underperform in 2003.

Congress cannot ignore our struggling economy, and I believe that the resolution before the Senate today addresses many of our economic problems.

The committee-reported budget resolution increases deficits in the near-term in order to invest in the economy and fight the war on terrorism.

The resolution provides over $725 billion during the 10-year period from 2003 to 2013 to the Senate Finance Committee for economic growth and job creation.

This tax relief is designed to let American families keep more of the money they earn. Economic growth is more easily achieved in an atmosphere where more Americans are able to save and invest their money.

Tax relief provides economic growth, and when we draft legislation, we should understand not just the cost of tax relief to the federal budget, but also the benefits that tax relief provides to the economy and the long-term increase in revenues to the Federal Government that tax relief can provide.

The amount provided for this tax relief includes enough to accommodate the President's plans to accelerate the marriage penalty relief, increase the child tax credit, eliminate the double-taxation of dividends, and increase small business expensing limits.

Although I may not agree with all of it, I do believe the President's tax proposal, which we included in this budget, is an overall good plan for solid long-term economic growth.

As you know, Mr. President, the Budget Committee does not dictate tax policy changes. However, the committee resolution does provide enough money for specific growth proposals, but it will ultimately be up to the Finance Committee to write the policy.

I do agree with those who are concerned about budget deficits. The Budget before the Senate today does include 9 years of deficits. The deficits do grow smaller, and eventually go back to surplus in the out years.

I want to make it clear that I do not excuse the deficits, and I would love to put us immediately into surpluses in this fiscal year. I think it is important that Congress makes the return back to surpluses a top priority. And we are not going to do that by spending.

I also believe we must be realistic in the constraints that the events of the past two years have placed on our ability to balance the budget in the immediate fiscal year.

I have confidence that the fastest way we can get back to surpluses is by fixing the economy through policy changes that encourage economic growth, coupled with a reduction in wasteful government spending. Mr. President, unfortunately, as we all know, in Washington DC we do not actually cut spending.

The best we can hope to do is control the growth of spending.

As Ronald Reagan stated during his State of the Union address on January 25, 1984, “The problems we're overcoming are not the heritage of one person, party or even one generation. It's just the tendency of government to grow, for practices and programs to become the nearest thing to eternal life we'll ever see on this Earth. And there's always that well-intentioned chorus of voices saying, ‘With a little more power and a little more money, we could do so much for people.’”

President Reagan was right.

Once we establish a federal program, it develops a constituency and then it becomes impossible to cut. And we love to go home to our constituents and tell them about the money we brought home from Washington DC for our home state projects.

If the other side of the aisle is concerned about deficits, as they say they are, then they should join us in cutting out some of the wasteful spending in the Federal Government.

This resolution may not be the perfect blueprint to surpluses, but it makes a good start by providing both sound tax policy for economic growth, as well as a control in federal spending.

I hope that my colleagues will support this resolution today, and that we will make an effort to tighten up the purse strings around here, and start to work together during these difficult economic times to bring our budget back into balance.

Ms. CANTWELL. Mr. President, I rise today as a cosponsor of the Dorgan prescription drug amendment to the fiscal year 2004 budget resolution.

The fact is, when Medicare was designed in 1965, the system relied on inpatient hospitalization and seldom on outpatient services, preventive care, or patient drug therapies. At that time, prescription drugs only accounted for 4 percent of all personal health care expenditures.

But as we enter the 21st century, the cutting edge of health care has shifted. Every day, as new preventive and therapeutic drugs replace outdated inpatient procedures, Medicare falls further and further behind in providing basic care.

Medicare was written to cover the most basic health care for seniors. When the original bill passed, the legislation's conference report explicitly stated that the program was designed to provide adequate "medical aid . . . for needy people, and should "make the best of modern medicine more readily available to the aged."

Well, we are not making the best use of modern medicine when millions of seniors cannot afford the prescription drugs they need. Prescription drugs that had not even been developed when Medicare was enacted are now an essential aspect of basic health care. We owe it to our seniors to live up to Medicare's original mandate and provide them the best medical care.

Unfortunately, today, beneficiaries' current drug coverage options are often expensive and unreliable. And as a result, nearly 7 out of 10 Medicare beneficiaries lack decent, dependable coverage for their prescription drug needs, and more than one-third have no coverage at all. Prescription drug expenditures for the average senior in my home state of Washington are over $2,100 every year—over 122,000 of my seniors spend more than $4,000 a year.

On average, $1 out of every $5 of every Social Security check to Washington State's seniors is spent on prescription drugs. And seniors with the most serious illnesses spend nearly 40 percent of their Social Security check on prescription drugs.

Senator DORGAN's amendment would ensure a fair and adequately funded Medicare prescription drug benefit. The budget resolution, S. Con. Res. 23, currently reserves up to $400 billion for the Finance Committee to report legislation that strengthens and enhances Medicare, improves the access of beneficiaries under that program to prescription drugs, or promotes geographic equity payments.

This amendment would first increase the Medicare reserve fund by about $220 billion, for a total of $620 billion. The amendment also specifies that beneficiaries in traditional Medicare should receive a drug benefit equal to that of beneficiaries who enroll in private health plans.

The $400 billion that is proposed in the committee resolution for the Medicare reserve fund is not adequate to provide prescription drug coverage for all seniors, because this funding could be used for other Medicare "reforms"—leaving even less for prescription drugs.

The Dorgan amendment would ensure adequate funding for a reliable prescription drug benefit in Medicare for all beneficiaries. Seniors should not have to abandon traditional Medicare—and join an HMO or other private health plan—to receive the prescription drug coverage they need. The Dorgan amendment ensures fairness: all beneficiaries would have a prescription drug benefit without being forced into HMOs and other private health plans.

In addition to providing a comprehensive, affordable, and adequately funded prescription drug benefit for all Medicare beneficiaries, the amendment would be fiscally responsible by including language to decrease the deficit by $250 billion and reduce the proposed tax cut by roughly $400 billion.

As I visit senior citizen centers in my State of Washington and discuss a prescription drug benefit, my constituents repeatedly tell me the same thing: They want prescription drug coverage to be comprehensive, simple to administer, guaranteed, stable, and based on the very best medical technology. And most importantly, seniors do not want their prescription drug benefit run through an HMO or other private insurance company.

In fact, according to a June 2002 survey by the Kaiser Family Foundation and the Kennedy School of Government, 67 percent of American people believe we should expand Medicare to pay for part of prescription drugs, but only 26 percent say we should help seniors buy private insurance to pay for prescription drugs costs.

Seniors want a prescription drug benefit run through Medicare—a program they understand and upon which they depend. The Dorgan amendment would ensure that seniors have this choice.

Despite basic Federal standards included in Bush's Medicare Prescription Drug plan, a private delivery model means that insurers can vary premium costs, benefit design, and the availability of drug coverage across the country. They can create strict formularies that limit access to prescribed drugs and bar access to local pharmacies. That's too much flexibility in a program that is supposed to guarantee help for seniors.

The very basic issue here is that the private market will not cover such a high-risk population—especially a population at such risk for adverse selection. I don't want to see this benefit be a repeat of the Medicare+Choice program. And if the private insurance model hasn't worked for the full Medicare benefit, it certainly won't work for a single benefit where utilization is expected to be high.

For seniors who choose to remain in the traditional Medicare program, the Bush plan proposes a prescription drug discount card. The GAO estimates that the prescription drug discount cards will provide less than a $3.50 discount per prescription. However, the National Association of Chain Drugstores estimates that the average retail cost for an outpatient prescription drug in 2001 was $54.55.

Clearly, the prescription drug discount cards do not offer a viable prescription drug benefit for America's seniors. In addition, the low-income subsidy of $600 to supplement the prescription drug discount cards is a false promise of assistance for seniors, who spend an average of $2,317 on prescription drugs each year.

Seniors account for 12.6 percent of the general population—but a third of all prescription drug expenditures. And while prescriptions are expensive—in some cases, prohibitively so—these are the very same prescription drugs that keep people out of the hospital, out of the nursing home, and living vibrant and happy lives. And while it is difficult to quantify in economic terms, prescription drugs preserve health and eliminate unnecessary hospitalization—which is by far most expensive segment of the health care.

Americans are becoming increasingly reliant on more effective—and more complicated—drug therapies. Total health care spending in the United States will total more than $1.5 trillion this year, an increase of 8.6 percent over last year, according to a March report released by the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services.

Prescription drug expenditures are the fastest growing segment of the health care market—with spending on outpatient prescription drugs by Medicare beneficiaries alone increasing by 12 percent annually. CMS predicts that prescription drug expenditures will continue to increase faster than any other category of health care spending throughout the next ten years.

In 1970, drug expenditures in the United States were about $5.5 billion. Now, for Medicare beneficiaries alone, the CBO projects that total drug spending will grow from $95 billion in 2003 to $284 billion in 2013. This is a total of $1.8 trillion on prescription drug costs over the next ten years. Medicare beneficiaries alone will spend $1.8 trillion on prescription drugs over the next ten years.

But while we discuss the potential cost of a new benefit, we also need to discuss national priorities. I believe we can do a fair and adequately funded prescription drug benefit while living within our budget, and we can do so by having a clear vision for our country's priorities. One of my top priorities is getting a new prescription drug benefit to the Medicare beneficiaries in Washington State. But this may mean making other tough choices.

I strongly believe that we need to include a prescription drug benefit in the Medicare program and I will continue to fight to ensure that all Washingtonians have access to the prescription medications they need.

Ms. MIKULSKI. Mr. President, I rise in support of the Sarbanes-Jeffords-Mikulski-Graham water infrastructure amendment.

Our amendment is simple and straightforward: It adds $3 billion to the 2004 budget resolution for a total of $5.2 billion for water and sewer infrastructure in 2004. The amendment increases funding for EPA's Clean Water State Revolving Loan Fund from $1.35 billion to $3.2 billion, and increases funding for EPA's Drinking Water State Revolving Loan Fund from $850 million to $2 billion.

Our amendment is necessary for two reasons.

First, our Nation's communities are facing enormous needs in their efforts to provide clean and safe water. The need for better sewer and drinking water systems is much greater than what we put in the Federal checkbook each year. These needs have been studied and restudied and the needs are real and valid.

In April 2000, the Water Infrastructure Network reported that our Nation's water and wastewater systems will face a funding gap of $23 billion a year over the next 20 years. In November 2001, the general Accounting Office reported that cost range from $300 billion to $1 trillion over the next 20 years. In September 2002, the Environmental Protection Agency reported that demands for improved sewer and drinking water systems will outstrip current levels by $535 billion. And in November 2002, the Congressional Budget Office reported that water and sewer costs could average as much as $40 billion each year. The results are conclusive and the need is real and valid.

We are not putting enough funding in the Federal checkbook each year. The current level for water infrastructure is only $2.2 billion. We can't expect communities to comply with growing regulations like arsenic, radon, and new requirements related to security, to name just a few, without increased financial assistance.

If we don't help, the entire burden falls on local ratepayers. In many urban and rural low-income areas, rate increases are just not affordable. My hometown of Baltimore is facing a $1 billion cost in order to meet Federal regulations.

The second reason that this amendment is necessary is for job creation. The economy lost 300,000 jobs in February. Water infrastructure funding creates jobs. For every $1 billion we spend on water infrastructure, up to 40,000 jobs are created.

This amendment is a mini-stimulus package for three reasons:

First, it will create and sustain jobs. As I stated, for every $1 billion in SRF funding, about 40,000 jobs are created. Second, the amendment is temporary and targeted.

The amendment is a one-time, $3 billion increase of an existing program. It does not create a new bureaucracy.

Third, the amendment does not contribute to long-term deficits because the $3 billion is fully offset by reducing the tax cut.

This $3 billion increase for water infrastructure is less than one-half of 1 percent of the $726 billion tax cut in this budget resolution.

Mr. President, the Sarbanes-Jeffords-Mikulski-Graham amendment helps our communities by providing more funding for immediate water and sewer needs and by creating jobs.

I urge my colleagues to support the amendment.

Mr. SPECTER. Mr. President, I have sought recognition today to speak to a $2.8 billion amendment on behalf of Senator HARKIN, myself and others to increase the health function in this resolution. The amendment would add to the funding already included in the resolution for the National Institutes of Health, the Centers for Disease Control, and the Health Resources and Services Administration as well as other health programs. The amendment is offset by an across-the-board reduction in function 920. This reduction would not cut programs, but simply reduce administrative expenses, travel, and consulting services by .36 percent. This amendment would provide NIH with a $2.3 billion increase over the fiscal year 2003 appropriation.

As chairman of the Appropriations Subcommittee for Labor, Health and Human Services, Education and Related Agencies, I have said many times that the National Institutes of Health is the crown jewel of the Federal Government—perhaps the only jewel of the Federal Government. When I came to the Senate in 1981, NIH spending totaled $3.6 billion. The fiscal year 2003 omnibus appropriations bill contained $27.2 billion for the NIH which completed the doubling begun in fiscal year 1998. This money has been very well spent. The successes realized by this investment in NIH have spawned revolutionary advances in our knowledge and treatment for diseases such as cancer, Alzheimer's disease, Parkinson's disease, mental illnesses, diabetes, osteoporosis, heart disease, ALS, and many others. It is clear that Congress's commitment to the NIH is paying off. Now it is crucial that increased funding be continued in order to translate these advances into additional treatments and cures. Our investment has resulted in new generations of AIDS drugs which are reducing the presence of the AIDS virus in HIV-infected persons to nearly undetectable levels. Death rates from cancer have begun a steady decline. With the sequencing of the human genome, we will begin, over the next few years, to reap the benefits in many fields of research. And if scientists are correct, stem cell research could result in a veritable fountain of youth by replacing diseased or damaged cells. I anxiously await the results of all of these avenues of remarkable research. This is the time to seize the scientific opportunities that lie before us.

On May 21, 1997, the Senate passed a sense-of-the-Senate resolution stating that funding for the NIH should be doubled over 5 years. Regrettably, even though the resolution was passed by an overwhelming vote of 98 to nothing, the budget resolution contained a $100 million reduction for health programs. That prompted Senator HARKIN and myself to offer an amendment to the budget resolution to add $1.1 billion to carry out the expressed sense of the Senate to increase NIH funding. Unfortunately, our amendment was tabled by a vote of 63 to 37. We were extremely disappointed that, while the Senate had expressed its druthers on a resolution, it was simply unwilling to put up the actual dollars to accomplish this vital goal.

The following year, Senator HARKIN and I again introduced an amendment to the budget resolution which called for a $2 billion increase for the NIH. While we gained more support on this vote than in the previous year, our amendment was again tabled by a vote of 57-41. Not to be deterred, Senator HARKIN and I again went to work with our subcommittee and we were able to add an additional $2 billion to the NIH account for fiscal year 1999.

In fiscal year 2000, Senator HARKIN and I offered another amendment to the budget resolution to add $1.4 billion to the health accounts, over and above the $600 million increase which had already been provided by the Budget Committee. Despite this amendment's defeat by a vote of 47 to 52, we were able to provide a $2.3 billion increase for NIH in the fiscal year 2000 appropriations bill.

In fiscal year 2001, Senator HARKIN and I again offered an amendment to the budget resolution to increase funding for health programs by $1.6 billion. This amendment passed by a vote of 55 to 45. This victory brought the NIH increase to $2.7 billion for fiscal year 2001. However, after late night conference negotiations with the House, the funding for NIH was cut by $200 million below that amount.

In fiscal year 2002, the budget resolution once again fell short of the amount necessary to achieve the NIH doubling. Senator HARKIN and I, along with nine other Senators offered an amendment to add an additional $700 million to the resolution to achieve our goal. The vote was 96 to 4. The Senate Labor-HHS subcommittee reported a bill recommending $23.7 billion, an increase of $3.4 billion over the previous year's funding. But during conference negotiations with the House, we once again fell short by $410 million. That meant that in order to stay on a path to double NIH, we would need to provide an increase of $3.7 billion in the fiscal year 2003. The fiscal year 2003 omnibus appropriations bill contained the additional $3.7 billion, which achieves the doubling effort. We have fought long and hard to make the doubling of funding a reality, but until treatments and cures are found for the many maladies that continue to plague our society, we must continue our fight.

I, like millions of Americans, have benefited tremendously from the investment we have made in the National Institutes of Health and the amendment that we offer today will continue to carry forward the important research work of the world's premier medical research facility.

While the budget resolution assumes some increases in chronic disease, health statistics and HIV/AIDS, cuts in other CDC programs total over $300 million. This amendment would add $600 million to the amount already assumed in this resolution.

Several years ago, I visited the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention and was appalled at the deplorable conditions of the laboratories and buildings at the Atlanta campus. I found laboratory facilities with roofs that were leaking on high-technology equipment, equipment falling through rotted floors, and bathrooms that had been converted into labs and office space. The CDC, as the lead Federal agency responsible for promoting health and preventing and controlling disease, should have adequate facilities and equipment to carry out its mission. To address the facility and equipment needs, Senator HARKIN and I included $175 million in fiscal year 2001 to begin renovations on campus. In fiscal year 2002, we included $250 million and the same amount was appropriated in fiscal year 2003. The amount assumed in the budget resolution is inadequate to continue the construction work needed to make the CDC safe for workers and ensure that the next public health emergency will not overwhelm the current capacities of the CDC to respond to a biodefense attack or other illness. Additional dollars are also needed for prevention and health promotion programs such as immunization, tuberculosis, cancers and cardiovascular disease.

The budget resolution assumes a decrease of $785 million for the Health Resources and Services Administration. This amendment would add $400 million to restore some of the proposed cuts in health professions and provide for program increases in Ryan White AIDS, abstinence education and Children's Hospitals Graduate Medical Education.

The increases included in this amendment are essential if we are to continue to carry forward the important work at the world's premier medical research facility, ensure that the CDC has equipment and laboratories to confront any public health crisis that may occur, and provide the Health Resources and Services Administration with the dollars necessary to fund community health centers, train health care professionals, and confront the AIDS crisis.

I ask that you join Senator HARKIN and me in supporting the amendment.

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, I rise to address Senators LAUTENBERG and CORZINE'S proposed amendment to the budget resolution. Superfund and the cleanup of pollution sites should be an important concern to all of us. We must be concerned that our future generations are not jeopardized by past inactions. But this amendment has been offered in an inappropriate forum, at an inappropriate place, using an inappropriate procedural method and I have voted no. As chairman of the Finance Committee, we will be able to consider this issue under more appropriate circumstances.

Mr. DASCHLE. Mr. President, while our thoughts are with our troops, the business of Congress continues. And we need to approach our challenges at home with the same resolve and the same seriousness of purpose with which our sons and daughters are confronting the threat abroad. It is sadly ironic that at the very time when our service men and women are inspiring us with their courage in the face of danger, this budget runs and hides from one challenge after another while showering $1.4 trillion in tax breaks primarily to the most prosperous among us.

Month after month, more American families are suffering from the failure of this administration's irresponsible economic strategy. With the economy hemorrhaging jobs from every sector, an increasing number of Americans are losing faith that they will ever find a job. But with this budget, Republicans have turned their backs on the problems of American families. Instead of offering new ideas and new solutions, the administration continues to push a tired ideology that has turned our economy into a job-destroying machine. This budget will hang some $1.5 trillion of debt around the necks of our children. They will be paying for this mistake for decades to come. The President's own economists agree that these chronic deficits will raise interest rates, hold back our economy today, and rob opportunity from even more Americans.

And though all Americans' thoughts are with our Armed Forces today, I would ask that they take a moment to ask, why is this Republican Congress saddling our children with record-breaking deficits and massive debt? It is not to fund the war or the rebuilding of Iraq that will follow. It is not to protect our homeland. Republicans continue to shortchange the police and firefighters who need our help to prevent or respond to a terrorist attack in their own communities, and continue to oppose funding to better secure our borders, ports, and vulnerable infrastructure. It is not to get our economy moving again. Like the President's budget, the Republican resolution before us contains very little to immediately stimulate the economy. It is not to provide all of our seniors with a real Medicare prescription drug plan or strengthen Social Security for the coming generation of retirees. This plan starves Medicare and raids the Social Security surplus. It is not to come to the aid of States and local governments that are suffering the worst fiscal crisis in 50 years. This budget will place an even greater burden on our States. And it is not to build world-class schools so our children have the tools and skills they need to make the most of their own lives. While some schools around our country will be forced to shut their doors early this year due to budget cuts, the President's plan falls $10 billion short of his own promise to education.

This budget is not about meeting the challenges of the moment or the future. This budget is about one thing, and one thing only. More new tax breaks for the very wealthy at the expense of everyone else. At the expense of deep cuts in domestic priorities. At the expense of record deficits that will be imposed on our children and grandchildren.

Any other year, this budget would be seen as mean-spirited and divisive. Today it is shameful. Across the globe, on display for all the world to see, young men and women are risking their lives to secure the lives and liberty of others. And yet here in this Capitol, on display for the world to see, a Republican Congress is taking money out of the pockets of our own children. It is choosing not to provide the necessary resources to make our homeland more secure. It is choosing not to give States any help to deal with their mounting fiscal crisis. It is choosing not to keep its commitments on education. It is choosing not to provide needed health care and prescription drug coverage to our most ill and vulnerable. With all those challenges and needs, this Congress instead is choosing to give hundreds of billions in new tax breaks to the wealthiest among us.

Democrats are going to keep fighting to fund homeland security, provide a real Medicare prescription drug benefit; honor our commitment to our students and teachers; restore funding to make up for Republican cuts to national defense and veterans programs, and offer relief to our States and local governments. This is not a time to shrink from our responsibilities to one another. We need to meet the test of this demanding moment in our history. This Congress should be producing a budget that reflects the very best of our Nation, the spirit that our soldiers exemplify the spirit of honor, sacrifice, and duty in the service of a better future for us all.

Mr. FRIST. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that no later than 4 p.m. on Monday, the ranking member of the Budget Committee provide to the chairman a list of 40 amendments, and the chairman provide to the ranking member a list of no more than 40 amendments, which would then be in order to be offered to the budget resolution; I also ask unanimous consent that the Senate then resume consideration of the budget resolution at 9:30 a.m. on Tuesday and, at that time, it be in order for the majority leader or the Democratic leader or their designees to offer amendments from the respective list, and the Senate would then proceed to votes in relation to the amendments as provided for under the Budget Act, with 2 minutes for debate equally divided prior to the vote, with relevant second-degree amendments; provided that no later than 4 p.m. on Wednesday, March 26, the Senate proceed to a vote on passage of S. Con. Res. 23, with no intervening action or debate.

I further ask consent that immediately upon passage of the resolution, the Senate proceed to the consideration of H. Con. Res 95, the House budget resolution; further, all after the resolving clause be stricken and the text of S. Con. Res. 23, as amended, be inserted in lieu thereof, the resolution be adopted, and the Senate insist on its amendment, request a conference with the House, and the Chair then be authorized to appoint conferees on the part of the Senate.

Mr. DASCHLE. Mr. President, reserving the right to object, I want to thank all of our colleagues, especially colleagues on my side of the aisle who have a great deal of skepticism, I would say, about this particular proposal. I think it is equally clear that there is skepticism on both sides.

We have been through a good deal of debate over the last several days. I think we have made progress. This will accommodate adequate progress on both sides. I will say, as the majority leader and I have discussed on a few occasions, that this agreement requires a good deal of trust on both sides. We are trusting our Republican colleagues to work with us to accommodate the consideration of 40 amendments. They are trusting us that we will share with them those amendments, that we will be able to work through them, that they will have an opportunity to review them, and that we will complete our work at 4 o'clock.

So it does require cooperation and a level of trust that I hope will set a standard and example for other action we take later on. So I hope that our colleagues will continue to cooperate in the course of the next couple of days.

I have designated the ranking member of the Budget Committee and our extraordinary assistant Democratic leader. They have been tasked with the responsibility of determining these 40 amendments. So we will work over the weekend and we will, as this agreement requires, provide those amendments on Monday.

I appreciate very much the cooperation and the trust of the distinguished majority leader and the chairman of the Budget Committee. This certainly is the best way to accommodate the needs of both of our caucuses. I congratulate my colleagues for doing so.

Mr. FRIST. Mr. President, I will comment and then turn to the chairman of the Budget Committee. I want to briefly say this and close my remarks by expressing my appreciation to our caucus and to the chairman of the Budget Committee, and especially to the leadership on the other side of the aisle and the ranking member. As most people know, we have been negotiating and discussing in the last several hours how to bring to closure what we all know is a big challenge, given the number of amendments that we have before us.

We put our heads together and, after a lot of conversation and, as the Democratic leader said, basing a lot of what we are setting out to do over the next several days on trust, came up with an agreement that is not perfect on either side, but it is the best we can do to give some finite closure to this challenge.

In addition, we have had a very good week. It is late on a Friday night and our colleagues have worked very hard. Indeed, we had very good and productive discussions. We have done a number of amendments. I congratulate the ranking member and chairman in bringing those to the floor and having good debate today.

In addition to that, the resolution we agreed to sent a very important signal to our troops, our military, and our Commander in Chief: our gratitude, respect, and support.

So we have actually accomplished a lot this week. We were unable to fulfill what I had initially hoped, and that was to pass the budget resolution by late tonight. But given the fact that at this hour we still have many outstanding amendments, I am very pleased with the agreement. I thank the leadership and the chairman and ranking member.

Mr. NICKLES. If the leader will yield, I have a couple of comments. One, I appreciate the cooperation of the leader and Senator DASCHLE and Senator REID and Senator CONRAD. But just for the information of our colleagues, we are going to have a very tough couple of days, a lot of work to do on Tuesday and Wednesday. I urge our colleagues to be ready to go. I think the order called for us going into session at 9:30 Tuesday morning.

Today, we worked long and hard. We had about 15 rollcall votes, and I believe we accepted probably another 15 amendments, counting the last 7. It is going to be very challenging work. So I urge our colleagues to be notified of the fact that they need to be here at 9:30 Tuesday morning and expect a long day—a lot of votes on Tuesday and a lot of votes on Wednesday. It is going to take the cooperation of all Members for us to meet this ambitious goal. It will not be easy and it probably won't be very pretty. Hopefully, we will be successful in meeting our objectives. There is nothing in the unanimous consent agreement saying we have to agree to 40 amendments?

Mr. DASCHLE. No; we tried that, Mr. President.

Mr. NICKLES. I just wanted to make sure.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection? The Senator from North Dakota.

Mr. CONRAD. Mr. President, first of all, the leaders have indicated there has to be trust on both sides. The chairman of the committee has shown himself to be trustworthy in these long, difficult negotiations this whole week. We had instances last night where I had to make a decision that could have disadvantaged our side and did it because that was keeping a promise. The chairman of the committee had to make a decision today that could have disadvantaged his side, but he did it to keep faith with the commitment that he made.

I want colleagues on our side to know the chairman of the committee has repeatedly demonstrated trustworthiness. That is important to the functioning of this body. We are going to have to really work together very closely to resolve these matters.

Let me say in conclusion to our colleagues on this side, we have 135 amendments pending. We only have 40 spots. That means Senators are going to have to give up what is their right to offer amendments. That is the most precious right any Senator has. So we understand why they guard that right with real fervor at times. But I hope people understand there is no way we can fit 135 into 40. It is going to take restraint, and it is going to take trust.

I think together over these next days we will demonstrate we are worthy of this body we serve and this country we love.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection? Without objection, it is so ordered. The majority leader.

Mr. FRIST. Mr. President, in wrap-up a little bit later tonight, we will be more specific, but for our colleagues, on Monday we will not be having votes, but we will be in session. We will talk about the day. We will not be voting on Monday. We need to have everybody here on time Tuesday because we will be voting in a vote-athon, as we have come to call it, starting early in the morning. We want people to make plans accordingly.

I yield the floor and suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. FRIST. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

MORNING BUSINESS

Mr. FRIST. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the Senate proceed to a period for morning business.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

ACTIONS CONSISTENT WITH THE WAR POWERS RESOLUTION

Mr. STEVENS. Mr. President, as President pro tempore, I send to the desk a letter received from the President of the United States wherein he informs the Congress of his comments concerning his actions consistent with the War Powers Resolution, Public Law 107-40. I ask unanimous consent it be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

THE WHITE HOUSE,
Washington, March 20, 2003.

Hon. TED STEVENS,
President pro tempore of the Senate, Washington, DC.

DEAR MR. PRESIDENT: On September 24, 2001, I reported the deployment of various combat-equipped and combat support forces to a number of locations in the Central and Pacific Command areas of operation. On October 9, 2001, I reported the beginning of combat action in Afghanistan against terrorists and their Taliban supporters. In my reports to the Congress of March 20 and September 20, 2002, I provided supplemental information on the deployment of combat-equipped and combat support forces to a number of foreign nations in the Central and Pacific Command areas of operations and other areas. As a part of my efforts to keep the Congress informed, I am reporting further on United States' efforts in the global war on terrorism.

Our efforts in Afghanistan have met with success, but as I have stated in my previous reports, the U.S. campaign against terrorism will be lengthy. To date, U.S. Armed Forces, with the assistance of numerous coalition partners, have executed a superb campaign to eliminate the primary source of support to the terrorists who viciously attacked our Nation on September 11, 2001. The heart of al-Qaida's training capability has been seriously degraded. The Taliban's ability to brutalize the Afghan people and to harbor and support terrorists has been virtually eliminated. Pockets of al-Qaida and Taliban forces remain a threat to U.S. and coalition forces and to the Afghan government. What is left of both the Taliban and the al-Qaida fighters is being pursued actively and engaged by U.S. and coalition forces. Additionally, training missions and combat operations with Pakistani special forces are ongoing near the Afghan/Pakistan border.

Due to our success in Afghanistan, we have detained hundreds of al-Qaida and Taliban fighters who are believed to pose a continuing threat to the United States and its interests. The combat-equipped and combat support forces deployed to Naval Base, Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, in the Southern Command area of operations since January 2002, continue to conduct secure detention operations. We currently hold more than 600 enemy combatants at Guantanamo Bay. All are being treated humanely and, to the extent appropriate and consistent with military necessity, in a manner consistent with the principles of the Geneva Conventions of 1949.

In furtherance of our worldwide efforts against terrorists who pose a continuing and imminent threat to the United States, our friends and allies, and our forces abroad, we continue operations in other areas around the globe. Our relationship with the Government and Armed Forces of the Philippines (AFP) developed and matured throughout 2002. Last year's actions from February to July 2002 on Basilan Island, with AFP in command and with U.S. forces in a support role, helped to drive hundreds of Abu Sayyaf Group terrorists from the island, restoring order and reestablishing government services. To ensure that the AFP has the skills to fight terrorism over the long term, we have a robust security assistance training program and a variety of exercises that will provide the AFP much needed counter-terrorism training and equipment. There are approximately 300 combat-equipped and combat support U.S. military personnel working with the AFP and U.S. forces continue to plan with the AFP for possible future activities. Continued U.S. support is warranted as the Government of the Philippines has provided unwavering support in the global war on terrorism.

Additionally, we continue to conduct maritime interception operations on the high seas in the Central and European Command areas of responsibility to prevent the movement, arming, or financing of international terrorists who pose a continuing threat to the United States.

Combat-equipped and combat support forces also have been deployed to Georgia and Yemen to assist the armed forces of those countries in enhancing their counter-terrorism capabilities, including by training and equipping their armed forces. Similar U.S. forces have deployed to Djibouti to command and control operations and other activities as necessary against al-Qaida and other international terrorists in the Horn of Africa region. These activities include providing oversight for urban and maritime counter-terrorism training with the Yemen special operations forces. We continue to assess options for working with other nations to assist them in this respect.

I have taken these actions pursuant to my constitutional authority to conduct U.S. foreign relations and as Commander in Chief and Chief Executive. In addition, these actions are consistent with Pub. L. 107-40. As I stated in my previous reports, it is not possible to know at this time either the duration of combat operations or the scope and duration of the deployment of U.S. Armed Forces necessary to counter the terrorist threat to the United States. I will direct additional measures as necessary to exercise our right to self-defense and to protect U.S. citizens and interests. Such measures may include short notice deployments of special operations and other forces for sensitive operations in various locations throughout the world.

I am providing this report as part of my efforts to keep the Congress informed, consistent with the War Powers Resolution and Pub. L. 107-40. Officials of my Administration and I have been communicating regularly with the leadership and other Members of Congress, and we will continue to do so. I appreciate the continuing support of the Congress in our efforts to protect the security of the United States of America and its citizens, civilian and military, here and abroad.

Sincerely,

GEORGE W. BUSH.

TRIBUTES TO DR. LLOYD JOHN OGILVIE

Mr. NICKLES. Mr. President, I would like to take this opportunity to express my gratitude to Dr. Lloyd Ogilvie, who served as our Chaplain in the Senate since 1995.

Dr. Ogilvie has been an outstanding Chaplain to the Senate. He is a person I think all of us have grown to know and love and appreciate. He has been our mentor, our companion, our friend, our brother, and our Chaplain.

He has provided great leadership, great prayers. He has prayed for us many times, and not just in his official capacity as Chaplain of the Senate. He has prayed for us individually as Members. He has prayed for our families. He has been with us through a lot of difficult times, challenging times, exciting times.

We want him and his family to know they are very much in our thoughts and prayers. His wife Mary Jane is a lovely lady. And she has experienced some very challenging physical tribulations of late. We want both Dr. Ogilvie and his wife Mary Jane to know they are in our thoughts and our prayers.

We certainly miss him as our Chaplain. He has been kind enough to not only meet with us in the morning and lead us in prayer, but he has met with many of us on a weekly basis—Members of the Senate and also our staffs, and also other people who work in the Senate.

He has been a great mentor and friend. We are certainly going to miss him as our Chaplain of the Senate.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Alabama.

Mr. SESSIONS. Mr. President, I, too, would like to share a few comments about our Chaplain, Lloyd Ogilvie. I had the honor to get to know him after I came here. We live near one another. We see each other on a regular basis. My wife and Mary Jane are friends, as we are with Lloyd Ogilvie.

He is an extraordinary individual, one of the most educated people I have had the honor to know. He has written over 40 books. His book "One Quiet Moment", a devotional, I believe, is the finest devotional book I have ever seen. Reading those devotions, and thinking about them, is so current in time today while also so consistent with the great traditions of faith that it is really remarkable.

It is a special work he created there.

During his entire ministry, he was successful, whether in Hollywood, CA or in Illinois or here as chaplain. Our prayers are with Mary Jane, his wife. She is suffering substantially now. We worry about her. We care about her. Our prayers are with her. She has such a fighting spirit. She is a champion of life and of the good things of life. She speaks her mind and she has great values. They are a tremendous team.

I, too, join with others in expressing my appreciation for what he means to me, my appreciation for what he does for others in the Senate, including our staff members for whom he has ministered and for whom he has represented an outstanding example of the richest kind of Christian faith.

We have been blessed by having him here. We certainly will miss him. I will miss him.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from New Mexico.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, I wish to comment a moment on our Chaplain who is leaving us.

I vividly recall when our previous Chaplain indicated he was not going to serve us any longer. Many of us thought it would be impossible to replace him. I was in a small group—I don't remember if it was three or five Senators—who were given the job of going out and looking in America for another Chaplain. Senator STEVENS was a member, I recall. So was Senator Mark Hatfield. I don't recall the others.

There were a lot of people. I was not so sure that Lloyd Ogilvie, based on the things he had done in his life—he was a great preacher; he had large assemblies of Christians he spoke to in the California area. I did not believe, as one, that he would necessarily fit in, but I said: Let's try him.

He preaches with a beautiful voice; he sounds almost like you would expect God to sound. He came, and he has been absolutely marvelous. Everybody here has learned to grow in faith and confidence having him around.

It is too bad he has to leave, but he is a very loyal man in terms of his marriage and his wife. I think her illness takes him to join her. I hope she gets well, although she has been very critical and he sees fit to be present there with her.

So we all say good-bye and good luck. Whomever he serves and whomever he shares his views with as to where we came from, where we are going to go when we finish here on Earth, and our value system, I am sure they will all benefit, just as we have.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from North Dakota.

Mr. CONRAD. Mr. President, let me add my voice in commendation of Lloyd Ogilvie. He has been superb as the religious leader of this body.

Several years ago, my chief of staff died suddenly and unexpectedly. I called Dr. Ogilvie on very short notice and asked him to come and lead my staff in prayer and remembrance. I will never forget the extraordinary job, the extraordinary sensitivity that Dr. Ogilvie brought to that task. I will never forget the way he made my staff feel better in a very acute time of loss.

Dr. Ogilvie has been a remarkable friend to us all; he has done a superb job of leading us in prayer, and been a counselor to so many in the Senate family. We are going to miss him very much, and certainly miss the presence of Mary Jane as well.

I thank the Chair.

Mr. ENSIGN. Mr. President, I thank the Senator from Oklahoma for talking about our chaplain. Lloyd Ogilvie was very influential in the very short time I knew him these last 2 years. A lot of people around the country don't know him, but he provided a very valuable service to the country by being the spiritual foundation not for just Senators but for the entire Senate family.

Because Lloyd Ogilvie had a television ministry, I was very skeptical about who this Senate chaplain was when I first came here a little over 2 years ago. He leads Bible studies. He leads prayer groups. He leads times to get together for people. Regardless of faith, whether somebody was Muslim, Jewish or a follower of Jesus, Lloyd John Ogilvie was there for us in the truest sense of the word.

He knew what was going on in individual people's lives. If somebody was suffering, he knew about it because people trusted him enough to bring him into their confidence. As we have seen over the last couple years, he was there when the Senate was suffering as a family. He would come and comfort us, and he would lead us from a spiritual sense. I have come to greatly admire this man.

One of his sayings was quoted in an article I read that helped inspire me to run for Congress back in 1994. The saying was: You may only be able to make a small difference, but that does not relieve you of the responsibility to make that small difference.

People say you can't change the world, so why try. That quote by Lloyd John Ogilvie tells us of the responsibility we have. Whatever small difference you can make, that is what you are called to make.

This man, who I believe at the end of his days will come before the Father in heaven, the Father in heaven will put his hand on his head and he will say to Lloyd John Ogilvie: Well done, good and faithful servant.

Each of us in the Senate family look to Lloyd John Ogilvie and say to him: Thank you. He has truly been a good and faithful servant. My prayers go out to him and Mary Jane. She is suffering tremendously. All of us together have been joining in prayer to relieve her suffering. It has been a terrible thing to watch them go through. Even through this terrible suffering, we have seen the strength of Lloyd and Mary Jane. They have been a comfort to us even through this time of trial.

I thank both of them for their service to this country and to the Senate family.

Mr. CHAMBLISS. Mr. President, let me add my appreciation to Dr. Lloyd Ogilvie for his terrific service to this great institution. I have been a Member here for not even 3 months now. Lloyd Ogilvie has added such great inspiration to my life. It has been a joy to get to know him and to have the opportunity to listen to him, to learn from him in our Bible study, to share our Wednesday morning prayer breakfast with him, and to have some private time with him. It has been a real joy, a privilege, and something that truly got my career in the Senate started in the right way.

We are all here truly by the grace of God. There is nobody who understands the grace of God and is able to express it better than Lloyd Ogilvie.

My wife is a very strong Christian, and the highlight of her week, when she is able to be up here, is the Tuesday Bible study that the spouses attend. Dr. Ogilvie exhibits that same inspiration to the spouses as he does to us.

We will miss this guy. He is such a great man, a great spiritual leader, and a great American. What he and Mary Jane have been through over the last couple of years is an inspiration to all of us. It lets us know that good men suffer just like everybody else in the world, and Lloyd Ogilvie and Mary Jane have been through very difficult times.

God has a place for all of us, and God truly has placed Lloyd and Mary Jane in the right place at the right time by sending him to the Senate.

I told Lloyd this in the last Bible study he led last week. The first time I met him I was not a Member of the Senate. I was a Member of the House, and I attended the funeral of my close friend and Georgia colleague, Senator Paul Coverdell. It was in a Methodist church in Atlanta. When they said that Dr. Lloyd Ogilvie, who I knew was a Presbyterian minister, was going to have the service, I said: Who is this guy? Why is he coming down to do my friend Paul's service?

I told him the other day, I said: It didn't take but one sentence out of your mouth, Lloyd, to understand why you are where you are, that God had truly placed you in the right position. And what a terrific job he did for the Coverdell family and all of us at a very difficult time in the life of my State, the life of me personally, and certainly the life of the Coverdell family at that point in time.

We obviously will keep Lloyd and Mary Jane in our thoughts and prayers every single day as they continue to go through difficult times. Mary Jane had a better day the other day. And when it was reported at the prayer breakfast on Wednesday morning, you could just see the light in the room brighten because we knew that Mary Jane was feeling better, which meant Lloyd was feeling better, which meant all of us were feeling better.

We do cherish the moments we have with Lloyd. We thank him for his great service to our country and to this great institution. We wish him and Mary Jane Godspeed. They will continue to be in our prayers every single day.

Mr. SANTORUM. Mr. President, I rise today to honor and thank Chaplain Ogilvie for his service and devotion to the entire Senate family over the past 8 years. Dr. Lloyd John Ogilvie has been the Chamber's spiritual leader since the 104th Congress, having been nominated to the Chaplaincy by Majority Leader Robert Dole in 1995, the same year I joined the United States Senate. Throughout his tenure here, he has fulfilled his role as "an intercessor, trusted prayer partner, and faithful counselor" with the commitment, compassion, and comforting grace of a learned and sincere man of God. There are many among us in the Senate who have sought his wisdom and found solace in his council and friendship.

In addition to listening to his beautiful prayers at the commencement of each legislative session, I have been a regular participant in his weekly Bible study groups. Like many of my colleagues, I have watched Dr. Ogilvie execute his office with a great joy for the work he does and a deep respect for the moral difficulties we often face as the Nation's lawmakers. In times both of celebration and distress, Chaplain Ogilvie always did more than make himself available to the thousands of Senate members, staff, and employees; he reached out to our community and brought us together, inviting all faiths and all kinds to be a part of the family. Throughout the tragic events of September 11, 2001, and in the confusing, frightening time that followed, we witnessed Dr. Ogilvie's amazing capacity for calming and focusing our thoughts, encouraging their expression, and reminding us of the strength we possess when we put our faith in God.

Chaplain Ogilvie has been a particularly important figure in my private and professional lives. We pray together daily and frequently discuss questions of ethics, religion, and law. But he has also shared in the personal experiences and sorrows that my own family has undergone. Prayerfully guiding me and my wife through the loss of our son, Gabriel, Dr. Ogilvie's reassuring words and his friendship were an invaluable source of peace for us then, as they continue to be now.

I have much admiration for Lloyd John Ogilvie, and am grateful to him, for leading us all by the example of his life. As he relinquishes the Senate Chaplaincy and returns to California and to his wife, he reminds us that our most important responsibilities are always to our families and loved ones, and through them, to God.

Thank you, Lloyd, for showing us where the right path leads, for serving the Senate and our Lord faithfully, and for helping the Senate family to weather our personal and collective difficulties. Your guidance and your companionship will be greatly missed.

Mr. HAGEL. Mr. President, we will all miss our dear friend Dr. Lloyd J. Ogilvie. His distinguished service to the Senate has been an important part of this institution during this historic time. Since he was appointed Senate Chaplain in 1995, Dr. Ogilvie has offered guidance, support, and prayers to Senators, their staffs, and our families. He has greatly enhanced the Office of Senate Chaplain that was instituted at the Senate's first meeting in 1789.

Dr. Ogilvie's ministry has been a ballast and a bridge for Senators on both sides of the aisle. His spiritual leadership has been strong. His service has been selfless. As he takes up his work outside of the Senate, Lilibet and I wish to express our profound gratitude for the inspiration and wisdom he has shared with so many of us. We cherish our friendship with Lloyd and Mary Jane. May God bless both of them.

Mr. KYL. Mr. President, Rev. Lloyd Ogilvie came to the Senate when I did in 1995. He and I became good friends. Lloyd has meant more to me than I can express. He has been a friend and spiritual advisor to my colleagues and many, many staff members and employees of the Senate. Democrats and Republicans, men and women of many different religious faiths, could always call on him.

He has been a focal point of the Senate family. On September 11, and every day since, his ability to share the power of his faith in God has been all the more invaluable to me and to others. He is eloquent and learned. He's done a wonderful job, opening every session with prayer, leading Bible study, helping us to understand Scripture and ourselves.

For the good of this institution he has worked with us to realize, in the words of John Witherspoon, "the dominion of Providence over the passions of men." Obviously that is pretty important here in the Senate, where we are frequently at loggerheads. Reverend Ogilvie, by lifting our sights to the world of the spirit, has been a soothing presence.

We did not want to lose him; but we know it was necessary to be with his wife Mary Jane in California. We understand; and, since he is going to continue his prolific speaking, teaching, and writing, we also know we won't lose touch with him.

The entire Senate family is better for the service of this influential servant of God. Lloyd and Mary Jane, Godspeed.

Mrs. DOLE. Mr. President, I rise tonight to express by great admiration and appreciation for Dr. Lloyd Ogilvie, a man who has served the Senate, and our country, with great dignity and honor.

Bob and I have treasured our friendship with Lloyd and Mary Jane through many years. I feel blessed to know such a warm, compassionate and caring couple. They share a beautiful partnership and just last year celebrated 50 years of marriage and three wonderful children, Scott, Heather and Andrew.

Mary Jane has long been admired for setting such a strong example of what it means to give of yourself. After battling breast cancer 20 years ago, she has done so much to help other women going through the pain—physical, emotional and spiritual—of cancer and cancer treatment. My thoughts and prayers are continually with Mary Jane and her family now, at this very difficult time in her life and theirs.

Lloyd Ogilvie is an extraordinary man of God. He has served amongst us with such a gentle and humble spirit, that sometimes it has been easy to forget what a world-renown spiritual guide and Biblical scholar we have had in our midst. As a profound preacher, as well as an author and editor of over 40 books, Lloyd Ogilvie is admired the world over for his depth of insight into eternal truths and for his ability to communicate those truths in a Godhorning and loving spirit. It has been our special blessing to have had this wise, dear man of God as our personal friend and advisor, standing with us here in the Senate Chamber or meeting with us just down the hall.

The first in his family to attend college, Lloyd Ogilvie's plan was to study drama, hoping to go to Hollywood. He answered a call to preach instead, but still ended up in Hollywood—pastoring the First Presbyterian Church.

After 23 years at First Presbyterian, Dr. Ogilvie answered another call—and became the 61st Chaplain of the Senate. Recommended by a bipartisan committee, he was nominated by then-Majority Leader Bob Dole and he began his duties March 13, 1995. He bridged Dole to Dole—and during his time in the Senate he has also bridged many differences, counseling and caring for both sides of the aisle.

With that deep, booming voice of his, which we have come to so easily recognize and love, Lloyd has opened our days in prayer. Day after day, he has steadied our hearths and pointed our thoughts Heavenward. And I believe, as a result, he has helped us to render service to our Nation and to our God with a deeper sense of perspective and stewardship.

From this first days as Chaplain, Dr. Ogilvie reached out in so many ways—one of which impacted my life—a weekly Bible study for Senate spouses. And one of the things I will miss most is the Senators' Bible Study he has led every Thursday at noon during my first 10 weeks in the U.S. Senate.

Lloyd has seen all of us here in the Senate family as his parish. He will be deeply missed by the hundreds of Senate staffers, cafeteria workers, police officers, and service department personnel whom he has inspired to deeper faith and commitment.

Lloyd's love of Christ, and his love of others in Christ's name, have been evident through his life, and his ministry amongst us, each and every day. There is a remarkable, caring spirit about Lloyd Ogilvie, a special attentiveness in his demeanor. Lloyd has a wonderful capacity for kindness and compassion. He has been a valued teacher and counselor to so many. He has been there at our side, when we or our family members have faced turmoil. And he has ministered among us when our Nation has faced special challenges.

Each one of us is constantly in need of God's grace and guidance not only to make the big decisions, but also to perform life's routine duties with the love for others, the peace, the joy inherent in God's call. Lloyd Ogilvie has helped bring that grace and guidance to the Senate. His gift, and his passion, is helping others not only to understand God's will, but to resolve to live within God's will each and every day.

Although Lloyd Ogilvie is leaving the Senate, I am comforted in knowing that he will still be praying for the people of the Senate. Through his continued friendship, and his writings, he will be a treasured resource for spiritual guidance.

As former chaplains of distinction Peter Marshall and Richard Halverson continue to impact this historic Chamber, so, too, will Lloyd John Ogilvie.

LOCAL LAW ENFORCEMENT ACT OF 2001

Mr. SMITH. Mr. President, I rise today to speak about the need for hate crimes legislation. In the last Congress Senator KENNEDY and I introduced the Local Law Enforcement Act, a bill that would add new categories to current hate crimes law, sending a signal that violence of any kind is unacceptable in our society.

I would like to describe a terrible crime that occurred on September 14, 2001 in Tulsa, OK. A food store employee of Middle-Eastern descent was attacked while leaving his apartment. Three people jumped on him, knocked him down, covered his eyes, and beat him. After addressing him with an expletive, the men threatened, "We are going to cut you like you cut our people." Before his eyes were covered, he saw that one of the attackers had a knife-like object. The victim was hospitalized and treated for multiple lacerations.

I believe that Government's first duty is to defend its citizens, to defend them against the harms that come out of hate. The Local Law Enforcement Enhancement Act is a symbol that can become substance. I believe that by passing this legislation and changing current law, we can change hearts and minds as well.

Mr. INHOFE. Mr. President, March 23 marks the 20th anniversary of President Reagan's historic address to the Nation in which he launched the program known as the Strategic Defense Initiative, SDI, designed to help protect America and our allies from ballistic missile attack.

I would like to commemorate this occasion by placing a copy of President Reagan's remarks into the RECORD at this time.

With each passing year, we see more clearly the wisdom of President Reagan's vision. The spread of technology relating to ballistic missiles and weapons of mass destruction has grown enormously in 20 years. Since September 11, 2001—and now as we are engaged in military operations to disarm IRAQ—more people have become aware of the growing threats we face from missile attack.

When President Reagan spoke in 1983, he said it might take "decades" before reliable missile defense was a reality. And he was right. As he well knew, it was not only the technical and engineering hurdles that stood in the way, but also the formidable political obstacles.

During the Clinton years, the outdated ABM Treaty was enshrined as the "cornerstone of strategic stability," SDI was essentially scrapped, and, in 1996, the Congress's determination to build a missile defense system by 2003 was vetoed.

But George W. Bush dramatically changed the political climate and has taken a different course—a course in keeping with President Reagan's commitment. In 2001, he wisely announced U.S. withdrawal from the ABM Treaty, and in 2002, he announced that we would move to deploy the first elements, sea-based and land based for a real missile defense system capable of protecting U.S. cities from long-range missile attacks.

I applaud President Bush for his steadfast commitment to America's national security and to fulfilling President Reagan's vision. The bold actions he is taking are moving us forward to the actual deployment of a missile defense capability that will serve our country for many years to come.

I ask unanimous consent to have President Reagan's speech printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

ADDRESS TO THE NATION ON NATIONAL SECURITY BY PRESIDENT RONALD REAGAN—
MARCH 23, 1983

The calls for cutting back the defense budget come in nice, simple arithmetic. They're the same kind of talk that led the democracies to neglect their defenses in the 1930's and invited the tragedy of World War II. We must not let that grim chapter of history repeat itself through apathy or neglect.

This is why I'm speaking to you tonight—to urge you to tell your Senators and Congressmen that you know we must continue to restore our military strength. If we stop in midstream, we will send a signal of decline, of lessened will, to friends and adversaries alike. Free people must voluntarily, through open debate and democratic means, meet the challenge that totalitarians pose by compulsion. It's up to us, in our time, to choose and choose wisely between the hard but necessary task of preserving peace and freedom and the temptation to ignore our duty and blindly hope for the best while the enemies of freedom grow stronger day by day.

The solution is well within our grasp. But to reach it, there is simply no alternative but to continue this year, in this budget, to provide the resources we need to preserve the peace and guarantee our freedom.

Now, thus far tonight I've shared with you my thoughts on the problems of national security we must face together. My predecessors in the Oval Office have appeared before you on other occasions to describe the threat posed by Soviet power and have proposed steps to address that threat. But since the advent of nuclear weapons, those steps have been increasingly directed toward deterrence of aggression through the promise of retaliation.

This approach to stability through offensive threat has worked. We and our allies have succeeded in preventing nuclear war for more than three decades. In recent months, however, my advisers, including in particular the Joint Chiefs of Staff, have underscored the necessity to break out of a future that relies solely on offensive retaliation for our security.

Over the course of these discussions, I've become more and more deeply convinced that the human spirit must be capable of rising above dealing with other nations and human beings by threatening their existence. Feeling this way, I believe we must thoroughly examine every opportunity for reducing tensions and for introducing greater stability into the strategic calculus on both sides.

One of the most important contributions we can make is, of course, to lower the level of all arms, and particularly nuclear arms. We're engaged right now in several negotiations with the Soviet Union to bring about a mutual reduction of weapons. I will report to you a week from tomorrow my thoughts on that score. But let me just say, I'm totally committed to this course.

If the Soviet Union will join with us in our effort to achieve major arms reduction, we will have succeeded in stabilizing the nuclear balance. Nevertheless, it will still be necessary to rely on the specter of retaliation, on mutual threat. And that's a sad commentary on the human condition. Wouldn't it be better to save lives than to avenge them? Are we not capable of demonstrating our peaceful intentions by applying all our abilities and our ingenuity to achieving a truly lasting stability? I think we are. Indeed, we must.

After careful consultation with my advisers, including the Joint Chiefs of Staff, I believe there is a way. Let me share with you a vision of the future which offers hope. It is that we embark on a program to counter the awesome Soviet missile threat with measures that are defensive. Let us turn to the very strengths in technology that spawned our great industrial base and that have given us the quality of life we enjoy today.

What if free people could live secure in the knowledge that their security did not rest upon the threat of instant U.S. retaliation to deter a Soviet attack, that we could intercept and destroy strategic ballistic missiles before they reached our own soil or that of our allies?

I know this is a formidable, technical task, one that may not be accomplished before the end of this century. Yet, current technology has attained a level of sophistication where it's reasonable for us to begin this effort. It will take years, probably decades of effort on many fronts. There will be failures and setbacks, just as there will be successes and breakthroughs. And as we proceed, we must remain constant in preserving the nuclear deterrent and maintaining a solid capability for flexible response. But isn't it worth every investment necessary to free the world from the threat of nuclear war? We know it is.

In the meantime, we will continue to pursue real reductions in nuclear arms, negotiating from a position of strength that can be ensured only by modernizing our strategic forces. At the same time, we must take steps to reduce the risk of a conventional military conflict escalating to nuclear war by improving our nonnuclear capabilities.

America does possess—now—the technologies to attain very significant improvements in the effectiveness of our conventional, nonnuclear forces. Proceeding boldly with these new technologies, we can significantly reduce any incentive that the Soviet Union may have to threaten attack against the United States or its allies.

As we pursue our goal of defensive technologies, we recognize that our allies rely upon our strategic offensive power to deter attacks against them. Their vital interests and ours are inextricably linked. Their safety and ours are one. And on change in technology can or will alter that reality. We must and shall continue to honor our commitments.

I clearly recognize that defensive systems have limitations and raise certain problems and ambiguities. If paired with offensive systems, they can be viewed as fostering an aggressive policy, and no one wants that. But with these considerations firmly in mind, I call upon the scientific community in our country, those who gave us nuclear weapons, to turn their great talents now to the cause of mankind and world peace, to give us the means of rendering these nuclear weapons impotent and obsolete.

Tonight, consistent with our obligations of the ABM treaty and recognizing the need for closer consultation with our allies, I'm taking an important first step. I am directing a comprehensive and intensive effort to define a long-term research and development program to begin to achieve our ultimate goal of eliminating the threat posed by strategic nuclear missiles. This could pave the way for arms control measures to eliminate the weapons themselves. We seek neither military superiority nor political advantage. Our only purpose—one all people share—is to search for ways to reduce the danger of nuclear war.

My fellow Americans, tonight we're launching an effort which holds the promise of changing the course of human history. There will be risks, and results take time. But I believe we can do it. As we cross this threshold, I ask for your prayers and your support.

Thank you, good night, and God bless you.

CHINA AIRLINES PURCHASE FROM BOEING

Ms. CANTRELL. Mr. President, I come to the floor today to commemorate the purchase of 10 Boeing 747-400's acquired by China Airlines.

The relationship between Boeing and Taiwan's China Airlines has been extensive. Over the last 7 years, China Airlines has purchased a total of 97 American-made aircraft from Boeing. The acquisition of these 10 planes, which value $2 billion, brings the total amount of the airline's Boeing-purchased aircraft to $13 billion.

Sales between Boeing and China Airlines have contributed to increased trade between the United States and Taiwan over the last decade. In these past years, bilateral trade has grown each year by an average of 4.1 percent. Because of this thriving market, the United States has become Taiwan's largest export market. In 2000, the United States accounted for 20 percent of Taiwan's trade worldwide.

In addition, the aircraft have allowed increased domestic flights between Taiwan and the United States. Every week there are over 270 flights—179 passenger and 89 cargo—between our two countries.

I am very pleased to see that Taiwan has become one of our more beneficial trading partners in the world today, and I hope that this market continues to thrive for years to come.

A MICHIGAN MOM

Mr. LEVIN. I want to bring to the attention of my colleagues Ms. Shikha Hamilton, a board member of the Million Mom March from my home State of Michigan. Ms. Hamilton visited my office last month with her fellow board members to report on their successes and to urge us to pass sensible gun safety legislation to stem the tide of gun violence that plagues many of our communities.

Ms. Hamilton currently serves as the president of the MMM Chapter in Detroit. A rash of gun violence in Detroit over the last year has claimed the lives of 26 children; these incidents highlight the challenge gun violence poses for communities in protecting families. Ms. Hamilton is one person who has stepped up and met that challenge. She has helped form a coalition with other Detroit violence prevention groups, organized a huge march on Belle Isle, and helped create public service announcements to air on local radio stations. Ms. Hamilton is a leader in her community and I commend her for her work.

As Detroit chapter president, Ms. Hamilton testified in support of a local ordinance prohibiting weapons in public buildings. It unanimously passed the Detroit City Council on November 13, 2002. Her chapter also persuaded the Detroit Free Press and Detroit News to close the "newspaper loophole." The newspapers agreed to stop the placement of gun sales in the classified ads, one way criminals had been gaining access to guns without background checks. In addition to all of this, Ms. Hamilton is a full-time attorney, wife and the mother of a 4-year-old daughter.

In the meeting with my staff, Ms. Hamilton and her MMM colleagues mentioned several pieces of gun safety legislation that are critical if we are to reduce gun violence. Among the most important is legislation closing the gun show loophole. In 1994, Congress passed the Brady Law, which requires federal firearm licensees to perform criminal background checks on gun buyers. However, a loophole in this law allows unlicensed private gun sellers to sell firearms at gun shows without conducting a background check.

The Gun Show Background Check Act would close this loophole in the law by extending the Brady law background check requirement to all sellers of firearms including those at gun shows. I cosponsored this bill because I believe it is critical that we do all we can to prevent guns from getting into the hands of criminals and terrorists. Study after study has demonstrated that the Brady law has been successful in making it more difficult for criminals to gain access to firearms, and by closing the gun show loophole, Congress would again demonstrate its commitment to public safety. I urge my colleagues to support this bill.

Ms. Hamilton is doing her best to reduce gun violence in her community. We should do our best to pass sensible laws to make her job easier.

COMMENDING U.S. ARMED FORCES

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, last night the President addressed the Nation to announce that coalition forces were in the early stages of military operations to disarm Iraq, to free its people, and to defend the world from grave danger.

This action was taken as a last resort against an evil dictator, Saddam Hussein, who for 12 years has continued to defy and evade his commitments and responsibilities set out for him by 17 United Nations Security Council resolutions.

I believe Saddam Hussein must be disarmed, and for this reason I supported the resolution authorizing the President to take military action if diplomatic efforts were unsuccessful.

And, while some Members of this body did not support the authorization for the use of force back in October, I am confident that we here, Republicans and Democrats, stand united in our support for our uniformed personnel now in harm's way.

During the past few weeks and months, I have seen and heard communities all across my State send off, with tearful eyes, their sons and daughters, husbands and wives, and moms and dads who have been called to serve.

These brave men and women, from Decorah to Muscatine, Red Oak, to Mason City, Pocahontas to Davenport, stood proud while high school bands played the "Star Spangled Banner," and local religious leaders prayed for their safe return.

Over 3,700 Reserve and National Guard troops in Iowa have been called up for active duty. They come from all professions and all economic backgrounds.

I commend them, and all those serving in the U.S. Armed Forces, for their courage, bravery and patriotism. I am grateful for the enormous sacrifice made by these men and women and their families. I could not be more honored by their commitment to freedom, and I will continue to pray for their quick and safe return home to their loved ones.

HONORING WESTERN KENTUCKY UNIVERSITY MEN'S BASKETBALL TEAM

● Mr. BUNNING. Mr. President, today I rise to honor the Western Kentucky University men's basketball team for their success on the court this season.

The Hilltoppers, led by Coach Dennis Felton, overcame injuries and illness, to finish the season at 24-8 and earn a trip to the NCAA tournament. They are a deep, veteran team with plenty of skills and NCAA experience. The Hilltoppers also had a great scoring balance, with five players averaging at least 9.8 points a game.

The Hilltoppers earned an automatic bid to the NCAA tournament with a 64-52 victory over Middle Tennessee in the Sun Belt Conference tournament championship. This makes Coach Felton the first coach in WKU's history to lead the Hilltoppers to three consecutive Sun Belt and NCAA tournament appearances. Unfortunately, the Hilltoppers were unable to carry on their winning momentum against the University of Illinois, losing to the Fighting Illini in a valiant effort the first round of the NCAA tournament.

Overall, the Western Kentucky University Hilltoppers had a very successful and productive season. They overcame numerous hurdles to win the Sun Belt Conference Tournament championship and earn their 19th invitation to the NCAA tournament. They worked as a team all year to prove their dedication and skill and showed that they have the hearts of champions. I applaud Coach Felton and his players for all that they accomplished this season and I wish them further victories.●

The PRESIDING OFFICER laid before the Senate the following message from the President of the United States, together with an accompanying report; which was referred to the Committee on Banking, Housing, and Urban Affairs:

To the Congress of the United States:

STATEMENTS ON INTRODUCED BILLS AND JOINT RESOLUTIONS

By Ms. CANTWELL (for herself and Mrs. MURRAY):

S. 681. A bill to provide for the enhanced protection of electricity consumers under the Federal Power Act; to the Committee on Energy and Natural Resources.

Ms. CANTWELL. Mr. President, I rise today to introduce the Electricity Market Manipulation Prevention Act—legislation I believe is critical in ensuring our Nation's consumers will never again have to suffer from the type of energy price manipulation that has so devastated the economy of my home State of Washington. This bill is simple yet powerful in concept. In essence, it requires the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission to do its job—protect consumers from energy price manipulation.

This bill says that where FERC gives companies the authority to charge market-based wholesale electricity rates, the Commission must also actively ensure that effective competition—the only kind of competition that benefits consumers and businesses—actually exists. It says that if FERC finds that an entity has attempted to manipulate power markets, the Commission will revoke or modify the company's ability to sell power at market-based rates, and the company will be on the hook to pay back revenues in excess of the average regional cost of generating the power. And lastly, it says that FERC will not be allowed to change the legal standard for reviewing whether consumers deserve relief from market manipulation.

I first want to make a very important point about this legislation. In large part, it does not expand FERC's existing authority under the Federal Power Act. It simply articulates more explicitly how Congress intends for FERC to exercise its existing authority.

Now why is this an important point? As many of my colleagues may know, FERC—under sections 205 and 206 of the Federal Power Act—is already given the responsibility of ensuring just and reasonable wholesale electricity rates, and fixing those rates when market activity has gone awry. So why do we need clarification? Because despite overwhelming and undisputed evidence that any number of energy companies—Enron and its ilk—engaged in activities designed to manipulate power markets in the west, FERC has to date failed to take action on behalf of consumers.

While prices started skyrocketing out of control during the summer of 2000, it took the Commission nearly a year to step in and reign in those prices throughout the west. The provisions of this legislation that require FERC to perform annual reviews of how well markets are functioning would help ensure the Commission's active oversight, and prevent the type of price gouging from which consumers and businesses in my state continue to suffer.

While the Commission did finally step in to cap prices—under intense congressional pressure, I might add—it has, almost 2 years later, failed to decisively act on the billions of dollars' worth of refund and long-term contract complaints resulting from the crisis. What's more, the Commission's Administrative Law Judges have taken every opportunity to throw additional hurdles in the path of the Northwest consumers, who have suffered more than any as a result of California's ill-fated restructuring scheme. That's why this legislation specifically articulates what legal standard should apply to the Commission's review of complaints for relief.

Even in the face of admitted market manipulation—in the most brazen of cases, where Enron has described its own schemes to drive up prices and Reliant's transcripts quote company traders explicitly voicing their plans to drive up prices throughout the west by withholding power—FERC has, more than two years later, failed to use all the tools at its disposal to send a message that such activities will not be tolerated, levying fines that are clearly inadequate compared to the economic devastation these activities have caused.

This bill makes the remedies for market manipulation far more transparent, doing away with the multiple years of arcane proceedings in which we are currently embroiled. The protracted cases resulting from the western energy crisis have yet to benefit anyone—certainly neither the industry nor consumers—except, perhaps, for energy attorneys.

This legislation tells energy companies that if they are going to attempt to manipulate markets, there will be harsh and immediate consequences. It says that if the commission finds that an entity has attempted to gouge consumers, it will revoke or revise its market-based rate authority, set a just and reasonable rate going forward, and order the refund of revenues collected above the average wholesale generation cost within the relevant regional power market. Concrete, explicit consequences—commensurate with the level of damage caused by marketplace shenanigans—should provide a powerful disincentive for companies tempted to engage in the types of behavior that have crippled the economy of Washington and other western states.

Now, I can already hear the outcry from some—but not all sectors—of the energy industry. They will claim that putting concrete remedies on the books—transparent mechanisms for consumer relief, and tangible penalties for companies that endeavor to gouge consumers—will breed too much uncertainty for participants in energy markets.

To those who would make that argument, I would simply say, it is absolutely absurd to suggest that energy companies can't make money unless they retain their legal rights to rip off the ratepayers of this country. Ensuring that FERC—which is supposed to be, in Chairman Pat Wood's own words, "the tough cop on the beat"—takes swift and decisive action when energy companies attempt to manipulate markets is an issue of simple fairness and common sense. After all, it is our Nation's ratepayers—residential and industrial customers alike—who pay the price for FERC's inaction, and FERC is the only cop on the beat.

I have stood on this floor many times to speak of the economic train wreck created in my state by FERC's inaction in the face of the western energy crisis, which we now know resulted in large part from bad actors who decided to take advantage of a near-historic drought and tragically flawed market rules in California. Today, retail rates in many parts of my State of Washington have risen almost 50 percent, our unemployment is consistently among the top five in the nation, the demand for low-income energy assistance is at record levels, we are struggling to stave off yet another regional rate increase, and there is no end in sight—unless FERC takes long-overdue action.

This bill sends a clear signal to FERC: we expect you to right the wrongs from which consumers throughout the west continue to suffer, and we expect you to use your authority to ensure a repeat of the western energy crisis never occurs. There is no other competitively traded commodity aside from electricity—soy beans, wheat, pork bellies, metals—for which a prolonged price run-up can single-handedly cripple industries as diverse as aluminum smelting, microchip manufacturing, irrigated agriculture, paper production or aerospace. Clearly, the economic stakes are exceptionally high when it comes to electricity, and as such, Congress must demand a greater degree of accountability from both the industry itself and those who regulate it.

With this bill, we make Congress' intent perfectly clear: FERC must protect consumers; there will be swift and decisive action against those who endeavor to manipulate markets; and the deck will not be stacked against the consumers and businesses who are the victim of Enron-like schemes.

By Mr. DOMENICI (for himself, Ms. CANTWELL, Mrs. MURRAY, and Mr. BINGAMAN):

S. 682. A bill to authorize funding for Genomes to Life Research and Development at the Department of Energy for fiscal years 2004 through 2008; to the Committee on Energy and Natural Resources.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, I rise to introduce the Genomes to Life Research and Development Act. I appreciate the bipartisan sponsors, Senator CANTWELL, Senator MURRAY and Senator BINGAMAN who join me in its introduction.

In the last 2 years, there have been many events celebrating the completion of maps of the human genome. The genome map has been lauded from many quarters, with some referring to it as the "recipe for life," our "genetic fingerprint," or the "holy grail of biology." There can be no question that the work of the DOE, the NIH, and private industry to complete this map has ushered in a new frontier in biological research.

I had the tremendous pleasure and honor of being the first legislator to recognize the importance of human genomics. It was at a March 1986 conference in Sante Fe, NM, led by Charles DeLisi and David Smith, that the first proposal for the DOE Human Genome Initiative was developed. And it was in 1987 that I introduced the legislation that laid the foundation for the Human Genome project. Senator Chiles worked with me in this effort, and both the Labor and Energy Committees had important roles in advancing the project.

The first year of appropriated funding was fiscal year 1988, with $11 million for the DOE and $17 million for the NIH. Since then, in completing the map, over $3 billion has been invested. I firmly believe that history will view that investment as one that truly changed medical and health sciences for all mankind.

I have found it amusing to review some of the arguments against the genome project in those early days. It was labeled as a "mindless factory project," or "a scheme for unemployed bombmakers." One well known researcher said, "The Idea is gathering momentum. I shiver at the thought."

Now there's only praise for the future of this endeavor. I particularly value an autographed copy of the original genome map that was presented to me in February of 2001 by Craig Venter, president of Celera Genomics, with the inscription "Your vision went beyond the parochial objections of the few and the doubts of the many, we all owe you our thanks."

But even as we can see today that the benefits to mankind from the genome project will be immense, we also are nowhere near the point of fully utilizing the treasure trove of information in these maps. Today, we do not understand how details of genome sequence influence medical conditions. In short, we have a map, but aren't quite sure exactly how that map corresponds to reality.

With this bill, we authorize a new DOE program, Genomes to Life. Along with companion measures in the NIH, this DOE program will seek to interpret this wonderful new map and really begin to use it. Through these programs, we will begin to understand how our own DNA sequence, as expressed in our own genome map, translates into a collection of interacting proteins that function as our own personal molecular machine.

The intellectual challenges in this new initiative are immense. They require public support for the basic and applied research and development. There must be significant advances in areas like characterization of multi-protein complexes and gene regulatory networks that will be required before biologically based solutions and technologies will be available for applications to DOE missions.

New instruments will be essential in the Genomes to Life research. These may be instruments that haven't been invented yet. Specialized facilities will be required to advance the field and realize its promise. This bill envisions these facilities being built as user facilities, using the model that the Department already successfully uses for many facilities in diverse areas of science.

With the Genomes to Life program, and its companion programs at the NIH, we'll finally be in a position to understand how genomic information can be used to benefit mankind. From the NIH side, we will be far better equipped to understand many diseases. We may have drugs designed for specific genetic profiles, drugs may be screened for adverse interactions, and side effects of drugs may be predicted and avoided.

From the DOE side of the program, we may have biological approaches to hydrogen production or carbon sequestration. We may have new alternatives for detection and mitigation of biological threats. We may have new biological tools to handle complex cleanup issued at DOE sites.

This Bill lays the foundation for this new Genomes to Life program, and I encourage its support.

I ask unanimous consent that the text of the bill be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the bill was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

S. 682

Be it enacted by the Senate and the House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

This Act may be cited as "The Genomes to Life Research and Development Act".

SEC. 2. FINDINGS.

The Congress finds the following:

(1) The Department of Energy's Genomes to Life initiative involves the emerging fields of systems biology and proteomics, which address the ability to understand the composition and function of the biochemical networks and pathways that carry out the essential processes of living organisms.

(2) The Genomes to Life initiative builds on the Department of Energy's integral role in the Human Genome Project, which has led to the mapping, sequencing and identification of genetic material. Genomes to Life will go beyond mapping to develop an understanding of how genetic components interact to perform cellular activities vital to life.

(3) The ability of the United States to respond to the national security, energy and environmental challenges of the 21st century will be driven by science and technology. An integrated and predictive understanding of biological systems will enable the United States to develop new technologies related to the detection of biological and chemical agents, energy production, carbon sequestration, bioremediation and other Department of Energy statutory missions. These advances will also enhance the strength of U.S. science, technology, and medicine generally.

(4) The fundamental intellectual challenges inherent in the Genomes to Life initiative are considerable, and require public support for basic and applied research and development. Significant advances in areas such as the characterization of multiprotein complexes and gene regulatory networks will be required before biologically-based solutions and technologies will be useful in national security applications, as well as to the energy, medical and agricultural industries.

(5) The development of new scientific instruments will also be required to advance Genomes to Life research. Such instruments are likely to be large and costly. Specialized facilities are also likely to be required in order to advance the field and to realize its promise. Such facilities will be sufficiently expensive that they will have to be located and constructed on a centralized basis, similar to a number of unique facilities already managed by the Department of Energy.

(6) Contributions from individual researchers as well as multidisciplinary research teams will be required to advance systems biology and proteomics.

(7) The Department of Energy's Office of Science is well suited to manage systems biology and proteomics research for the Department. Through its support of research and development pursuant to the Department's statutory authorities, the Office of Science is the principal federal supporter of the research and development in the physical and computational sciences. The Office is also a significant source of federal support for research in genomics and the life sciences. The Office supports research and development by individual investigators and multidisciplinary teams, and manages special user facilities that serve investigators in both university and industry.

Ms. CANTWELL. Mr. President, I rise today to introduce—along with my colleagues Chairman DOMENICI, and Senators BINGAMAN and MURRAY—the Genomes to Life Research and Development Act.

This bill capitalizes on the enormous success of the Human Genome Project, and promises to take this important research to the next level. While the mapping of the human genome is an unparalleled accomplishment on its own, this new initiative will allow researchers to go beyond the science of description, and begin to explore the complex interactions of the elements within cells.

It is those intracellular dynamics that truly hold the key to finding solutions to some of our most difficult scientific problems—from detection of biological and chemical agents and nuclear waste clean-up to figuring out new and more efficient ways to produce hydrogen, so crucial in attaining energy independence for this Nation. Where the Human Genome Project has provided researchers with the range and description of musical notes, Genomes to Life will enable scientists to begin to understand the way these notes are arranged to produce music—the essential process of life.

The Genomes to Life Act sets out an aggressive path for DOE, to make this area a high priority for the Office of Science. Of course, none of this would be possible without the successes of the Human Genome Project, and I want to acknowledge the vision of this legislation's other sponsor, Chairman DOMENICI, in making that a reality. As some of my colleagues may be aware, the senior Senator from New Mexico laid the foundation for the Human Genome Project with legislation he first introduced in 1987.

I am thus extremely pleased to be working with him on this bill, which I believe is the Human Genome Project's logical successor. Our legislation would authorize the Department of Energy to design and establish national research centers to investigate proteomics and genomics. Proteomics refers to the study of proteins, how they are modified, when and where they are expressed, how they are involved in metabolic pathways, and how they interact with each other. Genomics refers to the study of three-dimensional structures of thousands of proteins—all of the proteins produced by a species.

These are exciting research fields that combine the discipline of physics, chemistry, biology, engineering, and advanced computational and mathematical modeling. The Department of Energy's Office of Science has a long history of success in large scale, cross-discipline scientific research and is thus well suited to manage this program. In addition, a significant component of the Human Genome Project has been the transfer of technology to the private sector, which has in turn catalyzed the multi-billion dollar U.S. biotechnology industry and fostered the development of new medical applications.

The Genomes to Life Act that Chairman DOMENICI, Senators BINGAMAN, MURRAY and I are introducing today provides a coordinated and comprehensive plan for the next generation of biotechnology research facilities. The functions and dynamics of all living cells are determined by the complex interactions of the constituent proteins. We do not yet understand these interactions, but the Genomes to Life Act will give us the best tools to investigate these microscopic mysteries. Put in simple terms, teams of American scientists will try to answer the fundamental question, “How do cells work?” This bill will ensure that state of the art facilities, leading edge equipment, and the next generation of computers are available to map and model these complex interactions, as we strive to answer this critical question.

The promise of biotechnology research is especially important to my state of Washington—home to many world-class research facilities. Washington has over 190 biotechnology companies employing more than 11,000 people. In 2001, the annual revenue of these companies exceeded $1.2 billion. Nearly one half of these companies were based on technologies developed at research and development institutions and over 40 percent of the companies have been established in the past six years.

This legislation's provisions—ensuring that research with its origins at the Department of Energy provides the science and technology basis for new industries in biotechnology, and that DOE continues to identify appropriate commercial applications—will help this important economic sector continue to grow in Washington state and across the country.

The Genomes to Life Research and Development Act that Sens. DOMENICI, BINGAMAN, MURRAY and I have introduced today will strengthen our national security and our national economy. Additionally, the integrative and predicative understanding of biological systems will improve our ability to respond to the energy and environmental challenges of the 21st century. The Genomes to Life laboratories will attract top researchers and push the envelope of present technologies. The Genomes to Life Act will help the U.S. to maintain our premiere position in the world in the fields of science and technology.

I look forward to working with my colleagues during this session to ensure passage of this legislation. I believe that the United States must continue to invest in scientific research to maintain our standing in the world and I am confident that this short-term investment will pay long-term dividends to our health, our security, and to our economy.

By Mr. FEINGOLD:

S. 683. A bill to amend the Family and Medical Leave Act of 1993 to provide entitlement to leave to eligible employees whose spouse, son, daughter, or parent is a member of the Armed Forces serving on active duty in support of a contingency operation or notified of an impending call or order to active duty in support of a contingency operation; to the Committee on Health, Education, Labor, and Pensions.

Mr. FEINGOLD. Mr. President, today I am introducing legislation to bring a small measure of relief to the families of our brave military personnel who are being deployed for the ongoing fight against terrorism, the war in Iraq, and other missions around the country and around the world.

The men and women of our Armed Forces undertake enormous sacrifices in their service to our country. They spend time away from home and from their families in different parts of the country and different parts of the world, and, too often, are placed into harm's way in order to protect the American people and our way of life. We owe them a huge debt of gratitude for their dedicated service.

The ongoing deployments for the fight against terrorism and for the campaign in Iraq are turning upside down the lives of thousands of active duty, National Guard, and Reserve personnel and their families as they seek to do their duty to their country and honor their commitments to their families, and, in the case of the reserve components, to their employers as well. As of March 29, more than 212,000 National Guard and Reserve personnel were on active duty, and thousands more can expect to be activated in the coming days and weeks.

Some of my constituents are facing the latest in a series of multiple activations and deployments for family members who serve our country in the military. Others are seeing their loved ones off on their first deployment. All of these families share in the worry and concern about what awaits their relatives and hope, as we do, for their swift and safe return.

Our men and women in uniform face these challenges without complaint. But we should do more to help them and their families with the many things that preparing to be deployed.

Often, military personnel and their families are given only a couple of days' notice that their units will be deployed. These dedicated men and women then have only a very limited amount of time to get their lives in order. For members of the National Guard and Reserve, this includes telling their employers that they will be deployed for, in many cases, up to a year, and will be away from their jobs. I want to commend the many employers around the country for their understanding and support when an employee or a family member of an employee is called to active duty.

In preparation for a deployment, military families often have to scramble to arrange for child care, to pay bills, to contact their landlords or mortgage companies, and take care of other things that we deal with on a daily basis, from stopping the newspaper to making sure that their plants are watered and that their pets are cared for while they are gone.

The legislation that I introduce today would allow eligible employees whose spouses, parents, sons, or daughters are military personnel who are serving on or called to active duty in support of a contingency operation to use their Family and Medical Leave Act, FMLA, benefits for issues relating to our resulting from their deployment. These instances could include preparation for deployment or additional responsibilities that family members take on as a result of a loved one's deployment, such as child care.

I was proud to cosponsor and vote for the legislation that created the Family and Medical Leave Act FMLA, in the early days of my service to the people of Wisconsin as a member of this body. This important law allows eligible workers to take up to 12 weeks of unpaid leave per year for the birth or adoption of child, the placement of a foster child, to care for a newborn or newly adopted child or newly placed foster child, or to care for their own serious health condition or that of a spouse, a parent, or a child. Some employers offer a portion of this time as paid leave in addition to other accrued leave, while others require workers to use accrued leave or sick time for this purpose.

Since its enactment in 1993, the FMLA has helped more than 35 million American workers to balance responsibilities to their families and their careers. According to the Congressional Research Service, between 2.2 million and 6.1 million people took advantage of these benefits in 1999–2000.

Our military families sacrifice a great deal. Active duty families often move every couple of years due to transfer and new assignments. And as we rely more heavily on National Guard and Reserve personnel for more and more deployments that are longer in duration, the burden on their families also increases.

This legislation has the support of a number of military organizations, including the Wisconsin National Guard, the National Guard Association of the United States, the Reserve Officers Association, the Military Officers Association of America, and the Enlisted Association of the National Guard of the United States.

We owe it to our military personnel and their families to do all we can to support them in this difficult time. I hope what this bill will bring a small measure of relief to our military families.

I ask unanimous consent that the text of this bill be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the bill was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

By Mr. SMITH (for himself, Mr. WYDEN, Mr. ALLARD, Mr. BAYH, Mr. BOND, Mr. BROWNBACK, Mr. MILLER, Mr. NICKLES, Mr. SANTORUM, Mr. CORNYN, and Mr. SPECTER):

S. 684. A bill to create an office within the Department of Justice to undertake certain specific steps to ensure that all American citizens harmed by terrorists overseas receive equal treatment by the United States Government regardless of the terrorists' country of origin or residence, and to ensure that all terrorists involved in such attacks are pursued, prosecuted, and punished with equal vigor, regardless of the terrorists' country of origin or residence; to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Mr. SMITH. Mr. President, I rise today to right a wrong. I am doing so on behalf of myself and Mr. WYDEN, Mr. ALLARD, Mr. BAYH, Mr. BOND, Mr. BROWNBACK, Mr. MILLER, Mr. NICKLES, Mr. SANTORUM, and Mr. SPECTER. For far too many years, Americans who have been murdered overseas by terrorists have not been receiving the full weight of equal justice under the law, a fundamental principle of our governance. This is happening while we are in the midst of trying to introduce the institutions of democracy, including the notion of a fair judicial system, to a skeptical part of the world. This is happening while we are in the midst of a War on Terrorism.

This double standard of justice sends out a pernicious, mixed message to would-be terrorists around the world. It suggests that we are weak in our resolve to prosecute certain terrorists who have murdered certain American citizens. It wrongly sends the message that certain American lives are more valuable and more worthy of justice than others. Or as the mother of Mathew Eisenfeld, a young Yale University graduate who was killed in 1996, together with his young fiancé, Sara

Ducker, a Barnard College graduate, put it, “it makes me feel that my son's blood is less American than others.”

When our embassies were attacked in Kenya and Tanzania on August 7, 1998, then Secretary of State Albright and President Clinton said, “You can run but you can't hide from the long arm of American justice. Anywhere an American is murdered around the globe, we will seek out that suspect and retrieve him to these shores to stand justice.”

However, since the signing of the Oslo Accords on September 13, 1993, thirty-nine American citizens have lost their lives at the hands of Palestinian terrorists alone. And how many indictments have there been in response to these thirty-nine murders? Zero. Notably, one can't find the term Palestinian on the State Department's web site for the “Rewards of Justice” program—the place where suspects are listed and rewards are described for their capture. That website rather contains only vague references to “persons in opposition to the Middle East Peace Process.”

This is simply wrong. On the humanitarian level, it is wrong. When our own government fails to mete out justice with equal and due diligence for a particular victim, or a group of victims, this compounds the grief experienced by American families who have lost loved ones to terrorists: families such as that of 14 year old Abigail Litle, an American girl from New Hampshire, a young Christian who was among the fifteen people murdered in the recent terrorist attack on a bus in Haifa, Israel; families like those of Ted Burgon of Oregon and Rick Spier of Colorado, the two American teachers killed in August of 2002 in Indonesia. Murders for which there have been no indictments and no suspects named. FBI agents have underscored that until such time as they have full and unfettered access to witnesses and evidence in Indonesia, they cannot rule out terrorism, nor can they exonerate members of the Indonesian military who have been implicated in this heinous crime.

This is wrong as a matter of foreign policy. Anything less than 100 percent commitment to pursue all terrorists who harm or murder American citizens undermines our moral clarity and our War on Terrorism. It also serves to embolden would-be terrorists all over the world, ultimately putting us all at greater risk.

We have arrived at this unfortunate juncture because the State Department, whose major objective is diplomacy, has had primary purview over this issue. The State Department, it would seem, has simply not brought its full resources to bear when it comes to facilitating the investigation, capture and prosecution of those who have murdered Americans overseas. This is particularly true if those Americans have been murdered in Israel or in areas under control of the Palestinian Authority, or in countries whose support we are seeking or counting on in the War on Terrorism.

The major objective of the Justice Department, in contrast, is justice. The Justice Department recently scored a victory, when on February 20th, they issued indictments on several members of the Palestinian Islamic Jihad. That terrorist organization is believed to be responsible for the deaths of two American citizens, and dozens of other people in recent years. As we celebrate this substantial step toward justice, however, we cannot lose sight of the fact that there is much more work to be done.

We should not, and cannot, in good conscience allow the pursuit of justice to be suborned to diplomatic considerations and expediencies. This is why I am introducing the Koby Mandell Act of 2003. Koby was a 13 year old boy from Silver Spring, MD, who one day decided to do the Huck Finn thing, and skip school. However, the punishment did not fit the crime. His body was found brutally stoned and dismembered in a cave outside of Tekoah, Israel. His assailants remain at large in the Palestinian controlled areas.

This Act will create a watch-dog office within the Department of Justice to ensure that all terrorists who murder or harm American citizens overseas are pursued with equal vigor, irrespective of the nationality or current residence of the terrorist. This Act will work to ensure that no other American family who has suffered at the hands of overseas terrorism will have their grief compounded a lack of justice.

I urge you all to join me and my fellow senator from the State of Oregon, RON WYDEN, by becoming a sponsor of the Koby Mandell Act, to put the issue of justice for American victims of overseas terrorism into the hands of the Justice department, where it truly belongs.

I ask unanimous consent that the text of the Koby Mandell Act of 2003 be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the bill was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

S. 684

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

This Act may be cited as the “Koby Mandell Act of 2003”.

SEC. 2. FINDINGS.

Congress finds the following:

(1) Numerous American citizens have been murdered or maimed by terrorists around the world, including more than 100 murdered since 1968 in terrorist attacks occurring in Israel or in territories administered by Israel or in territories administered by the Palestinian Authority.

(2) Some American citizens who have been victims of terrorism overseas, especially those harmed by terrorists operating from areas administered by the Palestinian Authority, have not received from the United States Government services equal to those received by other such victims of overseas terrorism.

(3) The United States Government has not devoted adequate efforts or resources to the apprehension of terrorists who have harmed American citizens overseas, particularly in cases involving terrorists operating from areas administered by the Palestinian Authority. Monetary rewards for information leading to the capture of terrorists overseas, which the Government advertises in regions where the terrorists are believed to be hiding, have not been advertised in areas administered by the Palestinian Authority.

(4) This situation is especially grave in the areas administered by the Palestinian Authority, because many terrorists involved in the murders of Americans are walking free there; some of these terrorists have been given positions in the Palestinian Authority security forces or other official Palestinian Authority agencies; and a number of schools, streets, and other public sites have been named in honor of terrorists who were involved in the murders of Americans.

(5) To remedy these and related problems, an office should be established within the Department of Justice for the purpose of ensuring equally vigorous efforts to capture all terrorists who have harmed American citizens overseas and equal treatment for all American victims of overseas terrorism.

SEC. 3. ESTABLISHMENT OF AN OFFICE OF JUSTICE FOR VICTIMS OF OVERSEAS TERRORISM IN THE DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE.

(a) IN GENERAL.—There is established within the Department of Justice an Office of Justice for Victims of Overseas Terrorism (in this Act referred to as the "Office") to carry out the following activities:

(1) REWARDS FOR JUSTICE.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—The Office shall assume responsibility for administration of the Rewards for Justice program and its website.

(B) ADMINISTRATION.—In administering the Rewards for Justice program the Office shall ensure that—

(i) rewards are offered to capture all terrorists involved in harming American citizens overseas, regardless of the terrorists' country of origin or residence;

(ii) such rewards are prominently advertised in the mass media and public sites in all countries or regions where such terrorists reside;

(iii) the names and photographs and suspects in all such cases are included on the website; and

(iv) the names of the specific organizations claiming responsibility for terrorist attacks mentioned on the site are included in the descriptions of those attacks.

(2) NOTIFICATION PROGRAM.—The Office shall establish and administer a program—

(A) comparable to the VINE system for notification of crime victims; and

(B) that will provide notification for American victims of overseas terrorism or their immediate family to update them on the status of efforts to capture the terrorists who harmed them.

(3) GOVERNMENT REPRESENTATION.—The Office shall send an official United States Government representative to attend the funeral of every American victim of terrorism overseas.

(4) REPORT.—The Office shall assume responsibility for providing twice-annual reports to Congress as required by section 805 of the Admiral James W. Nance and Meg Donovan Foreign Relations Authorization Act, Fiscal Years 2000 and 2001.

(5) PROFITING FROM CRIMES.—The Office shall work with other United States Government agencies to expand legal restrictions on the ability of murders to reap profits from books or movies concerning their crimes so as to ensure that terrorists who harm American citizens overseas are unable to profit from book or movie sales in the United States.

(6) TERRORISTS AS POLICE.—The Office shall—

(A) determine if terrorists who have harmed American citizens overseas are serving in their local police or security forces; and

(B) if it is found that terrorists who have harmed American citizens overseas are serving in their local police or security forces—

(i) alert those United States Government agencies involved in providing assistance, directly or indirectly, to those forces; and

(ii) request of those agencies that all such assistance be halted until the aforementioned terrorists are removed from their positions.

(7) PATTERNS OF PROSECUTION.—The Office shall—

(A) undertake a comprehensive assessment of the pattern of United States indictments and prosecution of terrorists who have harmed American citizens overseas, in order to determine the reasons for the absence of indictments of terrorists residing in some regions, such as the territories controlled by the Palestinian Authority; and

(B) provide the assessment to the Attorney General and to Congress, together with its recommendations.

(8) MONITORING.—The Office shall—

(A) monitor public actions by governments and regimes overseas pertaining to terrorists who have harmed American citizens, such as the naming of schools, streets, or other public institutions or sites after such terrorists; and

(B) in such instances, encourage other United States Government agencies to halt their provision of assistance, directly or indirectly, to those institutions.

(9) COMPENSATION.—The Office shall initiate negotiations to secure appropriate financial compensation for American citizens, or the families of such citizens, who were harmed by organizations that claim responsibility for acts of terrorism against Americans overseas and that subsequently become part of a governing regime with which the United States Government maintains diplomatic or other official contacts, such as the Palestinian Authority.

(10) INCARCERATED TERRORISTS.—The Office shall—

(A) monitor the incarceration abroad of terrorists who harmed Americans overseas, to ensure that their conditions of incarceration are reasonably similar to conditions of incarceration in the United States; and

(B) in cases where terrorists who have harmed Americans overseas, and are subsequently released from incarceration abroad, are eligible for further prosecution in the United States, coordinate with other Government agencies to seek the transfer of those terrorists to the United States for further prosecution.

(11) PERSONA NON GRATA.—The Office shall strive to ensure that all terrorists who have harmed Americans overseas are treated by the United States Government as persona non grata, including steps such as—

(A) denying those individuals visas for entry to the United States;

(B) urging United States Government agencies to refrain from political and diplomatic contacts with those individuals; and

(C) instructing United States embassies and consulates to urge American visitors to those countries to refrain from patronizing businesses that are owned or operated by such individuals.

SEC. 4. AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS.

(a) IN GENERAL.—There are authorized to be appropriated for fiscal year 2003 and each subsequent fiscal year such sums as may be necessary to carry out this Act.

(b) AVAILABILITY.—Amounts appropriated pursuant to the authorization of appropriations under subsection (a) are authorized to remain available until expended.

By Mr. BINGAMAN (for himself and Mr. AKAKA):

S. 685, a bill to assist low income taxpayers in preparing and filing their tax returns and to protect taxpayers from unscrupulous refund anticipation loan providers, and for other purposes; to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. BINGAMAN. Mr. President, I rise today with my colleague from Hawaii, Senator AKAKA, to re-introduce the Low Income Taxpayer Protection Act of 2003. This legislation, if enacted, will give taxpayers much needed assistance with the arduous annual task of preparing their Federal tax returns by providing them with real alternatives to paying for expensive tax preparation services. In doing so, many of these taxpayers will not need to take out expensive and oftentimes usurious refund anticipation loans that greatly reduce the tax refund that these taxpayers are entitled to receive. As we all know, the result of a complicated tax code is complex and confusing tax forms. Until Congress is able to provide simple and understandable forms for taxpayers, we have an obligation to make sure that taxpayers have the ability to prepare and file their tax returns without paying for expensive and sometimes abusive services.

Refund anticipation loans, RALs, are high interest loans offered to taxpayers that are secured by their anticipated tax refund. While some taxpayers may choose these loans willingly, many are often forced to take out a RAL to cover the upfront cost of the preparation services. Sadly, many taxpayers get caught with outstanding loans that they can't pay off because a mistake was made on their tax return resulting in a smaller than anticipated refund. Many of these loans, when annualized, have interest rates over 200 percent. As long as we require our Nation's taxpayers to determine their own tax liability, we will have a responsibility to make sure that these same taxpayers have an alternative to these expensive options. We must come up with better options for these taxpayers than paying usurious fees and expenses or not filing a return.

Recently the Brookings Institute and the Economic Policy Institute released a report that illustrated the abuses occurring with RALs. According to this report, roughly $1.75 billion of the earned income credit, EIC, funds are annually going to tax return preparers and RAL fees and costs. It was not the intent of Congress that this program would create such a middleman for these funds. Every dollar that goes to these businesses is a dollar that is not going to the intended beneficiaries. The EIC has become one of the most effective tools for fighting poverty and benefiting low and moderate income working families, and so it is essential that every dollar of this credit goes to the taxpayer.

To help low and moderate income taxpayers, my bill requires all those involved with RALs to register with the IRS. Treasury will then be required to determine what is a fair amount of interest and fees to be charged based on the benefit to the taxpayer and the risk to the lender. It will also expand the Volunteer Income Tax Assistance program by directly giving them matching funds to operate. VITA clinics are one of the few places lower income taxpayers can go to get free assistance with their tax returns.

In New Mexico, the VITA program has had an enormous impact. For example, in conjunction with Albuquerque Technical Vocational Institute, TVI, over 8,500 taxpayers were assisted with their returns last year resulting in over $9 million in refunds being brought back into the New Mexico economy. This year, this program is on pace to assist even more taxpayers. By utilizing a computer program system developed and advocated by Fred Gordon, an accounting instructor at TVI, even supervised high school students at Del Norte High School in Albuquerque have been preparing and filing tax returns. I commend the efforts of those directly involved with this program, as well as, the scores of volunteers who give their time to help prepare tax returns for their fellow New Mexicans. Through the efforts of groups such as the Albuquerque Hispano Chamber of Commerce, Public Service Company of New Mexico (PNM), TVI and Wells Fargo Bank, the VITA program has made a big difference in New Mexico, but more needs to be done. Our legislation will provide programs like these with the ability to get some matching Federal grants to make it possible to pay for training materials, computers or other necessary equipment. A little money can go a long way and I intend to keep working with my colleagues here in the Senate until this becomes a reality. This is a truly worthwhile goal and one that will greatly help communities in New Mexico as well as the rest of the country.

I ask unanimous consent that the text of the bill be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the bill was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

nationwide was refunded through refund anticipation loans, and an estimated $1,750,000,000 intended to assist low-income families through the EITC was received by commercial tax preparers and affiliated national banks to pay for tax assistance, electronic filing of returns, and high-cost refund loans.

(C) Refund anticipation loans carry interest rates in a range between 97.4 percent to more than 2000 percent.

(D) An estimated 45 percent of earned income tax credit recipients pay for check cashing services, which reduces EITC benefits by $130,000,000.

(E) Individuals with bank accounts can receive their tax refunds faster than waiting for a paper check and without the need to utilize refund anticipation loans or check cashiers.

SEC. 5. MATCHING GRANTS TO LOW-INCOME TAXPAYER CLINICS FOR RETURN PREPARATION.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Chapter 77 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 (relating to miscellaneous provisions) is amended by inserting after section 7526 the following new section: “SEC. 7526A. RETURN PREPARATION CLINICS FOR LOW-INCOME TAXPAYERS.”

(b) CLERICAL AMENDMENT.—The table of sections for chapter 77 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 is amended by inserting after the item relating to section 7526 the following new item:

“Sec. 7526A. Return preparation clinics for low-income taxpayers.”

(c) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by this section shall apply to grants made after the date of the enactment of this Act.

Mr. AKAKA. Thank you, Mr. President. I rise today to speak on the Low Income Taxpayer Protection Act of 2003, which Senator BINGAMAN and I are introducing today. I thank Senator BINGAMAN for his leadership on this important issue.

The legislation that my colleague from New Mexico and I are introducing would provide the Department of the Treasury with the authority to regulate income tax refund anticipation loans, RALs, and prohibit excessive fees. The bill would also provide additional opportunities for low-income taxpayers to receive assistance with tax preparation and filing their taxes and thus, we are seeking to meet taxpayers' needs for assistance while attempting to discourage a predatory practice.

According to the U.S. Census Bureau, in 2001, the Earned Income Tax Credit, EITC, was responsible for elevating nearly four million people above the poverty line. This credit has helped and continues to help low-income individuals and families to meet their food, clothing, housing, transportation, and education needs.

However, while this tax relief is benefiting families who need it most, the EITC's impact is being unnecessarily limited. Earned Income Tax Credit benefits intended for working families are increasingly being diminished by often exorbitant tax preparation fees and the growing use of high-interest refund anticipation loans, which typically carry triple-digit interest rates.

In 1999, according to a report published by the Brookings Institution, an estimated $1.75 billion intended to assist low-income families went to commercial tax preparers and affiliated national banks for tax assistance, electronic filing of returns, and high-cost refund loans. Although tax preparation services are useful, when combined with refund anticipation loans and other fees, these services are overpriced. The report further stated that 39 percent of taxpayers who earned the EITC received their refund through a refund anticipation loan, while only four percent of those who did not receive the EITC purchased a refund anticipation loan. Clearly, RALs were heavily marketed to a specific population of taxpayer. Forty-seven percent of all EITC dollars were distributed to recipients through these loans. In my state of Hawaii, in the Honolulu metropolitan statistical area, 27.7 percent of all EITC dollars were associated with refund anticipation loans. These loans take money away from the day-to-day, kitchen-table needs of the low-income families.

Furthermore, refund anticipation loans carry interest rates that range from 97.4 percent to more than 2,000 percent. The interest rates and fees charged on these products are not justified for the short length of time that these loans cover. The typical rapid refund loan length is two weeks. These loans carry even less risk because of the Debt Indicator program. The Debt Indicator program allows the Internal Revenue Service to inform the lender if the applicant for a refund loan has any outstanding Federal debts. The risk is further reduced because loan issuers share information about outstanding delinquencies that refund anticipation loan applicants owe and are able to collect debts for each other.

This bill would terminate the Debt Indicator program. In 1995, the use of the Debt Indicator was suspended because of massive fraud in e-filed returns with RALs. After the program was discontinued, RAL participation declined. The use of the Debt Indicator was reinstated in 1999. Remarks from H & R Block Chief Executive Officer Frank L. Salizzoni upon the reinstatement of the program state that the Debt Indicator "is good news for many of our clients who opt to receive the amount of their refund through Refund Anticipation Loans. The IRS program will likely result in substantially lower fees for this service." However, according to a study conducted by the Consumer Federation of America and the National Consumer Law Center, that has not been the case for at least one of the major tax preparers. H & R Block and Household Bank's fees dropped for a year after the Debt Indicator was reinstated. The fees rose significantly from 2000 to 2001, which increased H & R Block's revenue from RALs by 49 percent. Per RAL revenue rose by 43.9 percent while RAL sales volume increased by only 2.7 percent. The expected outcome that RAL prices would go down as a result of the reinstatement of the indicator has not occurred. The use of the Debt Indicator should again be stopped.

Another important provision in the bill is authorization language for a grant program to link tax preparation services with the establishment of a bank account. There are still approximately four million EITC recipients that are classified as unbanked, and lack a formal relationship with a financial institution. It has been estimated that 45 percent of EITC recipients pay for check cashing services. These check cashing services reduce EITC benefits by $130 million. Having a bank account allows individuals not only to receive their tax refund check faster than waiting for a paper check, but also does not impose the excessive fees that check cashing services and refund anticipation loan providers assess. An account at a bank or credit union provides consumers alternatives to rapid refund loans, check cashing services, and lower cost remittances. In addition, bank and credit union accounts provide access to saving and borrowing services found at mainstream financial institutions. This grant program builds upon the First Accounts initiative which has funded pilot projects that have coupled tax preparation services with the establishment of bank accounts. An example of such a project is the partnership that has been established among The Center for Law & Human Services, Accounting Aid Society, ShoreBank, National Consumer Law Center, and Consumer Federation of America that is taking place in Chicago and Detroit. More of these programs are necessary to provide much needed tax preparation assistance and to encourage the use of mainstream financial services.

I encourage all of my colleagues to support this legislation.

By Mr. DEWINE (for himself, Mrs. MURRAY, Ms. LANDRIEU, Mr. BREAUX, Mr. BINGAMAN, and Mr. INOUE):

S. 686. A bill to provide assistance for poison prevention and to stabilize the funding of regional poison control centers; to the Committee on Health, Education, Labor, and Pensions.

Mr. DEWINE. Mr. President, I am pleased to join with my colleagues—Senators MURRAY, LANDRIEU, BREAUX, BINGAMAN, and INOUE—to introduce the Poison Control Center Awareness and Enhancement Act of 2003. Our bill is designed to help make certain that the vital work of our nation's poison control centers continues.

Many of us—as parents and grandparents—have experienced the terrifying situation when a child accidentally swallows something potentially toxic. Fortunately, local poison control centers—many of them located at children's hospitals—work around the clock to answer questions from parents and to field phone calls from others about possible poisonings. Today, we also have in place a national, toll-free poison control telephone number—and that number is 1-800-222-1222—that automatically connects callers to specially trained nurses, pharmacists, and doctors at the closest local poison center.

This phone number went into effect as a result of legislation I helped get signed into law a few years ago. And now, as parents of eight children and now grandparents of eight, my wife, Fran, and I can tell you that we rest a bit easier knowing that in the case of a possible poisoning, all we need to do is call a toll free, 1-800 telephone number to get in contact with the nearest poison control center. Any parents, anywhere—whether they are in their own hometown or in another state on vacation—can call the 1-800 number, 24 hours a day, 7 days a week in the event of a poisoning.

There are over 70 poison control centers nationwide—three in my home State of Ohio. These centers have fielded over one million phone calls just since January 2002, answering questions about poisonous, drug abuse, product contents, substance identification interactions, and adverse reactions. They can answer questions and concerns about what would typically be called poisonous products—things like cleaners and bleach. This is the most common poison exposure for children, who typically ingest household products, such as cosmetics and personal care products, cleaning substances, pain relievers, foreign bodies, and plants.

But poison control centers can also answer questions about products that people may not think are poisonous, like prescribed medicines or over-the-counter medications. Maybe someone mixed medications or misread a label and took too much of the medicine by accident. Poison control centers can answer caller questions and direct the caller to seek medical attention if necessary.

I remember very clearly a time when Fran and I needed to call the local poison control center. As we were wrapping up our annual Ice Cream Social at our home in Cedarville, our then two year-old granddaughter, Isabelle, fell into a bucket of cleaning solution. We feared that she may have swallowed some of the solution and immediately called the poison control center. We were very lucky. The trained health care professional at the local poison center explained that all we needed to do was rinse Isabelle off and have her drink some water. The quick response of the poison control center provided rapid, easy answers to our questions—a process that has become even easier since the toll-free hotline began operating.

A young child, like Isabelle, is representative of most poisoning cases; however, adults often face situations necessitating information and help from poison control centers. Take the example of what occurred in Marysville, OH. Thirty workers in a manufacturing plant in Marysville were victims of gas exposure. Twenty of these workers went to Union Memorial Hospital. The hospital contacted the poison center, after which these patients were given oxygen and later discharged that same day. Ten others went to a different hospital that did not call a poison center. These patients were not released until the next day, even though their symptoms did not differ from the other 20 workers. The national hotline will help cut-down on situations like that in Marysville.

Our Nation's poison control centers handle an average of one poison exposure every 15 seconds. These centers are critical to our communities—especially now during this time of war and uncertainty. Parents are already anxious about the safety of their children, and with the potential anthrax scares or chemical or biologic scares, poison control centers can provide information to parents and help relieve some of their concerns.

The bill we are introducing today would provide the continued funding needed to ensure that the national toll-free number continues to operate, taking phone calls and helping families across the country. We must continue to increase the accessibility and effectiveness of our nation's poison control centers, as well as cement their existence for future generations. With this bill, we are not just making an investment in poison control; rather, we are making it easier to keep our children, friends, and ourselves safer and healthier.

I encourage my colleagues to remember the hotline number—it could save a life: 1-800-222-1222.

I ask unanimous consent that the text of the bill be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the bill was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

S. 686

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

This Act may be cited as the "Poison Control Center Enhancement and Awareness Act Amendments of 2003".

SEC. 2. FINDINGS.

Section 2 of the Poison Control Enhancement and Awareness Act (42 U.S.C. 14801) is amended to read as follows:

"SEC. 2. FINDINGS.

"Congress finds the following:

"(1) Poison control centers are our Nation's primary defense against injury and deaths from poisoning. Twenty-four hours a day, the general public as well as health care practitioners contact their local poison centers for help in diagnosing and treating victims of poisoning and other toxic exposures.

"(2) Poisoning is the third most common form of unintentional death in the United States. In any given year, there will be between 2,000,000 and 4,000,000 poison exposures. More than 50 percent of these exposures will involve children under the age of 6 who are exposed to toxic substances in their home. Poisoning accounts for 285,000 hospitalizations, 1,200,000 days of acute hospital care, and 13,000 fatalities annually.

"(3) Stabilizing the funding structure and increasing accessibility to poison control centers will promote the utilization of poison control centers, and reduce the inappropriate use of emergency medical services and other more costly health care services.

"(4) The tragic events of September 11, 2001, and the anthrax cases of October 2001, have dramatically changed our Nation. During this time period, poison centers in many areas of the country were answering thousands of additional calls from concerned residents. Many poison centers were relied upon as a source for accurate medical information about the disease and the complications resulting from prophylactic antibiotic therapy.

"(5) The 2001 Presidential Task Force on Citizen Preparedness in the War on Terrorism recommended that the Poison Control Centers be used as a source of public information and public education regarding potential biological, chemical, and nuclear domestic terrorism.

"(6) The increased demand placed upon poison centers to provide emergency information in the event of a terrorist event involving a biological, chemical, or nuclear toxin will dramatically increase call volume."

Section 4 of the Poison Control Enhancement and Awareness Act (42 U.S.C. 14803) is amended—

(1) by striking the section heading and inserting the following:

"SEC. 5. NATIONWIDE MEDIA CAMPAIGN TO PROMOTE POISON CONTROL CENTER UTILIZATION.;"

and

(2) in subsection (c), by inserting "and $1,500,000 for each of fiscal years 2005 through 2009" after "2004".

"(5) expand the toxicologic expertise within poison control centers; and

"(6) improve the capacity of poison control centers to answer high volumes of calls during times of national crisis;

(3) by striking subsection (d)(2) and inserting the following:

"(2) RENEWAL.—The Secretary may renew a waiver under paragraph (1).

"(3) LIMITATION.—In no instance may the sum of the number of years for a waiver under paragraph (1) and a renewal under paragraph (2) exceed 5 years. The preceding sentence shall take effect as if enacted on February 25, 2000."; and

(4) in subsection (h), by inserting "and $30,000,000 for each of fiscal years 2005 through 2009" after "2004".

SEC. 7. NATIONWIDE TOXICOSURVEILLANCE OF POISON CENTER DATA TO PROMOTE HAZARD DETECTION.

By Mrs. BOXER:

S. 687. A bill to amend title 10, United States Code, to prohibit the concurrent deployment to combat zones of both military spouses of military families with minor children, and for other purposes; to the Committee on Armed Services.

Mrs. BOXER. Mr. President, today I am introducing legislation to require that the Secretary of Defense issue regulations that would prevent a mother and father of minor children from being deployed to a combat zone at the same time.

Under my legislation, the Secretary of Defense would have 15 days to implement this policy by issuing regulations that would include the definition of what comprises a combat zone.

As we wage war against Iraq, it is important that we work to ensure that a child will never have to endure the pain of losing both parents during wartime. Military families sacrifice so much to serve our Nation. We should do everything we can to ensure their children are not orphaned.

I hope my colleagues will support this legislation.

By Mr. GRAHAM of Florida:

S. 688. A bill to provide that no electric utility shall be required to enter into a new contract or obligation to purchase or to sell electricity or capacity under section 210 of the Public Utility Regulatory Policies Act of 1978; to the Committee on Energy and Natural Resources.

Mr. GRAHAM. Mr. President, I rise today to introduce this bill that will end the practice of forcing electric utilities to purchase unneeded electricity at above market rates—a practice that ultimately costs consumers more.

This outdated practice began after the 1973-74 oil embargo. In the embargo's aftermath, we understood a far reaching assessment of our energy policies and enacted numerous laws to address the issues facing this country at that time. The Public Utility Regulatory Policies Act of 1978, PURPA, was one of several energy bills that resulted from those efforts.

In 1978, the electric utility industry in this country was based on monopolies and almost totally reliant on antiquated technologies. It was also highly territorial, having only limited ability to move electricity from one part of the country to another.

PURPA was intended to address these issues. It was designed to alleviate real and potential shortages in electricity and encourage the use of alternative fuels to generate electricity. To do this, it established a new class of electricity generators. The goal was for these new generators to rapidly implement new generating technologies that the utilities had been slow to adopt and to expand the amount of electricity generated with alternative fuels.

To ensure that investors would build these new facilities, PURPA essentially guaranteed them a profit. It required the conventional electric utilities to purchase all of the electricity the new generators wanted to sell. Prices were essentially fixed—requiring traditional utilities to pay for the electricity based on the costs they “avoided” by not having to build additional capacity themselves.

And PURPA worked. It led to the development of plants converting waste to energy and to construction of smaller, more efficient generating facilities. But much has changed since 1978.

Today there are competitive wholesale markets throughout the country, giving generation project developers many opportunities to see their output. The Energy Policy Act of 1992 and a variety of Federal Energy Regulatory Commission directives now ensure that generators have access to transmission lines, so that power can reach those markets. And we now have additional capacity coming from a variety of non-utilities using small-scale facilities and newer, more efficient technologies which allow them to be price competitive.

There have also been changes in the PURPA generators. One of PURPA's goals was to spur the use of alternative or renewable fuels, but 80 percent of the electricity currently generated by PURPA facilities is produced by burning natural gas, oil and coal. And the “equitable” prices imposed on electric utilities purchasing PURPA power are substantially higher than market rates, increasing the cost to consumers by roughly $8 billion annually. Exactly the opposite of what was intended.

The bill I offer today would rescind any requirement for electricity utilities to enter into new agreements to purchase electricity from PURPA facilities. It would not prevent utilities from buying PURPA power that is offered at competitive rates. And it would not affect existing PURPA agreements. Those agreements would remain in effect until they expire, allowing those PURPA facilities to continue selling their electricity to the utilities at the prices specified in the agreements. This approach would ensure that the investment in PURPA facilities can be recouped in accordance with the parties' expectations, but will protect consumers from new PURPA contracts—contracts which force them to pay above market prices for electricity.

This bill would also ensure that the electric utilities that are required to purchase PURPA electricity, possibly for decades to come under existing contracts, have the flexibility to recover those costs.

I urge my colleagues to support this legislation, which is fiscally sound, and is an example of good government because it eliminates outdated and counterproductive legislation.

“(4) all payments by or receipts of the financing accounts shall be treated in the budget as a means of financing.

“(c) APPROPRIATIONS REQUIRED.—(1) Notwithstanding any other provision of law, insurance commitments may be made for fiscal year 2006 and thereafter only to the extent that new budget authority to cover their risk-assumed cost is provided in advance in an appropriation Act.

“(2) An outstanding insurance commitment shall not be modified in a manner that increases its risk-assumed cost unless budget authority for the additional cost has been provided in advance.

“(3) Paragraph (1) shall not apply to Federal insurance programs that constitute entitlements.

Agencies will likewise provide OMB with annual estimates of modifications, if any, and reestimates of program costs.

“(b) DISCLOSURE.—When the President submits a budget of the Government pursuant to section 1105(a) of title 31, United States Code, for fiscal year 2005, OMB shall publish a notice in the Federal Register advising interested persons of the availability of information describing the models, data (including sources), and critical assumptions (including explicit or implicit discount rate assumptions) that it or other executive branch entities would use to estimate the risk-assumed cost of Federal insurance programs and giving such persons an opportunity to submit comments. At the same time, the chairman of the Committee on the Budget shall publish a notice for CBO in the Federal Register advising interested persons of the availability of information describing the models, data (including sources), and critical assumptions (including explicit or implicit discount rate assumptions) that it would use to estimate the risk-assumed cost of Federal insurance programs and giving such interested persons an opportunity to submit comments.

TEXT OF AMENDMENTS

SA 368. Mrs. HUTCHISON submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by her to the concurrent resolution S. Con. Res. 23, setting forth the congressional budget for the United States Government for fiscal year 2004 and including the appropriate budgetary levels for fiscal year 2003 and for fiscal years 2005 through 2013; which was ordered to lie on the table; as follows:

At the appropriate place, add the following:

SEC. ____ SENSE OF THE SENATE CONCERNING PROGRAMS OF THE CORPS OF ENGINEERS.

(a) FINDINGS.—The Senate finds that—

(1) the Corps of Engineers provides quality, responsive engineering services to the United States, including planning, designing, building, and operating invaluable water resources and civil works projects;

(2) the ports of the United States are a vital component of the economy of the United States, playing a critical role in international trade and commerce and in maintaining the energy supply of the United States;

(3) interruption of port operations would have a devastating effect on the United States;

(4) the navigation program of the Corps enables 2,400,000,000 tons of commerce to move on navigable waterways;

(5) the Department of Transportation estimates that those cargo movements have created jobs for 13,000,000 people;

(6) flood damage reduction structures provided and maintained by the Corps save taxpayers $21,000,000,000 in damages every year, in addition to numerous human lives;

(7) the Corps designs and manages the construction of military facilities for the Army and Air Force while providing support to the Department of Defense and other Federal agencies;

(8) the Civil Works program of the Corps adds significant value to the economy of the United States;

(9) through contracting methods, the civil works program employs thousands of private sector contract employees, as well as Federal employees, in all aspects of construction, science, engineering, architecture, management, planning, design, operations, and maintenance; and

(10) the Bureau of Labor Statistics indicates that $1,000,000,000 expended for the Civil Works program generates approximately 40,000 jobs in support of construction operation and maintenance activities in the United States.

(b) BUDGETARY ASSUMPTIONS.—It is the sense of the Senate that—

(1) to perform vital functions described in subsection (a), the Corps of Engineers requires additional funding in order to sustain aging infrastructure of, and address the growing demand for water supply in, the United States; and

(2) the budgetary totals in this resolution assume that the level of funding provided for programs of the Corps described in subsection (a) will not be reduced below current baseline spending levels established for the programs.

SEC. —. SENSE OF THE SENATE ON CORPORATE TAX HAVEN LOOPHOLES.

(a) FINDINGS.—Congress finds that companies are taking advantage of loopholes in the United States tax code to direct taxable income to tax haven jurisdictions, some of which have excessive bank secrecy laws and a poor record of cooperation with United States civil and criminal tax enforcement.

(b) SENSE OF THE SENATE.—It is the sense of the Senate that the Senate should act to stop companies from avoiding paying their fair share of United States taxes by—

(1) addressing the problem of corporations that have renounced their United States citizenship (“inverted”) by relocating their headquarters to tax haven jurisdictions while maintaining their primary offices and production or service facilities in the United States; and

(2) addressing the problem of Bermuda-based insurance companies that are using re-insurance agreements with their subsidiaries to direct property and casualty insurance premiums out of the United States into Bermuda to reduce their United States taxes in a way that places United States property and casualty insurance companies at a competitive disadvantage.

SEC. ____ . FUNDING FOR AFTER-SCHOOL PROGRAMS.

(a) FINDINGS.—Congress finds that—

(1) Studies show that organized extracurricular activities, such as after-school programs, reduce crime, drug use, and teen-age pregnancy.

(2) According to the FBI, youth are most at risk for committing violent acts and being victims of violent crimes between 3:00 p.m. and 8:00 p.m.—after school is out and before parents arrive home.

(3) There remains a great need for after-school programs. The Census Bureau reported that at least 8 to 15 million children have no place to go after school is out.

(3) There remains a great need for after-school programs. The Census Bureau reported that at least 8 to 15 million children have no place to go after school is out.

(4) Current funding for after-school programs provide almost 1.4 million children across the country a safe and enriching place to go afterschool instead of being home alone.

(5) The Administration's proposed FY 04 budget has recommended funding after school programs at $600,000,000. This represents a 40-percent cut in program funding and will result in 570,000 fewer children having access to afterschool programs.

(b) SENSE OF THE SENATE.—It is the sense of the Senate that the levels in this resolution assume funding for 21st Century Community Learning Centers is at least enough to ensure the number of children participating in afterschool programs does not.

SA 384. Mrs. BOXER submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by her to the concurrent resolution S. Con. Res. 23, setting forth the congressional budget for the United States Government for fiscal year 2004 and including the appropriate budgetary levels for fiscal year 2003 and for fiscal years 2005 through 2013; which was ordered to lie on the table; as follows:

On page 79, after line 22, insert the following:

SEC. ____ . FUNDING FOR IMPACT AID.

(a) FINDINGS.—Congress finds as follows:

(1) Impact Aid assists 1,275 school districts, serving 15,000,000 children. Of those children 385,171 are military dependent children.

(2) At a time when many States have initiated steep cuts in education funding, Impact Aid helps in easing the financial burden on school districts with large military populations.

(3) At a time when many military parents have been deployed overseas, schools with large military populations are reporting many students experiencing difficulty adjusting to their parents being absent or physically threatened. As a result, school officials report increased behavioral problems, academic problems, and an increased need for school-based counseling.

(4) Increased funding for Impact Aid will ensure that federally impacted schools will continue to serve some of these children's basic educational needs, as well as special needs, such as counseling for children with a parent overseas on active duty.

(5) Despite the Administration's proposed $173,000,000 cut in Impact Aid funding both the Senate and House of Representatives Committees on the Budget rejected this cut. Furthermore, the budget resolution of the House of Representatives assumes an increase in Impact Aid funding to $1,238,226,000.

(b) SENSE OF THE SENATE.—It is the sense of the Senate that the levels in this resolution assume that Impact Aid funding is funded at $1,238,226,000.

- (1) to perform vital functions described in subsection (a), the Corps of Engineers requires additional funding; and
- (2) the budgetary totals in this resolution assume that the level of funding provided for programs of the Corps described in subsection (a) will not be reduced below current baseline spending levels established for the programs.

(a) FINDINGS.—The Senate makes the following findings:

(1) Highway construction funding should increase over current levels.

(2) The Senate Budget Committee-passed Resolution increases Highway funding above the President's request.

(3) All vehicles, whether they are operated by gasoline, gasohol, or electricity, do damage to our highways.

(D) are due to be reauthorized and improved during the 108th Congress; and

(2) the budget proposed by the President for fiscal year 2004—

SEC. 1. FINDINGS—The Senate finds that:

Twenty-eight years ago, the federal government promised to pay for 40 percent of the additional cost of special education. Presently, the federal share is only 17.6 percent. The nation's school districts cannot afford such a large unfunded mandate. Thus, it is imperative that Congress increase IDEA funding to the long-promised 40 percent share.
