PROCEEDINGS AND DEBATES OF THE 107th CONGRESS, FIRST SESSION

Vol. 147

WASHINGTON, TUESDAY, OCTOBER 30, 2001

No. 147

Senate

The Senate met at 10 a.m. and was called to order by the Honorable JEFF BINGAMAN, a Senator from the State of New Mexico.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Dr. Lloyd John Ogilvie, offered the following prayer:

Gracious God, a very present help in trouble, we praise You for Your tenacity to live through troubled times. We listen in on Your conversation with the Psalmist when he was beset with trouble. We hear Your gracious invitation: "Call on Me in the day of trouble; I will deliver you, and you shall glorify Me."—Psalm 50:15. We respond with the Psalmist, "Hear my prayer, O Lord. Do not hide Your face from me in the day of trouble; incline Your ear to me . . . though I walk in the midst of trouble, You will revive me."—Psalms 102:1; 138:7.

Thank You, Lord, for Your reviving power. You revive us with convictions which cannot be compromised: You are our refuge and our strength; You have blessed our Nation through our history; You will help us be victorious over the evil of terrorism. We also are revived by the replenishing of our confidence: You will save us through our present crisis; we need not fear. We feel Your Spirit surging into our souls: anxiety is replaced by serene security, frustration by faith, tiredness with temerity, caution with courage. And so we say with the Psalmist, "In the day when I cried out, You answered me, and made me bold with strength in my soul."—Psalm 138:3. Amen.

PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE

The Honorable JEFF BINGAMAN led the Pledge of Allegiance, as follows:

I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America, and to the Republic for which it stands, one nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all.

APPOINTMENT OF ACTING PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will please read a communication to the Senate from the President pro tempore (Mr. BYRD).

U.S. SENATE,
PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE,
Washington, DC, October 30, 2001.

To the Senate:

Under the provisions of rule I, paragraph 3, of the Standing Rules of the Senate, I hereby appoint the Honorable JEFF BINGAMAN, a Senator from the State of New Mexico, to perform the duties of the Chair.

ROBERT C. BYRD,
President pro tempore.

Mr. BINGAMAN thereupon assumed the chair as Acting President pro tempore.

RECOGNITION OF THE ACTING MAJORITY LEADER

SCHEDULE

Mr. REID. Mr. President, the day will begin with consideration of the Labor-HHS Appropriations Act. Senators HARKIN and SPECTER are managing this bill. We are going to have a party conference recess from 12:30 to 2:15 today. There will be no rollcall votes prior to 2:15.

I just left a meeting with the majority leader, Senator DASCHLE. He would like to be able to finish the business of the Senate as soon as possible. We have 3 weeks until the Thanksgiving holiday. There is a lot to do. Everybody recognizes that. We completed two appropriations bills that have been sent to the President. We hope to be able to complete this bill even today. That would be what the managers want. They have worked very hard to get to the point where we now are. The two managers are experienced in one of the most difficult bills we normally have. I think this year much of the difficulty has already been completed prior to its arriving on the floor.

So I hope those people who wish to offer amendments will recognize that we are going to come up with a unanimous consent agreement really soon on a time when amendments must be submitted. We haven't completed that with the managers yet, but they agree that something should be done in that regard.

MEASURES PLACED ON CALENDAR—S. 1573 AND H.R. 1552

Mr. REID. Mr. President, I understand there are two bills at the desk that have been read for the first time; is that correct?

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator is correct.

Mr. REID. I ask unanimous consent that it be in order that S. 1573 and H.R. 1552, en bloc, receive a second reading, and I will object to any further consideration of these two matters.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The clerk will report.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

A bill (S. 1573) to authorize the provision of educational and health care assistance to the women and children of Afghanistan.

A bill (H.R. 1552) to extend the moratorium enacted by the Internet Tax Freedom Act through November 1, 2003, and for other purposes.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Under the rule, the bills will be placed on the calendar.

RESERVATION OF LEADER TIME

DEPARTMENTS OF LABOR,
HEALTH AND HUMAN SERVICES,
AND EDUCATION, AND RELATED
AGENCIES APPROPRIATIONS
ACT, 2002

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Under the previous order, the Senate will now proceed to the consideration of H.R. 3061, which the clerk will report.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

A bill (H.R. 3061) making appropriations for the Departments of Labor, Health and Human Services, and Education, and related agencies for the fiscal year ending September 30, 2002, and for other purposes.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Pennsylvania is recognized.

Mr. SPECTER. Mr. President, I thank the assistant majority leader for his statement about scheduling. It is my hope and it is my recommendation that we proceed very promptly with this bill, with the possibility of concluding it before the end of business today, or certainly no later than midday tomorrow.

There has been ample time for Senators to consider amendments to this legislation. Last year, this bill was reported out of committee on June 30 and floor action was concluded on July 27, and because of scheduling this year, it has come at a later time, understandably. Senators have had an opportunity to consider whatever amendments they want to offer. There is real concern as to what may happen in the remainder of the legislative season, and there has been some talk and most of us, if not all of us, do not want to see a continuing resolution.

Mr. President, the Labor, Health and Human Services and Education bill before the Senate today contains $123.1 billion in discretionary spending, the full amount of the subcommittee's budget authority allocation under section 302(b) of the Budget Act. This amount represents an increase of $11.4 billion over the FY'01 freeze level. The bill is within its outlay allocation of $107.7 billion. In addition, $300 million in emergency spending is also included for the Low Income Home Energy Assistance Program.

At this time, I want to take this opportunity to thank the distinguished Senator from Iowa, Senator HARKIN, the chairman of the committee, for his hard work in bringing this bill through the committee and on to the floor for full consideration by all Senators.

The programs funded within the subcommittee's jurisdiction provide resources to improve the public health and strengthen biomedical research, assure a quality education for America's children, and offer opportunities for individuals seeking to improve job skills. I'd like to mention several important accomplishments of this bill.

Few things are more important than a person's health and few things are more feared than ill health. Medical research into understanding, preventing, and treating the disorders that afflict men, women and children in our society is the best means we have for protecting our health and combating disease.

Since January 2001, the Labor-HHS Subcommittee has held 12 hearings on medical research issues. We have heard testimony from NIH Institute Directors, medical experts from across the United States, patients, family members, and advocates asking for increased biomedical research funding to find the causes and cures for diseases such as Alzheimer's and Parkinson's disease, ALS, AIDS, cancer, diabetes, muscular dystrophy, multiple sclerosis, heart disease and many other serious health disorders. The bill before the Senate contains $23.7 billion for the National Institutes of Health, the crown jewel of the Federal Government. The $3.4 billion increase over the FY 2001 appropriation will support medical research that is being conducted at institutions throughout the country. This increase will continue the effort to double NIH by FY 2003. These funds will be critical in catalyzing scientific discoveries that will lead to new treatments and cures for a whole host of diseases.

The use of human embryonic stem cells for research has become an issue that is consistently debated in the press, on radio and television, and amongst people around the world. The fact that in fewer than 3 years, stem cell research has gone from an avant garde interest of a few select scientists to a common, contemporary issue reveals the immense potential that stem cells offer ailing patients.

Yet coming to terms with the inherent moral and ethical issues of stem cell research is difficult. We struggle with the balance of our respect for human life against the compassion we have for those who suffer from diseases that could be cured by stem cells. On August 9, 2001, President Bush recounted his own struggle with this volatile issue. The President made a diligent, valiant effort to reach an accord that would satisfy all sides.

I believe that limits on the use of Federal research money to only existing stem cell lines, will place barriers in the path of medical progress. We are just beginning to understand which researchers and companies throughout the world have ownership of these existing stem cell lines and we have little knowledge of their property rights, plans to share or license the use of those lines to other researchers, or whether the donors of those embryos have given the requisite informed consent. We know little about the quality of those existing stem cell lines, although up to one-third of them may be so fragile that they will be of no use to any researcher. We do not know how future therapies will be developed for our genetically diverse population from only a few select genetic lines. Perhaps most importantly, we are now learning that the existing stem cell lines may be inappropriate for producing any human therapies because of their exposure to mouse feeder cells while growing in culture.

Since 1998, the Subcommittee on Labor, Health and Human Services and Education has held nine hearings to explore the potential medical benefits of stem cell research. The subcommittee has heard more than 21 hours of testimony from some of the most pre-eminent scientists in the world who have described how stem cells have the potential to cure the most common diseases afflicting Americans today. We have heard from ethicists who have discussed the moral and social implications of pursuing this line of research. We have listened to company executives who recount their ideas and hopes for delivering therapies to patients and patent attorneys discussing intellectual property rights. But the most striking and most compelling testimony has been from patients who suffer from disease and disabilities that destroy lives.

The Labor-HHS and Education bill before the Senate adds a new provision to the existing embryo ban (carried in the bill since FY'96). This language permits Federal dollars to be used—at the discretion of the President—for research on embryonic stem cells from embryos that meet the following criteria: created in excess of clinical need, will otherwise be discarded, and are donated with the written consent of the progenitors. This language for the first time, states that Federal dollars may be used for embryonic stem cell research.

Since September 11, 2001, Americans have become acutely aware that our enemies will use any means to murder and maim large numbers of U.S. civilians. The use of biological agents is no longer a threat—it is a reality. The deaths of 3 individuals from inhalational anthrax and the infection of others with the cutaneous form of the disease has made all of us aware of the need to act quickly to provide the funds needed for prevention and treatment needs. The committee has included $338 million to coordinate state and local readiness, stockpile appropriate pharmaceuticals, and build our public health infrastructure to respond to any act of bioterrorism. The anthrax found in Senator DASCHLE's office and in the House and Senate mail rooms, at postal facilities in New Jersey and the District of Columbia and surrounding areas, in news and other media facilities proves that we must try and prevent, detect and quickly respond to any further acts of bioterrorism. Additional dollars to address bioterrorism needs will be considered during supplemental appropriations bills in November.

For the first time, the committee has included $1 million for a public awareness campaign to educate Americans about the existence of spare embryos and adoption options. During stem cell hearings, we were made aware that there are 100,000 spare frozen embryos stored in in-vitro fertilization clinics throughout the United States. Many infertile couples could choose to adopt and implant such embryos if they were aware of that option.

Since 1999, $2.9 billion has been devoted to programs to assist communities in preventing youth violence. This year the committee has included $1.542 billion to continue to address youth violence in a comprehensive and coordinating manner throughout the Federal Government. Funds will be used to improve research, prevention, education, and treatment strategies to identify and combat youth violence.

To enable all children to develop and function at their highest potential, the bill included $6.6 billion for the Head Start Program, an increase of $400 million over last year's appropriation. This increase will provide services to 916,000 children in 49,420 classrooms across the Nation.

To help provide primary health care services to the medically indigent and underserved populations in rural and urban areas, the bill contains $1.34 billion for community health centers. This amount presents an increase of $175.1 million over the FY 2001 appropriation. These centers provide health care to nearly 12 million low-income patients, many of whom are uninsured.

Again this year, the committee has placed a very high priority on women's health. The bill before the Senate provides $818.7 million for programs specifically addressing the health needs of women. Included in this amount is $27.4 million for the Public Health Service, Office of Women's Health, an increase of $6.1 million over last year's funding level to continue and expand programs to develop model health care services for women, provide monies for a comprehensive review of the impact of heart disease on women, and to launch an osteoporosis public education campaign aimed at teenagers. Also included is $266 million for family planning programs; $124.2 million to support the programs that provide assistance to women who have been victims of abuse and to initiate and expand domestic violence prevention programs to begin; $167.2 million for sexually transmitted diseases; $195 million for breast and cervical cancer screening; and $39 million for the Office of Research on Women's Health at the National Institutes of Health.

In FY'01, the Labor-HHS Subcommittee held several hearings to explore the factors leading to medical errors and received testimony from family members and patients detailing their experiences with medical mistakes. The Institute of Medicine also gave testimony and outlined findings from their recent report which indicated that 98,000 deaths occur each year because of medical errors and these deaths may cost up to $29 billion in excess health care expenditures and lost productivity each year. The bill before the Senate contains $60 million to determine ways to reduce medical errors, an increase of $10 million over the FY'01 appropriation.

The bill maintains $2 billion for the Low Income Home Energy Assistance Program. The amount, when combined with the additional $300 million in emergency appropriations, will provide a total of $2.3 billion for the LIHEAP Program in FY'02. LIHEAP is the key energy assistance program for low income families in Pennsylvania and in other cold weather states throughout the Nation. Funding support grants to States to deliver critical assistance to low income households to help meet higher energy costs.

For programs serving the elderly, the bill before the Senate recommends $2.4 billion. Included is: $366 million for supportive services and senior centers; $561 million for congregate and home-delivered nutrition services; and $202.5 million for the national senior volunteer corps; $450 million for the community service employment program which provides part-time employment opportunities for low-income elderly. Also, the bill provides $909.1 million for the National Institute on Aging for research into the causes and cures of Alzheimer's disease and other aging related disorders; funds to continue geriatric education centers; and the Medicare insurance counseling program.

The bill includes $5.1 billion for AIDS research, prevention and services. Included in this amount is $1.833 billion for Ryan White programs, an increase of $75.4 million; $781.2 million for AIDS prevention programs at the Centers for Disease Control; and $2.375 billion for research at the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases.

To enhance this Nation's investment in education, the bill before the Senate contains $48.5 billion in discretionary education funds, an increase of $6.3 billion over the FY'01 freeze level, and $4 billion more than the President's budget request.

For programs to educate disadvantaged children, the bill recommends $11.8 billion, an increase of $1.8 billion over last year's level. The bill also includes $200 million for the Even Start program to provide educational services to low-income children and their families; $36 million for the education of homeless children, and $30 million for migrant education programs.

For school improvement programs, the bill includes $8.7 billion, an increase of $1.6 billion over the FY'01 appropriation. Within this amount, $3.039 billion will be used for a new state grant program for improving teacher quality. To assist States and local education agencies in developing education reform initiatives, the bill includes $410 million. Also included is $925 million for grants to local education agencies for emergency school renovation and repair activities. The committee recommendation includes $712.1 million for educational technology state grants, as authorized under the Senate-passed version of H.R. 1. This program consolidates the four current educational technology programs.

For the 21st century After School Program, the bill provides $1 billion, an increase of $154.4 million over last year's level. This program supports rural and inner-city public elementary and secondary schools that provide extended learning opportunities and offer recreational, health, and other social services programs. The bill also includes language to permit funds to be provided to community-based organizations.

For Impact Aid programs, the bill includes $1.130 billion, an increase of $137.1 million over the 2000 appropriation. Included in the recommendation is: $50 million for payments for children with disabilities; $954 million for basic support payments, an increase of $72 million; $68 million for construction and $50.5 million for payments for Federal property.

The bill provides $516 million to assist in the education of immigrant and limited-English proficient students. This recommendation is an increase of $56 million over the 2001 appropriation.

The $8.4 billion provided in the bill will help local educational agencies meet the requirement that all children with disabilities have access to a free, appropriate public education, and all infants and toddlers with disabilities have access to early intervention services. The $999.6 million increase over the FY'01 appropriation will serve an estimated 6.5 million children age 3-21, at a cost of $1,133 per child. While also supporting 612,700 preschoolers at a cost of $637 per child.

To improve post-secondary education opportunities for low-income first-generation college students, the committee recommendation provides $805 million for the TRIO program, a $75 million increase over the 2001 appropriation. These additional funds will assist in more intensive outreach and support services for low income youth.

For student aid programs, the bill provides $12.3 billion, an increase of $1.6 billion over last year's amount. Pell grants, the cornerstone of student financial aid, have been increased by $250 for a maximum grant of $4,000. The supplemental educational opportunity grants program has also been increased by $22.1 million, the work study program is held at the FY'01 level and the Perkins loans programs is increased by $15 million.

In this Nation, we know all too well that unemployment wastes valuable human talent and potential, and ultimately weakens our economy. The bill before us today provides $5.5 billion for job training programs, $80.8 million over the 2001 level. Also included is $1.4 billion for Job Corps programs; $950 million for adult training; and $1.549 billion for retraining dislocated workers and $1.127 billion for youth training.

The bill provides $1.422 billion for worker protection programs, an increase of $63.8 million above the 2001 appropriation. While progress has been made in this area, there are still far too many work-related injuries and illnesses. The funds provided will continue the programs that inspect business and industry, assist employers in weeding out occupational hazards and protect workers' pay and pensions.

The bill includes $395 million for the Corporation for Public Broadcasting, an increase of $30 million over the FY'2003 appropriation. In addition to the core amount provided for CPB, the Committee recommends $25 million for the conversion to digital broadcasting.

There are many other notable accomplishments in this bill, but for sake of time, I have mentioned just several of the key highlights, so that the Nation may grasp the scope and importance of this bill.

Mr. President, I again want to thank Senator HARKIN and his staff and the other Senators on the subcommittee for their cooperation.

This bill has very substantial additional funding for education—some $4 billion more than last year. It has very considerable additional funding for the National Institutes of Health, which funding has been a priority, on which the distinguished chairman, Senator HARKIN, and I have worked during his chairmanship in the early 1990s and mine for 6½ years, beginning in 1995 through earlier this year. If there is a continuing resolution, those increases will not be realized.

I think there is also an appropriate point of emphasis with what is happening in the country. I believe other Senators share my belief that there is a real need for us to spend time in our States with our constituents, telling them what is happening in the world and telling them what is happening in America. We all know that all of this work should have been finished by September 30. Here we are on October 30.

So I urge my colleagues, in furtherance of what the distinguished Acting majority leader has said, to let us know what the amendments are and offer to bring them. If we are not accorded that kind of consideration, it is my hope we will move to the third reading so that we can go to conference.

This is not going to be an easy bill to conference. Unless we proceed with dispatch, we will not have the benefit of these very substantial increases in funding.

I thank the Chair and my colleagues. The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Nevada is recognized.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, I have spoken with the managers of the bill, and being a member of the committee, I have been so impressed with the hearings these two Senators have held over the last several years. It does not matter who is the chairman of the subcommittee; they have done outstanding work. They are always on the cutting edge of what is going on in the country. So I hope people will realize what an important bill this is.

I am going to work to have a unanimous consent agreement in order that by 4 o'clock this afternoon there will be a filing deadline for first-degree amendments on this bill. We will work on that while the managers are giving their opening statements.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Iowa is recognized.

Mr. HARKIN. Mr. President, I thank our assistant majority leader for his efforts in this regard. I thank him for all of his support through the years, and especially this year, for bringing this bill before the Senate. It is an important bill.

I will give my opening statement in a moment. I certainly hope we are able to reach some agreement on the filing of amendments sometime this afternoon. This bill has been laid to the side for a long time. People have known it was going to come up. I hope we can get the amendments filed. I hope we can dispense with this bill, if not today, as was said, early tomorrow. There is no reason we cannot finish the bill today. I hope we can move in that direction. I thank Senator REID for his efforts in this regard.

AMENDMENT NO. 2017

Mr. HARKIN. Mr. President, I send a substitute amendment to the desk, which is the text of the Senate-committee-reported bill, and ask the clerk to report it.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The clerk will report.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Iowa [Mr. HARKIN], for himself and Mr. SPECTER, proposes an amendment numbered 2017.

Mr. HARKIN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Without objection, it is so ordered.

(The text of the amendment is printed in today's RECORD under "Amendments Submitted.")

Mr. HARKIN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the amendment be agreed to; that the motion to reconsider be laid upon the table; that the amendment be considered as original text for the purpose of further amendment; and that no points of order be considered waived by virtue of this agreement.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. HARKIN. Mr. President, as chairman of the Labor, Health and Human Services, and Education Subcommittee of the Senate Appropriations Committee, I am very pleased to bring before the Senate the 2002 appropriations bill for the Department of Labor, Department of Health and Human Services, Department of Education, and related agencies.

I am also pleased to report that the bill was approved on a unanimous bipartisan vote on October 11.

I begin by thanking my good friend and partner in this effort, Senator SPECTER, and his excellent staff for working with me and my staff to put together this bill on a bipartisan basis. This is always one of the most difficult bills to put together, and it is certainly one of the most important.

Our Nation's health and the strength of our tomorrow are shaped by the critical health, education, and labor investments made by this bill.

I also thank Chairman BYRD and Senator STEVENS for their steadfast support and guidance throughout the year and for their good work in helping us get an enhanced allocation.

The bill we are putting forward today obviously is not perfect, not by a long shot, but given the limited resources with which we had to work, I think it is a very strong bill and one I can strongly recommend.

As we have done throughout our over 10-year partnership working on this subcommittee, the fiscal year 2002 bill is truly the product of bipartisan negotiation as Senator SPECTER and I have worked closely together to shape it. We have done our best to accommodate the literally thousands of requests we have received from our colleagues.

Mr. President, I will highlight some of the main features of the proposal before us.

First, it takes a number of important steps to improve the quality, affordability, and accessibility of health care in America. By providing a record $3.4 billion increase to medical research funded by the National Institutes of Health, we are keeping our 5-year commitment to double our national investment in potential medical breakthroughs. This action holds the hope of improving the lives of millions plagued by killers such as Alzheimer's, cancer, Parkinson's, diabetes, osteoporosis, spinal cord injuries, and so many others.

The bill also makes a major improvement in access to affordable health care by providing a record $175 million increase to community health centers and major increases in critical prevention activities such as cancer and heart disease screening. These changes are preventive in nature and will save lives and improve health.

The bill also has a major new effort to improve health care in our rural areas and small towns. We will bring more doctors and nurses and other health professionals to places they are needed by expanding the National Health Service Corps and the Nurse Loan Repayment Program. Our struggling rural hospitals are given help to deal with Medicare paperwork burdens and help to expand into other activities such as adult daycare.

As a Senator from Iowa and as co-chair of the Senate Rural Health Caucus, I know how sorely these changes are needed.

Education continues to be a top priority of this subcommittee, and while our bill provides substantial new investments in quality education, it is my strong hope and expectation that more resources will be provided when we complete action on the education reform bill now in conference.

I also sit on that conference committee, led by our distinguished chairman, Senator KENNEDY. That bill, which is now in conference, contains an amendment that was offered by Senator HAGEL and me that the Senate approved without one dissenting vote, that we will finally meet our commitment to fully fund special education. We need that provision to do right by our schools and our local property tax payers.

That amendment in that bill—I am talking not about the bill before us, but the education reform bill that is in conference—the amendment Senator HAGEL and I offered, would over the next several years increase from the present level of 15 percent to 40 percent the amount the Federal Government will put into special education on an average-cost-per-pupil basis.

Twenty-five years ago when we passed the special education bill, the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act, we stated at that time that the goal of the Federal Government was to provide 40 percent of the average-per-pupil cost. That was 25, actually 26, years ago, and we are now at 15 percent.

Special education continues to be one of the highest costs to our local school districts, one that is burdening our local school systems and our local property tax payers. Yet the Federal Government has not lived up to its commitment. So in that education bill, Senator HAGEL and I offered an amendment to boost that funding. It is now in conference, and hopefully we will keep that provision in the bill.

That will, of course, free up some money for other parts of education which we did not have in our bill and were unable to meet all the needs.

I especially want to say with the downturn in the economy, I believe we are going to need more money especially for title I programs in education for the next year, and beyond that depends on what happens to the economy. Certainly we are going to need it for the next year.

Again, I am hopeful the education bill that is in conference will continue; that the House will recede to the Senate and will keep that money for special education.

I am also very pleased to report this bill before us today contains nearly $1 billion to make needed repairs to our schools, including necessary security enhancements. Last year, this subcommittee, under the leadership of Senator SPECTER, started an initiative to help our local school districts make their schools safe. It has been extremely popular in the States, and in a time of economic downturn, this job-creating initiative is even more urgent and it should be continued.

I will, at some appropriate point, point out on a chart how much all of the various States have received in the last year to make needed repairs, to bring their schools up to fire and safety code requirements, and to make needed security enhancements for their schools. As I said, it has been very helpful to the States. The Governors all support it; the school boards support it; and the parent-teacher associations. There is no one who is opposed to it.

So we put the money back in this year to keep it going. With all of the talk about stimulus and stimulus package, and looking at the stimulus package the House sent us with all of the tax breaks for huge corporations, it seems to me the best stimulus we could provide would be to send money directly to our communities so they could repair and modernize their schools. We get a couple bangs for the buck on that. We put people to work; it stimulates local economies, and of course that has a backup effect because there will be suppliers of different equipment, and it provides for all kinds of multiplier effects in the economy.

The second thing we get when we finish is we get something of lasting value for our country: better schools. So I am hopeful this program will be continued.

This bill also makes college more affordable for millions of young people by increasing the Pell grant maximum to $4,000 and increasing the TRIO by $75 million, which brings that program's total funding to $805 million.

The bill also makes an important downpayment on needed improvements to elementary and secondary education. It increases funding for title I by $1.4 billion, to a total of $10.2 billion. It increases afterschool programs by $154 million, which brings that to a total of about $1 billion. It increases funding for teacher quality by over $900 million for a total of just over $3 billion for teacher quality.

This bill also funds crucial worker protection and job training efforts. I am pleased we have been able to improve our commitment to worker training and safety in this bill. We have also funded our State unemployment offices to handle the increased caseload they will face with the economic downturn.

Coming from a State with one of the highest percentages of senior citizens in the Nation, I am keenly aware of the many needs of our Nation's seniors. Accordingly, our bill contains a substantial initiative to improve services to our Nation's elderly. We will allow many more homebound seniors to receive Meals on Wheels. This is a very good, low-cost program that helps the elderly and disabled in small towns and urban centers all over our country. For many of the seniors it is their only hot meal of the day and often the person who delivers the meal is the only visitor they have during the entire day.

This bill also provides a major increase in services such as adult daycare, to help seniors remain in their own homes and to give their loved ones needed respite and support care.

Finally, our subcommittee has held a series of hearings on the need to better protect Americans from the threat of bioterrorism, which, of course, is on so many of our minds today, especially those of us who have offices in the Hart Building, knowing we are not going to be able to get our staffs back in the building for, I guess, a few more weeks, from what I understand. It is a concern of Americans all over America about the mail they receive and whether they are going to be exposed, whether or not our food is going to be safe. So bioterrorism is something we have to address.

This Friday, our subcommittee will be having a hearing on the potential threat of smallpox and what we are doing and what more we need to do to protect our country against this possible terrorist threat.

While the bill before us contains a modest level of funding to address this need of bioterrorism, a much larger package will be included in the antiterrorism supplemental appropriations bill. We have developed a detailed $2.3 billion plan that would beef up our public health system, boost our vaccine stockpiles, help hospitals respond to potential surges, boost vaccine research, and increase lab security.

This subcommittee is serious about meeting this threat head on, and we are prepared to fully fund a comprehensive, commonsense, antibioterrorism effort.

I conclude by saying Senator SPECTER and I are now prepared to move this bill. The leaders have asked us, as we heard earlier, to move the bill quickly. We are eager to complete it so we can get to conference with the House. So I hope, if Members have amendments, they will come to the Chamber and offer them. Hopefully, we can wrap up this bill sometime today.

As the chairman, I usually am aware of possible amendments. I must say at this point in time I have not heard of any amendments. So if any Senators have amendments, I hope they will come and offer them as soon as possible.

I want to thank my colleague, Senator SPECTER, and his staff for all their help in putting this bill together. As he said earlier, we have had a great partnership now going on over 10 years. We keep switching sides. One is the chairman or ranking member, then chairman or ranking member. Quite frankly, I like it a little bit better this way, but I could not have asked for a better chairman when I was ranking member.

I appreciate all of the many kindnesses he has afforded me, and the closeness with which we have worked over the years to develop our appropriations bills, especially this one this year.

I yield the floor.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Pennsylvania.

Mr. SPECTER. Mr. President, to reiterate, I thank my distinguished colleague from Iowa for those very generous comments. It is not uncommon to hear hyperbole when one Senator talks about another, but the relationship which Senator HARKIN and I have developed for more than a decade represents bipartisanship at its best.

I understand when Senator HARKIN says he likes it a little bit better when he is the chairman. Some people would not be surprised to hear he likes it a lot better when he is the chairman. Senator HARKIN chaired the subcommittee prior to 1995 when I became chairman and was chairman for some 6½ years. The transition has been seamless. TOM HARKIN and ARLEN SPECTER learned a long time ago that if one wants to get something done in Washington, they have to be willing to cross party lines.

Our work on this subcommittee involves three of the most important subjects on which the Congress has to appropriate, and that is on education, where it is a priority second to none; and health, which has a standing with education; and labor and work safety are matters of enormous importance where the public interest is very well served by this kind of bipartisanship and this kind of cooperation.

We have structured a bill with the assistance of a superb staff. Both Senator HARKIN and I refer to our deputies, Ellen and Betty Lou, as deputy Senators because they take over. We have the final say, but they are tremendous.

Mr. HARKIN. We do?

Mr. SPECTER. Senator HARKIN just said, "We do?" And I would add: Yes, sir, we do.

Mr. HARKIN. We think we do.

Mr. SPECTER. It is an enormous staff contribution. Senator HARKIN and I have received more than a thousand requests from Senators for inclusion in this bill, and we have done our best to accommodate all those requests. We have accommodated a surprisingly high number as we have worked through the priorities on this bill.

This bill provides for $123 billion in budget authority, and that is an increase of $11.4 billion over last year, and we are within our 302(b) allocation. We are within the budget. This represents a determination by the Senate of the very high priority on these issues.

In providing funding for education, health and labor, with emphasis on worker safety, we have added funds to the National Institutes of Health which we believe to be the crown jewel of the Federal Government. We started on this very substantial increase for fiscal year 1998. Up until that time there had been increases but not enormous increases. Senator HARKIN and I determined this was the highest priority because of the tremendous number of ailments which were addressed by the National Institutes of Health.

That year, we asked the Budget Committee for an extra $1 billion; we were turned down. So we came to the floor and offered an amendment on the budget for an extra $1 billion; we lost 63-37. We got out the sharp pencils and found the extra $1 billion in priorities. The next year, having lost our effort for an extra $1 billion from the budgeting process, we asked for $2 billion; we were turned down again. We lost again on the floor, 52-48. But we have pursued this matter with tenacity and diligence, so that last year when we asked for $2.5 billion—this year we are asking for $3.4 billion—we had a vote of 96-4. We have had that kind of support. That reflects the Nation's mood.

From fiscal years 1998, 1999, 2000, and 2001—and if we mark in the $3.4 billion this year—we will have increased NIH funding by $11 billion on an existing budget in fiscal year 1997 of $12.7 billion. We believe that has been good for America. We have been able to watch NIH and, with other oversight, move within 5 years, perhaps, of conquering Parkinson's disease, delaying Alzheimer's disease, and made enormous achievements in cancer research and therapy and in heart disease.

I ask unanimous consent that at the end of my comments the long list of diseases tackled by the National Institutes of Health, with remarkable success, be printed in the RECORD.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. SPECTER. Among the hearings our subcommittee has held since December of 1998, there were nine on stem cells, which burst upon the scene in November of 1998. The President has taken a significant step forward in authorizing Federal funding for all of the stem cell lines which were in existence as of August 9 at 9 p.m. Subsequent hearings by our subcommittee have disclosed the likelihood is high that will not be sufficient to have the kind of medical research which is necessary. The determination of that will await another day, candidly, as our country has been so heavily involved on the war against terrorism.

In response to very legitimate concerns which have been addressed by many about the possibility of having life from those embryos which are discarded on in vitro fertilization, we have included in this bill $1 million as a starting project to have an embryo adoption awareness campaign.

In in vitro fertilization, perhaps a couple will create a dozen of these embryos. Then there will be selected three or four of the strongest embryos for implantation, for in vitro fertilization. The bulk of the remaining embryos will be discarded. An issue has been raised about the possibility of adoption of these embryos. Certainly, if it were possible to bring all of these embryos to life, no one would suggest remotely they be used for research for stem cell extraction. But it is only because they are going to be discarded that it is concluded it is better to use them than to simply lose them and throw them away.

In an effort to have the maximum utilization possible of these embryos if life can be produced, we have started on this embryo adoption awareness campaign and have allocated $1 million—not an enormous sum of money, but enough for a start. If it moves ahead, we will be revisiting this matter with increased appropriations in subsequent years.

Our funding has been very extensive on other critical programs of the Department of Health and Human Services. The Centers for Disease Control, which is now very much in the headlines, was the subject of an additional $170 million last year for improvement of the plan. About 18 months ago, I made a visit to the Centers for Disease Control in Atlanta because I could not believe the stories I was hearing about renowned scientists working in corridors with their desks under extraordinarily difficult circumstances. I went to Atlanta. I found that the conditions were even worse than had been described.

Senator HARKIN and I crafted $170 million for our budget for capital improvements which will exceed some $1 billion over the course of years. This year, we have added some $250 million to that program. We have had a substantial increase in Head Start, of some $400 million, and we are now at $6.6 billion. The Ryan White AIDS program has an increase of $75 million to $1.888 billion. Children's Graduate Medical Education, a very important item, has had an increase up to $243 million.

On education on title I, disadvantaged youngsters, we have had the remarkable increase of $2.4 billion, or a total of some $11.8 billion. On the important item of teacher quality State grants, an increase of $930 million to $1.9 billion, we have had a virtual doubling of that important account. On special education, an item I hear about so often in my town meetings as I visit the 67 counties in Pennsylvania, we have had an increase of $1 billion, moving toward the goal of having the Federal Government fund 40 percent of special education.

Pell grantees have been raised consistently. Now they are at $4,000, an increase of $250 over last year. Gradually we are moving them up and up and up.

With respect to labor, the dislocated worker account, which is so important today with the economy having the difficulties which are so well known, we have an increase of $136 million, for a total of $1.5 billion.

Occupational Safety and Health Administration, OSHA, has an increase of almost $25 million; mine safety, an increase of almost $10 million; the National Labor Relations Board, an increase of $10 million to try to get them to cope with their very heavy backlog.

That is a summary of some of the items in this bill. We think we have crafted the priorities in accordance with America's needs. These are three Departments of enormous importance. We have a substantial allocation for bioterrorism which we have addressed each year.

That will be in our regular budget—$338 million. That is going to have an increase yet to be determined.

We had a special hearing several weeks ago where the indications were a minimum of $1.5 billion, which was the request at that time. That is going to be substantially increased to enable us to cope with the very serious threat which confronts America today.

That is a very brief summary. I urge my colleagues to come to the Senate floor. Now is a good time to offer amendments. There is no competition; Senators may offer amendments right at the head of the line.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. This assistant majority leader.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, prior to Senator STEVENS, a minority member on the Appropriations Committee, speaking on this bill, I want to announce to everyone that as soon as we come back from the party caucuses, after the recess at 2:15, there will be a unanimous consent agreement setting a time for filing—not for filing but for calling the cloakroom. We are going to come up with a list of finite amendments at a certain time today.

We would like to offer that unanimous consent right now, but we have been given information that the minority wants to complete their caucus lunch before they make a decision. I only state we hope that can be worked out. I am confident it will be, but if it is not, we are going to offer the unanimous consent and someone will have to come and personally object to it. We need to move this bill along.

The Republican senior member of the committee is on the floor and he has worked very hard. We now have two bills that have been sent to the President. We have two or three conference reports we are going to complete this week, so we are making progress. One of the things we can do to show some significant progress is complete this bill tonight or prior to lunch tomorrow and then move on to another appropriations bill.

I hope we can have that agreement on a finite list of amendments entered shortly after we come back from lunch.

Mr. DORGAN. Mr. President, will the Senator yield for a question?

Mr. REID. I will be happy to yield to my colleague from North Dakota.

Mr. DORGAN. So I understand what the Senator from Nevada is saying, I am going to offer an amendment to this bill and every bill that comes to the floor. It is something that was dropped out of the bill last week on counterterrorism. It deals with what is called advanced passenger information systems. We have airlines landing this morning from Pakistan, from Jordan, Egypt, Saudi Arabia, Kuwait, airliners coming from those countries for which there is no passenger information forwarded to the Customs Department.

Eighty-five percent of the airlines do voluntarily provide that information. Fifteen percent of the airlines do not. I have described the countries from which the airlines come that do not provide that information. Everyone agreed we ought to do this. I offered the amendment and it was knocked out in conference on the counterterrorism bill because we had some people worried about their jurisdiction. They would not allow it in conference.

Today we have literally thousands of people coming on airplanes from that region and the names of those people are not provided to the Federal law enforcement authorities as they are from 85 percent of the other carriers. In this case, those names are not provided now. It seems to me that compromises this country's security.

I aim to fix that as quickly as we can. I intend to offer that as an amendment to every bill, and I will offer it this afternoon to this legislation as well. I want to make sure I am not prevented from doing so.

Mr. REID. I say to my friend from North Dakota, he certainly is not prevented from doing so. I hope he offers that amendment as soon as possible. The sooner we get to it, the quicker we are going to move through the bill, but Senators will have an opportunity to offer any amendments they want. We are not trying to cut off any amendments. We are simply saying we want to cut off time so we know what amendments we are going to have to work through before we complete this legislation.

I look forward to supporting my friend, the Senator from North Dakota, on this most important legislation dealing with airport security.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Alaska is recognized.

Mr. STEVENS. Mr. President, while the Senator from North Dakota, who made the comment concerning the advanced lists, is present, I want to make a comment on another subject. But I say Alaska has suffered recently because of the loss of cargo lines that came through Anchorage and went on to other parts of the United States or Mexico or Canada. They landed primarily for fuel. The Customs regulations were changed and because of those changes, one of which was the request for the advanced lists, a series of those cargo lines have now decided to land in Canada and not land in the United States. So their first landing is in Canada.

I do not think the Senator is going to propose we get an advanced list of passengers on Canadian airlines. I am not sure it is possible under NAFTA. So I urge him to consider some way to deal with this problem of requiring lists that might lead to these planes deviating and going into Canada and actually we would have less information than we have today. I do not want to debate it now, but I will talk to him about it and tell him what happened in Alaska. I hope he understands.

Mr. DORGAN. Will the Senator yield for a question? I understand he wants to talk about other things. My interest is in making sure we have the passenger lists of people coming into this country. As I indicated, in 85 percent of the cases we do, but we do not now from Pakistan, Saudi Arabia, Kuwait, and so on. It seems to me that security is paramount at this point, and I certainly will visit with the Senator from Alaska about the issue he raises. I am talking especially about passenger lists at this point. I will talk more about it this afternoon.

Mr. STEVENS. I support the Senator's request. I supported his amendment before, and I will support it again, but I do think we have to take a look to see what the consequences of some of these requirements are and be prepared to meet the changes that come in terms of the airline travel.

Mr. President, I want to talk about the Labor-Health and Human Services appropriations bill. I know it will be up after lunch. I welcome the statement of the distinguished majority whip that we will seek a listing of these amendments today. I also am delighted I was able to be with Senator SPECTER who spoke about a matter that he and I have discussed at other times, and that is the creation of some type of category that will allow us to distinguish between normal visa applicants, or holders who are privileged to be in this country, and those who should properly be on a list of known terrorists.

I, for one, do agree with him. We should find some way to treat those people as we would agents of foreign nations and treat them as prisoners of war. We ought to start getting tougher, as the Senator from Pennsylvania says.

What worries me most, as one of the few survivors of the World War II era, is I do not think we understand how tough we have to get to deal with some of these issues that are coming before our country. I hear people saying once again there is a global threat warning out and we are sort of crying wolf.

Well, it is not crying wolf. I really believe the Attorney General and the head of our new homeland defense agency are right to warn the people of the United States, and I think it is high time we decide how tough we are going to be in facing the challenges that have now beset us because of our global war against terrorism.

As I said, I came to talk about the Labor-Health and Human Services bill. It is the largest bill that comes before the Appropriations Committee. It is the largest because its breadth of coverage, as well as its size, means it does more to help everyday Americans than any other bill we consider in this Congress. It addresses American's health needs from community clinics to bioterrorism to immunizations. It provides services for Americans who need a helping hand from electric bills to job training. It helps narrow the education gap, providing Pell grants to lower income university students, to assistance to Alaska native colleges. I am pleased the committee has agreed to fund the Denali Commission. It was a commission I urged Congress to create to adopt a novel approach to providing assistance to remote areas in my State. The overhead of this commission in handling Federal funds is held to 5 percent or less. It is probably the lowest rate in the entire Federal Government.

We have found by handling money through a commission that has on it members of the State government, of the Federal Government, of business and labor, of the environmental community, as well as the native community, we can make decisions on how to spend and where to spend Federal money without the enormous overhead of the rest of the Federal executive branch. It has already helped build health clinics in remote villages where there are no doctors or nurses. We have pioneered in telemedicine and tele-education in my State. I am most pleased that the Appropriations Committee has agreed to continue to support this approach.

Sadly, my State leads the Nation in domestic violence, child abuse, and alcoholism. I am deeply grateful to the chairman and the ranking member of the Subcommittee on Labor, Health and Human Services, and Education for including an initiative to develop a statewide plan to combat domestic violence and child abuse in Alaska. Likewise, I am very pleased funds have been provided to implement the physical education for progress legislation Congress adopted last year at my request.

It is my hope we will move forward on this legislation quickly. I urge our colleagues to come to the floor as soon as possible to clear any amendments with the managers of the bill. We have other bills to which we should move. I know the chairman of the committee, Senator BYRD, will be speaking on this matter. I join him in requesting we consider how we can move the remaining legislation that comes from our Appropriations Committee and still finish our business in time to get home for Thanksgiving.

I yield the floor and suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant bill clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. DORGAN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. DORGAN. Mr. President, I will speak at more length on the subject I talked about a few moments ago, the issue of the advance passenger information system, which sounds like an innocuous system but it is a very important system by which we help provide for this country's security. Let me describe exactly what has happened.

We have 57 million people enter this country every year by airplane. Commercial airplanes from all around the world come into this country. We have some 57 million people on those airplanes entering the United States. There are 94 different air carriers flying those people into our country. There were 400,000 international flights with passengers processed into our country in the last year.

The question, especially since September 11, and since the terrorist threats against this country resulted in these devastating attacks of mass murder, the question is, Who are these people who are entering our country? What is their background? Do their names show up somewhere on a list of people who are affiliated with or associated with a terrorist cell? Are they known or suspected terrorists? Who are they?

In order to answer that question, we have what is called the advance passenger information system, which has 85 percent of the passengers covered by APIS because the carriers that are bringing them into this country voluntarily provide information to the Customs Service in America, saying here is our passenger list. That list then is cross-checked against the list of the Customs Service, the FBI, and others, to try to determine whether there are people who are trying to enter our country who should not enter. Pretty simple.

But the 15 percent of the passengers who are not part of this system, whose names don't come in to be checked, includes passengers on airplanes coming from, among other countries, Saudi Arabia, Kuwait, Jordan, Egypt, and Pakistan. Let me give carriers that do not comply. They are not part of the voluntary system and do not provide passenger lists or information about passengers: Air Lingus, Aer Transat, Bahamas Air, Champion, Saudi, Kuwait, Royal Jordanian, Air Pakistan International, Canada 3000.

I chaired hearings in the appropriations subcommittee dealing with Treasury and general government. We had the Commissioner of the Customs Service testify. He talked about this. He talked about this being an important piece of information we get in our attempt to try to prevent terrorists, or known or suspected terrorists, from coming into our country. He said it is voluntary. There is 15 percent of the information we don't get; 15 percent of the 57 million passengers, with their names, are not given to our Customs Service to be checked. I asked, should it be checked? And he said of course it should, but he said at present it is not mandatory. I said, it is not mandatory? And he said, of course, it should be mandatory.

I indicated we would try to get that done after the September 11 attacks when there were 19 people riding the airplanes who came into this country to commit murder. While they committed an act of self-destruction, they murdered thousands of American citizens. Especially following that, we ought to be concerned about border security. This is one part of border security.

We had a piece of legislation called the counterterrorism bill which the President signed into law last week. That bill had an amendment I offered on the floor of the Senate that would have required the airlines coming into this country to provide the advance passenger information lists. My amendment passed. The Senate said yes. It was in the Senate bill. It came back from conference, and, mysteriously, it was gone. That somehow got destroyed.

That amendment was destroyed in conference. Why? Apparently, because there were some Members who decided in conference they have jurisdiction over this, it didn't go through this hoop or that hoop or didn't have this hearing or that hearing. Therefore, they asserted jurisdiction on this and said they would not allow it to be in conference.

What is the result of that, in my judgment, small-minded decision by some in Congress? What is the result? The result is that today, on Tuesday, there are airplanes landing all across this country coming in from Pakistan, from Egypt, from Saudi Arabia, from Kuwait, from Jordan, and there is no advance passenger list given the Customs Service against which they can check the lists and determine whether there are passengers we don't want coming into this country.

The result of knocking that out of the conference so it was not in the counterterrorism bill last week, in my judgment, injures this country's ability to provide for secure borders. It is small thinking in the extreme, in my judgment.

Today and tomorrow these airplanes will haul passengers into this country and we will not have information about who those passengers are. We will have information on most of the passengers coming in from South America, from Europe, from most of the countries with which we have trading relationships and good relationships; they have signed a voluntary agreement with us. But the fact is, some of the key countries, some of the key carriers from that region that we need to be very concerned about at this point, are not involved if we receive no passenger list.

Someone said, when you read the names—Pakistan, Egypt, Jordan, Saudi Arabia, Kuwait, and more—aren't you profiling passengers? I said it is not about profiling passengers but about getting a list of all passengers coming into this country and trying to profile who might be known or suspected terrorists and keeping them out. If they happen to come from one region of the country, I regret that. But we are not profiling passengers; we are profiling terrorists to see if we can keep out of this country those whom we don't want to let in because they have suspect ties to terrorist organizations.

Coming into this country with a visa is coming into this country as a guest of the United States. We have every right to keep out of this country those who have ties to or those who are associated with known terrorist organizations. But today, Tuesday, we cannot do that because of behavior that represents monumental littleness, as one of our great former Presidents said in a conference last week, knocking out the amendment to which the Senate had already agreed, knocking out the amendment that came to that conference from the Senate.

As a result, I intend to offer this amendment just after lunch today on this piece of legislation, and I will offer this amendment on every piece of legislation until it becomes law, until it is in a vehicle signed into law by the President of the United States. So at 12:30 on Tuesday next week or a week after when a plane lands in this country, carrying passengers from abroad, we will know that in every circumstance information on the passenger list from that plane is provided to the U.S. Customs Service before departure.

Some might say, well, isn't this an unusual, intrusive and difficult thing to ask of others? The answer is no. Anyone who watched those commercial airplanes fly into the World Trade Center in New York knows that a lot has changed since September 11.

This country's security is critically important. Border security, it seems to me, is where you start. The President said yesterday, as reported in the papers today dealing with visas, that we should be tightening up on visas. I fully agree with that. You have to maintain control of your borders. That doesn't mean you build a wall and keep people out. It means you have sufficient capability to understand who is coming in and to keep the wrong people out. That is what it means.

My hope is that we will be able to add this amendment to this appropriations bill. I understand this isn't an appropriations amendment. I understand that completely. My hope is that my colleagues who have already approved this—the Senate has already approved this legislation—will understand that our job is to keep sending this matter to conference on every vehicle possible so that the next airplane that lands from abroad is an airplane with a list of passengers that we have, and that list has been checked against the Customs list, against the FBI list, and against all of the lists of some 20 different agencies that have lists that tell us about people who should not be allowed to enter this country because of their known or suspected ties to terrorist organizations.

I will come back after lunch with an amendment I will formally offer. My hope is that the chairman and the ranking member will see fit to agree to it.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Idaho.

Mr. CRAIG. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to speak for no longer than 5 minutes as if in morning business.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. CRAIG. Mr. President, I sat here for the last few minutes and listened to my colleague from North Dakota talk about border security. Certainly what he has said I agree with in principle. I haven't seen his amendment. I will now search it out and read it.

I have always believed if you have a guest in your home and find out that guest is going to burn down your home, you are going to get that guest out of your house just as quickly as you can before he or she touches the match. Foreign nationals in this country are guests of our country. They are guests in our home. There is nothing wrong with asking them to play by a few rules and for us to know who is on the guest list.

If that is what the Senator from North Dakota is talking about, I will support him in that effort.

NATIONAL ENERGY POLICY

Mr. CRAIG. Mr. President, I come to the floor this morning to ask unanimous consent to have printed in the RECORD letters from J. Eldon Yates, chairman and founder of the Vietnam Veterans Institute; the American Legion national commander, Richard Santos; the Veterans of Foreign Wars executive director, Robert Wallace; and Joseph Lipowski, the national commander of AMVETS.

They joined me, several of my colleagues, and the Secretary of Veterans Affairs, Anthony Principi, just a few moments ago outside our Capitol to call on this Senate and our leader, Tom Daschle, to bring a national energy policy bill before this Senate before we adjourn this year.

Clearly, the President has been outspoken in the last month—and I agree with what he is doing—about strengthening our resolve and protecting our freedoms as the country cries out for a national energy policy that is a policy of national security.

Today the administration announced that we are going to start buying oil to put into our national Strategic Petroleum Reserve to beef up the total volume in that reserve in case of a national crisis. But even when that is done, if the oil of the Middle East were cut off, that reserve would last only for a few weeks before we would be in a significant energy crisis.

Our President as well as the Secretary of the Interior, the Secretary of Energy, the Vice President, labor unions, chambers of commerce, National Association of Manufacturers, and small business groups speaks out. America is being told today that national energy is a national security issue.

Strangely enough, the chairman of the Energy Committee even spoke this last weekend saying he wanted a national energy policy addressed before the end of the year. Yet nothing is done. The Energy Committee has been shut down by orders of the majority leader. Republicans are producing an energy bill. We have been to the floor time and time again asking for a time certain on which to debate this critical issue. The House acted in August. Our world would come tumbling down around us at this moment, economically speaking, if the oil of the Middle East were shut off from this country. Our economy would stifle. It is an issue of national security.

I ask unanimous consent that these letters be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the letters were ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

AMVETS,

Lanham, MD, October 26, 2001.

Hon. TOM DASCHLE,
Majority Leader, U.S. Senate,
The Capitol, Washington, DC.

DEAR SENATOR DASCHLE: On behalf of AMVETS, I am writing to encourage you to bring H.R. 4, the Securing America's Future Energy Act of 2001, before the full Senate for consideration at the earliest possible moment prior to the close of the 1st Session of the 107th Congress.

As you know, our current reliance on foreign oil leaves the United States vulnerable to the whim of individual oil-exporting countries, many existing in the unpredictable and highly dangerous Persian Gulf. And it cannot be overstated that energy supplies touch nearly every aspect of our lives from our economy to our national security.

Passage of H.R. 4 would greatly assist in our ability to secure a more dependable and diversified domestic supply of energy. And, I would note that since the Persian Gulf War our security has become more threatened with our dependence on foreign sources of oil growing from 35 percent of domestic supply to nearly 60 percent.

AMVETS firmly believes that we cannot wait for the next crisis before we act. H.R. 4, as approved by the House, is a critical part of an overall policy America requires to promote dependable, affordable, and environmentally sound production and distribution of energy for the future. We urge your expedited approval of this legislation.

Dedicated to service.

JOSEPH W. LIPOWSKI,
National Commander.

VETERANS OF FOREIGN WARS, OF THE UNITED STATES,
Washington, DC, October 29, 2001.

Hon. TOM DASCHLE,
Majority Leader, U.S. Senate,
Washington, DC.

DEAR SENATOR DASCHLE: The 2.7 million members of the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States and its Ladies Auxiliary supports H.R. 4, the "Securing America's Future Energy Act of 2001" or SAFE Act of 2001. We applaud the House of Representatives for its bipartisan work in addressing our energy vulnerability by passing H.R. 4. We believe the Senate should consider and vote on H.R. 4 so that our nation has an energy plan for the future and can move forward quickly with a comprehensive plan to develop our domestic energy resources.

Keeping in mind the horrific events of September 11 and mindful of the threats we are facing, we strongly believe that the development of America's domestic energy resources is a vital national security priority. We need to take steps to reverse our growing dependence on Middle East oil as quickly as possible. By passing H.R. 4, the Senate will be supporting our troops serving in combat on Operation Enduring Freedom, the American people, and our national security with a comprehensive energy legislation that is desperately needed to diversify the energy supply for our country and chart a course for the future.

The VFW strongly urges the Senate to consider and vote on H.R. 4 as passed in the House in this session of Congress.

Sincerely,

ROBERT E. WALLACE,
Executive Director.

THE AMERICAN LEGION,
Washington, DC, October 25, 2001.

Hon. TOM DASCHLE,
Majority Leader, U.S. Senate,
The Capitol, Washington, DC.

DEAR SENATOR DASCHLE: We write today out of a sense of urgency concerning our national security, as it relates to our need for energy independence. The development of America's domestic energy resources is vital to our national security. We respectfully urge you to adopt the provisions contained in H.R. 4, the "Securing America's Future Energy Act of 2001."

War and international terrorism have again brought into sharp focus the heavy reliance of the United States on imported oil. During times of crises, such reliance threatens our national security and economic well being. The import of more than 50 percent of our petroleum from the Persian Gulf further compounds our foreign trade balance at a time when our energy demands continued unabated. It is important that we develop domestic sources of oil, contained within our public lands—such as the supplies within the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge.

Working for a comprehensive energy policy and achieving responsible energy independence are critical national security and economic goals. H.R. 4, as passed by the House of Representatives, is a major step forward to achieving these imperative goals. We strongly urge your support.

Sincerely,

RICHARD J. SANTOS,
National Commander.

STATEMENT OF OUR NATION'S VETERANS GROUPS, "OUR DOMESTIC ENERGY SECURITY IS OUR NATIONAL SECURITY", OCTOBER 30, 2001

We, the undersigned, representing our nation's veterans, strongly believe that the development of America's domestic energy resources is a vital national security priority. The horrific events of September 11, 2001, constitute a threat to our people, our economy, and our nation's security. With U.S. troops actively engaged in combat overseas, we firmly believe that America can and will win this prolonged war against terrorism, using all its resources to defend our nation and the cause of freedom around the world.

Because of these beliefs, we applaud the House of Representatives for its bipartisan work in addressing our energy vulnerability by passing H.R. 4, the "Securing America's Future Energy Act of 2001" or the "SAFE Act of 2001." It is imperative that the Senate pass the House version of H.R. 4 so that our nation can move forward in establishing our energy security, as well as our defense of freedom at home and abroad. It is essential for us to develop all domestic energy resources including the supplies within the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge.

By passing H.R. 4, the comprehensive energy legislation, the Senate will be supporting our troops in the field, all Americans, their families, and our nation. We, as Veterans, stand united and respectfully request that the Senate vote on and pass H.R. 4.

J. ELTON YATES,
Vietnam Veterans Institute.*

Mr. CRAIG. Mr. President, America's veterans, those who have stood in harm's way year after year and decade after decade in defense and support of our freedom, now speak out and say: Senator DASCHLE, this is an issue of national security. Where are you? Why aren't you allowing the Senate to debate this issue now and have on the President's desk a national energy policy before we recess this first session of the 107th Congress?

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Wyoming is recognized.

HEALTH AND HUMAN SERVICES,
AND EDUCATION, AND RELATED

Mr. THOMAS. Mr. President, I want to talk a minute about part of the Labor, HHS, and Education appropriations bill as it pertains to an area of particular concern to me and my State; that is, rural health care.

I am cochairman of the Rural Health Care Caucus, along with the Senator from Iowa. I think this issue has been treated very well in this bill. I would like to comment just a bit about it.

We have, of course, a special focus on rural health care because it is unique. And because it is a special kind of issue that does not apply everywhere, I think it is necessary for us to deal with it from time to time.

We submitted a letter from our caucus. I think there were 43 Members of the Senate listed on the letter asking for some consideration. I think this committee has reacted quite well.

There are a number of things of which most people are not aware and which are not talked about very often. Although 20 percent of the population of this country lives in what is called rural areas, only 9 percent of physicians practice in those areas. You can see it is always somewhat difficult to have the kind of medical services in rural areas that are available in other places.

Rural areas contain 67 percent of the country's primary health care professional shortage areas. I guess that is not a surprise, but indeed that is the case. It is in need of focus to ensure we have primary care in all of these rural areas.

There are 2,187 rural hospitals, a majority of which are primary care hospitals. Specialized care is very limited. Only 12 of 245 long-term care hospitals are in rural areas, and 81 of 601 psychiatric hospitals are in rural areas. None of the country's 73 children's hospitals is in rural areas.

As you can see, there is a need, and indeed there has been and continues to be special emphasis on it.

For example, national health care services: This is a program that provides primary health care providers in our Nation's most underserved communities. Last year, only 12.5 percent of the communities eligible for provider placement received assistance. That has increased. Adequately? I do not know. Would we like more? Of course. Nevertheless, it has been treated well.

There is an increase for community health centers. Community health centers provide services in rural areas for people living in underserved areas. They provide a service that is not always needed but is unique to rural areas.

Rural health research: A grant is provided for rural health research as to how to provide more services.

We understand the rural areas are not going to have all of those kinds of services in every community. In our State, we look for a medical care network that can be moved around to the places where it is needed.

The Rural Access to Emergency Devices Act is in the bill with some new funding; also, State offices of rural health which help provide a network and a system to provide those services in small communities.

We had some requests for funding in the Rural Interdisciplinary Training Program. This program addresses the shortage of health care professionals in rural areas. In the bill we also have the Rural Hospital Improvement Program.

So, of course, there are other areas in which we would like to have more emphasis, but I wanted to rise to suggest that this area of this bill is a very important one and one that means a great deal.

When we think of Wyoming, of course, we think of a rural State. I think there are twice as many people in Fairfax County as there are in Wyoming. But every State has rural areas. New York is one of the most rural States in terms of how many people are concentrated in a particular area. So when we talk about rural States, it is not just a western phenomenon. Rural needs exist in all our States.

So I hope we can go forward with this part of the bill. I thank those who put the bill together for their emphasis and interest in providing for rural health care.

Mr. CONRAD. Mr. President, I rise to offer for the RECORD the Budget Committee's official scoring for S. 1536, the Departments of Labor, Health and Human Services, and Education, and Related Agencies Appropriations Act for Fiscal Year 2002.

The Senate bill provides $123.071 billion in nonemergency discretionary budget authority, which will result in new outlays in 2002 of $50.014 billion. When outlays from prior-year budget authority are taken into account, discretionary outlays for the Senate bill total $107.716 billion in 2002. The Senate bill is at its section 302(b) allocation for both budget authority and outlays.

In addition, the bill provides $300 million in emergency-designated funding for the low-income home energy assistance program (LIHEAP), which will result in new outlays of $75 million in 2002. In accordance with standard budget practice the budget committee will adjust the appropriations committee's allocation for emergency spending at the end of conference.

The Senate bill also provides $18.474 billion in advance appropriations for 2003 for employment and training, health resources, child care, and education programs. Those advances are specifically allowed for under the budget resolution adopted for 2002, and, combined with all other advance appropriations considered by the Senate to date, fall within the limit imposed by the resolution. Finally, the bill extends the Mark-to-Market Program for multifamily assisted housing, which is estimated to save $355 million in 2002.

I ask for unanimous consent that a table displaying the budget committee scoring of this bill be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the table was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

Mr. HOLLINGS. Mr. President, I rise in support of the fiscal year 2002 Labor, Health and Human Services and Education Appropriations bill brought forward today by Senator HARKIN and Senator SPECTER, the distinguished chairman and ranking member of the subcommittee.

As a member of the Labor-HHS-Education Subcommittee, I am well aware of the competing priorities funded in this bill including health care for the disadvantaged, medical research, education, Head Start, child care, and job training. The subcommittee faces a difficult task every year accommodating these important priorities, but behind the leadership of the chairman and ranking member, I believe we have produced a bill that balances these priorities.

The bill provides $1.343 billion for community health centers. The weakening economy and skyrocketing cost of insurance raise the likelihood that thousands of Americans will lose their health benefits. These facts, combined with the persistent lack of access to care in many rural and urban communities, make it imperative that we strengthen the ability of community health centers to serve our Nation's underserved and uninsured patients. Last year, Senator BOND and I launched the REACH initiative to double funding for community health centers by 2005. The $175 million increase provided in the bill with support from 67 Senators keeps the Senate on track to meet our goal.

From cancer to vision to biomedical imaging, the work of the Subcommittee to invest in the National Institutes of Health, (NIH), has led to improvements in the quality of life for countless Americans. I strongly support the unprecedented investment in the NIH made in this bill. This basic and clinical research is critical to the advancement of medical science and human health. Over the past 30 years, the 5-year cancer survival rate has risen from 38 percent to 59 percent.

This means that approximately 8,400,000 people are alive today as a result of progress in cancer research.

Our investment in the NIH has been returned many times over. Every dollar spent at the NIH returns over $7 in lower medical costs and increased economic productivity. Advances in the treatment of cardiovascular disease between 1970 and 1990 have had a positive economic value of $1.5 trillion annually. Still the costs of disease tallies as high as $180 billion a year for cancer and $38 billion a year for vision ailments. The investment made by this bill will cut into the amounts our government and our citizens spend fighting and treating these diseases.

In addition, it is important that we open the competition for biomedical research to institutions from all parts of the country. This bill includes $200 million for the National Center for Research Resources' Institutional Development Awards, a program that helps States like South Carolina overcome the geographic concentration of NIH awards by developing the infrastructure needed to compete for biomedical research funding.

I would also like to point out the importance of the cancer programs funded out of the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention.

Cancer Registries can be a powerful tool in the war against cancer. We know that early detection of cancer saves lives and saves the health care system millions of dollars. With budgets getting tighter in States across the country, cancer registries give public health agencies clear guidance of where to target scarce resources for prevention activities. I am told that the registry in South Carolina is like many of the other registries. It has the ability to collect sophisticated and accurate data, but lacks the resources to fully analyze and act upon the data it collects. The true potential of cancer registries cannot be realized until a larger investment in the program is made.

The South Carolina breast and cervical cancer detection program, known as the Best Chances Network, just celebrated its 10th anniversary. Over that time, the program provided more than 110,000 cancer screenings to low-income women and have detected 1,400 cancers, saving countless lives. By all accounts the only problem with the program is that it cannot serve all eligible women.

The subcommittee also did an admirable job funding education programs. The bill contains a $1.5 billion increase for title I. This substantial increase is important because the reauthorization of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act will put new mandates and higher expectations on our nation's schools. In turn, our schools should expect us to meet our mandates and provide them with the resources we promised. The $10.2 billion provided in the bill will move us closer towards fully funding title I, a goal that 79 members of this body voted to affirm earlier this year.

The bill contains $3 billion for State grants for improving teacher quality. It is critical to the future of our education system that we recruit our best and brightest to the teaching field and make efforts to retain the quality teachers already present in our system. This funding gives States the flexibility to improve teacher compensation, hire new teachers to reduce class size or provide additional training or mentoring to current teachers.

This bill addresses the crumbling infrastructure in many of our schools by providing $925 million for school construction. Seventy-eight percent of public schools in South Carolina reported a need to upgrade or repair a school building to good overall condition. I am pleased that the bill will help our schools address some of the needs of their facilities and thank the chairman of the subcommittee for the leadership he has shown in this area.

Finally, the bill increases funding for higher education programs. The amounts provided in this bill will bring the maximum Pell Grant total to $4,000. We also provide for a $75 million increase for the TRIO programs. Since 1965, an estimated two million students have graduated from college with the special assistance and support of our Nation's TRIO Programs. These programs have been successful. Studies have found that students in the Upward Bound program are four times more likely to earn an undergraduate degree than those students from similar backgrounds who did not participate in TRIO, and students in the TRIO Student Support Services program are more than twice as likely to remain in college than those students from similar backgrounds who did not participate in the program. I am pleased that this bill will allow more eligible students to benefit from the TRIO Programs.

Mr. President, I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The senior assistant bill clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. REID. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

RESTORING CONFIDENCE IN THE ECONOMY AND HOMELAND DEFENSE

Mr. REID. Madam President, last week, late in the week, Senator BYRD and I held a press conference. The reason we held this press conference was to indicate that we believe we need to do something to restore confidence in the economy. We also believe that part of restoring confidence in the economy is making sure that homeland defense is something that is more than just words.

We are proposing things that cost money. It is great to talk about homeland defense, but if there is no money attached to it, it becomes a shallow promise to the American people.

Some of the things that Senator BYRD and I have talked about have to do with bio-terrorism. We believe there should be some prevention. Madam President, if you are going to have good, high-quality medical care, you have to have preventive medical care. The way to reduce costs and have a healthier public is to put our resources in the front end, not wait until everybody is sick and in the hospital. Bio-terrorism is no different. We need to have prevention and response. We need to have food safety initiatives. We have so few food inspections now. I believe I heard my friend from Iowa say, in a debate in this Senate Chamber last week, that about 1 percent of the food in our country is inspected. We need to do better. We need to make sure that State and local governments, who have responsibilities in this area, have some capacity to do that.

We believe there should be upgrades to State and local health departments. We believe we have to take a look at hospitals to make sure there is enough hospital capacity.

We want to accelerate the purchase of vaccines. In America, this huge country of 270 million people, we believe we should have an adequate number of vaccines that are under the direction of the Centers for Disease Control. We need to make sure we have adequate supplies. If we do not use them, fine; but we should have them available. And to accelerate the purchase of these vaccines is going to cost money.

Antibiotics: We know we have an inadequate supply of antibiotics. We need to make sure there is a satisfactory supply of these antibiotics for all the problems that may arise. And that is true for other pharmaceutical supplies.

We need to make sure there is better security for our labs.

These things I have just enumerated will cost about $3 billion.

I came to Washington with Tom Ridge. He and I were in the House of Representatives together. I have maintained a friendship with him, including the time he was Governor of Pennsylvania.

A year ago, we traveled to Israel and the Middle East together, and we spent some time together. I have great respect for him as a person and for his abilities. But I truthfully say that I am not sure he is going to be able to do what is going to be required of him unless he has the resources to do it.

I had a meeting in with him last week. What he suggested was: Let me determine, first, what I need, and then I will come back and tell you what I need.

I am willing to do that. But I am not going to stand in the background and deprive him of the resources to do his job.

We have 40 agencies that collect intelligence. I believe we need a person who has authority to tell these entities what to do and what he needs from them. So I am willing to wait for a reasonable period of time for Governor Ridge to get back to us and tell us what he needs. But if this is going to go onto a program where they are going to try to do his job and not spend any money, then I am going to move forward and give him the tools I believe he needs.

I am willing to wait for him to tell me what tools he needs, but if I get nothing in the reasonable future, then I am going to go ahead and do something on my own.

In New York, we learned to do something that should have been done a long time ago; that is, to develop nationwide appreciation for the police officers and firefighters.

In my past, I was a police officer for a period of time here in Washington, DC. I have always had great respect for the police. But it was not until I went to the State legislature in Nevada that I developed the respect for firefighters that I have.

When I went there, they were trying to pass legislation.

One of the things they told us, that there were more people who die and are injured fighting fires than police officers who die or are hurt in the line of duty. Firefighters have all kinds of problems on a daily basis. This was exemplified by the tragedy at the World Trade Center when hundreds of firefighters died in that terrible attack. We need $6 billion to make sure the State and local antiterrorism investments are there for our police and fire departments. We need to have firefighting grants to allow local governments to have the capacity to train these people better. So for State and local antiterrorism investments for police and fire departments and additional firefighting grants, that figure is $1.6 billion.

We need to also recognize that the FBI needs more assistance. All Federal law enforcement needs help. That includes computer modernization, especially for the FBI. They need additional agents. They are working long hours and getting worn down since September 11. I am not going to state in the Chamber the numbers of people in the Las Vegas Customs office. To do so would be embarrassing to me and to our country. It is the same all over the country. We are asking the U.S. Customs to do all kinds of things legislatively that they don't have the staff to do. We need a huge additional amount of money to take care of Customs.

We know that the terrorists who came and did the acts of September 11 didn't come over the southern border we hear so much about. They came through the northern border. We need to make sure there is more funding for the Coast Guard, the Federal Aviation Administration, the Drug Enforcement Administration, and U.S. Attorneys. Our courts need more money, as does the U.S. Marshals Service. What I have talked about here, starting with the FBI, is going to cost us about $1.7 billion.

We know most of the time who comes into this country, but once they come here, they are lost in a maze of 270 million people. We need the Immigration and Naturalization Service to improve their tracking of people who are in this country and people who are on student visas. I believe we should do all we can to have exchange programs and have people study in our great universities. Out of the approximately 135 great universities in the world, 121 of them are in the United States. It is great we have people who want to come from other countries to study here. But we need to make sure that once they come here, they are not lost in the maze of people in the United States.

We need border enhancements, improved tracking of people, including people on student visas. This is going to cost about $1.5 billion. We know that airport security is going to cost more money, about $1 billion. Transit security is also important, $1.1 billion. We need to make sure there is adequate Federal security protection in Federal facilities such as nuclear plants and border facilities, national parks, and water projects. That will cost over $1 billion.

Enhancements for highways: I believe if we are going to have a real stimulus package in this country, we are going to have to do something with job creation. It is not going to be done all on the tax side. We have to create jobs.

For every billion dollars, for example, we spend on highways, we create 42,000 jobs. So much needs to be done with our highways. This would be an immediate pick-up, an immediate stimulus to our economy all over America, whether it is New York or Nevada or any of the other 48 States. There are projects that have been designed, and the only thing holding up the projects from going forward is money. We would create hundreds of thousands of jobs if we decided to spend $4 billion on these projects.

We could easily spend $2.5 billion for enhancement of highways. We could allocate $2.1 billion for clean and safe drinking water projects. Indian Health Service clinics and other initiatives need to be taken care of.

There needs to be a direct, strong movement to restore confidence in our economy. One way we can do that is to create jobs. The other way, and they go together, is to restore confidence in our homeland defense.

I have discussed with Senator Abraham, Governor Ridge, the head of the FBI, and the head of the CIA the need to have a place for training people who are part of our counter-terrorism task force. I am very provincial in this. I understand that. But the Nevada test site, where we set off 1,000 nuclear devices over the years, is a place as large as Rhode Island. It has mountains, valleys, deserts, dry lakes. It has a facility already there for testing chemical spills. It has huge dormitories and restaurants. It is a place that is waiting for some activity.

In addition to that, if we want to test hardened silos that Saddam Hussein and people in Afghanistan have dug and built, we can use a network of tunnels that have been built there for nuclear testing over the years that are miles long. So as part of restoring confidence in the economy, we should have this national terrorism center.

I only hope that we all understand that it is extremely important we not walk out of here with a stimulus package that is driven solely by tax cuts. I acknowledge that there are certain things we can do that are important on the tax side. There are other things we need to do. We need to look at those people who have been displaced in the September 11 aftermath.

Senator CARNAHAN offered an amendment on the airline security bill. It was a good amendment that failed on a party-line vote. That is too bad. We need to make sure before we leave here that the Carnahan amendment passes. We must do that.

We also must recognize that people who have been displaced not only have problems of unemployment, but they have no health insurance. We have to do something to extend COBRA or somehow to take care of COBRA.

While we talk about these extended unemployment benefits, we have to understand that unemployment compensation is a bridge to nowhere unless there is a job on the other end of it. We have to make sure we do something about that.

I spoke last evening to Senator NELSON of Florida. I have spoken to the two Senators from New York and other States who have an interest in tourism. That includes at least 30 States that have tourism as the No. 1, 2, or 3 most important economic forces in their States. We have to boost tourism.

There has been general agreement that we should look at a program to give a tax credit to people who travel—short-term, of course. We need to take a look and see if we need to restore the deductibility for business meals to stimulate the economy in that regard.

Senator DORGAN and I introduced legislation last week that would look at the ancillary businesses inside the airline business, such as rental car companies and travel agencies. These people also need a shot in the arm.

If we walk out of here this year and don't take into consideration the fact that we need to restore confidence in the economy by creating jobs and making sure people feel good about our homeland defense issues, we will have made a big mistake.

I suggest the absence of a quorum.

DEPARTMENTS OF LABOR, HEALTH AND HUMAN SERVICES, AND EDUCATION, AND RELATED AGENCIES APPROPRIATIONS ACT, 2002—Continued

Mr. REID. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent that the list I will send to the desk, once this consent has been granted, be the only first-degree amendments to H.R. 3061, the Labor-HHS appropriations bill, and that these amendments be subject to relevant second-degree amendments.

AMENDMENT NO. 2020

(Purpose: To provide for equal coverage of mental health benefits with respect to health insurance coverage unless comparable limitations are imposed on medical and surgical benefits)

Mr. DOMENICI. On behalf of myself, Senator WELLSTONE, and Senator KENNEDY, I send an amendment to the desk.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report the amendment.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from New Mexico (Mr. DOMENICI), for himself, Mr. WELLSTONE, and Mr. KENNEDY, proposes an amendment numbered 2020.

Mr. DOMENICI. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent that reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

(The text of the amendment is printed in today's RECORD under "Amendments Submitted.")

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from New Mexico is recognized.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, I rise today to offer the Mental Health Equitable Treatment Act of 2001 as amendment to the fiscal year 2002 Labor-HHS bill. I am joined by my friend and partner in this endeavor, Senator WELLSTONE.

We are well aware of many of the arguments that will be made against our amendment. For instance, while the nation is rightly focused on recovering from the trauma and damage inflicted on September 11, it would be wrong to overlook this important issue because it is simply the right course of action to undertake. We are well past the time to act on extending and building on the federal mental health parity law that expired on September 30.

Others will argue that our amendment costs too much. However, CBO has scored our bill as costing less than one percent 0.9 percent and again passing this bill is long overdue and the right thing to do for the millions of Americans suffering from a mental illness. The number of Americans suffering from a mental illness or the number of family members affected by a mental illness has not magically decreased over the past couple of months.

We are ready for a vigorous debate on a host of issues, but I would like to begin by saying: Our bill has 64 bipartisan cosponsors; the HELP Committee reported out the bill on August 1 by a vote of 21-0; 144 organizations support the bill; and CBO has scored the bill as raising insurance premiums by 0.9 percent.

The human brain is the organ of the mind and like the other organs of our body, it is subject to illness. And just as we must treat illnesses to our other organs, we must also treat illnesses of the brain.

Building upon that, I would ask the following question: what if thirty years ago our nation had decided to exclude heart disease from health insurance coverage? Think about some of the wonderful things we would not be doing today like angioplasty, bypasses, and valve replacements and the millions of people helped because insurance covers these procedures.

I would submit these medical advances have occurred because insurance dollars have followed the patient through the health care system. The presence of insurance dollars has provided an enticing incentive to treat those individuals suffering from heart disease.

But sadly, those suffering from a mental illness do not enjoy those same benefits of treatment and medical advances because all too often insurance discriminates against illnesses of the brain. More often than not, opponents of mental health parity argue the costs are too great. However, I would submit the cost of parity is negligible, especially, when contrasted with the cost impact upon society. The devastating consequences inflicted upon not only those suffering from a mental illness, but their families, their friends, and their loved ones.

Furthermore, the following are several additional costs that result from mental illness: 16 percent of all individuals incarcerated in State and local jails suffer from a mental illness; suicide is currently a national public health crisis, with approximately 30,000 Americans committing suicide every year; of the 850,000 homeless individuals in the United States, about one-third or 300,000 of those individuals suffer from a serious mental illness; and finally what about the people that are crying out for help and society only hears their cries after they have committed a violent act against themselves or others.

Just look, at the tragic incidents in Houston with the mother killing her five children, the Baptist church in Dallas/Forth Worth, and the United States Capitol to see the common link: a severe mental illness. Unfortunately, there is no place that a community can take these individuals for help. The police can do very little and likewise for hospitals.

Some of you may have seen last year's 4 part series of articles in the New York times reviewing the cases of 100 rampage killers.

Most notably the review found that 48 killers had some kind of formal diagnosis for a mental illness, often schizophrenia: 25 of the killers had received a diagnosis of mental illness before committing their crimes; 14 of 24 individuals prescribed psychiatric drugs had stopped taking their medication prior to committing their crimes.

In particular I would point to a couple of passages from the series:

They give lots of warning and even tell people explicitly what they plan to do.

... a closer look shows that these cases may have more to do with society's lack of knowledge of mental health issues ... In case after case, family members, teachers and mental health professionals missed or dismissed signs of deterioration.

Now let us look at the number of individuals suffering from some of the dreaded mental illnesses.

Major depressive disorder: 9.9 million American adults age 18 and older suffer from this disorder in a given year;

Bipolar disorder: 2.3 million American adults age 18 and older suffer from this disorder in a given year;

Schizophrenia: 2.2 million American adults age 18 and older suffer from this disorder in a given year; and Obsessive-compulsive disorder: 3.3 million American adults age 18-54 suffer from this disorder in a given year.

However, medical science is in an era where we can accurately diagnose mental illnesses and treat those afflicted so they can be productive.

I would ask then, why with facts like these would we not cover these individuals and treat their illnesses like any other disease? We should not.

Working together, we took a historic first step with the passage of the Mental Health Parity Act of 1996, but that law is also not working as intended. While there may be adherence to the letter of the law, there are violations of the spirit of the law.

For instance, ways are being found around the law by placing limits on the number of covered hospital days and outpatient visits. Consequently, Senator WELLSTONE and I have again joint forces and introduced the Mental Health Equitable Treatment Act of 2001.

The bill seeks a very simple goal: provide the same mental health benefits already enjoyed by Federal employees.

The bill is modeled after the mental health benefits provided through the Federal Employees Health Benefits Program and expands the Mental Health Parity Act of 1996 by prohibiting a groups health plan from imposing treatment limitations or financial requirements on the coverage of mental health benefits unless comparable limitations are imposed on medical and surgical benefits.

At 2:25 this afternoon, an amendment arrived at the desk. I read off the names of the cosponsors, but I did not name the bill. So let me do that. This bill is called a mental health parity amendment. Another way of talking about it is that it is the mental health parity bill put into an amendment form. So we will not have to wait any longer to have a national debate as to whether insurance companies in the future—not this year but one full year from now is the way we have drafted the bill—will or will not be able to insure people against their illnesses and/or diseases and provide less coverage for the mentally ill as defined in this bill than they do for other well-recognized diseases such as cancer, diabetes, whatever they may be.

That means the thousands upon thousands of American families who have young people in their teens with schizophrenia—well diagnosed, they are told by the medical people what they have, they are subject to treatment, to medication and, yes, a very long life of difficulty if, in fact, they do not have medication and treatment facilities in these great United States, the last group of Americans who have no health insurance because they are defined out of the coverage by the conventional approach to what is a disease and an illness and what is not. They are left out.

So if one goes to New York or Chicago or, yes, Albuquerque, and finds street people and watches them and looks at them and says, oh, my, what are they doing, they will find that fully between 33 percent and 40 percent are sick. That is why they are there. They are sick and they probably have no insurance coverage, even though they are as sick as someone's next door neighbor who had a heart attack and is being taken care of in the best heart facility at the local hospital, and the insurance company pays the bill.

We have had a history in America of not covering the mentally ill under conventional, typical insurance coverage. Quite to the contrary, we have sat by and watched insurance companies—obviously they are doing the best they can and this is part of their business. They are remaining solvent and being able to insure people at the most reasonable prices. The insurance companies come along and say: Since we are not obligated to do so, we will not cover the mentally ill; or if we do, they will be covered with a much smaller total coverage number, and everything about the coverage will be less than what we cover for people with the ordinary diseases that we so often talk about, including the great strides being made in heart disease treatment, heart disease research, heart disease care, or any of the other diseases we are so free to talk about. Somebody is being taken care of. The insurance company is paying the bill. New buildings rise up to cover them because they are insured.

That is a great resource, coming directly from the back of the insured to the marketplace, the marketplace of paying for the best doctors, of paying for facilities. If somebody can pay for them, you are apt to build them.

What about the mentally ill? The mentally ill have no facilities to speak of—just a few—because nobody will pay for them. There are no specialty clinics to speak of. There is very little private sector involvement in building health facilities where the mentally ill can be taken to make sure they take their medicine and are cared for. In the ordinary language of the marketplace, there is no money in it. There is no money in it because the people are not insured.

Five plus years ago, my friend Senator WELLSTONE and I passed the first parity bill. It was partial parity. It caused the discrimination against the mentally ill under insurance policies to go away partially. It just expired. This bill, that is now in amendment form, passed out of the committee 21 to 0. A couple of Republican Senators want to offer amendments, and I am pleased they can offer them now, this afternoon. We tried our best to get the bill called up as a freestanding bill, hoping we would be given a day, 2, or 3 days. We could never get it done because there were some Senators—and it is their privilege and prerogative—who thought that we don't need to mandate coverage, even a year and a half from now, as we do here, and we do not need to cover the mentally ill that doctors define as having a brain disease and should have coverage. Some think their cause of not covering it is better served if we never get this bill up.

I understand what a great imposition this is on the appropriations process and on the two wonderful Senators managing this bill, but I don't see any other way to do it. There are millions of Americans who have worked through their organizations. There are 140 organizations in America supporting this legislation. Some have a special interest. Some will receive better payment for taking care of the mentally ill. Some, such as the National Alliance of the Mentally Ill, understand the plight of people with schizophrenia, the plight of people with bipolar diseases, the manic-depressive. They understand what parents are going through in America.

These diseases do not always strike the elderly or the young. As a matter of fact, one of the most dread of these diseases has a propensity for showing itself when our young people are teenagers, between the ages of 17 and 18, up to 25 or 30. At this age the disease causes a great disability and poses a major problem for care of a son or daughter. Across this land thousands of people have already gone broke, cashing out every asset they own, trying to take care of their child, while America looks on the insurance system and says: We cannot tell anybody what kind of insurance they should cover. We cannot tell any insurance company what they ought to cover. We take for granted that they will cover heart conditions, heart research, they will cover any of the other diseases we more or less call "physical" diseases. On the periphery sits the mentally ill with little or no coverage.

My good friend, Senator WELLSTONE, and I have been joined by 65 Senators. I sent this to the desk at 2:25. This is a very historic time. This amendment will pass, if not today, tomorrow. And today we will finally have made the Senate vote. I am convinced they will vote yes, let's get this started; get rid of this discrimination that has festered long enough in terms of the health coverage system of the United States. Before the day is out, I believe the number of Senators will go up, not down.

For those frightened for small business, the committee, headed by Senator KENNEDY, the committee we entrusted with our bill, which has the jurisdiction, has the authority to decide to send us a bill or not, decided, in order to have great unity and the first time through to get Democrats and Republicans on board, they would make an exception for small business. Everyone should know, all businesses with 50 employees or fewer are exempt; we are not mandating this coverage at this point. Small businesses that might be worried about this, or Senators who might be worried in their behalf, can read this bill. They will find that exemption.

There is much more to say. Taking this up at the end of the year does not do this bill justice. It is a major undertaking by the legislative branch of the U.S. Government, led by the Senate.

Nonetheless, we are going to proceed. To those who procedurally are determined not to let us have a straight vote, you will find a few changes in this bill from the language that came out of the committee. We wanted to make sure this bill was as protected as we could make it from procedural motions on the floor. It is not effective until the year 2003. That cures a lot of procedural problems some might have had. It is not subject to a point of order, a 60-vote point of order, because of that change and 2 or 3 other changes we made in order to see to it we got a straight up-or-down vote.

For the mentally ill, the schizophrenic whose family is desperately trying to take care of them, or someone suffering the great delusions that are typical, the mammoth delusions that are common for a schizophrenic or for the bipolar suffering—for some unknown reason, they can be in a very low mood and then as high as they can get, and in between the highs and lows is a great inability to live a normal life—this is the best we can do for those families in America, for those millions suffering. We have to offer it today. We have to get the Senate to say yes or no on whether coverage by insurance policies is part of the normal, everyday coverage for health care, whether or not it will include that portion of Americans.

Obviously, these dread diseases are not typical only to America. In any particular area where a group of humans live, there is a certain percentage who will turn up with schizophrenia. There is a certain group that will turn up with the enormous ups and downs of the bipolar disease I described.

There is also clinical depression, which probably has more victims than any other in terms of numbers. What does depression bring, along with the other two diseases I mentioned? A total loss of hope; suicides, which are growing in numbers, especially among teenagers. More times than not when that event occurs, the trail of symptoms indicates if they had been treated for depression, it probably would not have happened.

In any event, I am prepared to go on much longer and in much more detail.

For those who want us to delay consideration of this measure, I urge you to come down. See if I am correct. I don't think you have a parliamentary way of avoiding having the Senate vote. I don't think there is a way that you can make it subject to a point of order where we will need 60 votes. I don't believe there is a point of order with reference to the budgetary impact because we are able to understand in advance those kinds of procedural approaches. The bill is no longer subject to those kinds of procedural attacks.

We feel good about it. We would like to spend some time talking about the reality of this bill and what it will and won't do.

I close by saying the last argument that will come from those who oppose it is: Can we afford it? I assume they will also say: We are now in a recession. So we really can't afford it.

I just told you it is not effective until 2003. We give everyone time to get out of the recession. Besides that, in terms of budgetary problems, the best estimate we have, and we will put it in the RECORD shortly, is the Congressional Budget Office saying when fully implemented, this may increase the cost of health insurance by nine-tenths of 1 percent. That is what the Congressional Budget Office says.

I have given you the small business exemption. I have given you the experts' cost. I have given you when it will come into effect. Later on we will discuss who is covered by it. That is still something to be discussed. Some will want to know whether we made it too broad, whether we covered too many people, and whether we covered them in language that is so vague so that the disease is not adequately defined. We think we have done all of those things.

We are pleased to engage later in the day with anybody who would like to talk about that.

I yield the floor. I thank Senator WELLSTONE for his help. We will be here this afternoon defending this measure as long as we are needed.

I yield the floor.

Mr. WELLSTONE. Madam President, I believe the Senator from Pennsylvania wants to speak. I will defer to him. I ask unanimous consent that I follow the Senator from Pennsylvania.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. SPECTER. Madam President, I compliment my distinguished colleague from New Mexico for his diligent work over a very long period of time on this very important issue. When he talks about the measure, it is Senator DOMENICI, for himself, Senator WELLSTONE, and Senator SPECTER. I am second on the cosponsor list on his substantive amendment. When he asked me before submitting it whether I would be a cosponsor, I said that I wanted to wait and see the discussion.

The concern that I have is the moving of this appropriations bill. My colleague from New Mexico understands that full well. He is on the Appropriations Committee and is the chairman of the subcommittee. I think it is a bill which ought to be enacted. I believe there ought to be mental health parity. The reasons which he has given are very persuasive.

The concern I have is it is legislation on an appropriations bill, and the concern as to whether there are tax implications to include deductibles, coinsurance, copayments, and catastrophic maximums which would provide a basis for a so-called blue slip by the House of Representatives. We can handle that in due course. I am going to await the arguments.

I would like to find some way to accommodate this amendment. I am just not sure at this point that it is possible. But I wanted to express those views at this time. I know the Senator from Minnesota is waiting to comment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Minnesota is recognized.

Mr. WELLSTONE. Madam President, I thank my colleague from Pennsylvania. I know in discussions with the Senator from Pennsylvania and Senator HARKIN from Iowa that we can go over all of the points. We have made a special effort to deal with it.

First of all, I thank my colleague, Senator DOMENICI from New Mexico. It has been my honor to have worked with him now for over half a decade on this question.

I believe the Senate will pass this amendment. When we pass this amendment, I think it will be viewed favorably by historians. I am not trying to be melodramatic.

There are 67 Senators, Republican and Democrat alike, who support this piece of legislation. It passed out of the HELP Committee by a 21-to-0 vote. There are 150 organizations that support it. There are two reasons.

First of all, this legislation is major civil rights legislation. We are coming to November 2001. When this amendment and bill pass, I believe we can keep it in conference. We will have passed a major piece of civil rights legislation which will say that we will no longer permit discrimination against those people who struggle with mental illness in our country.

This legislation says, when it comes to those who are struggling with this illness, there will no longer be discrimination. It is modeled after the Federal Employees Benefits Plan.

It basically says there will be the same requirements when it comes to deductibles, copays, and days in the hospital and outpatient visits.

I thank the Senator from Massachusetts as chairman of the HELP Committee for helping us get this through the Health Committee on a 21-to-0 vote. He and his staff have been there throughout all of the negotiations and work on this bill.

I thank Senator DOMENICI. Next to Senator DOMENICI, I thank Senator KENNEDY.

I think there is going to be an overwhelmingly positive vote because it is just wrong for someone who is struggling with this kind of illness to be told they are going to have to pay a higher copay, and they are going to have to pay a higher deductible. No health insurance plan will let them stay a few days in the hospital. No. They can only have a certain number of outpatient visits.

We will not do that with someone who suffers from a heart condition, nor to someone who is suffering from diabetes, nor to someone who broke their ankle. We don't say to them they are going to be in the hospital only 1 day and that is it, or 2 days and that is it. Nor would we charge them high copays and deductibles to the point where they can't afford it.

We have to end the discrimination. It is 2001. The time has come for this idea.

The Surgeon General in his report said close to 20 percent of American people struggle with this illness and 18 million people struggle with depression.

I have had the honor of working with Al and Mary Kluesner from Minnesota. They started an organization. It is now a national organization. It is called SAVE. Two of their children committed suicide. They have two children who are doing spectacularly well.

Up until very recently, a lot of families, parents, brothers, sisters, husbands, and wives blamed themselves when they lost a loved one who took their life. There has been this shame. People have blamed themselves. But now we know a lot more. Now we know how much of that is biochemical. Now we know it can be diagnosed. Now we know it is treatable. The success rate for treatment of those who are struggling with depression is 80 percent.

Kay Jamison, a psychiatrist at Johns Hopkins who has tried to take her life twice, has written several powerful books. One book is called "An Unquiet Mind" about her own experiences. Just a month ago she received the McArthur Award—the genius grant—for her work. She has written about the gap between what we know and what we do. It is lethal.

The Kluesners became involved and people all across the country have become involved. They no longer will accept the stigma. They no longer will accept the discrimination. They have come out of the closet. They have come out of the closet to speak for their loved ones because they know it is a matter of life or death.

If we would end the discrimination, we would get the care to people; we would save some lives.

Suicide is the third leading cause of death among young people in our country. In Minnesota, it is the second leading cause of death.

So much of this can be diagnosed. So much of this is preventable. That is why this amendment and this legislation is so important.

It is not just a question of civil rights. It is not just a question of saying it is the end of discrimination. It is also a question of what we can now do as a nation. Because if our health care plans—modeled after the plan that we participate in, the Federal Employees Health Benefits Plan—say there will be no difference in terms of the way we treat this illness versus any physical illness, then, I say to Senator DOMENICI, the care will follow the money. Once the health care plans provide the coverage, you will have an infrastructure of care out there for people that we do not have right now.

There will be arguments and counterarguments, and I am ready for all of them.

Let me just make a couple more points because I will be in this Chamber for a while with this amendment, and other Senators are in the Chamber right now.

There was a young woman named Anna Westin. Her mom and dad, Kitty and Mark Westin, have brought parents together as well. They have brought parents together because their daughter—a beautiful young woman—struggled with anorexia. Same issue: She tried to get coverage from the plan. It was the Blue Cross/Blue Shield plan in Minnesota. They could not get the coverage for the days in-hospital that she needed to be there. They lost their daughter.

By the way, Blue Cross/Blue Shield has made a settlement with them and is going to do much better in terms of providing the coverage. I cannot make a one-to-one correlation and say because she did not get coverage, therefore, Anna took her life. But I can tell you this: I have met with parents, I promise you, all across the country who have told me about what it means when they cannot get coverage to take care of their children.

I went down to Houston; and SHEILA JACKSON-LEE had a hearing she wanted to do with me. It dealt with mental health and children. It was unbelievable the number of people who came who wanted to speak about their desperate story with their own children. At this public hearing, the guy who was the head of the corrections system for one of the largest counties in the United States of America—I could not believe what he said—said: I am a law and order person. Nobody seemed to doubt that. And he said: I want to tell you, a lot of people believe that if these kids are locked up in our facilities, they have done something wrong. He said: I want to tell you—I think the figure he used was 40 percent—40 percent of these kids, if they had gotten some help, would not even be in jail. They should not be locked up. It is the only place the parents can get any help for them.

There was a time when we talked about how we institutionalized people, we warehoused people struggling with mental illness—adults and children in institutions. Now we are warehousing them in our jails, and many people should not be there—many children should not be there.

So this legislation ends the discrimination for a broad range of mental illnesses that affect adults and children.

This legislation has an exclusion for small business so that businesses are not covered unless they have 50 employees or more.

This bill has been scored by CBO as costing no more than a 1-percent increase in premium. Then there is the benefit of what happens when we finally end the discrimination and what happens when we finally provide the coverage for people.

We had testimony—my last point because I will have a chance to speak later—before the HELP Committee, I say to Senator KENNEDY. There were a number of people who came in—I wish

I could remember all of their names: doctors, psychiatrists, social workers—and they were talking about the aftermath of September 11. I am not mixing agendas. I am being as intellectually honest as I can.

One woman, who worked with the firefighters, said: I want to tell you that given what people have gone through, you are going to have to have an infrastructure of mental health care. Her name is Dr. Kerry Kelly. She talked about her experiences with her onsite work as chief medical officer of the New York Fire Department. She just basically said: Look, we are going to need a lot of help for family members. And people have been saying that all across the country.

So, I say to colleagues, please consider this legislation civil rights in ending discrimination. Colleagues, please consider this legislation as a way of finally providing the care to men, women, and children who, if they are provided with the care, can go on and lead good, productive lives. And, colleagues, also please consider this legislation preparedness legislation. The truth is, no longer, when we talk about health care for adults or health care for children, or public health, or what we have to do, can we not consider mental health part of the cake. It is part of how we deliver humane and dignified and affordable health care to people in the country.

This is about as important a piece of legislation as I think we can pass. But, look, I have my biases. I came here as a Senator who has a brother who has struggled with this illness all of his life. When I was elected in 1990, I thought if there was one thing I would try to do, for sure, I would try to end this discrimination in coverage. For sure, I wanted to make sure that people were able to get the help they needed.

I have had a chance to work with Senator DOMENICI for over half a decade. And I have had a chance to work with Senator KENNEDY for over a decade. Now is the moment where we can pass this legislation as a part of this bill. And I think we can keep it in conference. This would be a huge step forward for our country.

We need each other as never before. There is an ethic going on in this country about the ways we can help one another. I think that is all for the good in the most difficult of times. This would be the best possible way of living up to this value and this ethic, to adopt this amendment with an overwhelming vote.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. JOHNSON). The Senator from Massachusetts.

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, first of all, I congratulate and thank our two leaders in this extremely important bill in the area of health policy—Senator DOMENICI and Senator WELLSTONE—for ensuring that the Senate will have an opportunity to address one of the most compelling health care issues we are faced with in our society. I thank them for their constant support on this issue over the years.

We have had debates on mental health parity on a number of different occasions, but with the shaping and the fashioning of this amendment, this really is the moment of truth on this issue. This is the time to take action.

Senator DOMENICI and Senator WELLSTONE deserve all of our thanks for their leadership and the work they have done. I would also thank those who have been a part of the process in helping us develop the legislation, the scores of families who came and testified and shared some of the great personal challenges they have faced as they have dealt with the challenges of mental illness in their families, deserve a great deal of credit.

We express to them that the best way we can ever thank them for being willing to share some of the great challenges they have faced over a lifetime of care and dedication and commitment—and in a number of instances financial ruin—is to have real parity in our health care system. This legislation will do that for us.

I was listening to both of our colleagues and remember so much of the similar debate we had back in 1996 on the HIPAA legislation, when both Senator DOMENICI and Senator WELLSTONE brought these matters to the floor of the Senate at that time. A number of our colleagues spoke with great passion and great commitment, and we thought we had made a substantial downpayment in moving us irrevocably in that direction. But, nonetheless, we were not able to do so because there were those who were able to find ways of circumventing the legislation and finding ways of subverting both the intent and, for me personally, even the letter of the law. The Senate voted for it overwhelmingly, Republican and Democrats alike.

Over the years, this body has been somewhat slow in finally responding to science rather than ideology. For years, those who were challenged mentally were too often put aside in our society and denied a position of respect and dignity. They were shunned. They were looked down on. They were pitied. They were, in many instances, abused. Their lot was not a good one in America.

Then, more recently, that attitude has changed. I would like to believe there has been a new sense of respect for the valuing of individuals on the basis of their character rather than, as was used with these words, “the color of their skin” or their gender or their ethnicity or their disability. We have made important progress.

What we have seen over time is corresponding progress in being able to deal with the challenges of mental illness. We have made real progress. Now there is really no excuse whatsoever. Now there is no reason whatsoever to deny the Senate the opportunity this afternoon to move toward true equality and true parity in terms of mental health.

If we look at some of the mental disorders that are most common in terms of challenges to our communities, one is bipolar disorder, another is depression. Compare those to the physical disorders of hypertension and diabetes, common illnesses, common challenges we face; you find that the treatment success rates for these chronic diseases of bipolar disorder and depression far exceed those for hypertension and diabetes. This is true across the board. Not everyone understands it; not everyone believes it. But increasingly, the medical information and testimony and results indicate that mental illness is treatable. It is such a statement of hope for families to know that, if they get the appropriate treatment, they can free the individuals facing these challenges from some of the torments they are facing in the course of their lives. We have made enormous strides. We are making enormous strides.

Our two colleagues share my belief that we are at the time of the light science century—with the mapping of the DNA, stem cell research, and all sorts of recent exciting medical breakthroughs. We view the opportunities for continued progress in this area, such as in the year of the brain, where we have had very profound research and discoveries on what impacts thought process in people's minds. We have made enormous progress, not only in understanding but also in dealing with these issues.

The question is, why not have parity? It is so compelling and so necessary.

I will digress for a moment and thank our colleagues for bringing this to our attention at this time in our country's history. All of us still are sensing the powerful emotions we felt on September 11. We know anxiety still exists for so many families, not only as a result of the particular enormous tragedy that was so devastating to so many families but also its impact on our Nation as a whole and, more recently, the challenges we are facing in terms of the dangers of Anthrax. We know it has only directly affected some 15 of our fellow citizens, but we know that the fear and the anxiety among our fellow citizens is significant.

I dare say, this anxiety has impacted no group more than the children of our country. They are feeling this enormous anxiety. They are feeling it not only as a result of September 11; they are also feeling it with regard to the threats of Anthrax and the whole threat of bioterrorism. There is a lot of anxiety in America today.

We don't expect this bill to solve all of the problems, but what it will do is give the stamp of the U.S. Senate. Any fair review in the reading of the record is going to reflect very clearly that there are ways of providing assistance to those who need the attention and the care and the guidance and the support and the treatments that are out there for American families.

The most obvious ones are those that have been involved in the current rescue efforts at ground zero and their families. Having had an opportunity the other evening to talk to the head of the firefighters union and to listen to him for a short period of time, I could already see that the challenges that are going to be faced by so many of the families involved are going to be severe.

We know that challenges still exists. We know now in recent years enormous progress has been made in understanding the very challenge of mental illness and mental disease. We know extraordinary progress has been made.

The only reason for not accepting this amendment may be the issue of cost. It always comes around to the issue of cost. At least it comes around so often by those who want to resist legislation.

That argument does not stand up in this case. We have experience in a number of the States on this issue. In our committee, this was raised as an issue. And we agreed to raise the exemption from companies with 25 employees or less up to companies of 50 employees or less. That means approximately half of all working families in this country will effectively be covered, but there will still be many others left out. I regret that, quite frankly. But I am satisfied that if we get this in place and we have the results that I know will come, we will be right back in a very short period to extend the exemption from employers of less than 50 down to 25.

The fact is, 23 States have passed parity laws. There is absolutely no evidence that any of them have experienced any significant increase in costs. We know that now as fact. We are not dealing with theories, estimates, or judgments by those who are opposed to it. We are dealing with facts. The facts are as I have stated; there has not been a significant increase in cost.

The Senators from New Mexico and Minnesota would agree with me that with an effective program providing mental health parity, you are probably going to see a reduction in the cost of health care because when you treat the mental health challenges and the illnesses for individuals, more often than not, it has a very positive impact in terms of other physical disabilities.

Those studies have been presented before our committee, and I am absolutely convinced that even though this is going to provide additional kinds of treatment for individuals who need it, the overall bottom line is going to be savings in health care expenditures. We have seen examples of it. I won't take the Senate's time right now to go into those studies, but a very compelling case has been made.

If you think back to it logically, you will see the reasons for it. The first reason is to assist families and individuals by increasing the nation's capability to provide mental health services to Americans who need it. It is a grave mark on our national consciousness if we have the ability to assist these families and we do not do so. This legislation will ensure that we are going to do it.

Secondly, with the progress that has been made with these breakthrough treatments and medicines, we have the chance to make a important difference to our fellow citizens in their lives and the lives of their families and to have an enormous positive impact on our fellow citizens.

Finally, this is not going to be an additional burden in terms of cost. This is a compelling case. It has been made eloquently and passionately by two of those who have given their commitments and the force of their arguments—Senators DOMENICI and WELLSTONE. They have made this case time in and time out. It is time for the Senate to act. It is essential that we act, and I hope this will pass overwhelmingly.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Nevada is recognized.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, I am happy to be a cosponsor of this amendment.

First of all, I wish to express my gratitude for the leadership shown by Senator WELLSTONE and Senator DOMENICI. They brought to the Senate, with this unique partnership they have formed, something that will be long remembered. They are from different political parties, two individuals with different views on almost everything in political life. In the last 6 or 7 years in the Senate, they have brought together something that has been very dynamic. As a result of their leadership, laws have been changed in this country, attitudes have been changed in this country, and the entire United States owes a debt of gratitude to these two men.

We have all had experiences with diseases where we may have said, yes, my cousin, my brother, my father, or my neighbor had this same disease—whether it is cancer, heart disease, whatever the condition—a medical problem with which we have all had experience. If we are honest with ourselves—and we are becoming so—if we talk about mental illness, it is the same thing.

How many of us have relatives who have clinical depression? Lots of us. How many know of members of our families who have bipolar disorders? That is a relatively new term but something we understand. The same applies—whether it is cancer or heart disease, it applies to this.

I have been stunned by how many people have been affected by a suicide. It is no secret in this body that my father committed suicide. It is no secret that it took a long time for me to acknowledge it publicly and talk about my father's death. But since I have, every place I go, people come to me and relate stories. For example, I was at a TV interview in Las Vegas. One of the anchors who did the interview said: May I speak to you afterward? I said sure, and I waited. Her brother committed suicide. Every place I go, people come up to me and say their mother, father, brother, or sister committed suicide. We know at least 31,000 people each year kill themselves. There are really more because there are automobile accidents and other kinds of "accidents" that are not counted, but they are suicides.

Many people deny that their loved ones have committed suicide. I try to have them be as forthcoming as I should have been many years ago about my father. It affects us all.

That is what this amendment is all about—parity, making sure that heart disease is treated no differently than depression that leads to suicide.

There is a tendency of some to think these problems are identifiable at a given age. Well, the sad reality of it is that mental illness doesn't appear at any certain age. Children have mental disorders, mental problems. Teenagers develop them. People in their twenties and thirties have them.

Here are two examples. There is a woman I have gotten to know in Washington—a 78-year-old widow. She is a very pretty woman. Her husband was extremely well educated. She has two sons. They both were happy, with good jobs, in good professions. While in their forties, they developed mental illness—both of them. Now she cares for her two sons. She is 78 years old. I visit her at least once a month. Some months they are in better shape than in other months. They are under medication and treatment. But it has affected her life dramatically.

I often wonder what is going to happen. In fact, I don't know about the one son. One, I know, was happily married with children before he got sick. Now he is divorced. I often wonder what is going to happen to these men after this woman passes away.

Another example is somebody I knew who was a great athlete in high school, a high school all-American, college all-American, a professional athlete. I wonder what happened to him. All of a sudden, I didn't see him on the roster and wondered what happened to him. He is in an institution—a mental institution. Who would ever guess it? I will not mention his name. Who would ever guess he would have been in a mental institution—this fantastic athlete, tough, hard, and so good. He is in a mental institution.

I recognize that there needs to be more done so that we accept mental illness more. That is what this legislation is all about. That is what mental parity is. That is the name these two men—Senators WELLSTONE and DOMENICI came up with, "mental parity," or mental fairness, to treat diseases the same, whether it is heart trouble or depression.

We are doing better than we were. One reason we are doing better, in my opinion—the one to which I have devoted so much time, suicide—is we have a man who is the Surgeon General who is a tremendous person. All we had to do was talk to him about suicide and he knew something had to be done. Dr. Satcher has worked tirelessly, since he became Surgeon General, to bring about change. He has worked with us to make sure there was money to study the causes of suicide. We don't know why people commit suicide.

You would think the suicide would be in States—and I say this without any denigration whatsoever—where it is dark and cold in the wintertime, such as North Dakota, Minnesota, South Dakota, these cold States, but it is not.

It is not. Suicide is west of the Mississippi, in States where the Sun shines a lot, wide open plains and places for people to get outdoors. The 10 leading States in suicide are west of the Mississippi. We do not know why, but we are studying why, and we hope to learn more.

In the Senate, we have passed resolutions recognizing the problems with suicide. We are appropriating some money now. We are doing better.

To show this is a serious problem, I have a statement that indicates that a telephone survey conducted by the Pew Research Center of the people and the press a few days after the attacks on September 11 found that 71 percent of respondents reported being depressed, 49 percent said they had difficulty concentrating, and 33 percent reported insomnia.

We have all talked to our friends and relatives who after this attack are having trouble sleeping. For the first time these people are having trouble sleeping.

In another study conducted 3 weeks after the attacks, respondents said they were depressed, and 20 percent 3 weeks after of the events said they were having trouble sleeping.

There should be full parity for mental illness. We have to make sure, as has been discussed today, that companies, businesses, and government do not try to figure out some way to get around this. They should not do that. It is the intent of this amendment that people with mental illness be treated as well, as fairly, and as equally as people with medical illnesses. That is the purpose of this legislation.

If, in some subsequent time, someone is trying to figure out the congressional intent, the intent of this is to have mental parity, to have people who have mental illness treated the same as people with a medical illness.

Again, I express my appreciation to the people who have us talking about this issue, Senator WELLSTONE and Senator DOMENICI. But for their advocacy, we would not be here today and we would not have been doing things in the past 5 years. It is because of them we are considering this amendment. I am personally indebted to them for the work they have done to help those with no voice, to help those with no lobbyists, to help those who cannot help themselves.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Michigan.

Ms. STABENOW. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to be added as a cosponsor of the amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Ms. STABENOW. Mr. President, I am proud to be a cosponsor of the legislation and to add my name to this amendment. I join with others who have thanked Senator DOMENICI and Senator WELLSTONE for their diligence and dedication on what is an extremely important issue. It is extremely important to all of our families.

I have been involved with mental health issues all of my adult life, starting when I was in the State House of Representatives in Michigan chairing the Mental Health Committee and writing legislation we have in place in Michigan for children, families, and adults. But today I rise in support of this amendment because of my personal situation.

My father, who was an extremely loving and wonderful man, a businessman in business with my grandfather in a car dealership in Eau Claire, MI, when I was growing up, in his mid-thirties found himself being diagnosed a manic-depressive. At first, we did not know what that meant in terms of the highs and lows he was experiencing.

At that time—it was the midsixties—there was very little available in the community. It mostly was hospitalization for anyone who had any kind of mental health problems. We did not have a lot of money. Our family was not a wealthy family, and we struggled with attempts to get my father adequate care.

One of the things we learned as we moved through this disease with him was that mental illness is as physical as any disease that is now covered by our insurance system. If you are a manic-depressive, that means you have chemicals in your brain that are off balance. They provide too much of a stimulus that causes one to be awake, to go into a manic state; it causes then too less of a stimulus, so one goes into a depression and they may swing back and forth.

Just as we have now developed medicines to help those who have cancer and diabetes or those who have Parkinson's or Alzheimer's disease—and we are moving on all kinds of fronts to develop new medications—we have medicine now for those who are diagnosed manic-depressive.

When my father was finally able to find someone who understood his disease, there was something developed called Lithium, and he had the opportunity to begin taking that medication each month. He was able to go back to his normal life. He was able to work and function and be a part of the community because this was a physiological disease that was treatable by medication.

We know, whether it is schizophrenia, manic-depression, or other diseases, that we are talking about imbalances in the brain. These are physiological changes. These are health problems, as much of a health problem as diseases that are covered by insurance.

I cannot think of anything more basic than finally, in 2001, understanding in our health insurance system what we have now known in the medical community for years, and that is: If we provide treatment, we can treat those with mental illnesses as well as physical illnesses with great success.

My colleagues have spoken to the fact if we do not do that, we will treat them in our jails, we will treat folks who are homeless and under the bridges sleeping at night. There will be some way that those who have mental illnesses will find themselves in situations where they will be reaching out, and we will be addressing it in some way in the community. The question is, do we do it in a positive way in the health care system where it needs to be addressed or will we be addressing it in some other way that is not positive?

I hope we will all come together. It would be wonderful to see everyone coming to the Chamber and supporting this long overdue amendment on mental health parity. I hope my colleagues understand this has been worked out. This is a bill that has been balanced. For those concerned about small business, this is legislation addresses those companies with less than 50 employees being exempt, that there is a year delay—there is a lot that has been put together in this amendment.

I compliment my colleagues who have worked so hard to come up with a balanced approach and yet proceed with the principle of mental health parity. In this day and age, shame on us if we do not understand the variety of ways in which someone can become ill and require our health system to address those equally. It is long overdue. I strongly urge adoption of this amendment.

I again thank my colleagues who have come forward and have fought so diligently for this principle for so many years.

THE PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from New Mexico.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, I say to the Senator before she leaves the Chamber, I thank her very much for her remarks. I have been very amazed in the 5 or 6 years I have been involved with mental illness issues as it pertains to Federal policy, as it pertains to State law, the more I go out and meet people, whether it is in a town-hall meeting where a lot of people from all walks of life come, or whether it is a special event where somebody is being honored and there is a lot of glitter around, or even if you go to New York for some kind of event and you are meeting the people of swank New York, wherever and whenever, you always have more than one person walk up and tell you about their family—schizophrenia, manic depression, clearly depression, especially among young people, always somebody brings that up.

To be honest, it is so common as an illness that it is hard for this Senator to believe we are in this year, 2001, still letting people write insurance policies and act as if heart conditions and all the research that goes with it should be covered, even build hospital clinics because insurance companies are so willing to pay because that insurer carries all of his resources on his back and builds new hospitals, builds new clinics, builds new techniques, builds more research, but all of these people who walk up to us and tell us their story, there is no money, there is no coverage.

Some people will take that as this is a big philosophical difference. They would say to Senator DOMENICI on the Republican side, why do you want to tell anybody what to do? Why do you want to tell insurance companies what to do?

Frankly, I think when we started this process of what will insurance companies cover and what they will not, I asked a question of those who think this is philosophical: What if we would have said a heart condition is not covered by insurance. Why? Because the heart is part physical and it is part spiritual, and we do not know enough about it so let us not cover it.

What do you think we would be doing today? Do you think we would get to 2001 in American chronology and we would still be having insurance companies say they are not covering heart conditions because 41 years ago they should not have covered heart conditions because, after all, it is part spirit and part physical?

Those who oppose this legislation want to leave the millions of Americans with severe mental illnesses right where they have been for decades. They do not want to acknowledge there is treatment, that it is costly, that one can get well, and that it is defined as brain disease in many parts of the medical community.

It is not something that is unlike any other illness. It is very much like a lot of illnesses. It has a huge number of qualities that are the same as mental illnesses that we are so concerned about that we would not let an insurance company get by without covering them to the maximum. We would have them here and we would be citing them for some kind of contempt of America if they did that, I would think.

So when the Senator from Michigan joins us and tells us the real facts, it begins to show signs that the message is getting through.

Let me give one more example. When President Kennedy was the President, we were engaged in a very serious national effort with the severely mentally ill who were locked in cages. We could tell a whole story about that terrible part of American health care. As an ironic situation, I might say they are no longer locked in cages as they were. At that point in history, we decided that could not be done, they had to be let out.

Now more of the seriously mentally ill are in jails in America than they are in hospitals. They are not in the cages. They are in jails because there is no place else to put them. They are getting arrested for malfeasance, most of it small. When it gets to the big crimes, we have a national argument about whether or not they are mentally insane when they commit mass murder.

In any event, the reality of it is we decided way back then that we were going to treat the mentally ill differently. But what we thought would happen was that across America there would be clinics, there would be facilities built that would let the doctors treat the mentally ill in a modern, hospitable, decent manner, not in the dungeons of the past.

Guess what happened. Nobody put up any money. Now one would say: Well, who should put up money? Either the Government ought to pay for some facilities or there ought to be some coverage if it is an illness so that the insurance companies would pay for it based upon it being carried by the mentally ill person. When they get sick, the insurance comes into play. With that, the private sector may build many facilities for the mentally ill. It is not going to happen until we do that.

I thank the Senator so much for her remarks today. They were right on, from this Senator's standpoint, and very relevant.

Ms. STABENOW. Will my friend yield?

Mr. DOMENICI. I yield.

Ms. STABENOW. One more time, I thank the Senator from New Mexico for his commitment on this issue and the way he is able to explain the importance of it.

I stress, along with the Senator, if we had private insurance coverage, then the facilities would be there. They would know there is a way for this to be paid for and, in fact, as we do with other kinds of health insurance, the hospitals would know there is a reimbursement system, the physicians would know there is a reimbursement system, and they would know as well there would be for these mental illnesses.

I thank the Senator for his wonderful commitment and leadership, as well as Senator WELLSTONE. I am hopeful we can move forward and that this can truly be a historic day.

Mr. DOMENICI. I send to the desk a list of cosponsors. There were 65, plus the Senator from Minnesota and the Senator from New Mexico.

Mr. STEVENS. Will the Senator yield?

Mr. DOMENICI. I am pleased to yield to the Senator.

Mr. STEVENS. Mr. President, I ask the Senator from New Mexico if this has been scored by the Office of Management and Budget?

Mr. DOMENICI. Yes, it has.

Mr. STEVENS. What would be its impact on fiscal year 2002?

Mr. DOMENICI. No impact on the year 2002. We have made the bill operative and effective in 2003.

Mr. STEVENS. Mr. President, I want to confer with the distinguished chairman of our committee, but we reached a firm agreement we would not exceed 686 for this year, and I do not know how that impacts taking on a bill that will start impacting 2003. What would be the impact in 2003?

Mr. DOMENICI. Over $150 million a year. We knew of the agreement and the binding nature of our agreement, and I felt bound by it in terms of how much money for 2002, and I think that is literally for 2002 but not 2003, 2004, or 2005. So we changed the effective date to 2003 in the amendment before it was sent to the desk.

Mr. STEVENS. I must express my reservation until we reach an understanding about how this will impact the agreement we made with the Office of Management and Budget and with the House on this bill. It does add out-year expenditures, as I understand it. The Senator has indicated it does not impact 2002. I reserve judgment on this amendment.

I am a cosponsor of it. I think the bill itself is a worthy bill, and it basically is an entitlement program. It is not an appropriation, as I understand it.

Mr. DOMENICI. The Senator asked me a question, and I want to answer this way: Frankly, most of this bill is going to be taken care of by insurance companies paying insurance bills, but there is some U.S. Government responsibility because it reduces the receipts in certain areas that would have otherwise come in because of the overall costs. We knew in 2002 it was subject to a point of order because, in fact, there is a cap in 2002. There is no cap for 2003 and the years beyond, and for that reason we do not believe a point of order lies in the outyears, nor do we think anybody is bound to reduce appropriations by that amount in the outyears.

We are prepared at some point to exchange serious discussions, if anyone wants to do it, on this issue.

I yield my time, and I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Minnesota.

Mr. WELLSTONE. Mr. President, I, too, thank the Senator from Michigan.

Mr. WELLSTONE. Above and beyond the National Mental Health Association and the National Alliance for the Mentally Ill, there is a Fairness Coalition of Mental Health, and other children, education, law enforcement, and labor organizations all behind this legislation. There is a broad range of organizations supporting the legislation.

I point out to colleagues the legalistic language of the bill. This bill is modeled after the Federal Employees Health Benefits Program in which we participate. It says to a group health plan: Do not treat mental health benefits differently from the coverage of medical and surgical benefits. You have to treat it the same way. The legislation does not mandate that a plan provide mental health coverage but says if you have mental health coverage, you have to treat it the same way or have the same coverage as for physical illness. That is why it is called a parity bill.

There are still important steps to take, which I hope someday we will, so all the people in our country who have no coverage will be treated. This legislation for over 100 million would make an enormous difference.

The cost to the Nation is enormous. Additional health care costs occur when people cannot get the coverage they need, and they wind up in the emergency room or it leads to other illnesses. There is a productivity loss from people who struggle with illness and get no help. There are the social costs of crime: When people do not get treatment, they cannot work or they wind up homeless. We have a lot of homeless people struggling with mental illness. When we treat children at a young age, it will have a huge impact on whether they have a life of misery where they could end up in trouble, more trouble, then incarceration, or whether they are treated and they can go on and live a very productive, happy, and healthy life.

I visited a correction facility—and there are many facilities—in Tallulah, LA. I could talk about this forever. Mr. President, 95 percent of the kids had not committed a violent crime. Too many were kids who struggled with mental illness. They should have been checked at the front end of assessment when a kid breaks and enters a house or steals a car. Remember, we are talking about anywhere from 10 percent to 20 percent of children in this country who struggle with this illness.

Too many kids all across the country—and your police, law and order communities, law enforcement communities, will tell you this—do not get any treatment, there is no coverage, and they wind up incarcerated when they should not be incarcerated. Then what happens is almost indescribable. The kids are not able to defend themselves. Quite often they are brutalized.

Then they come out of these facilities dysfunctional. But they never should have been in the facility in the first place. We never provided the care for them. There never was the coverage.

I am sure there can be some good negotiation and things can be worked out in conference on offset, but I argue for $150 million more a year, or whatever the final costs would be. Is it not worth it to end the discrimination and provide the coverage to so many people, including a good number of whom are our loved ones, with the difference being life or death?

In the words of Rabbi Hillel: If not now, when? When are we going to end the discrimination? This is a matter of civil rights. When are we going to have the health care plans that provide the coverage for people who are struggling with this illness, including many children? When are we going to make sure, with the plans now no longer able to discriminate, there will be an infrastructure of care in our communities, the delivery of the care will follow the money, and the money will be in the plans?

This is more than worth it. We have 65 Senators supporting this legislation. This is bipartisan. If Senator DOMENICI and I are working on something together, it has to be bipartisan. I cannot even think of anything else on which we agree—I don't mean that; I am kidding.

I urge my colleagues to support this measure.

We use the word "message." I hate the word. Everybody says: What is our message? What is our message. This would not be a bad statement. I think it would be good for our country—much less the people we can help, it would be good for our country—if the Senate went on record today supporting an amendment that I think is all about helping people, all about helping some vulnerable people, all about ending discrimination, all about calling for our country, America, to be a better country, all about calling on all of us to be our own best selves, all about making sure we provide care to people, many of whom up to now have not received any care.

The consequences of the plans discriminating and not providing care are so tragic. People who struggle from depression and get no care take their lives. Children don't get any care and they wind up incarcerated when they could have a good life.

The highest percentage of suicides is in the elderly population. Sometime soon I would like to get to Medicare. With Medicare, if you see your doctor apart from in-home care, you pay a 20 percent copay. But if you are struggling with depression—and the highest rate of suicide is in the elderly population—and you go to see a doctor, you pay a 50-percent copay. That is in Medicare. That is blatant discrimination. Why is depression less important than any other illness?

We can help a lot of elderly people. We can help a lot of children. We can help a lot of people in our country. Most important of all, we can help ourselves as Senators. It would not be such a bad thing to have a strong bipartisan vote for something all about values, people helping one another and recognizing we can do better. As Bobby Kennedy would have said, we can do better as a nation.

Please Senators, give this amendment your support. Let's pass it with an overwhelming vote.

I yield the floor.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The senior assistant bill clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. CORZINE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. REED). Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. CORZINE. Mr. President, I rise today in strong support of the amendment offered by Senators DOMENICI, WELLSTONE, and KENNEDY. It is an amendment which will ensure that people with mental illnesses are treated equally, fairly, and equitably, on parity with people who have physical illnesses. I do not think there are words that are strong enough to point out the rightness of this in our American health care system.

Today, in America, two-thirds of our citizens with mental illness do not have access to mental health treatment, despite the fact that many have health insurance. For far too long, mental health consumers have been discriminated against in the health care system—subjected to discriminatory cost-sharing, limited access to specialties, and other barriers to needed services. In fact, many of them are just flat left out of the system.

I have had some personal experience with this in my life. I know it is a very difficult trial even if one is not without resources. That is why I am pleased to be a cosponsor of the Mental Health Equitable Treatment Act, legislation that represents a critical step toward equal coverage for mental health services. This amendment, the one we are debating today, incorporates the text of that legislation. And I hope to be a cosponsor, as well, of the amendment.

This amendment builds upon legislation enacted 5 years ago which sought to ensure parity between mental and other types of health care.

That law took the first steps toward recognizing that mental illness is a serious yet treatable disease. I served on the board of the NYU Child Study Center which worked for the better part of a decade to diagnose, to learn diagnosis, and to make sure that we had treatment regimens that actually could attack this disease, based on science and with great and positive outcomes.

It is because of those experiences and some in my own life that I commend Senators WELLSTONE and DOMENICI for their great leadership on this movement. It is a very powerful statement to our country that we care about everyone, and their tireless efforts should truly be commended because they will ensure that Americans with mental illness will have equal access to mental health services.

Unfortunately, the law enacted several years ago has now expired. Frankly, everyone would agree that it included some loopholes that allowed health care plans to evade many of its goals. This amendment is designed to restore the law and to close those loopholes.

Perhaps most importantly, the amendment would ensure true mental health parity by prohibiting inequitable copayments, deductibles, and inpatient and outpatient visit limits for mental health services.

These are real issues for real people who are in these circumstances, not unlike circumstances people might have with their physical health. We know that people would not be tolerant of those kinds of activities.

These are commonsense proposals which will make a real difference in people's lives and I hope my colleagues will support them.

Earlier this year, many of us worked hard to pass a strong Bipartisan Patient Protection Act that would provide for strong health care protections for all uninsured Americans, the Patients' Bill of Rights. Many of these protections, however, will do nothing for mental health consumers if group health plans are allowed to continue discriminating between mental and other medical and surgical health care coverage.

Advances in medical research have made great strides in our ability to treat mental illness. As a nation, we need to make sure that our insurance covers those advances. Without proper coverage, the benefit of this research will be unable to reach those who need it most.

As a country, I heard Senator WELLSTONE say, we lose $300 million in missed days of work, health care costs and criminal justice costs in a given year as a result of untreated mental illness. We simply cannot afford to do that. It is a simple cost/benefit equation that tells us that we need to move forward on this.

It is overwhelmingly on the side of making sure that parity is attended to. In attempting to find a treatment, those suffering with mental illness face countless obstacles, as we have discussed over and over. This amendment would reverse those discriminatory practices, ensuring that health insurance coverage is strong and fair.

I am pleased that my home State of New Jersey has enacted a mental health parity law, but, frankly, it does not go far enough and flat out excludes children, our most vulnerable, from its coverage.

In addition, because of the ERISA preemption, not everyone in New Jersey is covered by our own State law. Therefore, we need a strong Federal law that ensures mental health parity for all Americans.

In a few weeks I will be introducing legislation that goes a step further. My bill will address the fragmentation of the delivery system by providing increased support to community mental health services. But this is a step we should take and we should take it now.

I am proud of the leadership Senators DOMENICI, WELLSTONE, and KENNEDY have provided to make sure that our Nation has addressed this issue through the years. It is imperative that we now bring to closure this debate about parity by including this amendment in this appropriations bill.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from New Mexico.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, before the Senator from New Jersey leaves the floor, might I say that there is no need to be personal about legislation, but I thank him for his comments.

It is obvious that there are many who have been here for a short time, such as the Senator, who already understand that we can't go on as a nation fooling ourselves that schizophrenics are not sick, they don't have a disease; that serious depression, which is now causing suicide in numbers that just go off the map, we can't run around and say, well, for some reason, some purposes, it is an illness or a difficult disease, but for other purposes, well, in terms of whether they should have insurance, we will look the other way and act as if it isn't.

We have had Senators who understand manic depression take the floor. Those are just two nice words. One means high; one means low. But you put that in the brain of a person, and it is not very normal. They have to be sick, and they are diagnosable. They are treatable. But here we are, the millennium is here, we are one year into it, and some people would still say: Let's play like it ain't so. Let's just wish it away. And certainly when it comes to health insurance, we just can't. We have to leave things alone no matter how backward it is, how disjointed it is, how unreal it is. We just have to look the other way.

When will be soon enough? I think now. I will tell the Senator, in order to get it through here, we had to put it off a year in terms of its effectiveness. I would like it to be effective as soon as it gets passed, but it won't because we wouldn't have gotten a bill out of the Senate that would be subjected to some technical objections. I shouldn't say we wouldn't, but it would be difficult. We made a call and said that it is better 2 years from now than to leave it as it has been forever.

So tonight you will be part of voting in an appropriations bill, and we will put on it covering the mentally ill of this land with parity or nondiscrimination of health insurance. We are going to exempt some small businesses. Somebody will argue about that: Why are you doing that? We can't get everything in one swoop. We really think the coverages by big corporations are where we are going to find out how to do this. So they are all going to be under it, whether it be Ford or Intel or whomever. Many of them include coverage already. But no more excuses. No more looking the other way.

Frankly, in the State of the Senator from New Jersey, in 8 or 9 years, there will be new mental health facilities built. You are going to ask: Who built this? We know not all are going to be built by the Federal Government because we don't build them. We never did enough since John Kennedy decided we should go another way with the mentally ill and try to be more humane. What is going to happen is private entrepreneurs are going to say, what is the insurance company going to pay when we take care of that depressive person for a week?

If they pay enough, they are going to build the clinics just as they have built hospitals, just as they have built other health facilities. As of now, nobody accepts the responsibility. Everyone wants to look the other way. I am grateful that Senators who have been here a while, such as this Senator, the Senator who has just arrived, are all coming to the same conclusion this afternoon. Perhaps by 6 o'clock we will have passed this bill.

It is very strange. It goes out in the country. I have been working for it. I expect the debate to go on for a couple weeks. That isn't going to happen. The reason it isn't is because 67 Senators signed this bill and we brought it up. I thank each one of them.

I have a detailed statement that includes a number of approaches to this issue, including an analysis and summary of what the New York Times found when they analyzed mass killers. They analyzed 25 mass killers and found half of them had serious mental illnesses such as schizophrenia. There was no place to put them. They had been put in jails. Cops had arrested them. People had tried them on in prisons. But nobody took care of them. Then they ended up over in one of the Texas cities killing all the people in that Baptist church.

We find that half of the mass killers in America are those kinds of people. There is no place to put them. Relatives don't know what to do. Neighbors say: Look at all this behavior. Isn't it strange? We will call a cop. The third time the cop is called, he says don't call anymore. What does that person who is desperately ill do?

We invite these kinds of murders and mass killings that occur in our country. It is time to try something that may give these sick people another option.

I have a quick set of facts about mental illness, the numbers on the kinds of mental illnesses that exist. I think it will help Senators who want to read the RECORD to understand the scope of this problem.

I ask unanimous consent that it be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

QUICK FACTS ON MENTAL ILLNESS

Major Depressive Disorder—9.9 million American adults age 18 and older suffer from this disorder in a given year;

Bipolar Disorder—2.3 million American adults age 18 and older suffer from this disorder in a given year;

Schizophrenia—2.2 million American adults age 18 and older suffer from this disorder in a given year; and Obsessive—Compulsive Disorder (OCD)—3.3 million American adults age 18–54 suffer from this disorder in a given year.

16% of all inmates in State and local jails suffer from a mental illness; 600,000–700,000 mentally ill individuals are booked into a jail every year; 25% to 40% of America's mentally ill will come into contact with the criminal justice system.

Suicide is currently a national public health crisis, with approximately 30,000 Americans committing suicide every year.

Of the 850,000 homeless individuals in the United States, about 1/3 or 300,000 of those individuals suffer from a serious mental illness.

In the developed world, including the U.S., 4 of the 10 leading causes of disability for individuals over the age of five are mental disorders. In the order of prevalence the disorders are major depression, schizophrenia, bipolar disorder, and obsessive compulsive disorder.

The direct cost to the United States per year for respiratory disease is $99 billion, cardiovascular disease is $160 billion, and finally $148 billion for mental illness.

EFFICACY OF TREATMENT

Treatment for bipolar disorders have an 80 percent success rate.

Schizophrenia has a 60-percent success rate in the United States today if treated properly.

Major depression has a 65 percent success rate.

Compared to several surgical procedures: Angioplasty has a 41-percent success rate. Atherectomy has a 52-percent success rate.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Wyoming is recognized.

Mr. THOMAS. Mr. President, I rise to support the Senator from New Mexico in his effort. I have been an original sponsor of the bill he has had. In years past, I was chairman of this bill in Wyoming and worked on this for some time. As a good focus on rural health care is unique, this is another unique issue with which we need to deal. I urge support for the amendment. I thank the sponsors for their efforts.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Minnesota is recognized.

Mr. WELLSTONE. I thank the Senator from Wyoming for his support. It means a lot. His voice is important. I appreciate his mentioning that is not something that only applies to metropolitan America; it is important in rural America. I thank Senator CORZINE as well. I will not take much time now.

Senator CORZINE asked that he be a cosponsor of the amendment. I believe Senators BYRD and STEVENS, with the agreement that we now have, asked to be included as cosponsors. I ask unanimous consent they all be added as cosponsors.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. WELLSTONE. I thank the Chair.

Mr. President, I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. SPECTER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. SPECTER. Mr. President, I compliment the Senator from New Mexico and the Senator from Minnesota for their advocacy on this amendment. As I commented earlier in the debate on this amendment, I have cosponsored the authorizing legislation for the past two Congresses and had withheld cosponsorship of this amendment as a manager of this appropriations bill until I could see how it was going to be worked out. We are now in the process of working it out. I think we will be successful, but it is still too early to make a final commitment.

What is occurring here is on the scoring for budgetary purposes, if it is on this bill, it is scored against this bill; and we are now up to the limit of our authorization. But we are now looking into the remedy of having it scored in another direction—that is technical—and an amendment is now being prepared that may cure that problem. It is not a commitment to cure the problem, but we will know shortly.

In the interim, as a comanager of the bill, I do not intend to raise any point of order that this is legislation on an appropriations bill. Technically, that point of order can be raised. It does not have to be raised because of the difficulties of getting Senate consideration on this bill for a very protracted period of time. As the Senator from New Mexico, Mr. DOMENICI, outlined, I think it is not appropriate to raise a point of order that this is legislation on an appropriations bill. At least I do not intend to raise that point of order.

This is a proposal that I believe has great merit. That is why I have cosponsored the authorization bill for the last two Congresses.

At this time, I ask unanimous consent that I be added as a cosponsor to the Domenici amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. SPECTER. Mr. President, Senator HARKIN, the chairman of the subcommittee, and I are urging colleagues to come forward to offer amendments. It is now 4:25. We have only had one amendment offered all day. It is very important that we move ahead with the disposition of this bill.

Last year, we had the bill out of committee on June 30 and it passed the Senate on July 27. Then we had months of negotiation in the conference committee, so that if we are to get this matter into conference and have a conference report, it is urgent that we proceed at this time.

There is substantial funding for education, which has the consensus of the Senate. There is substantial money for the National Institutes of Health, and the public interest requires that we move ahead. If we do not finish our appropriations bills, there is the possibility—or perhaps probability—that the bills that are unfinished will be folded into a continuing resolution. That means that important funding will not be provided.

Again, on behalf of Senator HARKIN, my comanager, I urge our colleagues who have amendments to come to the floor. Perhaps Senator HARKIN would like to italicize my urging.

Mr. HARKIN. Mr. President, I will respond to my distinguished ranking member, my friend, that I believe we are making some good progress. A major amendment is being worked out right now. I hope we go to a voice vote shortly. I only know of one other amendment that might be pending. Quite frankly—hope springs eternal—I think we might be through with this shortly.

Mr. SPECTER. Is the Senator suggesting that only one other amendment is pending and we may be in a position to go to third reading?

Mr. HARKIN. I believe that might be the case. People may want to go home early tonight and have dinner with their families.

Mr. SPECTER. What time does he think we might go to third reading?

Mr. HARKIN. It depends on how long it takes to work out this language. We are waiting for Senator DORGAN. He had an amendment. I saw him a minute ago. Perhaps he will be out here shortly. I don't think that will take too long.

Mr. SPECTER. Mr. President, we urge colleagues, if they have amendments to offer, to come to the floor and do so now.

In the absence of any Senator seeking recognition, I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. DURBIN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. DURBIN. Mr. President, I know pending before the Senate now is landmark legislation. I commend my colleagues, Senator PAUL WELLSTONE and Senator PETE DOMENICI, truly a political odd couple, one from the State of Minnesota and the other from New Mexico, who have come together on this important cause, both understanding the importance of our maturing as a nation when it comes to the issue of mental health.

I am a strong supporter of the Mental Health Equitable Treatment Act which they are bringing to this legislation. I am pleased it is finally going to come for a vote. I know those two Senators, as well as Senators DASCHLE and KENNEDY, have worked tirelessly to make this happen. I know advocates for the mentally ill have waited, frustrated and disappointed time and again, and had hoped this day might someday come. I recognize it is equally imperative we do not threaten this bill's passage by attaching amendments that may make it even more difficult in conference.

With this in mind, I do, however, want to raise the subject of another amendment relating to mental health, and I ask my colleagues to consider it in the context of the underlying Wellstone-Domenici amendment.

The issue I am about to discuss affects literally thousands of Americans every single year. This amendment of which I speak would be an improvement on the bill we are currently debating. However, I want to make it clear I will not be offering this as a second-degree amendment. I want to give to Senators WELLSTONE and DOMENICI every opportunity to bring their important bill through conference intact. Although I believe my amendment would be a worthy addition to theirs, I am going to save that cause until another day.

Let me talk about this amendment and why I would have brought it to the floor. Some time ago I received a letter from a constituent in Illinois who in the 1980s suffered severe depression and received the kind of treatment which allowed her to return to work. I will call her Mary Smith. At the time, Mary had employer-sponsored health insurance through her husband's job, but in the fall of 1998 Mary and her husband lost this employer-based insurance coverage when her husband lost his job.

Mary applied for comprehensive health insurance plans offered to individuals. Her application was declined because, as the insurance company noted, "Due to her medical history of depression she did not meet the company's underwriting requirements."

Mary was turned down for health insurance due to a medical history of depression. She wrote me, and this is what her letter said:

As I see it, we are being punished for accessing health care. In 1987, when I was clinically depressed, I could have chosen to avoid proper medical care, become unemployed and received Social Security disability. I did not. I obtained the help I needed and continued to support myself, my family and contribute positively to society. Depression is a treatable medical illness. Insurance companies must stop their indiscriminate denial of this coverage.

Sadly, Mary Smith is not alone. Each year more than 50 million adults in the United States suffer from mental illness, 25 percent of our adult population. Some 18 million Americans are affected by depression annually. One in five Americans has a mental disorder in any one year. Fifteen percent of the adult population use some form of mental health service during the year. Eight percent have a mental disorder. Seven percent have a mental health problem. Twenty-one percent of children ages 9 to 17 receive mental health services in a year.

The problem Mary Smith faced is, under the current system of care in the United States, individuals who are undergoing treatment or have a history of treatment for mental illness may find it difficult, if not impossible, to obtain private health insurance, especially if they have to purchase it on their own and cannot rely upon group insurance through an employer.

In part, this is a result of the Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act that protects millions of Americans in the group health insurance market and affords very few protections for individuals who apply for private nongroup insurance. Approximately 9.6 percent, or 26 million Americans, are insured in this private nongroup insurance market—26 million people.

A 1996 GAO study found that insurance carriers denied up to 33 percent of applicants for private health insurance because they had a preexisting health condition, including, of course, mental health conditions. HIPAA provides few protections for individuals who apply for insurance in the individual insurance market. Individuals without at least 18 months of prior continuous group coverage are not protected against discrimination and red lining. This issue is not about parity. It is not about mental health benefits. It is about discrimination. It is about red lining.

Mary Smith was being told she could not get any health benefits, not just mental health benefits. She was denied all health insurance coverage because many years before she had successfully treated a condition of depression. She was not eligible to get hospital coverage if she needed surgery. She was not eligible for preventive care, such as a flu shot. She was not eligible for a doctor's visit. Had she become injured or ill, she would have received no care.

Efforts to improve health care parity have focused on providing equality between mental health covered services and other health benefits, and I salute Senators WELLSTONE and DOMENICI for their leadership. These efforts are very important, and I strongly support them.

Parity will not help individuals who do not have access to any affordable insurance coverage due to preexisting mental illness discrimination. Think of that for a moment. We are saying if you cover a person for other illnesses, in the Wellstone-Domenici amendment, you also have to provide mental health protection as well. I believe that is sound.

Mary Smith never reaches that point. Mary Smith, whose husband lost his job, ends up in the private insurance market. She cannot even get into a private health insurance plan because the company, under the law today, can discriminate against her because she had treatment for a mental health problem.

Individuals who seek insurance in the individual market are people such as Mary who are in periods of transitional employment, but they are also people who are self-employed. They are family farmers. I have many of them in my State. They are small business owners. They are recent college graduates who lose coverage under their parents' plan, and they are the children and spouses of self-employed people and those in transitional employment.

Every person at risk, needing to buy private health insurance, is subject to this discrimination. If they had been treated for a mental illness, they could run into the same experience Mary Smith did.

This type of discrimination is precisely why many Americans do not seek treatment for mental illness. Despite the efficacy of treatment options and the many possible ways of obtaining a treatment of choice, nearly half of all Americans who have severe mental illness do not seek treatment. They are not only concerned about the stigma in society, they are clearly concerned about the discrimination which is allowed under the law for those people who have turned for help.

This reluctance to seek care is an unfortunate outcome of very real barriers. Foremost of these is the stigma that many in our society attach to mental illness and to people who have it. How many of us, or our family members or friends, have thought about what might happen if we went to seek therapy for anxiety, depression, or even marriage counseling? It is unconscionable that persons should have to consider not being able to get health insurance coverage because they did the right thing and were treated for a mental condition.

Repeated surveys have shown that concerns about the cost of care are among the foremost reasons that people do not seek care.

My amendment prohibits insurers from charging persons with preexisting health conditions higher premiums. This is because insurers use higher premiums to keep certain people locked out of the plan.

The GAO interviewed one insurance carrier in my home State of Illinois which only charges 2 to 3 percent of its enrollees a nonstandard rate, but the rate they charge is double the standard rate.

In some States, including Illinois, high-risk pools have been created to act as a safety net to ensure the uninsured have access to coverage. These safety nets are often expensive. For Mary Smith, this safety net would have cost her and her husband $700 a month for health insurance. They are a great deal for insurers; all sick people are in one pool.

Risk pools undermine the underlying function of insurance to include a broad pooling of risk. They relieve insurers of responsibility.

Mental disorders impose an enormous emotional and financial burden on ill individuals and their families. And when they go untreated, costs escalate. Mental disorders are costly for our Nation in reduced or lost productivity and in medical resources used for care, treatment, and rehabilitation.

The National Institute of Mental Health estimates the annual cost of untreated mental illness exceeds $300 billion, primarily due to productivity losses of $150 billion, health care costs of $70 billion, and societal costs of $80 billion.

Two years ago the Surgeon General issued a report on mental health. The report concludes that a broad range of treatments of documented efficacy exists for most mental disorders.

Diagnoses of mental disorders are as reliable as those of general medical disorders. In fact, the success rate of treatment for disorders such as schizophrenia is at 60 percent; depression, 70 to 80 percent; and manic disorder, at 70 to 90 percent, surpassing those of other medical conditions. Heart disease, for example, has a treatment success rate of about 50 percent.

Here is what we know: We know mental health is fundamental to our health. We know millions of Americans suffer from mental illness. We know treatment exists for mental illness. We know the treatment works. We know, despite the efficacy of treatment options, nearly half of Americans who have mental illness do not seek medical care. We know that reluctance to seek care is a result of real barriers, including stigma, discrimination, and of course financial obstacles which are treated by the Wellstone-Domenici amendment. We know mental disorders impose an enormous emotional and financial burden on sick individuals and their families and that untreated mental illness is costly for our Nation in lost productivity and medical resources. We know the private insurance system perpetuates barriers, reinforces stigma, throws up financial roadblocks, and undermines the health of millions of Americans who do the right thing and seek treatment.

The amendment I was prepared to offer today, because of Mary Smith, would try to do the right thing. It is common sense. It doesn't cost anything. It does not solve all the inequities that individuals with mental health conditions face. But it does remove one of the many barriers to health care faced by those who have been treated for a mental condition. I think there is no more appropriate context in which to address this than a patient protection act.

This amendment prohibits any health insurer that offers health coverage in the individual insurance market from denying an individual coverage because of a preexisting mental illness unless a diagnosis, medical advice, or treatment was recommended or received within the 6 months prior to the enrollment date. Health plans can exclude coverage for mental health services but not for more than 12 months. The exclusion period must be reduced by the total amount of previous credible insurance coverage.

It also prohibits plans in the individual market from charging higher premiums to individuals based solely on the determination that such an individual had a preexisting mental health conditions. It defines a preexisting mental health condition as including all clinical disorders and personality disorders diagnosed on Axis I or Axis II of the most recent edition of the American Psychiatric Association's Diagnostic and Statistical Manual of Mental Disorders. This broad definition would include mood, anxiety, eating, sleep, and adjustment disorders, clinical disorders such as mental retardation and autism, cognitive disorders such as amnesia and dementia, and sexual and gender identity disorders.

These provisions apply to all health plans in the individual market, regardless of whether a State has enacted an alternative mechanism, such as a risk pool, to cover individuals with preexisting health conditions.

The amendment does not mandate that insurers provide mental health services if they do not already offer such coverage. It does not prohibit health plans from establishing a waiting period for mental health services for individuals with a preexisting mental health condition of up to 12 months.

All we are trying to do is to ensure that if you should go to a therapist or a psychiatrist or a psychologist or seek other mental health services, you do not have to worry that you or your family will not be able to get health insurance because you asked for help. It simply does not make sense, just because a person seeks treatment for mental illness, he or she is rendered uninsurable.

I hope my colleagues will join me in this important initiative to ensure that such individuals are not discriminated against when applying for health insurance coverage. It is just the right thing to do.

Mary Smith's letter is one of many we receive in our Senate offices. I am glad we picked this one and read it carefully and closely. I thought for a moment about how we could help this woman who did the right thing. Faced with a mental illness, she went to a doctor, and having gone to that doctor her life has improved. She stayed on the job and had a much better life. She could have applied for a government program and didn't do it. She wanted to stay in the workplace. Little did she know that a few years later when her husband lost his job, the fact that she was successfully treated for depression would ultimately mean they could not buy health insurance in the private market.

How can we stand by as a nation and allow this kind of discrimination against people who are no more guilty of their condition than a person is guilty for the color of their eyes? It is something God has sent to them. In this situation I think we should consider the passage of legislation which would prohibit this discrimination once and for all and make certain, as the underlying Wellstone-Domenici amendment, this amendment would say we are going to treat mental illness in the 21st century much differently than we have in years gone by.

I thank you for the floor and I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. SPECTER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. WELLSTONE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Senator DASCHLE be included as a cosponsor of this amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. WELLSTONE. Mr. President, since there was news today that Dr. Hyman is stepping down as Director of the National Institute of Mental Health, and since I believe we are going to pass legislation on antidiscrimination in mental health coverage which will be landmark and will make a real difference in the lives of people—and I have spoken plenty about the amendment already—I wanted to thank Dr. Hyman for all of his leadership. He has been an exceptional director.

I have had a chance to work very closely with him through Ellen Gerrity, a fellow in my office. We are lucky enough to have her working with us. She worked for the IMH. I think Dr. Hyman has done a good job, along with Dr. Satcher, who is Surgeon General. He has done magnificent work. The two of them have done perhaps the best job we have seen in the history of our country of providing an education for people in the country. So much of mental illness is a brain disease. It can be diagnosed. It is very treatable.

That is the good news. The bad news is there is a huge gap between what we know and what we don't know. We are trying to close that gap—not all of it but a good part of it—with this piece of legislation.

I thank Dr. Hyman. He is one of the people I have had a chance to work closely with in Washington. He is a good example of someone who, with a highly developed sense of public service, has made a huge difference.

I thought I would use this opportunity to thank Dr. Hyman and wish him the very best as he moves on to be, as I understand, provost at Harvard University.

We have had a number of Senators—I don't need to speak more—who have come to the floor and have spoken. I think what they have said is not only significant, but the way they have said it is significant.

Senator DOMENICI always speaks about this issue with a tremendous amount of eloquence and a lot of knowledge. His wife Nancy Domenici—I don't think he would be offended if I said it—is probably every bit the leader he is. I don't want to say more, but she is every bit the leader he is.

We have two Senators out here managing the appropriations bill who want to move us forward. After we have done the work to make sure we deal with rule XVI and germaneness—and we have done a lot of work on the budget point of order—I think they have been very gracious in letting us go forward. Senators HARKIN and SPECTER are very supportive of this piece of legislation. Senator THOMAS from the State of Wyoming came and spoke.

It reminds me of 1996, I think it was, when we passed partial legislation. I remember Senator Simpson came out on the floor and spoke about a tragedy within his own family. I believe it was a niece who took her life at a young age. Senator CORZINE came out on the floor and made it very clear that this issue means a great deal to him.

Senator REID spoke about his own experience, that his father took his life. Senator HARRY REID has been absolutely, in his own very quiet way, perhaps the most powerful Senator, in a positive way, on the whole issue of treating depression than anybody in the Senate.

Senator KENNEDY came out and spoke. He has devoted a good part of his career to this issue. He is the health care Senator, but, actually, long before we had this kind of coalition—and we have 150 organizations supporting this piece of legislation. We have organizations such as the National Mental Health Association and NAMI—the National Alliance for the Mentally Ill—that deserve a lot of credit, along with the whole coalition. If I went through all 150 organizations, it would take a lot of time. But I personally think Senator KENNEDY deserves a great deal of credit for being willing to light a candle a long time ago to speak to this awful discrimination.

I also thank all of these different organizations because the truth is, when we started out on this matter over a half a decade ago, it was then an issue—it still is an issue of discrimination—but the problem was there was not exactly a political constituency that had any real clout. Then I think what has happened in the last 6, 7, 8, 9 years is that a lot of families have said: We are the ones who struggle with this illness—or we have a loved one who struggles with this illness—and we refuse to be treated as men and women of lesser worth. We are men and women of worth and dignity. We struggle with an illness just as any other illness. We are going to be advocating for ourselves.

It has been the citizen politics, the citizen lobbying that has led to the result of—we have a dispute as to whether it is 65 or 67 Senators who now support this. This piece of legislation passed out of the HELP Committee on a 21–0 vote. We made some compromises, but it is still an enormous step forward. I do not think it would have happened without the citizen politics.

I say to the Presiding Officer—because we both represent the State of Minnesota—we represent a State that is a model State, as we are in many ways, but we passed full parity for both substance abuse addiction, which I think is terribly important—and I think that is the next piece of legislation on which we ought to work—and mental health and, by the way, with very little cost but with great benefit.

The estimates of the amount of money we have saved in our State for people who now get the treatment and, therefore, are productive and go to work or do well in school and do well in their families verses what was going on before is just stunning and important. The problem is because of ERISA, a lot of the self-insured plans are not covered, so we still have 50 percent of the people not covered and, thus, the need for national community regulation.

But I thank a lot of the people in Minnesota who both the Presiding Officer and I know well; and certainly Sheila and I have gotten to know them very well because we have had so many meetings with so many people.

I mentioned the Kluesners earlier, Mary and Al Kluesner. I mentioned the Westins. But there are so many others who have met with us, who have met in public. There have been so many picnics on our lakes that I have attended with people. There are so many people who have told their own stories. They have made a huge difference.

So again, colleagues, we have 65 or 67 Senators who support this measure. It is strongly bipartisan. We now have the support of the chair and ranking chair of the Appropriations Committee, and the chair and ranking chair of the Budget Committee. We have the whip who has spoken, and Senator DASCHLE, the Senate majority leader, who has asked to be a cosponsor. We have 150 organizations: Religious, children, labor, and health.

We are close to adopting an amendment that I believe we can keep in conference. I am not trying to be coy, but I think if I had to have somebody in my corner, I would want TOM HARKIN more than anybody else. He chairs this committee. If I had to have one person to fight for me, he would be the one.

So I thank colleagues. We may have a lot more debate yet, but I think we are going to take this journey. I believe we are going to wind up in a good place where we are going to make our country better. We are going to make our country better by passing this.

I see other colleagues in this Chamber, so I do not want to take any more time. I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Texas.

Mr. GRAMM. Mr. President, I rise to speak on the pending Domenici amendment. I am opposed to the Domenici amendment. I am not going to force the Senate to vote on it this afternoon. I think it is clear where the votes are, but I want to explain the issues. I want to raise the issues in this debate so that they can be looked at by the House.

I believe, based on what I have been told, the administration is opposed to the amendment. There is also a point of order against the second-degree amendment that will be offered directing scoring. That point of order will lie against the conference report if the bill comes back from conference with the directed scoring provision in it. I want to reserve my right to raise that point of order at that time.

I want to be brief, but let me basically explain what we have here. What we have is an amendment that imposes a new mandate on the private sector of the economy. That mandate is a mandate where we decide what kind of health insurance Americans should have, and they are going to have it whether they want it or not; and we are going to override some 70 years of negotiations between private employers and private employees as to what their health insurance looks like.

We are going to mandate that if a company provides health insurance that has any mental health provisions in it, those benefits have to be treated the way benefits are for physical health or else the company may be prohibited from providing the policy.

The Congressional Budget Office, in looking at this mandate, has estimated that what will happen is, premiums will go up, some companies will drop mental health coverage altogether, and others will continue to provide it under these new circumstances. Remarkably, they estimate that the adoption of this amendment, over a 5-year period of implementation, will drive up costs on the private sector of the economy by $23 billion. So we are about to impose $23 billion in costs on the private sector of the economy because we think we know better what private health contracts, negotiated between employers and employees, ought to look like.

There is a budget problem here because the Congressional Budget Office estimates that by paying the $23 billion in additional health insurance premiums, that American industry and agriculture will end up paying lower wages than they would have paid, and that we will collect, over a 10-year period, over $5 billion less in taxes because of this amendment.

The distinguished chairman of the Budget Committee informed the Senate that he would charge, in future budgets, that $5 billion against the Appropriations Committee if the amendment were adopted.

We are now, as I understand it, in the process of writing an amendment that says that for the purposes of the budget, even though this amendment will cost over $5 billion, we are not going to count it.

Without going on and on, let me raise the list of particulars. No. 1, who are we to be telling American workers and American business what kind of health insurance benefits they should have and how that package should be made up and what they should choose? What about workers who would rather have higher wages than to have this new benefit that we are deeming to be in their interest?

What about the $23 billion of cost that we are going to impose on the private sector? I know the amendment is written so it does not start until 2003. The point is, that is $23 billion of cost over a 5-year period that will be borne by the private sector, $23 billion that could have gone to create more jobs, more growth, more opportunity.

I simply raise two questions regarding the $5 billion of lost tax revenue because companies, as estimated by CBO, will pay lower wages when they are mandated to pay for these benefits: first, what about workers that would rather have those wages than the benefit? Shouldn't they have a choice, or are we granted such wisdom that we make the choice for them?

Second, if it is going to cost $5 billion, have we not made an absolute mockery out of the budget process, made it a complete fraud by passing a law that says, yes, it costs $5 billion, but we are going to pretend that it does not cost $5 billion?

That is basically the proposition that is before us. We are going to say, if you are going to provide mental health coverage, you have to provide it on par with physical health coverage or you can't provide it.

The logical question is, isn't that something that people should decide about their own insurance? Isn't that the same decision that people make, in deciding do they want a new refrigerator, or do they want to send Johnny to college. They have tradeoffs on which they have to make hard decisions? What about the people who are going to lose income? We are going to lose $5 billion in taxes over a 5-year period. What about the people who lose billions of income?

Maybe they would have wanted to spend on it something that would have had greater value to them. Maybe nobody cares whether they could have spent those billions better because we are going to spend it for them.

Then the question becomes, if we are going to spend it, instead of being honest about it, we are simply going to pass a law that says, it costs $5 billion, everybody knows it costs $5 billion, and there is no debate about it costing $5 billion. But so that we don't have to worry about it, we are going to pass a law that says, while it costs $5 billion, for budgetary purposes, we are going to act as if it doesn't cost $5 billion so we don't have to count it against appropriations in the future.

I simply have to say, I would be ashamed of this amendment. This is bad law, bad principle, and bad precedent.

If I thought we had more than 15 people who would vote against it, I would demand a vote. I would be happy for the world to know I am against it. I don't want to put my colleagues on the spot, but I am hoping that the House will not accept this amendment. The Senator who offered the amendment, 5 or 6 years ago, had a similar amendment that cost only $300 million a year. Rather than extending that, we are adding a full-blown mandate on the private sector.

I am hoping something can be worked out. I hope we will not have directed scoring. We ought to pay for this in appropriations if we are going to do it.

Finally, I am hoping the administration and the House will not go along with this amendment.

I am sorry to have taken people's time. But I wanted to come to the Chamber and basically outline what is wrong with this amendment, and what is wrong with the procedure that we are following by directed scoring when we say we know it is going to cost $5 billion but we have decided that we are going to pretend that it doesn't. We are going to charge it against mandatory spending.

In any case, I hope it will be fixed. It should be fixed. This is bad policy. It sets a bad precedent.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Minnesota.

Mr. WELLSTONE. I will respond very briefly, as one of the co-managers of the amendment. I thank the Senator from Texas. I actually don't mean that as sort of fake Senatorial courtesy. He has intellectual integrity, and I understand exactly what he is saying.

Two quick points I will say to him: There is an argument on the CBO scoring of $1.3 billion over 10 years. I say to my colleague, I would challenge that. I believe Senator DOMENICI would as well. He is in a markup right now on another bill.

I understand my colleague is going to reserve final judgment on the conference report, but the quarrel I have with it is with the assumption. The assumption that CBO is making, not $5 billion, $1.4 billion over 10 years, the assumption that is being made is that with the mental health coverage ending the discrimination, that what employers will do is, therefore, in order to make up the cost, which CBO, by the way, said is minuscule, less than a 1 percent increase in premiums, will cut wages for employees. That is the assumption. And then, with less wages, there will be less that will be contributed to Social Security.

For the record, I would challenge that assumption. I will challenge that assumption on the basis of what we have seen in States that have the mental health parity where that has not happened. For a lot of companies and a lot of employers, it is a very attractive proposition to offer this coverage because families are crying out for it.

As to the second point, that the money is not going to be spent, we are not saying that there isn't going to be the expenditure of money. We are saying it is not going to lie against this bill. We are going to handle this just as anything else we do. We paid for the tax cuts. We will pay for this.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Texas.

Mr. GRAMM. Mr. President, I will be brief. I am reading from the Congressional Budget Office cost estimate of August 22, 2001. The Congressional Budget Office estimates that the proposal will reduce Federal revenues in the initial year by $230 million and $5.4 billion over a 10-year period. That was the number I was using.

I think there is no question about the fact that one of three things will happen. From my point of view, they are all bad.

No. 1, some people will lose health coverage they already have because the company, in trying to escape the $23 billion of cost over 5 years, can simply drop mental health coverage. That is bad.

No. 2, the company can simply decide to not provide health insurance at all, which is perfectly legal. That is also bad.

Then third, if companies lower wages or if wages don't grow as much as they would have grown because these higher premiums have to be paid, for many workers that is bad because there are obviously many who would rather have that income than to have the coverage, and we are making the decision for them.

I respect the opinion of my colleague from Minnesota, who is for this benefit, but all I am saying is he may think it is a great idea, but there are probably a lot of working people in America who would rather not risk that coverage, or would rather keep the mental coverage they have, or would rather have higher wages.

Finally, is the question about how we are going to do the budget. It seems to me that is a point where clearly—and I don't know the argument on the other side, other than the Appropriations Committee doesn't want to be saddled with the cost of paying for this program, which they view as a rider to the appropriations process, which I understand—that the taxpayers are going to be saddled with the costs. Somebody is going to have to end up paying that $5.4 billion.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Minnesota.

Mr. WELLSTONE. Mr. President, again, I appreciate what my colleague said. Initially, I was talking about the Social Security cost, not the overall cost. We have been very clear about the fact that it would require some investment of resources. The fact is, I again say to my colleague from Texas, there are plenty of examples of States that have moved forward. Quite to the contrary of wages going down, people have been supportive of it because this is not a small thing. This affects about 50 million adults in the country. Depression alone affects 18 million.

The reason we have 150 organizations—religious, labor, law enforcement, children, you name it—and the reason we have 65 Senators on this bill is that they have heard from people across the country, including Democrats, Republicans, and others, who have said this is what happened to me and my family because of the discrimination and because there is no coverage.

If a health care plan is going to have mental health coverage, it ought to be treated the same as any physical illness. It is a matter of discrimination, of basically civil rights. Ending the discrimination and making sure people get coverage is what this is about.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Missouri is recognized.

Mrs. CARNAHAN. Mr. President, the attacks against America have unified our nation. There is a new spirit of bipartisanship, of civility, and of common purpose.

Republicans, Democrats, and Independents are working together with the President to expedite legislation important to our efforts at home and abroad. Contentious issues have been set aside, in order to focus on the issues that unite us.

Thus, it is with disappointment that I feel compelled to come to the Senate floor today to discuss a dispute between the State of Missouri and the Health Care Financing Agency (HCFA) now known as the Center for Medicare and Medicaid Services, or CMS.

The details of the dispute are complex, but the consequences are enormous. At stake is the health of Missouri's children, seniors, and other vulnerable citizens.

The subject of this dispute is Missouri's provider assessment program, which is a tax on hospitals.

States use the money generated from these taxes as their "match" for federal Medicaid dollars. Medicaid funds are then paid out to providers according to formulas established by state law.

Over a decade ago, Congress became concerned that states were using provider taxes improperly to increase the federal contributions to Medicaid programs. In response, Congress enacted a law in 1992 that placed limitations on provider assessment programs.

One specific limitation is that a provider assessment must not contain a "hold harmless" provision. This means that states may not guarantee that a hospital will receive back from Medicaid the amount of funds it paid to the state in provider taxes.

In 1992, under the leadership of Governor John Ashcroft, now the Attorney General, Missouri complied with the federal law by enacting the Federal Reimbursement Allowance Program law. This law created a tax on hospitals, but contained no "hold harmless" provision. Governor Ashcroft signed the bill into law. Governor Carnahan continued the program, and Governor Holden is continuing it.

For almost a decade, the program has been operating under the auspices of HCFA now CMS. During this time, 100 percent of the revenues generated by the tax have been dedicated to Missouri's Medicaid program. The program has made Missouri a national model for using Federal, State, and private resources to provide health care to as many needy citizens as possible.

This long-standing and legal tax has assisted Missouri in creating a strong healthcare safety net for its children, pregnant women, and most vulnerable seniors.

Much of Missouri's success can be attributed to expanded enrollment of eligible citizens in Medicaid. During the 1990's, the number of Missourians covered by Medicaid more than doubled, increasing from 364,000 in 1990 to 839,000 in 2001.

The number of children enrolled in Medicaid has grown at an even faster rate, increasing from 180,000 in 1990 to 474,000 in 2001.

An important step in covering more children was the enactment of the State's Children's Health Insurance Program, also known as MC Plus. Under the leadership of Governor Carnahan, MC Plus was designed to cover children up to 300 percent of the poverty level. It is a national model. Due to MC Plus, parents who were working, but did not have access to health insurance through their employer, could now provide this precious resource to their children.

The MC Plus program has made a difference in the lives of 75,000 children in Missouri.

This combination of initiatives has sharply reduced the number of Missouri citizens that lack health insurance. Between 1996 and 1999, the percentage of uninsured in Missouri dropped by more than one-third, falling from 13.2 percent to 8.6 percent. In 1999, Missouri has the fourth lowest percentage of uninsured citizens in the country.

These tremendous accomplishments, however, could be in jeopardy from a bureaucratic squabble over the technicalities of Missouri's provider tax.

For many years, HCFA has complained that the manner in which Missouri's provider tax revenues are distributed to health care providers violates federal law. During this entire period, HCFA has been threatening to terminate the program and recoup $1.6 billion from the State. Such action would devastate Missouri's health care program.

Let's be clear about what is in dispute. HCFA has never alleged that the provider tax itself contains a "hold harmless" provision.

Rather, HCFA—and now CMS—appear to believe that the State, under the leadership of then Governor Ashcroft, made a collusive arrangement with health care providers. CMS has suggested that state officials illegally agreed that each hospital would get back in Medicaid reimbursement at least the amount it paid in taxes.

Missouri strongly disputes the allegation that there is a hold harmless arrangement between the State and its hospitals. And, in fact, the Federal Government has never provided Missouri with a shred of evidence that state officials engaged in illegal collusion with the hospitals. I repeat, not a shred of evidence.

Instead of proving its case, HCFA continues to complain about the provider tax, threaten Missouri with legal action, and uses bureaucratic leverage to force Missouri to change its incredibly successful program.

Mr. President, this is truly a case of form over substance. Missouri has created a program that pumps millions of dollars into health care coverage for its citizens. Missouri then distributes tax dollars to health care providers according to a state formula, which everyone agrees is consistent with Federal law.

Yet, a set of health care bureaucrats in Washington seek to destroy this program. Why? Because they have a hunch—without any concrete evidence—that the people who designed the program almost 10 years ago, secretly conspired to circumvent the technicalities of federal law. This is a case of bureaucracy run amok.

Ironically, this is the same agency that has recently changed its name so to shed its image that it cares more about rules and regulations than people. As a matter of fact, this administration announced when it took office that it would measure performance by looking at health care outcomes, not by compliance with bureaucratic requirements.

Nonetheless, it is this administration that is now threatening to take action against the State of Missouri. It is doing so even when there can be no doubt that our program is working to provide better health care to kids, to seniors, and our most needy citizens.

Of course, the timing of this threatened action could not come at a worse time. Our economic downturn is causing a great deal of distress in our communities. We are seeing significant job losses. State revenues are declining, and at the same time our citizens' needs are increasing.

Why, I ask, at this time of national emergency, would the administration choose to attack a successful program that has provided health care security for so many?

And why would the administration want to divert the State's attention from the task of helping Missouri get through this economic downturn?

There really are no good answers to these questions.

Senator BOND and I, Governor Holden, and other Members of the Congressional delegation are unified in opposition to the threatened CMS action. I strongly urge Secretary Thompson, CMS Administrator Scully, and other leaders in the administration to examine this issue with great care before taking an action that would cause so much harm to our State.

Mr. President, I stand here with my fellow Missouri Senator to draw awareness to this important issue. I hope that CMS understands that we intend to take aggressive action to protect a highly successful program in Missouri.

Mr. BOND. Mr. President, this is an issue that I brought to the attention of the chairman and ranking member of the Appropriations Committee when we marked up this bill in committee. I have been working over the past few years to protect the Missouri Medicaid program from the devastating impact of a potential recoupment of almost $2 billion. Confronted with such a recovery—or even a fraction of that amount—Missouri would inevitably be forced to cut back on its Medicaid program, putting health care for many Missourians in jeopardy. I am hopeful that the State of Missouri and CMS can work together in good faith to find a resolution that protects the care that the Missouri Medicaid program provides to 479,091 children, 21,517 seniors in nursing homes, and close to 30,000 pregnant women across the state.

Mr. HARKIN. I appreciate and thank Senator CARNAHAN and Senator BOND for bringing this important issue to our attention. I am concerned that attempts to recoup Medicaid dollars from their state could jeopardize the health care it provides for hundreds of thousands of children, senior citizens, and pregnant women.

Clearly, our first priority has to be the beneficiaries of the Medicaid program. At this time of economic uncertainty, the last thing this Government should do is put our most vulnerable citizens at greater risk.

Again, I thank the Senators from the State of Missouri for raising this issue, and I look forward to working with them on this matter.

Mr. SPECTER. I thank my colleagues from Missouri for bringing this important issue to the Senate's attention. I support their efforts and encourage CMS to work in good faith with the State to find a resolution to this matter that allows Missouri to continue making progress in providing health insurance to its citizens.

Mrs. CARNAHAN. I thank Senator HARKIN and Senator SPECTER for their support on this issue.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The senior Senator from Missouri.

Mr. BOND. I thank the Chair and my colleague, Senator CARNAHAN. We have talked about this a great deal. Over the last decade, Missouri's Medicaid Program has faced a series of difficult but important challenges.

Not only has the program been forced to struggle with internal issues, such as transitioning to managed care, reaching out to Missourians who are eligible but not yet enrolled in the program, and providing adequate payment to health care providers who care for Medicaid patients. It has had to deal with a number of important challenges presented at the Federal level as well. Not the least were efforts by Congress, attempted in both 1995 and 1997, but foiled by me and other legislators and people in similar circumstances in other States, to limit States' abilities to make disproportionate share hospital payments to safety net hospitals.

Another challenge has been to expand coverage to children in working poor families as called for by the creation of the Children's Health Insurance Program, or CHIP. I was an early supporter of this program and its efforts to expand coverage for low-income children. Missouri achieved this as part of its 1997 Medicaid waiver which is now in effect.

In addition, in 1999, under the previous administration, the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services, CMS, then called the Health Care Financing Administration, HCFA, initiated an investigation of the Missouri Medicaid Program.

Since HCFA began the process, CMS has carried on this effort, moving down the path to contend that Missouri may owe the Federal Government portions of the Medicaid funding the State received beginning in 1992 based on concerns about whether the tax imposed on hospitals and nursing homes by the State of Missouri to help finance the Medicaid Program actually complies with Federal law.

We all know that many States prior to 1992 tried to squeeze extra Federal funding by taking or accepting money from health care providers, essentially nursing homes and hospitals, in order to inflate artificially State level medical spending and, thus, increase the Federal share of costs in the joint State-Federal Medicaid Program.

In 1991, of course, Congress passed the law to outlaw these contributions and to establish strict new controls on provider taxes. This law imposed a requirement on States that provider taxes be uniform and broad based, and it prohibited States from instituting hold harmless Medicaid schemes in which payments to a health facility, particularly including DSH payments, were directly or indirectly related to the amount of provider tax a facility pays.

The State of Missouri believes it is fully in compliance with that law. CMS disagrees. Missouri does impose a tax on hospitals and nursing homes to finance a State's share of Medicaid expenses, but the State insists the tax is uniform and broad based.

Furthermore, the payments the State makes to Medicaid providers recognize their proportion of indigent payments, but these payments are targeted to needy facilities and are in no way intended to facilitate or pay for compensation for the provider taxes by the facilities that receive the reimbursement.

This is a unique setup in which the State sends Medicaid payments for some hospitals to a subsidiary of HMA, the hospital association, which then acts as an agent in distributing the funds.

The CMS concerns about the Missouri situation center on this arrangement, and we have reason to believe they were on a course to attempt to seek $1.6 billion in repayments. This would be an enormous sum for the Missouri Medicaid Program whose annual budget in 2001 was only $3.5 billion, including both Federal and State funds.

If this action were to be taken, it would devastate the Medicaid Program of the State of Missouri and the care it currently provides for over 479,000 children, 21,000 seniors in nursing homes, and close to 30,000 pregnant women. That is absolutely unacceptable, and that cannot go forward.

The State of Missouri already faces huge budget shortfalls due to overspending and, in the near term, will have difficulty even in maintaining the current programs and services which are so vitally needed. If CMS were to succeed in taking these funds back, Missouri's Medicaid Program and over 800,000 people currently served could be grievously harmed.

I come to the Chamber today with my colleague from Missouri to raise this issue for the Senate. We have entered into a colloquy with the managers of the bill because we believe, as a result of raising this issue when we discussed it in the Appropriations Committee markup, that we started the process of bringing the State of Missouri and CMS together in good faith negotiations on the issue.

We strongly urge them to come to a resolution that meets CMS's concerns but that protects the integrity of Missouri's Medicaid Program and the care it provides to some of Missouri's most vulnerable citizens.

I appreciate the time of the Senate, and I appreciate the understanding of the managers of the bill. My colleague from Missouri, Senator CARNAHAN, and I look forward to seeing a successful resolution that will take care of the concerns of CMS, but also not take away the vitally needed Medicaid support for needy children, for the seniors in nursing homes, and for the pregnant women.

I thank the Chair. I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from West Virginia.

AMENDMENT NO. 2035 TO AMENDMENT NO. 2020

Mr. BYRD. Mr. President, on behalf of the distinguished senior Senator from Alaska and myself, I send an amendment to the desk.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The senior assistant bill clerk read as follows:

The Senator from West Virginia [Mr. BYRD], for himself and Mr. STEVENS, proposes an amendment numbered 2035 to amendment No. 2020.

At the end of the amendment add:

(a) Notwithstanding Rule 3 of the Budget Scorekeeping Guidelines set forth in the joint explanatory statement of the committee of conference accompanying Conference Report 105-217, the provisions of the amendment that would have been estimated by the Office of Management and Budget as changing direct spending or receipts under section 252 of the Balanced Budget and Emergency Deficit Control Act of 1985 were it included in an Act other than an appropriations Act shall be treated as direct spending or receipts legislation, as appropriate, under section 252 of the Balanced Budget and Emergency deficit Control Act of 1985, and by the Chairman of the Senate Budget Committee, as appropriate, under the Congressional Budget Act.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from West Virginia.

Mr. BYRD. Mr. President, the amendment by Mr. DOMENICI is the text of S. 534, the Mental Health Equitable Treatment Act of 2001. This amendment would prohibit group health plans and group health insurance issuers that provide both medical and surgical benefits and mental health benefits from imposing treatment limitations or financial requirements for coverage of mental health benefits that are different from those used for medical and surgical benefits.

The problem Senator STEVENS and I encountered in processing this amendment is that the Senate Appropriations Committee would be charged with approximately $1.5 billion over the next decade if this amendment, worthwhile as it may be, were to be adopted. Both Senator STEVENS and I, I believe, are cosponsors of the underlying legislation, S. 534. I did not realize that legislation was going to be offered as an amendment to an appropriations bill, however, or I might not have cosponsored it. Because of the adverse impact on discretionary spending, we would be forced to oppose this amendment in its current form. In an effort to find a workable solution to the problem, this amendment would direct that any expenditures resulting from this amendment be charged to the committee of jurisdiction under the budget process. If this amendment is adopted, I will drop my opposition to the underlying amendment.

Senator STEVENS and I have spoken with the chairman and ranking member of the Budget Committee, and they are in agreement.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Alaska.

Mr. STEVENS. I am pleased to join with the distinguished chairman of our committee in offering this amendment to the Domenici amendment.

Senator BYRD and I have made a firm agreement to hold the line on the understanding we reached with the House of Representatives and the President of the United States to hold the total spending to $686 billion this year. This amendment does not breach that agreement. I am talking about the Domenici amendment does not breach this agreement.

Further, the amendment to the Domenici amendment will assure in future years, if there are caps continued under the Budget Control Act, that this amendment will not result in monies being assessed to our committee, as Senator BYRD has stated. They should properly be asserted to the committee of jurisdiction.

I am of the firm opinion this is a good bill. I was a cosponsor of the bill. I did not expect it to be offered to an appropriations bill, but under the parliamentary situation I do not express objection to that. I do, however, think the Senate should be reminded once again we have a firm understanding with regard to the appropriations process this year, and if we hold to that understanding I think we will finish our bills in time to enjoy the holidays with our relatives. If we breach that agreement, we will be here for a long time.

I am proud to serve with Senator BYRD, who is chairman, because we are two people who I believe keep our word. We have in this instance convinced the Senate to follow us in that regard. So I thank the Senator very much and am pleased to cosponsor the amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Minnesota.

Mr. WELLSTONE. Very quickly, I know Senator DOMENICI is in a markup on the energy and water bill, along with Senator HARKIN.

I thank my two colleagues for their amendment. I think it just adds to the strength of the bill. It is very important to have their support. So I thank both of them for their work.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Pennsylvania.

Mr. SPECTER. Mr. President, I thank the distinguished chairman of the full committee, Senator BYRD, and the ranking member, Senator STEVENS, for their assistance in moving ahead with this very important amendment.

Parity for mental health has been an objective of about two-thirds of the Senators for many years. Through today's action, I think we are on the road to getting that accomplished. So I salute my colleagues and thank my colleagues for their cooperation and good work.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there further debate on the second-degree amendment?

If not, the question is on agreeing to amendment No. 2035.

The amendment (No. 2035) was agreed to.

Mr. STEVENS. I move to reconsider the vote.

Mr. SPECTER. I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to amendment No. 2020, as amended.

The amendment (No. 2020), as amended, was agreed to.

Mr. SPECTER. I move to reconsider the vote.

Mr. WELLSTONE. I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

Mr. SPECTER. I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll. Mr. HARKIN. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Ms. CANTWELL). Without objection, it is so ordered.

UNANIMOUS CONSENT AGREEMENT

Mr. HARKIN. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent that the list I will send to the desk, once this consent has been granted, be the only first-degree amendments to H.R. 3061, the Labor-HHS appropriations bill; that these amendments be subject to relevant second-degree amendments; that upon disposition of all amendments, the bill be read the third time and the Senate vote on passage of the bill. That upon passage, the Senate insist on its amendments, request a conference with the House on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses, and the Chair be authorized to appoint conferees on the part of the Senate, with this action occurring with no intervening action or debate.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. HARKIN. This is a finite list of amendments we now have before the committee.

I am authorized by the majority leader to announce there will be no further votes this evening.

Mr. SPECTER. Madam President, I urge all of our colleagues to move ahead promptly tomorrow to offer amendments. The list is a very long list and, as is frequently the case, a great many of the amendments listed are placeholders. We would appreciate our colleagues advising which amendments they intend to offer and specify what amendment it is so we can move ahead. It is very important we complete action on this bill if we are to complete a conference in a time where we will finish during the current session before the holiday season.

Last year, it took months for the conference to be resolved between the House and Senate. We urge our colleagues to come to the floor tomorrow when we start action on the bill, which I understand is to be at 10:30, to proceed to offer amendments.

I yield the floor.

AMENDMENT NO. 2024

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from North Dakota.

Mr. DORGAN. I have an amendment at the desk for immediate consideration.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

Mr. DORGAN. Madam President, this is an amendment I discussed on the floor briefly earlier today. I shall be brief again. I understand under ideal circumstances this amendment would be placed somewhere else, at some other time, perhaps in some other bill. It is an amendment that is critically important and should have been done last week. It should now be law. It should already be providing protection to the American people today but is not.

I am angry about that because the Congress should not have missed this opportunity last week. I don't intend to let the Congress miss this opportunity at any point along the way. I will offer it, and if it is not finally a part of this bill when signed by the President, I will offer it to every bill.

Let me describe the circumstance. I am chairman of an appropriations subcommittee and I held a hearing a few weeks ago and had the Commissioner of the Customs Service and the Commissioner of the Immigration Service testifying before that subcommittee. One of the things they talked about was the need to provide security with respect to who is coming into our country. A country cannot be secure unless it has some notion of border security. We have millions of people coming into our country each and every year. They are guests of ours, coming in on a visa given by our country.

When people come to our country, we welcome them. We want them to visit our country, but we also want to be sure the people who are coming to our country from foreign lands are people we want to have as guests. There are some we want to keep out: Those involved in terrorist activities, those who have had association with terrorist groups, known and suspected terrorists. We do not want to welcome them into our country. We want to keep them out. That is the whole purpose of border security.

We have around 80 million people who come to this country every year on some 400,000 international flights. I repeat, on 400,000 international flights we have some 80 million people disembark to visit the United States.

There are just over 100 major air carriers flying those passengers into our country. We have an arrangement with 95 of those air carriers to voluntarily provide the United States Customs Service with advance passenger lists of who is coming to visit our country. The Customs Service runs that list against a list the FBI has, the Customs Service has, and 21 different agencies of law enforcement, to evaluate which of these passengers, if any, should not be allowed into our country, which of them are on the suspect list, and which are on the list of known or suspected terrorists.

We have the majority of the airline carriers and the majority of the names of passengers being given to our law enforcement authorities in the form of an advance electronic passenger list. It is called the Advance Passenger Information System. It is a voluntary, not mandatory, system covering 85 percent of the international air passengers that are not already pre-cleared by Customs. It works fine except we have a number of carriers from countries that do not participate.

Let me list a few: Saudi Arabia, Egypt, Jordan, and Pakistan, just to name a few.

One would ask whether we should be getting advanced passenger information from these countries. The answer is yes. In fact, the Senate said yes last week. The Senate was prepared to adopt this amendment last week as part of the counter-terrorism bill, which is where it should have been. In conference it was knocked out. It went to conference with the U.S. House. Some were worried more about committee jurisdiction than they were about security. So they knocked it out.

The result was, when the President signed that counter-terrorism bill, it did not have this provision that makes mandatory the Advanced Passenger Information System.

What does that mean? It means that today about 219,000 international air passengers arrived in the United States—today, Tuesday. About 34,000 are pre-cleared by U.S. Customs agents stationed abroad who run an APIS-type check as part of the clearing process, 156,000 are pre-screened through APIS while they are in flight, leaving approximately 29,000 whose names are not provided to the Customs Service until they arrive because their carriers do not participate in the Advanced Passenger Information System. Why? Because the Congress last week decided not to include that requirement in a conference report.

The President wants this requirement. The Customs Service wants the requirement. All the Federal law enforcement authorities want the requirement. We get it on 85 percent of international air passengers. And the ones we don't get it from are Pakistan, Kuwait, Saudi Arabia, Egypt, and Jordan, just to name a few.

I ask the question: Does it promote this country's security to require those air carriers to provide the same information that virtually every other air carrier in the world provides to us? The answer is clearly yes.

We are less secure today than we should be because the Congress knocked out my provision in that conference committee. That provision was not in the counter-terrorism bill when the President signed it, despite the fact that the Senate supported it. The Senate said yes. But it was knocked out in conference.

I intend to offer this to any vehicle I have the opportunity to offer it to. I know that it doesn't necessarily belong on an appropriations bill. But it belongs in law in this country. It belongs there now. It should be there now. It should be providing security for this country now with respect to the 29,000 people who entered this country today whose names were not provided under the Advanced Passenger Information List. It makes no sense to me to be in this situation.

Some would say, well, this really inconveniences and mandates the air carriers to do this. No, it does not. Most of the air carriers do it voluntarily, and they have a good relationship with our country. But some air carriers decided that they will not do it. The Customs Commissioner and others indicate that we ought to make it mandatory. I agree with that.

Since September 11, things have changed. It is not profiling. It is not profiling in any way to ask for an advanced list of passengers who are going to visit our country as guests in our country. But we are trying to profile those who are terrorists and suspected terrorists. Let's admit to that.

One of the goals that we have in all of our efforts with respect to increasing security at our borders is to determine who the people are who associate with terrorists and known terrorists or suspected terrorists, and try to keep them out of our country. Unfair? I don't think so, not in the circumstance where thousands of Americans have been killed—cold-blooded murder by terrorists who decided to use an airplane as a weapon of destruction; not at a time when terrorists sent anthrax-laced letters around this country through the mail system and people die.

I ask that we include this amendment in this appropriations bill. I hope those who are talking about their committee jurisdiction will understand that this isn't about jurisdiction. It is about security. This isn't about trying to protect your little area. It is about common sense to try to protect this country's borders. The Advanced Passenger Information System works. It has worked for a long while. It provides this country names that are important to secure our borders, except that it doesn't do it in all instances. In the instances where it fails, it is critically important to give this country critically important information in order to give this country some assurance and some comfort.

I understand that we will probably deal with this amendment tomorrow. I wanted to offer it this evening.

Mr. HARKIN. Madam President, I believe this amendment which I am pledged to cosponsor should become law. It is very reasonable for the United States to require that airlines provide information about their international travelers coming to the United States so customs can be able to check if any of the passengers are of special concern.

We are going to considerable lengths to improve the safety of our aviation system and to improve our ability to better protect our borders. Requiring that international airlines provide some basic information about their passengers and their cargo is very reasonable.

I understand some airlines are concerned about the small costs involved. Some airlines might have other reasons to not comply. But with 85 percent compliance with the voluntary requirements, clearly the burden is well within reason. There is no question, given the realities of our world, this should be required information for any international flight coming to the United States.

I yield the floor and suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. REID. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

MORNING BUSINESS

Mr. REID. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent that there now be a period of morning business, with Senators allowed to speak therein for a period not to exceed 5 minutes each.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

TERRORISM

Mr. SPECTER. Madam President, the terrorist attacks carried out by Osama bin Laden and al-Qaida on September 11 require a reevaluation of our national policy on what the government should be doing on its primary responsibilities: the security of the people.

The United States was stunned by that diabolical attack. It was thought impossible to make the country, with special emphasis on the Congress, more "fighting mad"; but that was done with the anthrax attacks. As a nation, we are determined to respond thoughtfully and forcefully to win the war against terrorism. This floor statement briefly reviews some of the responses by the U.S. to terrorism for the past two decades to learn from our mistakes of the past and to guide us on what to do in the future.

The United States has been slow to assert extraterritorial jurisdiction to bring to justice terrorists who attack U.S. citizens around the world. Ordinarily, jurisdiction resides in the locale where the crime occurred; however, a nation may assert extraterritorial jurisdiction where its citizens are victimized on foreign soil which provides the nexus for jurisdiction beyond its boundaries.

It was not until 1984 that the United States asserted extraterritorial jurisdiction to try terrorists who kidnaped or hijacked Americans abroad. Those provisions were contained in the Omnibus Crime Control Act of 1984 which was added onto the appropriations bill for the Department of Justice. The Senate and House Judiciary Committees, led by feuding chairmen, could not agree on legislation, so an appropriation subcommittee took up the issues in an unusual way. The bill was passed in the middle of an all-night session, in which I participated along with Senator Warren Rudman on the Senate subcommittee, and Congressman Bill Hughes on the House subcommittee.

That legislation still left a void on terrorism other than kidnaping or hijacking. On July 11, 1985, I introduced the Terrorist Prosecution Act of 1985, to establish extraterritorial jurisdiction for any attacks on any U.S. citizen anywhere in the world. Several months later, the need for such legislation became urgent when on December 27, 1985, 16 people, including five Americans, were killed by random terrorist strafings at the Rome and Vienna airports, and many others were wounded. This provided the impetus to pass the Terrorist Prosecution Act which became law on August 27, 1986, providing the basis for the indictments against Osama bin Laden for conspiring to murder 18 Americans in Mogadishu, Somalia, in 1993, and 12 Americans at the Nairobi, Kenya, and Dar es Salaam, Tanzania, Embassies in 1998.

Although there were solid precedents for the United States to act against indicted terrorists, who were harbored in foreign countries, the United States declined to pursue an aggressive policy to enforce outstanding warrants of arrest. In 1886, in the case of Ker v. Illinois, 119 U.S. 436 (1886), the Supreme Court of the United States held that a prosecution could be validly pursued even where the defendant was abducted in a foreign country and brought back to the U.S. for trial. Ker, under indictment for fraud in Illinois, had fled to Peru. Illinois authorities pursued him to Peru and brought him back to Illinois for trial and conviction. The Supreme Court of the United States said:

There are authorities of the highest respectability which hold that such forcible abduction is no sufficient reason why the party should not answer when brought within the jurisdiction of the Court which has the right to try him for such an offense, and presents no valid objection to his trial in such court. (Ker, 119 U.S. at 444.)

That principle was upheld by the Supreme Court of the United States in Frisbie v. Collins, 342 U.S. 519, 522 [1953], in an opinion by Justice Black, a noted civil libertarian.

Based on my experience as district attorney of Philadelphia in pursuing indicted criminals, I thought some of those techniques could be applied to international terrorists. Those ideas were expanded after chairing the Intelligence Committee and Judiciary Subcommittee on Terrorism.

After studying "Ker" and "Frisbie," I urged U.S. executive branch officials to consider abduction, if necessary, to bring back to the United States indicted terrorists. In hearings before the Judiciary Committee and the Appropriations Subcommittee on Foreign Operations, I questioned Secretary of State George Schultz, Attorney General Edwin Meese, FBI Director William Webster and State Department Counsel Abraham Sofaer on that subject. In testimony before the Judiciary Subcommittee on Terrorism on July 30, 1985, Judge Sofaer raised a series of objections to such forceful action, saying:

I would say that seizure by U.S. officials of terrorist suspects abroad might constitute a serious breach of the territorial sovereignty of a foreign state, and could violate local kidnapping laws—that is, the people who do the seizing could be, in fact, criminals under local law. Such acts might also be viewed by foreign states as violations of international law incompatible with the foreign extradition treaties that we have in force with those nations.

It may be that those hearings, urging the application of "Ker" and "Frisbie," led to action by U.S. law enforcement officials against Fawaz Yunis, although his case did not involve abduction in a foreign country, but the principle was close. In June 1985, Yunis and other terrorists hijacked a Jordanian airliner with two U.S. citizens in Beirut, Lebanon. In September 1987, a joint operation of the FBI, CIA, and U.S. Military led to the capture of Yunis, who was lured onto a yacht off the coast of Cyprus with "promises of a drug deal." Once the yacht entered international waters, Yunis was arrested and returned to the U.S. for trial where he was convicted of conspiracy, aircraft piracy, and hostage-taking, and then sentenced to 30 years in prison.

The hearings on "Ker" and "Frisbie" may have also led the DEA—the Drug Enforcement Administration—to abduct from Mexico Dr. Alvarez-Machain who was implicated in the kidnaping and murder of a DEA agent in Mexico in 1985. After the DEA unsuccessfully negotiated with Mexican authorities for Alvarez-Machain's surrender, DEA officials offered a reward to a group of Mexican citizens for delivering Alvarez-Machain to them in the United States, which was done in April 1990. The trial court dismissed the case because the DEA agents had violated the extradition treaty with Mexico, and the Circuit Court of Appeals affirmed. When the case reached the Supreme Court of the United States, the Court reversed the lower courts and stated this principle of law:

The power of a court to try a person for a crime [exists even if] he had been brought within the court's jurisdiction by reason of a forcible abduction. (United States v. Alvarez-Machain, 504 U.S. 655, 661 (1992).)

And now onto Osama bin Laden's longstanding record on terrorism against the United States.

The cases of Ker, Frisbie, and Alvarez-Machain provided ample precedent for the United States to have acted against Osama bin Laden prior to September 11, 2001. For a decade, Osama bin Laden had been prosecuting a war of terrorism against the United States. In 1992, he issued a religious declaration, known as a fatwah, urging that United States troops be driven out of Saudi Arabia, and the fatwah was extended in 1993 to demand expelling U.S. troops from Somalia. The terrorists convicted for bombing the World Trade Center in 1993 were trained in al-Qaida camps in Afghanistan. In 1996, al-Qaida called for a jihad against the United States.

In February 1998, bin Laden and al-Qaida issued another fatwah, calling for the murder of U.S. citizens wherever they were found in the world. In May 1998, bin Laden announced the need to possess a nuclear weapon against "Jews and Crusaders." In indictments returned in November 1998, Osama bin Laden was charged with conspiring to murder U.S. troops in Saudi Arabia and Somalia and for being directly involved with the bombings of the U.S. embassies in Kenya and Tanzania in August 1998. In June 1999, bin Laden called for the killing of all American males. And then bin Laden was involved with al-Qaida in the terrorist attack on the USS Cole.

Notwithstanding demands by the United States and the United Nations, the Taliban refused to turn bin Laden over to U.S. authorities. In harboring bin Laden, the Taliban, the de facto government of Afghanistan, was an accessory after the fact. In his September 20, 2001 speech to a Joint Session of Congress, President Bush equated those who harbor terrorists with the terrorists themselves.

From all that, it was readily apparent that bin Laden and al-Qaida were at war with the United States even prior to September 11. Then, on September 11, in addition to murdering 7,000 Americans, bin Laden and al-Qaida sought to destroy our symbol of economic achievement by leveling the twin towers of the World Trade Center and to decimate the White House and U.S. Capitol with planes which crashed into the Pentagon and in a Pennsylvania field.

In a Senate floor statement the following day, September 12, I said—and it is worth repeating now:

[T]here have been many declarations that what occurred yesterday with the Trade Towers and the Pentagon were acts of war. And there is no doubt about that. Similarly, what bin Laden did in Mogadishu in 1993 and in the Embassies in 1998 were acts of war. At this time, while the Congress should never act precipitously, I do suggest that consideration be given to a declaration of war against the political entity which harbors and has given aid and assistance to bin Laden's terrorist organization and bin Laden and his co-conspirators, based on the indictments which already have been handed down. . . .

It was my view on September 12 that even though we could not prove at that time that bin Laden was responsible for the terrorism of September 11, that a basis already existed for declaring war on Afghanistan and the Taliban for harboring bin Laden based upon the indictments which had already been returned establishing probable cause for acts of war which bin Laden and al-Qaida had committed against the United States.

On September 13, when the President met with Members of Congress from New York, Virginia, and Pennsylvania, which were the impacted States, I urged President Bush to consider a declaration of war against Afghanistan and the Taliban on the basis of the outstanding indictments against bin Laden and the Taliban's refusal to turn him over. The President made no response at that meeting to my suggestion.

President Bush declined to ask for a declaration of war, but he did request a resolution authorizing the use of force which was passed unanimously in the Senate and 420-1 in the House.

Presidential executive orders have provided that: "No person employed by or acting on behalf of the U.S. Government shall engage in, or conspire to engage in, assassination." But in April 1986, President Reagan ordered the bombing of Tripoli, Libya, and Muammar Qadhafi after intelligence intercepts implicated Libyan intelligence operatives in the bombing of a disco in Berlin, resulting in the death of two American soldiers.

Similarly, President Clinton ordered a missile attack on Osama bin Laden in Afghanistan in August 1998 after the Embassy bombings. In an interview with Tom Brokaw on NBC News on September 18, 2001, former President Clinton said:

We had quite good intelligence that he [bin Laden] and his top lieutenants would be in his training camp. So I ordered the cruise missile attacks, and we didn't tell anybody, including the Pakistanis, whose airspace we had to travel over, until the last minute, and unfortunately we missed them, apparently not by very long. We killed a number of terrorists, destroyed the camp, but we didn't get him or his top lieutenants. And I made it clear that we should take all necessary action to try to apprehend him and get him. We never had another chance where the intelligence was as reliable to justify military action. He's very elusive. He spends the night in different places, often stays in—in caves. There were times when he tried to hide among a lot of women and children. It's a tough . . . nut to crack. But the world is changed now, and . . . the pressure that President Bush and the administration is putting on the Taliban and also on the Pakistanis, and the statements the Pakistanis have made, and the unity we've got around the world—we finally got other countries as concerned about this as we are. . . .

Now to a discussion of Israel's response to terrorism. It is worth noting what Israel has done in its war against terrorism. Israel has adopted a policy on what could be called "executions" after its own determination of terrorists' guilt. After the massacre of the 11 Israeli Olympic athletes in Munich in 1972, it is reported that Prime Minister Golda Meir and Defense Minister Moshe Dayan authorized the executions of 9 of the terrorists whom they identified as being responsible for the Munich murders. One person, killed in Norway, was reported misidentified as a terrorist. Such executions have also been carried out by Israel against terrorists who were principals of the PLO, Islamic Jihad, Hezbollah and Hamas whom the Israelis found involved in murders of Israeli civilians.

The terrorism of September 11 should make us more understanding of the perils faced by Israel for five decades. Since the second Intifada began in September 2000, Israel has sustained 165 deaths from the killings. On a proportionate basis to our population, that would translate into over 7,000 Americans, a virtual equivalency to the mass murders on September 11. Should Israel be expected to respond differently from the way we responded to September 11? Just as the United States must find a way to stop terrorist attacks on U.S. citizens, a way must be found to stop the violence which has killed 714 Palestinians as well as 165 Israelis.

In seeking to organize a coalition against bin Laden and al-Qaida, the United States has urged, even pressured, Israel to temper its responses against Palestinian terrorists. In so doing, the United States should consider whether it is applying a double standard between what we are doing and what we ask Israel to do. What is the difference between the United States demand on the Taliban to turn over Osama bin Laden contrasted with Israel's demand on Chairman Arafat to turn over the assassin of the Israeli tourism Minister Rehavam Zeevi.

The usually perceptive Thomas L. Friedman in his October 23 New York Times column applied such a double standard. Asking Israel to pull its punches against Palestinian terrorism to stop ". . . inflam[ing] the Arab-Muslim world in order to avoid . . . seriously undermining our [the United States] coalition against bin Laden," Friedman calls for Israel to subordinate its security interests to those of the United States. Friedman then asks Prime Minister Sharon whether ". . . you (know) how serious this war is for America"? Is the war against Palestinian terrorism any less serious for Israel?

In seeking the assistance of Arab countries in the coalition, the United States has been careful not to ask for more than can reasonably be expected. Similar consideration must be extended to Israel. During the gulf war in 1991, Prime Minister Itzhak Shamir and Israel cooperated with the United States by taping their windows, wearing gas masks, and not responding to Iraqi Scud missile attacks. Israel has made serious, good-faith efforts to negotiate with Arafat notwithstanding the Intifada violence. Prime Minister Barak made the Palestinian authority a very generous offer in January 2001. Foreign Minister Shimon Peres has engaged in extensive negotiations until those talks were interrupted by outbreaks of Palestinian terrorism.

There was a real question as to how much control Chairman Arafat can exert over Palestinian terrorism. Last April 16, I met Chairman Yasser Arafat in Cairo near midnight at the precise time Israel was responding to Palestinian mortar attacks. As we talked, aides brought Arafat communiques describing the fighting. I asked Chairman Arafat why he had not accepted then Prime Minister Barak's generous offer earlier in the year. Chairman Arafat responded that he had, but he was obviously oblivious to the fact that he imposed so many conditions it was, in fact, not an acceptance.

I then called on Chairman Arafat to make a clear statement calling for an end to Palestinian terrorists attacks. He said he had done that at the Arab summit on March 29, 2001. The transcript of his speech refuted his statement. That speech was another example of his longstanding tactic of sending contradictory messages. Chairman Arafat is famous for saying one thing in English to one audience and the reverse in Arabic to another audience.

In assessing Chairman Arafat's ability to reign in Palestinian terrorism, we must take into account that today he is not the man he was when he shook the hands of Prime Minister Rabin and Peres on the White House South Lawn on September 13, 1993, in the presence of President Clinton. Shortly thereafter, I met Chairman Arafat in Cairo in January 1994 traveling with a congressional delegation. At that time Arafat was healthy, robust, and forceful.

Seven years later, when I again met him in Cairo, he was shaky, hesitant, and spoke mostly through his aides. The recent challenges to his authority by Hamas, resulting in Chairman Arafat's firing on and killing Palestinians in early October, shows his diminished authority and raises serious questions as to whether he can be effective in ending the Palestinian violence even if he wants to.

This April, Secretary of State Colin Powell criticized Israel's response to Palestinian terrorism saying Israel's military action was "excessive and disproportionate." In hearings before the Appropriations Subcommittee on Foreign Operations on May 15, 2001, I challenged Secretary Powell's characterization and said:

While Israel did respond very, very forcefully, Israel could have responded much more forcefully and is facing a situation where everybody is sort of at wit's end. And I believe that the calculation is made that if they hit them hard enough within reason that they will—that the Palestinians perhaps will stop the terrorism although that is very complicated with Hamas and Islam Jihad and the others.

Then Secretary Powell sought to justify his comment by saying that we tried to be "even-handed". He then referred to "the cycle of violence." The comment on "cycle of violence" suggests some sort of parity or moral equivalency between the purpose and level of force between Palestinian terrorists and Israel's reaction in self-defense.

There is, realistically viewed, no moral equivalency.

Terrorism, the killing of innocent victims, is totally reprehensible, repugnant, and morally unjustifiable. Self-defense in response to such terrorism is morally justifiable and is authorized under international and natural law.

When United States pressure on Israel increased, Prime Minister Sharon bluntly told the Bush Administration "do not try to appease the Arabs at our expense" and analogized the situation to the allies sacrificing Czechoslovakia in the Munich Pact of 1938. The Bush administration replied in kind calling Sharon's comment "unacceptable."

In limiting the freezing of terrorist assets to individuals and groups connected to the al-Qaida organization and the Irish Republican Army, President Bush did not extend United States efforts to "every terrorist group of global reach," as articulated in his September 20th speech. Perhaps he left out Hamas, Hezbollah, the Palestine Liberation Organization and other Arab terrorist organizations to maximize the chances to get Syria and other Arab countries into our coalition.

Israel's battle against Palestinian terrorism would have benefited by our freezing the bank accounts, of Hamas, Hezbollah and the PLO, just as we did with terrorist organizations connected to Osama bin Laden; but United States national interests at the moment may have differed—just as Israel's national interest may differ.

Israel cannot be blamed for the September 11 terrorism. Senator JOHN MCCAIN was right when he said on NBC's "Meet the Press" on October 21:

So if Israel were taken off the face of the Earth tomorrow, we would still be facing the same terrorist problems we have today.

Osama bin Laden's hatred against the United States, is rooted in events which preceded Israeli's existence. His videotaped statement broadcast on October 7 cited, "what America is facing today is something very little of what we have tasted for decades. Our nation, since nearly 80 years is tasting this humility." He raged against the United States for our military action against Iraq and Japan. The two references to Israel were minor compared to his diatribe against America as the "head of international infidels."

His disregard for human life was palpable in minimizing "a few more than 10 were killed in Nairobi and Dar es Salaam." The intensity of hostility was demonstrated by a statement by Ayman al Zawahir, one of his close associates, on the same videotape:

American people, can you ask yourselves why there is so much hatred against America?

The New York Times on October 7 characterized bin Laden's anti-American attitude:

Mr. bin Laden, born in Saudi Arabia, has typically focused his anti-American statements on the presence of American troops in Saudi Arabia, declaring it a violation of Islamic holy places. Now, in keeping with the rest of the Arab world, he shifted focus to the Palestinian uprising that began in September 2000, as officials believe.

A minister of the United Arab Emirates is reported to have warned the United States that if Israel continued killing Palestinians, "most of us will certainly have to reconsider our role in the coalition". The United States was obviously seeking to assuage Arab objections when Secretary of Defense Rumsfeld skipped Israel in his recent mid-East trip and Secretary of State Powell emphasized that Israel would not be part of any military coalition. Hezbollah and Hamas are now reportedly accelerating their terrorism on the expectation that Israel may be reluctant to respond out of concern for Arab participation in the coalition. That is a prelude to the most important part of this somewhat lengthy statement, and that is a focus on dealing with terrorism in the future.

The conduct of Osama bin Laden and al-Qaida prior to September 11 should have put the United States on notice that we were facing a ruthless, powerful enemy engaged in a religious war with the capacity to inflict enormous damage. By 20/20 hindsight, the United States should have taken whatever action was necessary to, as President Bush later put it, either bring bin Laden and al-Qaida to justice, or to bring justice to them. The point is not to attach blame for what happened in the past; but to learn from this bitter experience how tough and determined we must be from this day forward in fighting terrorism. After September 11, it is obvious that the civilized world faces decisions on how to deal with terrorism which threatens our survival. Self defense, acknowledged as a person's most primordial motivation, is recognized as a fundamental principle in international law.

Congress, in conjunction with the President, has the responsibility to conduct hearings, deliberate, and establish our national policy on how to deal with terrorism. As a starting point, Congress should conduct oversight hearings to determine whether our intelligence agencies were at fault in failing to provide warnings of the September 11 attacks. If so, Congress must act to cure such deficiencies and to do whatever is necessary at whatever cost to reorganize our intelligence agencies and provide the resources to be as sure as possible that we will not be again caught by surprise. The oversight hearings on the adequacy of our intelligence should be deferred until next year so as not to distract the intelligence community from using its full resources to detect current threats.

Congress, in conjunction with the President, should consider the public policy behind the Executive Order banning "Assassinations." As a starting point, we should consider whether the pejorative term "assassinations" is accurate or whether we are really dealing with "executions," even if they are based on a non-judicial determination of guilt. It is one thing to prohibit the CIA from involvement in the killing of a leader of a foreign political faction or from the killing of a foreign leader contrasted with the CIA implementing a Presidential finding to take bin Laden into custody or kill him if there is no alternative.

The use of force in war or against terrorism does not require the same level of proof to convict in a U.S. court of law. Without prejudging Israel's nonjudicial determinations of guilt and the following "executions," Congress must decide what quality of proof and what level of force is necessary to assure our Nation's survival.

It was concluded that the Executive Order banning assassinations did not preclude President Reagan's order to bomb Libya and Qaddafi or President Clinton's order for a missile attack against bin Laden and al-Qaida in Afghanistan in August of 1998. In 1976, the Church Committee on Intelligence Operations concluded:

... short of war, assassination is incompatible with American principles, international order, and morality. It should be rejected as a tool of foreign policy.

The Church committee's interdiction against assassination, "short of war," raises the obvious question as to when war begins or whether terrorism isn't in fact, war. When it becomes a matter of survival, I suggest the pristine rules of the Church committee may have to be superseded, again depending on the circumstances.

Judicial determinations of guilt are not required as a basis for the use of deadly force in war and should not be the basis for action against terrorists. Israel has long considered itself in a war for survival facing being vastly outnumbered and surrounded by hostile armies in wars in 1949, 1956, 1967 and 1973, and some of those nations still have a state of war technically against Israel. In moving against the Munich murderers and Palestinian terrorists, Israel has adopted an activist policy of execution after a nonjudicial determination of guilt. All of that I suggest is worth studying.

In President Bush's speech to the Joint Session of Congress on September 20, he said:

The war on terrorism ... will not end until every terrorist group of global reach has been found, stopped and defeated.

Congress, in conjunction with the executive branch, must also decide what action should be taken against every nation which sponsors, supports, or harbors terrorists in order to meet President Bush's goal. We must determine what national security and survival require in evaluating a policy on abducting or executing terrorists in foreign countries and taking tough action against these who harbor them.

Consideration should also be given to the detention of individuals where there is reason to believe they are part of al-Qaida or some other group which is actively planning terrorism against the United States. Under existing law, membership or an affiliation with such a group without more is not a basis for arrest or detention. The standard for detention should not require the level or probable cause necessary for a warrant of arrest or a search warrant but it should be more than mere surmise. It is obviously a difficult line to draw.

A case was reported after September 11 where a suspected terrorist was detained when he tried to gain entry to the United States from Canada, but was released when there was not sufficient evidence to arrest him. He was reportedly later identified as one of the pilots on a September 11 hijacking, which illustrates the point that if we let them go when we have reason to detain them, they may come back to kill us.

Twenty-first century terrorists do not wear uniforms. Study must be undertaken to determine an appropriate standard for detention on the analogy of detaining prisoners of war. The issue of detention of aliens received considerable attention during the debate on the terrorism legislation which was signed into law by President Bush on October 26. That legislation answers part of the problem but not all of it.

Poignant scenes from "Saving Private Ryan" illustrate the problem.

In the movie, U.S. forces captured a German soldier behind enemy lines as they were making their way on their mission to save Private Ryan. The German soldier pleaded for his life. The American soldiers did not have the capacity to take him with them as a prisoner, so they had the alternative of killing him or letting him go.

When he promised to move to U.S.-held territory and surrender himself, the American soldiers relented and released him.

In a later scene, that German soldier confronts the same American soldiers and kills several of them. That sequence illustrates American generosity and our natural instincts to be merciful. It is a lesson worth noting that we, as a nation, must reevaluate our level of "toughness" if we are to survive.

In this Senate floor statement, I have sought to raise issues which must be decided after congressional hearings and deliberations rather than to provide definitive answers.

Now, Mr. President, I come to the crux of what I have had to say.

In summary, these are the issues to be decided by Congress in conjunction with the President, after hearings, deliberation, and consultation. These are some of the issues which have to be considered. I do not say they are all inclusive, but these are the ones on my mind now.

First, should the United States revise its policy against assassinations to acknowledge that war and terrorism warrant executions under some circumstances?

Second, should such executions be authorized based on a nonjudicial determination of guilt, recognizing that responses to war and terrorism have traditionally not required the level of proof to indict or convict in a U.S. court of law?

Third, what level of our national leadership should be invested with the power to make such nonjudicial determinations of guilt?

Fourth, what are the standards for the quality and quantity of proof to make such a nonjudicial determination of guilt?

Fifth, should the United States be deterred from going into another sovereign nation to abduct or take forceful action against a terrorist when the host nation fails or refuses to turn over such terrorists?

Sixth, to what extent should the United States act against foreign nations or their officials who harbor terrorists?

And seventh, should individuals be detained where there is some basis to believe that they are non-uniformed members of al-Qaida or another terrorist organization on the analogy of incarcerating prisoners of war? If so, what should be the standard for such detention, and who should make the determination?

My sense is that America will maintain its resolve in carrying on the war against terrorism regardless of how long it takes. The steadfastness and durability of the coalition is another question. In my opinion historically, "Remember Pearl Harbor" will be a mild declaration or exhortation to "Remember September 11th!!"

That concludes my statement. I thank my colleague, the Senator from Alaska, for his patience, and in fact he was patient. He came in at the latter part of my statement, and I have taken considerable time until Senator STEVENS arrived, and there is no other Senator who sought recognition. I appreciate the opportunity to make the statement which has been the product of considerable work on my part.

I yield the floor.

IN RECOGNITION OF THE BAYER CORPORATION

Mr. SPECTER. Madam President, I have sought recognition to recognize and acknowledge the activities of one of my own very good corporate neighbors and constituents, the Bayer Corporation of Pittsburgh. Last week, on October 24, Bayer Corporation's president and chief executive officer, Mr.

Helge H. Wehmeier, and U.S. Postmaster General John E. Potter announced Bayer's donation of 2 million doses of their antibiotic Cipro, one of the FDA's drugs of choice for the treatment and cure of anthrax disease.

This medication was donated to the Federal Government and is intended for use by Federal employees who may need it. The medication will be administered by U.S. Federal health care agencies, including the Department of Health and Human Services and its Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, as well as local and State health care officials in the Washington, DC, area.

There has been a claim, and justifiably so, for the heroism of our firemen, our police, and our health care workers who responded to the attacks on September 11. Now with the problems with anthrax, we appropriately add to that honor roll the U.S. postal workers. Mr. Helge H. Wehmeier had noted that the unsung heroes, less celebrated perhaps, but no less brave in their readiness to perform their duties, were the postal workers. Regrettably, we have seen problems with anthrax there. The contribution by Bayer should be of substantial help.

I also call my colleagues' attention to the comments of Department of Health and Human Services Secretary Tommy Thompson last week with respect to the negotiations with Bayer and Mr. Wehmeier. I ask unanimous consent, following these brief remarks, there be printed in the RECORD a copy of the press release which was issued following the meeting with Secretary Thompson and Mr. Wehmeier, president and CEO of the Bayer Corporation.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

HHS, BAYER AGREE TO CIPRO PURCHASE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—HHS Secretary Tommy G. Thompson and Mr. Helge H. Wehmeier, President and CEO of Bayer Corporation, today announced agreement for a significant new federal purchase of the antibiotic ciprofloxacin (trademarked Cipro) at a substantially lowered price. The antibiotic is expected to be available by year end. Supplementing existing emergency stockpiles, it would be available for use in the event of a bioterror event.

Under the terms of the agreement valued at $95 million, HHS will pay 95 cents per tablet for a total initial order of 100 million tablets. This compares with a previously discounted price of $1.77 per tablet paid by the federal government. Bayer said it will rotate the government's inventory, as part of this agreement, to assure the American public a continuously fresh supply of Cipro. This inventory rotation adds an additional value of 30 percent for the government, which is included in the agreement.

Funds for the purchase are included in the $1.6 billion emergency proposal made by President Bush Oct. 17, which awaits Congressional action. HHS is also carrying out substantial new purchases of other antibiotics that are effective against anthrax, especially doxycycline. The purchases will fulfill Secretary Thompson's proposal to quickly increase the nation's emergency reserve of antibiotics. Resources to be on hand by January would treat up to 12 million persons immediately for anthrax exposure. Treatment would be with a mixture of effective antibiotic products, with Cipro representing about 10 percent of the antibiotics on reserve. Currently, 18.6 million Cipro doses are available in the nation's emergency reserve, which would enable immediate treatment of about 2 million persons in combination with other antibiotics.

"This agreement means that a much larger supply of this important pharmaceutical product will be available if needed," Secretary Thompson said. "The beneficial price also means that we can have more funds available to assist state and local health responders to be ready for all eventualities. I commend the Bayer Corporation for its ongoing efforts to ensure a fully adequate supply of this valuable product."

"Bayer is fully committed to supplying America in its war on bioterrorism. This agreement between Bayer and the Department of Health and Human Services is an important security measure that will enable the nation to have in its stockpile ample supplies of Cipro to combat the threat of anthrax," said Bayer president Wehmeier. "Cipro has become standard for anthrax treatment. The men and women of Bayer are 100 percent committed to delivering this vital antibiotic to the U.S. government on schedule."

Secretary Thompson said current supplies of Cipro and other antibiotics which are effective against anthrax "are entirely adequate to meet the current need. This purchase is aimed at expanding our emergency stand-by capacity, to make us even better prepared for the possibility of massive exposure to anthrax or other biological agents."

As a further contingency, the agreement provides for the option of a second order of 100 million tablets at 85 cents, and a third order at 75 cents, if it is determined that further orders are needed. Cipro is one of many antibiotics that have been found effective in the treatment of exposure to anthrax in the incidents in recent weeks. Current treatment practice for anthrax exposure, including those possibly exposed to anthrax, is a 60-day course, involving initial use of a broad spectrum antibiotic like Cipro, for five days, followed by determination of other antibiotics to which the pathogen is susceptible.

The Cipro to be purchased would be used to expand emergency stand-by supplies in the National Pharmaceutical Stockpile (NPS), maintained by HHS' Centers for Disease Control and Prevention. The NPS includes both vendor managed inventory and 50-ton "Push Packages," designed to be able to reach any point in the continental United States within 12 hours. The current eight "Push Packages" are to be expanded to 12, under the President's proposals.

COMMUNITY RAIL LINE RELOCATION ASSISTANCE ACT

Mr. LOTT. Madam President, many cities and towns across our country are experiencing conflicts between railroads, motor vehicles, and people for the use of limited and increasingly congested space in downtown areas. High density highway-rail grade crossings, even properly marked and gated ones, increase the risk of fatal accidents. Many rail lines cut downtown areas in half while serving few, if any, rail customers in the downtown area. Rail traffic can cut off one side of a town to vital emergency services, including fire, police, ambulance, and hospital services. Downtown rail corridors can hamper economic development by restricting access to bisected areas. Sadly, since September 11, we now must be concerned about freight trains carrying hazardous materials through the middle of densely populated areas being targets of terrorist actions. These problems exist in small and large cities and towns across the Nation.

While TEA-21 provides some flexibility in the use of the Highway Trust Fund to enable States to address some of these concerns, it is primarily focused on solving transportation problems by building or modifying roads, including road overpasses and underpasses, as it should be. However, in many situations, this highway-rail conflict cannot, or should not, be fixed by cutting off or modifying a roadway. The answer is often to relocate the rail line.

To address this need I introduced S. 948, the Community Rail Line Relocation Assistance Act of 2001. The bill would authorize the Secretary of Transportation to provide grants to States and communities to relocate a rail line where this solution makes the most sense. In those cases where the best solution is to build a railroad tunnel, underpass, or overpass, or even reroute the rail line around the downtown area, this bill will enable these cities and towns to afford to undertake such a significant infrastructure project. The bill does not tap the Highway Trust Fund. Instead, the rail line relocation grant program would compete for appropriations on an annual basis.

S. 948 is supported by the United States Conference of Mayors, the National Conference of State Legislatures, the National League of Cities, the Association of American Railroads, the Short Line and Regional Railroad Association, the Railway Progress Institute, the National Railroad Construction and Maintenance Association, and the Rail Supply and Service Coalition.

The Senate may soon consider other legislation to authorize funding to increase security for Amtrak, other modes of transportation, and our nation's ports. I ask my Senate colleagues to consider the needs of their own States, to cosponsor S. 948, and to support inclusion of this provision in the next transportation authorization bill to be considered by the Senate. So far, working with representatives of our Nation's cities, I have identified 40 cities in 23 States that are concerned about rail crossing problems and for which rail line relocation may be the solution. I am sure there will be several more such cities that will be identified in the weeks to come. I ask unanimous consent that the list of these cities be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the list was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

AGRICULTURE APPROPRIATIONS

MEDICAL DEVICE TECHNOLOGY

Mr. JOHNSON. Madam President, first I thank, Chairman KOHL and Senator COCHRAN for their outstanding work in putting together an excellent bill. An important part of this legislation provides funding for the Food and Drug Administration to perform its vital mission to protect and promote the public health. That mission includes the essential work of evaluating the safety and effectiveness of promising new life-saving and life-enhancing medical device technologies so that they may be used with patients in an expeditious manner. However, we must be sure that the Center for Devices and Radiological Health (CDRH) are provided with the adequate resources to carry out their work. The number of patents issued in the medical device sector has increased by 30 percent in recent years. The private sector is committing substantial increases in funding to healthcare research and development. We are fortunate that the FDA will be faced with the task of evaluating many new technologies that will benefit all of us next year. It is my hope that we could review this issue in conference to ensure that the pre-market review function at CDRH receives an appropriate level of funding to carry out their mission.

Mr. DORGAN. I thank my colleague for raising this matter. It is my concern that the pre-market review function at the Center for Devices and Radiological Health does not have sufficient resources to keep up with the tremendous pace of innovation that is now taking place in the health sector. Despite the FDA's ongoing efforts to improve in this area, review times for breakthrough medical devices are lengthy and likely to get longer. While this bill makes important progress toward giving FDA the funds it needs to carry out its mission, I hope the chairman would work with us in conference to find a way to provide the resources needed to reduce medical device application review times.

Mr. KOHL. I appreciate the remarks and understand the concerns expressed by my colleagues. I agree that patients should not have to wait for promising new therapies due to insufficient resources at FDA. Language in the report accompanying the Senate bill states that the increase received by FDA's Devices and Radiological Health Program for fiscal year 2002 is consistent with agency estimates for bringing medical device application review times within statutory limits. While this statement is accurate according to the budget submitted to congress by the FDA, I have been informed that in testimony to the House Appropriations Committee, FDA officials stated the agency would need more funds than requested in their budget to decrease application review times significantly. I believe it is important for us to work together to resolve this issue, and look forward to working with my colleagues and our House counterparts in the Conference Committee.

Mr. VOINOVICH. Madam President, I was proud to offer an amendment to the fiscal year 2002 agriculture appropriations bill.

The amendment I offered last week set aside $500,000 from the Office of Generic Drugs at the Food and Drug Administration for use in the education and dissemination of information to America's senior citizens regarding the efficacy, safety and availability of generic drugs.

Currently, the FDA informs the public and providers about generic drugs through print advertising, reaching a limited number of individuals. It is my hope that this amendment will allow FDA to enlarge its outreach, utilizing not only print media, but also radio and television public service announcements.

In the absence of a Medicare prescription drug benefit, it is imperative that Congress provide alternative avenues for seniors needing to lower their out-of-pocket prescription drug costs.

Although millions of seniors already know about and use generic drugs, there are still many others who are not aware of their availability. Indeed, many highly used brand-name drugs whose patents have expired have generic alternatives available. These generic drugs are chemically identical in their active ingredient to their brand-name counterparts and are sold at substantial discounts from the branded price.

For example, the prescription drug Keflex, an antibiotic, costs approximately $88 per month. Its generic equivalent costs about $13 per month, a potential annual savings of $900 for an individual who uses this product. In fact, according to the Congressional Budget Office, generic drugs save consumers an estimated $8 to $10 billion per year at retail pharmacies.

As each of my colleagues knows, the nature of health care has changed dramatically in America since the creation of Medicare in 1965. In many instances, diseases or conditions that once required hospitalization are now treated by pharmaceuticals. However, as advances in pharmaceuticals continue and the population ages, the Center for Medicare and Medicaid Services reports that national spending for prescription drugs is expected to more than double from an estimated $117 billion to $366 billion over the next ten years. Unfortunately, the financial burden on Medicare beneficiaries, those who use prescription drugs the most, will continue to increase. Consider the fact that Medicare beneficiaries account for 14 percent of the U.S. population, yet they consume approximately 43 percent of the nation's total drug expenditures and you can understand why we need to address this issue.

$500,000 will ultimately only be a drop in the bucket in finding a solution to providing access to affordable prescription drugs to seniors. However, these funds will help provide valuable information to those who rely on medications the most. With greater reliance on pharmaceuticals, increased direct-to-consumer advertising and the increased empowerment of seniors, it is imperative that those who use prescription drugs become better educated about the availability of generic equivalents that are just as effective as their name-brand counterpart.

While seniors wait for Congress to pass permanent prescription drug benefit legislation, the federal government should capitalize on other opportunities to aid seniors in their effort to obtain affordable prescription drugs.

That is why I have offered this important amendment and why I will work with Secretary Thompson and the Department of Health and Human Services to provide seniors with thorough information regarding highly utilized drugs, their generic equivalent and comparative pricing, as well as any other pertinent information that is necessary to improve the health and quality of life of our senior citizens. This information would prove to be highly useful to seniors and could easily be included in the annual "Medicare & You" publication. Seniors are typically very knowledgeable consumers of health care, and whatever information we can provide is a critical way to help them bypass the high cost of prescription drugs.

It is a sad reality that some senior citizens on fixed incomes do not take their full doses of their medications because they try to save money by stretching out their supply. Unfortunately, such self-medication can lead to life threatening health considerations. The amendment I offered will help our seniors get the information they need on lower cost generic drugs so they may obtain the prescription drugs they need to live their lives to the fullest.

I thank the manager and ranking member of the subcommittee for accepting this important amendment.

CHANGES TO THE 2002 APPROPRIATIONS COMMITTEE ALLOCATION AND BUDGETARY AGGREGATES

Mr. CONRAD. Madam President, section 314 of the Congressional Budget Act, as amended, requires the chairman of the Senate Budget Committee to adjust the budgetary aggregates and the allocation for the Appropriations Committee by the amount of appropriations provided to the Social Security Administration for continuing disability reviews, up to $520 million in 2002, and the amount of appropriations provided to the Department of Health and Human Services for adoption incentive payments, up to $20 million in 2002. S. 1536, the Departments of Labor, Health and Human Services, and Education, and Related Agencies Appropriations Act for 2002, provides a total of $453 million for the two activities. That budget authority will result in new outlays in 2002 of $384 million.

Pursuant to section 302 of the Congressional Budget Act, I hereby revise the 2002 allocation provided to the Senate Appropriations Committee in the concurrent budget resolution.

Pursuant to section 311 of the Congressional Budget Act, I hereby revise the 2002 budget aggregates included in the concurrent budget resolution.

I ask unanimous consent to print tables 1 and 2 in the RECORD, which reflect the changes made to the committee's allocation and to the budget aggregates.

There being no objection, the tables were ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

Prepared by SBC Majority staff on 10-30-01.

SPECIALIST JONN J. EDMUNDS

Mr. THOMAS. Madam President, today I rise to speak about a very special soldier from Cheyenne, WY.

A U.S. Army Ranger was one of two soldiers killed October 19, when a Black Hawk helicopter crashed in Pakistan.

Spc. Jonn J. Edmunds died when the helicopter he was riding in crashed while supporting Operation Enduring Freedom.

Jonn Edmunds was a 1999 Cheyenne East High graduate. He was 20 years old.

Jonn Edmunds and Pfc. Kristofer T. Stonesifer of Missoula MT, are the first combat deaths of the U.S. led military campaign against terrorists in Afghanistan. The soldiers were members of B Company Third Battalion, 75th Ranger Regiment, based in Fort Benning, GA.

Last Saturday, I attended Spc. Edmunds' funeral and had the opportunity to speak with Jonn Edmunds' father Donn. I told him how sorry we are for his loss. How words are not enough to comfort his family and friends or to express our pride for the job he was asked to do.

This unfortunately, is war and this terrible loss will not be the last. That certainly doesn't make it any less difficult for the family when someone like Jonn, young, patriotic, dedicated to his country and service, is killed.

I want to again offer my sincere condolences to the family. We don't pretend to understand your loss, but we share in your grief. Wyoming shares your grief and they, like I do, thank you for your son's service.

War is hell. It will take the lives of soldiers and innocents alike.

I believe, as do all Americans, that our cause is just. The cost of doing nothing would be much worse. This effort will not be a short one. It is important that we stay dedicated to the cause of defeating terrorism even in the face of terrible loss.

LOCAL LAW ENFORCEMENT ACT OF 2001

Mr. SMITH of Oregon. Madam President, I rise today to speak about hate crimes legislation I introduced with Senator KENNEDY in March of this year. The Local Law Enforcement Act of 2001 would add new categories to current hate crimes legislation sending a signal that violence of any kind is unacceptable in our society.

I would like to describe a terrible crime that occurred February 17, 1999 in Novato, CA. A 17-year-old gay male student, Adam Colton, was ambushed and severely beaten. The letters F-A-G had been scratched into his stomach and arms. Colton had been beaten the previous September in an anti-gay incident.

I believe that Government's first duty is to defend its citizens, to defend them against the harms that come out of hate. The Local Law Enforcement Enhancement Act of 2001 is now a symbol that can become substance. I believe that by passing this legislation, we can change hearts and minds as well.

OVERSEAS COOPERATIVES

Mr. HAGEL. Madam President, I rise to commend Senator LEAHY and Senator MCCONNELL for their leadership in crafting the Fiscal Year 2002 Foreign Operations Appropriations Bill.

I am here today to state my continued support of international economic assistance for programs that utilize cooperatives and credit unions. Last year, Senators GRAMS, FEINGOLD and I sponsored the Support for Overseas Development Act, S. 3072. This Act was included as part of a larger bill, the Microenterprise for Self-Reliance and International Anti-Corruption Act, H.R. 4673, which was signed into public law on October 17, 2000. This bipartisan legislation enhances current language in Section 111 of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961.

Overseas cooperatives foster similar principles abroad that U.S. cooperatives are based on: free democratic associations of mutual benefit for members. For four decades, cooperatives and credit unions have proven to be an effective and efficient way to assist people in developing and market transition countries. Currently, U.S. cooperatives are working in over 67 different countries.

Under our legislation, USAID is encouraged to put greater priority on the development of agricultural cooperatives for marketing, processing and inputs. USAID should explore community-based cooperatives for rural electric and telephone service when national utilities are privatized. Strong financial cooperatives, such as credit unions and farm credit associations, are ways to generate member-owned savings and provide micro-loans to entrepreneurs and farmers. Housing and community development cooperatives can address issues such as daycare for HIV/AIDS, orphans and community responses to environmental problems such as solid waste collection.

The Administrator of USAID, Andrew Natsios, is currently putting together a report to Congress regarding the implementation plan for this legislation. I am looking forward to reviewing this report.

Credit unions and rural cooperatives are able to mobilize local savings or equity for micro-loans as a way to provide greater food security, the world's poor need access to microenterprise loans, credit and savings. Rural areas in developing countries need electricity and telecommunications, yet history shows that there are insufficient profits for private companies to enter these markets. Cooperatives should be part of programs pursued by the World Bank and other multilateral institutions to enhance rural communities as part of their private sector approaches.

USAID can tap cooperative methodologies to bridge ethnic and sectarian differences to build communities in areas that are rife with conflict. In communities ravaged by HIV/AIDS, war, terrorism and inequality, cooperatives empower communities. Cooperatives are direct and meaningful expressions of diplomacy where poor people can participate in decision-making that affects their daily lives.

Overseas cooperatives are an important way to promote broad-based economic, political and social development. I am looking forward to progress on this legislation in fiscal year 2002.

WISE WORDS FROM A WARRIOR'S WARRIOR

• Mr. MILLER. Mr. President, Colonel David H. Hackworth, U.S. Army, Ret., knows war as few men do. Today's most decorated living soldier, he is a warrior's warrior.

He joined the Army when he was 15, was battlefield commissioned in Korea when he was 20 and was the youngest colonel in Vietnam.

His heroic achievements in both these wars made him a living legend. Never afraid to speak out, even when it meant criticizing our effort in Vietnam, Hackworth has long been a knowledgeable observer worth listening to.

This old soldier who has seen so much shared his recent observations in a thought-provoking, tell-it-like-it-is column in The Washington Times. It is an article that should be read and believed by all Americans. I ask that the article be printed in the RECORD.

The article follows:

FIGHT OR FLIGHT? (By David Hackworth)

My No. 1 son rang from Florida: "Dad we're scared. We're starting to wonder if we made a mistake leaving Indiana." Another Floridian, Frederick George, wrote: "I've never been more depressed than now. I'm 86 years old, and I've seen a lot."

My phone rings off the hook, and my mailbox is jammed. Most of the messages say: We're not coping well with this War Against Terrorism. My comeback: Get used to it.

We're in for at least 30 rounds, and Round One is far from being over. My 5- and 8-year-old grandkids will probably be in college before the last terrorist creep has been hunted down and folks can get back to the way things were before Sept. 11.

You can try running, but you can't hide from fear. Just ask the yellow-stained members of the House who ignored the report from last year's Hart-Rudman Commission predicting "a direct attack against American citizens on American soil is likely over the next quarter-century" and then cut and ran when the first shot came their way.

But the attack on the World Trade Center proved in spades that all citizens of every free country in the world are now targets, so there's no longer any place safe to run. The quickest way to get a grip and make it through this new kind of war is to check out—and copy—the combat soldier's MO. The whole living-on-the-bayonet-edge mindset becomes almost second nature once a grunt accepts that his life can be snuffed out any second. His ears get used to incoming—they automatically tell him to hit the deck because a round is about to thud in close, or to finish that smoke because it's going over the hill. He's used to walking through areas where one misstep will explode a mine and take his leg or life, and he learns to take care of himself and his buddies almost without thinking. Or he lets fear rule and goes mad. Or he goes into denial and gets killed.

Many of you are combat vets—you just don't remember that for most of your lives you lived with the fear of being instantly incinerated and radiated by the Bomb. Remember the air-raid sirens and the "Duck and Cover" drills? Those 25,000 Soviet nuclear warheads once pointed at you and yours would have done a zillion times more damage than terrorist bombs, kamikaze planes or bugs and germs.

On the battlefield, I wore my steel pot begrudgingly. It was heavy and a pain. But I knew it would improve my chances of staying alive, so I cursed it while I wore it. Now I resent wearing a surgical mask and gloves and opening much of my mail outside. But just like wearing that helmet, it helps me stay alive while the FBI and the police track down the terrorist sleepers imbedded in our society.

And so must all of you learn to live on a potential killing field. Instead of letting fear knock you down, use it as warriors do to stay alive. Fear can pump up your reactions if employed positively and let you make it through the darkest night. Survival is our strongest instinct, and we will win this sucker just as we did World War II, the Cold War and the conflict that follows this one.

The other survival skill you should borrow from a grunt is alertness. A soldier asleep on guard duty is a dead soldier. A terrorist will have a tough time doing his thing if we all keep a sharp eye out for whatever doesn't compute. Like some weirdo learning to fly a plane who wants to give takeoffs and landings a miss. Or a non-islander buying a one-way air ticket to Hawaii or Guam.

Fortunately, most Arab terrorists coming our way will be easy to spot except on Halloween. If you see some character at the water reservoir, parked near the nuclear reactor, fiddling with a building's air-conditioner intake vents, delivering unordered fire extinguishers or bicycling around with a backpack, keep him under surveillance and notify the authorities quickly.

Use that fear to stay alert and stay alive.●

HONORING PAUL DUFAULT

● Mr. KERRY. Mr. President, today I honor one of the most fervent advocates for the labor movement and working families across the country; Mr. Paul Dufault.

For the past 45 years, Paul has served the men and women of New England as an active member, secretary-treasurer and later as president of the United Food and Commercial Workers Local 1445. Despite a changing economy and an evolving workforce, Paul's vision and motivation remained strong and unwavering for almost half a century. I am proud to extend to him my warmest appreciation for his steadfast commitment to economic prosperity for all individuals and families.

Paul began his career in labor advocacy as a part-time employee at Stop and Shop Supermarket, where he became a member of the Retail Clerks Union Local 1445 in 1956. Four years later, when Local 826 of Worcester acquired the Worcester jurisdiction from Local 1445, Paul was brought on as an organizer. Paul's strong work ethic and potential did not go unnoticed as this was reflected in his promotion to business agent. This was followed in 1967 with an appointment to International Representative. Paul then advanced in 1971 to president of Local 1435. With the merger of the Retail Clerks International Union and the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen in 1976, Local 1435 merged with Local 1445 and Paul stepped into the position of secretary-treasurer.

In 1996, Paul was elected president of United Food and Commercial Workers Local 1445 of Boston, MA. More than 3,000 new Local 1445 members were organized in the last three years, resulting in Local 1445 becoming the largest UFCW local in New England. Paul's leadership has resulted in improved benefits and working conditions for members. Local 1445 is indebted to Paul and all he has done for the working men and women of New England and I join them in thanking Paul for his contribution to the labor movement over the last 45 years.

In addition to Paul's accomplishments in Local 1445, Paul was also vice president of the Massachusetts AFL-CIO and served as chairman of the UFCW Interstate Health & Welfare fund, where he had been a trustee since 1971. He contributed his expertise in labor issues to the Gloucester Seafood Workers Pension and Health Welfare fund as a trustee, and served as an alternate on the UFCW National Pension Fund, as well.

Mr. President, I am truly grateful to join families across Massachusetts and throughout the country in celebrating Paul's career and contributions. I wish he and Judy, as well as his four children and seven grandchildren, the very best as they begin this new chapter in their lives.●

RECOGNITION OF SALLY SKINNER BEHNKE

● Mrs. MURRAY. Mr. President, I would like to take this opportunity to recognize an outstanding citizen of the State of Washington. Sally Skinner Behnke has been awarded the 2001 Isabel Colman Award for Excellence in Community Service for displaying significant and broad based leadership in her community. This prestigious award is given by the YWCA of Seattle-King County-Snohomish County and is reserved for an individual or organization whose efforts have contributed to enhancing the quality of life in the community. Ms. Behnke's efforts for over 20 years have done just that.

Some of her many achievements include being the first woman to serve on the board of Washington Mutual, Past President of the University of Washington Alumni Association, founding member and Past President of the Northwest School for Hearing Impaired Children, and an active fund-raiser for the Lifelong AIDS Alliance. The two experiences that she is most proud of are working on the board of the Fred Hutchinson Cancer Research Center and serving as Past Board Chair of Children's Hospital. These contributions to our community make her more than worthy of this award and our recognition.

Ms. Behnke's work is inspiring, and her words are encouraging. She said, "Take care of your home. Look around at this wonderful, wonderful place that is yours and mine. And if you haven't already, find a little corner of it to give your heart to."

On behalf of the people of Washington State, I would like to thank Ms. Behnke for her time, energy and many years of dedicated service.●

TRIBUTE TO MELVIN VAN PEEBLES

● Mr. LEAHY. Mr. President, in a year when we have seen such terrible news about New York, we do well to remind ourselves of all the good things that come from that great city.

One such thing was the awarding of Chevalier in the Legion D'Honneur to my friend, Melvin Van Peebles, by the Consul General of the Republic of France on April 24 of this year. The award was made to Mr. Van Peebles because of his work as an author, a producer, and a director of award-winning films.

I have known Melvin for years, and I know him as a man of conscience, talent, erudition, and eclectic friendships. I have always considered myself honored to be one of his friends. The man who first introduced me to Melvin was my good friend, Dr. Henry Jarecki, of New York, and he and Gloria Jarecki hosted the investiture at Gramercy House in New York City.

I ask consent to print in the RECORD the comments made by Dr. Jarecki at that event, and to add my own congratulations to Melvin Van Peebles for an award justly deserved.

The comments follow:

REMARKS OF DR. HENRY JARECKI

Back in the fifties, while Melvin was becoming well-known in America, I had been out of the country. So it is no surprise that when Katie McGee first mentioned the name Melvin Van Peebles some thirty-five years ago, I knew so little about his work that I expected to meet a Dutchman. It was indeed some years before I knew who I was dealing with but in the meantime he had become a close friend who I could hang out with and gab about philosophy, somebody who was an advisor and when needed, a fellow mischief-maker. Gradually, I got to see and know all about the famous Sweetback movie and his other films and I read and saw his plays, especially Ain't Supposed to Die a Natural Death and Don't Play us Cheap, two of the ones I think are among the great works of American literature. Waltz of the Stork, a musical I backed, was not one of the great works. Otherwise I would be rich today. But we reflected on a lot more plays, too, including the Bessie Smith piece called the Champ that we argued about for five years and still have to make.

Close friends sometimes disagree—we solved that by making bets. One bet he lost made him work for me on Wall Street for a year during which he became the first Black trader on the American Stock Exchange. Not surprisingly, he wrote a book about it as he does about almost anything he does. That book, called Bold Money, introduced many nonprofessionals to the world of security option trading. He always writes books about what he does. He makes movies about the making of movies and he writes books about the "making of the making of a movie" movie. Happily, all of this piques his viewers' and readers' interest and makes him a bunch of money.

But he's made a lot more than movies, plays, and money. He has made a number of wonderful children, all of whom I've had the pleasure of hanging out with over the years, Megan, Mario, Max, and maybe more. Megan has the beauty and the wonderful heart she had when she worked at Mocatta and Mario has become a distinguished motion picture actor and director himself. Very few people know that one of the steps of his professional life, maybe the step that taught him all there was to learn about acting before he went to Hollywood was working as a gold trader for me at a company called Mocatta.

The Van Peebles children have been friends of my children and Melvin himself has helped each of my children, most recently my son Eugene, who made a film called The Opponent based loosely on Eugene's early life friendship with Mike Tyson. Melvin's most recent French film, A Belly Full, was not the reason for this Legion of Honor award but was its occasion.

Even before making a great name in America, Melvin had become well-known in France, partly for his book and movie, Story of a Three-Day Pass which had won many awards there, and throughout his life he has remained an American bridge to France, even having one French son, Max, who has helped him work on many of his movies. And so this clearly American icon has gradually become a French figure of the arts as well.

We are all honored to be here tonight with Melvin Van Peebles to help celebrate his receiving this award from Consul-General Richard Duque who honors us with his presence. I personally have in my own very modest film-making career achieved only one thing: when I, following in Melvin's footsteps, was making a movie about Cuban music in Havana with my friend Gary Keys, I managed to buy some Cuban cigars and also a wonderfully appropriate humidifier in which to keep them. And so, Melvin, I take pleasure in presenting you with this unusual-looking humidifier and the accompanying box of Cuban cigars. If you choose to give some of these cigars out to some of your guests here, feel free to do so: I have a second one upstairs. And those who worry about smoking Cuban cigars—and I'm not one—can always say the words of Melvin's friend Pat Leahy, the Senator from Vermont, who tells us that he cannot be criticized for burning Castro's crops.

Thank you all for coming. •

EXECUTIVE AND OTHER COMMUNICATIONS

The following communications were laid before the Senate, together with accompanying papers, reports, and documents, which were referred as indicated:

EC-4507. A communication from the President of the United States, transmitting, pursuant to law, a report relative to an arrangement with the United Nations regarding the reciprocal debt forgiveness contemplated by the legislation; to the Committee on Foreign Relations.

PETITIONS AND MEMORIALS

The following petitions and memorials were laid before the Senate and were referred or ordered to lie on the table as indicated:

POM-200. A resolution adopted by the Senate of the General Assembly of the State of Rhode Island relative to maintaining the public institutions status of D.C. General Hospital; to the Committee on Governmental Affairs.

SENATE RESOLUTION

Whereas, D.C. General Hospital, a 108-year-old health care facility located in our nation's capital, will stop operating as a full-service public hospital as a result of the Mayor of Washington, D.C.'s plan to privatize the hospital, eliminating a safety net for thousands of disadvantaged people who otherwise would not have access to basic health care services; and

Whereas, D.C. General Hospital is a major trauma center and plays an indispensable role in providing quality and affordable health care to the 100,000 under and uninsured residents of the city. Additionally, the hospital is only one of two health care facilities in the Washington, D.C. area with a Level III neo-natal unit, treating 1,000 premature and critically ill infants a year; and

Whereas, Concerns over the possible closing of the hospital and the move to change its public institution status have generated opposition from numerous observers throughout the country, including health care officials, representatives of medical organizations, community activists and policymakers who feel that D.C. General Hospital represents this country's commitment to providing health care services to the residents of its inner cities; and

Whereas, D.C. General Hospital should continue to operate as a fully-funded public hospital in order to provide lifesaving health care services to Washington, D.C.'s poor and uninsured: Now, therefore be it

Resolved, That this Senate of the State of Rhode Island and Providence Plantations hereby urges the Congress of the United States to maintain the public institution status of D.C. General Hospital so it can continue to operate as a fully funded public hospital, provide lifesaving health care services to Washington, D.C.'s poor and uninsured and represent this country's commitment to providing health care services to the residents of its inner cities; and be it further

Resolved, That the Secretary of State be and he hereby is authorized and directed to transmit duly certified copies of this resolution to the United States Secretary of Health and Human Services, the presiding officers of the United States Senate and House of Representatives and the entire Rhode Island congressional delegation.

POM-201. A joint resolution adopted by the General Assembly of the State of Rhode Island relative to imposing a moratorium on major airline industry mergers; to the Committee on the Judiciary.

JOINT RESOLUTION

Whereas, Economic development and prosperity are dependent upon a competitive airline industry providing reasonable rates, access, and efficient services for the transportation of people and goods; and

Whereas, Competition in the airline industry will be drastically reduced if pending mergers are allowed to proceed without comment from consumer, business, and labor organizations; and

Whereas, Airline industry competition is essential to keeping prices reasonable and service satisfactory for consumers and business travelers, and lack of competition will cause longer delays in air travel and decreased customer service; and

Whereas, These merger proposals will inevitably lead to further consolidation in the airline industry. This consolidation will decrease service and access in certain markets and localities, and hinder or prevent new low-cost airline carrier's entrance into the market; and

Whereas, The United States Congress and Departments of Justice and Transportation are examining the proposed airline mergers: Now, therefore be it

Resolved, That this General Assembly of the State of Rhode Island and Providence

Plantations express concern over the prospect of decreased competition in the airline industry and the adverse economic and other impacts on this State, the surrounding region, and the nation as a whole; and be it further

Resolved, That this General Assembly of the State of Rhode Island and Providence Plantations hereby urges the President, the Congress, and the Departments of Justice and Transportation of the United States to impose a moratorium on major airline industry mergers in order to fully and carefully consider all consequences; and be it further

Resolved, That this General Assembly of the State of Rhode Island and Providence Plantations hereby urges the Attorney General of this State to separately communicate these and related concerns to the Attorney General and the Secretary of Transportation of the United States; and be it further

Resolved, That the Secretary of State be and he is hereby authorized and directed to transmit duly certified copies of this resolution to the President of the United States; the Speaker of the House of Representatives of the United States; the President of the Senate of the United States; the Attorney General of the United States; the Secretary of Transportation of the United States; and the Attorney General of the State of Rhode Island.

POM-203. A resolution adopted by the Senate of the Legislature of the State of Michigan relative to amending the internal revenue code to accommodate certain tax issues related to the phase-out of Oldsmobile; to the Committee on Finance.

SENATE RESOLUTION NO. 108

Whereas, The phase-out of the Oldsmobile line of General Motors is bringing to a close an historic chapter in American automotive history. The end of this component of one of the world's largest corporations also has significant administrative and tax considerations that need to be addressed quickly to provide for a fair and smooth transition for those livelihoods are jeopardized; and

Whereas, As compensation for the loss of years of goodwill and the erosion of the value of large financial investments, Oldsmobile dealerships will be paid a one-time settlement. As federal tax laws now stand, this payment would be subject to personal and business federal taxes as income. In reality, however, the settlement money clearly should be categorized as involuntary converted property. Under this determination, the manufacturer's settlement would be treated like other property that can be converted to similar purposes over a specific period of time; and

Whereas, Every effort should be made to encourage the reinvestment of settlement resources to mitigate job loss, lessen the economic stress to local communities, and protect families from more serious financial difficulties. In addition, it would be poor public policy for the federal government to reap a tax revenue windfall as a result of this rare and unique situation; and

Whereas, As the home of the Olds automotive legacy and 20 of the top 50 Oldsmobile dealerships, Michigan has a major stake in the fair treatment of these businesses and individuals. It would be wrong for the tax code to act as a disincentive to the reinvestment of the settlement dollars in job-creating enterprises: Now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Senate, That we memorialize the Congress of the United States to enact H.R. 2374 to amend the Internal Revenue Code to consider certain transitional dealer assistance related to the phase-out of Oldsmobile as an involuntary conversion; and be it further

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be transmitted to the President of the United States Senate, the Speaker of the United States House of Representatives, and the members of the Michigan congressional delegation.

POM-204. A legislative resolution adopted by the House of the Legislature of the State of West Virginia relative to September 11, 2001; to the Committee on Foreign Relations.

HOUSE RESOLUTION NO. 1

Whereas, The United States of America stands as a Nation most respected throughout the world for its freedom and its defense of freedom; and

Whereas, Tens of thousands of men and women have fought and died to secure, maintain and guarantee this freedom, and have utilized this freedom to build the most powerful and most successful nation on earth; and

Whereas, On Tuesday, September 11, 2001, enemies of the United States encroached upon the sacred soils of our Nation and conducted a series of the most inhumane, murderous, attacks in the history of the world, hijacking and destroying four civilian aircraft, crashing two of them into the World Trade Center Towers in New York City, a third into the Pentagon outside Washington, D.C., and the fourth failing to reach its target and crashing in Pennsylvania, which monstrous attacks killed and injured thousands of innocent people and completely demolished the World Trade Center Towers and a portion of the Pentagon, symbols of American strength and success; and

Whereas, The freedom fought for, secured and maintained over the past two hundred twenty-five years is threatened by the attackers, by targeting symbols of America, clearly intended to intimidate our Nation and weaken our resolve; therefore, be it

Resolved by the House of Delegates:

That the members of the West Virginia House of Delegates hereby express their deepest, heartfelt sympathy to the families and friends of those killed and injured in the terrorist attacks of Tuesday, September 11, 2001, and the recovery efforts following the attacks;

That the members of the House of Delegates hereby offer collective condolences and unreserved expressions of support to the State and to the City of New York, to the State of Virginia, and to the State of Pennsylvania;

That the House of Delegates of West Virginia hereby condemns in the strongest possible terms the terrorists who contrived and carried out those attacks, as well as their sponsors or any person or nation which harbors terrorists;

That the House hereby commends the heroic actions of the myriad of rescue workers, volunteers and officials who responded to these tragic events with courage, determination and skill;

That we hereby publicly proclaim that we will not forget those who have fought and died to help secure and maintain our freedom, and we further publicly decry and condemn those who plot, plan and execute attacks on our freedom, our citizenry and our way of life;

That our thoughts and prayers go out to all those directly affected by the attacks and to those participating in the recovery from the attacks;

That the President of the United States and the Congress be hereby urged to deal swiftly and judiciously with the situation, that freedom might live; and, be it further

Resolved, That the Clerk of the House of Delegates forthwith prepare and cause to be delivered certified copies of this resolution to President George W. Bush, to the Honorable Bob Wise, Governor of the State of West Virginia, to U.S. Senators Robert C. Byrd and John D. Rockefeller IV, and to member of the United States House of Representatives Alan B. Mollohan, Shelley M. Capito and Nick Joe Rahall, to the Clerk of the United States House of Representatives and the Secretary of the United States Senate, to the Governor of New York and the Mayor of New York City, to the Governor of Virginia and the Governor of Pennsylvania, and to the Presiding Officers of the Legislatures of all the States in this Nation.

POM-205. A resolution adopted by the Senate of the Legislature of the State of West Virginia relative to September 11, 2001; to the Committee on Foreign Relations.

SENATE RESOLUTION NO. 503

Whereas, In the morning hours of September 11, 2001, terrorists hijacked four commercial jetliners, including the passengers and crew members, with intentions of using them as weapons of mass destruction against the United States; and

Whereas, Two of the jetliners were flown directly into the twin towers of the World Trade Center in New York City, a third into the Pentagon in Arlington, Va. and the fourth crashed in Pennsylvania without reaching a possible target in Washington, D.C.; and

Whereas, Thousands of innocent Americans and hundreds of foreign visitors were killed or injured as a result of these attacks, including the passengers and crew of the four jetliners, workers and visitors in the World Trade Center and military and civilian personnel in the Pentagon; and

Whereas, Sadly, in the aftermath of the attack in New York City both towers of the World Trade Center collapsed, killing and injuring hundreds more, including rescue workers trying to locate possible survivors; and

Whereas, It was the terrorists' intention, through these hate-filled attacks against the United States, to intimidate, embarrass and expose the vulnerability of the United States as a world power; and

Whereas, If history is to repeat itself, we only need to recall the words of Japanese Admiral Isoroku Yamamoto, after the surprise attack on Pearl Harbor, who said, "We have awakened a sleeping giant and have instilled in him a terrible resolve"; and

Whereas, We stand united as a nation to begin the process of healing and rebuilding, not only of symbols and structures of economic and military strength, but of our patriotism; and

Whereas, Our most sincere condolences are extended to the families of our innocent citizens and those foreign visitors who have died. Our greatest tribute to them should be that we stand united in our pursuit to bring their killers to justice and to commit ourselves to the war against terrorism around the globe; therefore, be it

Resolved by the Senate:

That the Senate hereby condemns the action of terrorists and their attack on the United States on September 11, 2001; and, be it further

Resolved, That the Senate extends its sincere and heartfelt condolences to the families of our innocent citizens and those foreign visitors who have died as a result of these senseless acts of violence; and, be it further

Resolved, That we commit ourselves to stand united in our pursuit to bring those responsible to justice and to continue our task to rid the world of terrorism; and, be it further

Resolved, That the Clerk is hereby directed to forward a copy of this resolution to the President of the United States, the Secretary of the United States Senate and the Clerk of the United States House of Representatives.

POM-206. A resolution adopted by the Senate of the General Assembly of the State of Ohio relative to September 11, 2001; to the Committee on Foreign Relations.

RESOLUTION

Whereas, On Tuesday, September 11, 2001, the United States of America suffered on its own soil the most extensive, devastating, and heinous acts of terrorism that have ever been perpetrated on innocent civilian victims. On that date, four separate groups of terrorist hijackers took forcible possession of four different commercial jets and, with incomprehensibly evil intent, used them as missiles to destroy some of the nation's most symbolic landmarks and to murder innocent people located within and around them; and

Whereas, The terrorists crashed one of the jets, American Airlines Flight 11, into the One World Trade Center building in the Manhattan borough of New York City, crashed another, United Airlines Flight 175, into the neighboring Two World Trade Center building, and crashed a third, American Airlines Flight 77, into the Pentagon in Washington, D.C. The fourth plane, United Airlines Flight 93, which apparently was on its way toward Washington, D.C., crashed approximately eighty miles from Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. Shortly thereafter, the Two World Trade Center building collapsed as a result of the damage it sustained, followed quickly by the collapse of the One World Trade Center building and, later in the day, by the collapse of the neighboring Seven World Trade Center building; and

Whereas, It is estimated that thousands of innocent victims, including police officers, firefighters, and other rescue workers, lost their lives and that thousands more were injured as a result of these devastatingly evil acts of terrorism, causing human suffering of an incomprehensible magnitude; and

Whereas, The President of the United States and the United States Congress rightly have interpreted these terrorist acts as a declaration of war against the United States of America and all that it stands for. It is imperative at this dark time to unite as a nation in order to combat the evil of terrorism: Now therefore be it

Resolved, That the Senate of the State of Ohio fully supports the President of the United States and the United States Congress in the actions they must take in order to seek justice for the devastation that our nation has suffered from terrorism and to protect our nation from further terrorist acts of aggression; and be it further

Resolved, That the Clerk of the Senate transmit duly authenticated copies of this resolution to the President of the United States, to the Speaker and Clerk of the United States House of Representatives, to the President Pro Tempore and Secretary of the United States Senate, to the members of the Ohio Congressional delegation, and to the news media of Ohio.

POM-207. A joint resolution adopted by the Legislature of the State of Alaska relative to anti-gun-ownership policies; to the Committee on the Judiciary.

JOINT RESOLUTION

Whereas the founding fathers considered popular ownership of firearms by private citizens to be a natural right and one of the surest safeguards against tyranny and governmental excesses; and

Whereas the Second Amendment to the United States Constitution recognizes and protects the inalienable right of American citizens to keep and bear arms; and

Whereas, in 1994, art. I, sec. 19, Constitution of the State of Alaska, was amended by an overwhelming majority to specifically protect an Alaskan's individual right to keep and bear arms; and

Whereas the Clinton Administration's stance on gun ownership moved dangerously in the direction of abridging or eliminating individual Second Amendment freedoms; and

Whereas, under the Clinton Administration, the United States Department of Justice interpreted the Second Amendment to not protect the right of individual citizens to keep and bear arms but to apply only to governmentally recognized military organizations; and

Whereas the Clinton Administration's stance on gun ownership intentionally ignored the original intent of the Constitution's framers and sought to dramatically limit the Constitutionally affirmed Second Amendment freedoms of individual law-abiding Americans; be it

Resolved, That the Alaska State Legislature urges President Bush to renounce the Clinton Administration's anti-gun ownership policies; and be it further

Resolved, That the Alaska State Legislature requests President Bush to use his executive powers and influence to reorient the United States Department of Justice towards a policy that fully recognizes the right of individual Americans to keep and bear arms as guaranteed by the Second Amendment to the United States Constitution.

POM-208. A resolution adopted by the House of the General Assembly of the State of Ohio relative to September 11, 2001; to the Committee on the Judiciary.

RESOLUTION

Whereas, Our nation and the entire civilized world was shocked and appalled by the vicious and horrific attacks perpetrated by terrorists upon the World Trade Center in the City of New York and the Pentagon Building in Washington, D.C. on September 11, 2001; and

Whereas, President George W. Bush and the Congress of the United States, Governor George Pataki of the State of New York, Mayor Rudolph Giuliani of the City of New York, and law enforcement, firefighters, and other emergency workers of the City of New York, Washington, D.C., and other parts of our nation immediately took bold action to protect the citizens of our nation and to provide leadership and relief for the victims of these attacks; and

Whereas, Thousands of people are dead or missing in the City of New York and in Washington, D.C., including hundreds of firefighters, and thus the people of the City of New York, the State of New York, Washington, D.C., and the United States in general are suffering greatly: Now therefore be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives of the State of Ohio expresses its admiration and support for President George W. Bush and the Congress of the United States, for Governor George Pataki of the State of New York, for Mayor Rudolph Giuliani of the City of New York, and for the law enforcement, firefighters, and other emergency workers of the City of New York, Washington, D.C., and other parts of our nation, all of whom decisively responded to the terrorist attacks in the City of New York and Washington, D.C.; and be it further

Resolved, That the House of Representatives of the State of Ohio expresses its sympathy and support for the family and friends of all persons who died because of these terrorist attacks or the crash of United Airlines Flight 93 in Pennsylvania, whether their death occurred in the airplane or a building, on the ground, or in an attempt to rescue or serve others, and for all of the people of the City of New York, the State of New York, and Washington, D.C.; and be it further

Resolved, That the Clerk of the House of Representatives transmit duly authenticated copies of this resolution to the President of the United States, to the Speaker and Clerk of the United States House of Representatives, to the President Pro Tempore and Secretary of the United States Senate, to members of the Ohio Congressional delegation, to Governor George Pataki of the State of New York, to Mayor Rudolph Giuliani of the City of New York, and to the news media of Ohio.

POM-209. A resolution adopted by the Senate of the General Assembly of the State of

RESOLUTION

Whereas, On September 11, 2001, the people of the United States were deliberately attacked without warning or provocation, thus evoking another day that will "live in infamy"; and

Whereas, Let us never forget the nature and character of this cowardly and brutal attack in which individuals without conscience turned the early minutes of a normal workday into a vision of horror, with more American blood spilled on American soil than anytime since the Civil War; and

Whereas, These senseless, inhuman acts have turned our beloved, tranquil homeland into a scene of untold suffering and destruction; and

Whereas, The World Trade Center became a tomb for American Airlines Flight 11, carrying 81 passengers and 11 crew members, and United Airlines Flight 175, carrying 56 passengers and 9 crew members; and

Whereas, United Airlines Flight 93, carrying 38 passengers and 7 crew members, crashed in Somerset County, Pennsylvania; and

Whereas, American Airlines Flight 77 crashed into the Pentagon, killing 58 passengers and 6 crew members; and

Whereas, The unthinkable has occurred with the shedding of American blood on American soil by commercial aircraft under the control of suicide hijackers; and

Whereas, The bombing of Pearl Harbor nearly 60 years ago resulted in the loss of 2,388 American lives; and

Whereas, America gave 3,393 of her sons on D-Day to liberate Europe; and

Whereas, The terrorist attacks of September 11, 2001, are a tragedy of epic proportions, with preliminary reports of 252 confirmed dead, 6,291 injured and updated reports of 6,453 missing in the destruction of the World Trade Center and 189 presumed dead in the attack on the Pentagon; and

Whereas, The President of the United States has called these attacks of wanton aggression acts of war that will solidify our resolve to defeat the forces of terrorism; and

Whereas, This is the latest in a long series of murderous rampages committed against the United States and the world, including: the October 1983 bombing of the Marine barracks in Beirut, the December 1988 bombing of the Pan Am Flight over Lockerbie, Scotland, the February 1993 truck bomb which crippled the World Trade Center, the August 1998 bomb attacks on the United States embassies in Kenya and Tanzania and the suicide attack on the USS Cole in October 2000; and

Whereas, The attacks on the people of the United States are attacks on the people of the entire civilized world as at least 62 countries lost citizens in the carnage at the World Trade Center; and

Whereas, The world is outraged and shocked by such death and senseless mayhem and there appears to be no limit to the malice of those who must find some inconceivable satisfaction from the slaughter of innocents; and

Whereas, Our national resolve has come together as never before, for we, as one people, have a spirit that is solid and impenetrable; and

Whereas, Over $200 million has been donated to date for financial assistance and aid to the victims of the attacks; and

Whereas, Those who cause us harm will be brought to justice in a world made smaller by the unity of all peoples of good will; and

Whereas, We encourage all Pennsylvania and Americans to pray for peace, the end of conflict and comfort for the victims, their brokenhearted families and our bruised nation, as we share in the grievous losses of their loved ones; and

Whereas, In the days that have followed the tragedy we have heard of people, most previously unknown to us, whose lives were taken through these despicable acts. Let us celebrate their lives and accomplishments as their loss will impoverish our country in ways as of yet unknown; and

Whereas, We encourage support for our President, George W. Bush, as he weighs the options before him and seeks wise counsel for the difficult decisions that must be faced by our country in the months ahead; and

Whereas, We witness the prayer services, candlelight vigils and spontaneous supportive actions of a grieving nation that are a balm to wounded hearts across our stricken land; and

Whereas, Our duty is not to shrink, fearful of the future, but to go boldly to claim our place as a leader among nations and a people committed to freedom and justice; and

Whereas, We go forth affirming our cherished liberty and freedoms and now to rebuild an even better America and world; and

Whereas, We go forth fulfilling the promise of the future that was taken from so many as their sacrifice demands; and

Whereas, The intent of these horrific acts was to divide us into irreconcilable parts, let us confound such terrorism and come together as a nation and as a people as never before in a spirit of tolerance and true compassion for the beliefs that unite us are far more plentiful than the items that divide us; and

Whereas, Even as our nation weeps for our murdered fathers, mothers, sons and daughters, we will undertake the necessary task of rebuilding and safeguarding our future; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania urge the President and the Congress of the United States and this Commonwealth to commemorate every September 11 as a day of mourning and remembrance; and be it further

Resolved, That the Senate extend its deepest sympathies and condolences to the families and friends of the victims of this terrible tragedy; and be it further

Resolved, That the Senate unanimously and unequivocally condemn those individuals and countries who played any part in the shedding of innocent American blood; and be it further

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be transmitted to the President of the United States, the presiding officers of each house of Congress and to each member of Congress from Pennsylvania.

POM-210. A resolution adopted by the Senate of the General Assembly of the State of Pennsylvania relative to the nations response to September 11, 2001; to the Committee on Armed Services.

RESOLUTION

Whereas, As our nation prepares its response to the horrors visited on our people on September 11, 2001, we pause to lend our support and give thanks to those who will be seeking justice for our beloved dead and injured; and

Whereas, As the President of the United States, George W. Bush, said in his speech to the nation during a joint session of the Congress of the United States on September 20, 2001: "Whether we bring our enemies to justice, or bring justice to our enemies, justice will be done"; and

Whereas, We wholeheartedly support the President of the United States in his pledge to use every resource at America's disposal to successfully conclude the conflict brought to our peaceful shores, whether through diplomacy, the use of intelligence capabilities, instruments of law enforcement and elimination of financial resources or every necessary weapon of war; and

Whereas, We recognize that a nation cannot maintain peace without a willingness to defend itself against terrorism or aggression; and

Whereas, The President of the United States has authorized the call-up of 50,000 reservists; and

Whereas, More than 35,000 reservists have been activated for homeland defense in order to permit troops to engage in other duties; and

Whereas, Those soldiers, sailors and Marines now being deployed have our complete support, unending thanks and countless prayers; and

Whereas, We pray that our men and women in uniform will be comforted and given strength to perform the very difficult tasks ahead of them; and

Whereas, The Pennsylvania Division of the National Guard, known as the 28th Infantry Division, is the oldest division in the Army in continuous service; and

Whereas, Pennsylvania has the largest National Guard unit in the United States; and

Whereas, Pennsylvania's National Guard has played a crucial role in every major conflict since the early days of our nation; and

Whereas, The valiant citizen-soldiers of Pennsylvania's National Guard, all 22,000 men and women, are properly trained and stand ready to do whatever is needed in the defense of our Commonwealth, our nation and our freedom; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and the people of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania commend and support the President of the United States as the Commander-in-Chief of our armed services; and be it further

Resolved, That the Senate send its support, prayers and gratitude to all our military service personnel as they undertake the difficult tasks that may lie ahead; and be it further

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be transmitted to the President of the United States, the presiding officers of each house of Congress and to each member of Congress from Pennsylvania.

STATEMENTS ON INTRODUCED BILLS AND JOINT RESOLUTIONS

By Mr. LIEBERMAN (for himself and Mr. ENSIGN):

S. 1585. A bill to establish grant and scholarship programs to enable hospitals to retain and further educate their nursing staffs; to the Committee on Health, Education, Labor, and Pensions.

Mr. LIEBERMAN. Madam President, I rise today to introduce the Hospital Based Nursing Initiative Act, a bill that will create new and innovative incentives to lessen the impact of the critical shortage of nurses in our Nation's hospitals. I am very pleased that my respected colleague, Senator JOHN ENSIGN, is joining as sponsor of this legislation.

Before I get into the specific about the bill, I'd like to talk about the overall condition of nursing in America for a moment. Several studies have been completed in the past year that show troubling trends developing in this historic profession. Take for example, the study that reflects a 41 percent dissatisfaction rate among nurses in America, higher than the dissatisfaction rate in most other countries throughout the world. Think about that for a moment, 4 out of 10 nurses in America are dissatisfied with their profession.

Another study reveals that nearly one third of nurses under the age of 30 plan to leave the nursing profession within the next year. In addition, the average age of nurses in America is 45, with many nurses headed toward early retirement. We cannot afford to lose both the older and younger nurses at the same time. Further, while the number of people that are being hospitalized may continue to decrease, those people who are being admitted are sicker and need more intensive nursing care. Not a very rosy picture for patients who are sick. We need to ask will there be someone to provide care for them?

The shortage of nurses has severely affected the health care industry. And hospitals have been hit the hardest since nearly 60 percent of nurses work in hospitals. Further, we know that when nurses have more autonomy, greater control and input into the decision making process, and better communication with physicians and hospital administration, they are more likely to experience greater job satisfaction and stay in their jobs longer.

These very tenets make up the American Nurse Credentialing Center's "Magnet" accreditation process of nursing services at hospitals. As a result, Magnet hospitals lead the way in attracting and retaining nurses.

Many hospitals have begun to take these steps already. But more must be done. There must be incentives for hospitals to revise their management principles to improve the quality of the work environment in the hospital, initiate aggressive retention programs for nurses currently working in the hospital setting, and create the types of programs that will increase personal and professional satisfaction for the nurses in their facilities.

That is why I am introducing the Hospital Based Nursing Initiative Act of 2001. This bill will create innovative incentives for hospitals that have taken the first steps in developing aggressive retention techniques and develop a scholarship program for hospital-based nurses to return to school on full tuition scholarship to complete a nursing degree.

The first component of this bill will create a competitive grant program that would provide funds to hospitals of up to $600,000 based on staffed bed size for nursing services to use to bolster their retention efforts and improve the work environment for the nursing staff in the hospital. These grants would be made available every two years on a competitive basis. Several major nursing and hospital organizations, such as the American Hospital Association, American Nurses Association, American College of Health Care Executives, the American Organization of Nurse Executives, the American Academy of Nursing, the Pennsylvania State Nurses Association and the American Federation of Hospitals have wholeheartedly endorsed this bill. I am pleased that legislation which incorporates a number of ideas in this bill is moving toward markup in the Senate Health, Education, Labor and Pensions Committee. I appreciate the cooperative spirit with which members of the committee have worked together on these ideas.

The second part of my bill would allow nurses who work in hospitals to return to school on a full tuition scholarship in order to complete a Bachelor of Science in Nursing. This "Bridge" scholarship program targets the nearly 55 percent of the nursing workforce who hold an Associate's Degree in Nursing or Diploma in Nursing. Under the Bridge program, nurses will have up to three years to complete the Bachelor's degree. In turn, nurses who accept the scholarship must agree to work in the sponsoring hospitals for the same number of months that they receive scholarship funding. This program is a win-win situation: It provides ongoing advanced education for nurses who seek a higher level of training and we keep skilled nurses working in our hospitals.

We have the opportunity to make a difference. With the bill that Senator

ENSIGN and I are now introducing, we can take the necessary steps to thwart the nursing shortage and provide the critical incentives for hospitals to retain their nurses. We must do all we can to improve job satisfaction for nurses, provide them with opportunities for advanced education, and keep nurses on the job. The Hospital Based Nursing Initiative is the right bill at the right time. I urge my colleagues to support this legislation and help ease the burden on hospitals and nurses in our hospitals.

I ask unanimous consent that the text of the bill be printed in the RECORD. I further ask unanimous consent that letters supporting this legislation and its approach from each of the organizations I cited above likewise be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the bill and additional material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

S. 1585

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

This Act may be cited as the "Hospital-Based Nursing Initiative Act of 2001".

SEC. 2. FINDINGS.

Congress finds that—

(1) a Department of Health and Human Services study found a correlation between the number of registered nurses on the staff of a facility and patient health outcomes;

(2) studies have shown that hospitals that promote greater autonomy for nurses, greater nurse control and input into the decision-making process in the hospital setting, better communication between nurses and physicians, and input from nurses at the executive level in the hospital lead to increased retention of and satisfaction for nurses;

(3) the job dissatisfaction rate among nurses in the United States, 41 percent, is higher than in most other countries;

(4) ⅓ of nurses under the age of 30 are planning to leave the nursing profession within the next year;

(5) hospitals employ nearly 60 percent of the entire nursing workforce;

(6) while the number of inpatient hospitalizations is expected to continue to decrease, the acuity of those patients requiring hospital stays is expected to increase;

(7) the projected supply of registered nurses is anticipated to grow at a rate of less than 1.5 percent per year through the next 8 years, while the demand rate (growth) is projected to be over 21 percent per year;

(8) there must be incentives for hospitals to revise management principles to improve the quality of the work environment in hospitals, initiate aggressive retention programs for the nurses currently employed in hospital settings, and employ aggressive recruiting tactics to attract nurses back to hospital settings; and

(9) while numerous hospitals have begun to take the necessary steps to address these issues, Congress recognizes the need for intervention and stimulus.

AMERICAN HOSPITAL ASSOCIATION,

Washington, DC, October 8, 2001.

Hon. JOSEPH LIEBERMAN,

U.S. Senate, Washington, DC.

DEAR SENATOR LIEBERMAN: The American Hospital Association (AHA) commends your efforts to address the nursing workforce shortage in your bill, The Hospital-Based Nursing Initiative Act of 2001, and is pleased to endorse your legislation. We believe your bill is an important component in the overall strategy of addressing the national nursing shortage.

The AHA represents nearly 5,000 hospitals, health systems, networks and other health care provider members.

Hospitals and health care facilities across America are experiencing a critical shortage of nurses. A recent AHA survey of the workforce shows that there are currently up to 126,000 Registered Nurses (RNs) needed by hospitals today. Over the past five years, enrollments in nursing programs have declined and this trend is expected to continue for the foreseeable future. The average age of a working RN is now over 43 years old, and is expected to continue to increase before peaking at age 45.5 in 2010, when many RNs will begin to retire. And, the need for nurses will be further compounded by the potential health care demands of the looming 78 million aging "baby boomers" who will begin to retire over the next 10 years.

The current nursing shortage is creating an environment with the potential to jeopardize hospitals' ability to provide timely access to non-emergency, as well as emergency, services. An inadequate number and mix of personnel has caused some facilities to close beds, put emergency rooms on "divert" status, delay elective surgeries, and pare down hospital services.

Hospitals have enlisted many strategies and creative approaches to address the nursing shortage, but this is a complex problem that cannot be solved by hospitals alone. The role of the federal government is critical in the support and funding of an adequate nursing workforce.

"The Hospital-Based Nursing Initiative Act of 2001" provides significant incentives for hospitals to examine and revise management principles to improve the quality of their work environment, and to foster effective RN retention programs. It establishes incentives for hospitals to develop and implement aggressive recruitment programs to attract nurses into the hospital setting. The legislation also creates bridge programs for RNs currently employed in hospitals to move up the career ladder, a significant recruitment and retention tool.

Helping alleviate the critical shortage of nurses is a priority for health care providers. As we debate this and other measures to address the nursing shortage, we hope Congress will recognize the importance of investing in this critical area of need. We applaud your effort and pledge to work with you to address this very important issue.

Sincerely,

RICK POLLACK,
Executive Vice President.

AMERICAN ORGANIZATION OF NURSE EXECUTIVES,

Washington, DC, September 14, 2001.

Hon. JOSEPH I. LIEBERMAN,
U.S. Senate, Washington, DC.

DEAR SENATOR LIEBERMAN: On behalf of more than 3800 members of the American Organization of Nurse Executives (AONE) representing nurses in executive practice, I would like to express our strong support for the "Hospital-Based Nursing Initiative Act of 2001," legislation that you have authored and plan to introduce to address the critical nurse shortage.

During the past year, AONE has played a pivotal role in addressing the nursing shortage. In October 2000 we published the first comprehensive monograph on this critical issue entitled Perspectives on the Nursing Shortage: A Blueprint for Action and have continued to provide both education and advocacy for the nursing profession on a number of different fronts. Your bill will provide important management incentives for hospitals to revise their management of nursing services in order to foster retention and promote recruitment of nurses back into the inpatient delivery system.

The majority of AONE's membership are leaders in the day-to-day management and delivery of direct patient care services, as a result, we understand firsthand the impacts and consequences of the growing nursing shortage both in this country and internationally. Our support of the "Hospital-Based Nursing Initiative Act of 2001" is based on the positive contributions that this legislation will make to nurse-directed efforts to foster retention and promote recruitment of nurses within the inpatient settings of our federal, community, and private hospitals. This legislation will also establish important bridge programs for registered nurses currently employed in hospitals to move from diploma and Associate Degree levels of education on to a Bachelor of Science degree within three years.

AONE applauds your efforts to address the nursing shortage through this innovative grant and scholarship program. We look forward to working with you to solve this critical health manpower problem.

Sincerely,

PAMELA A. THOMPSON, MSN, RN,
Executive Director.

DIANNE ANDERSON, MS, RN, President.

AMERICAN NURSES ASSOCIATION,
Washington, DC, September 19, 2001.

Hon. JOSEPH LIEBERMAN,
U.S. Senate, Washington, DC.

DEAR SENATOR LIEBERMAN: I am writing you on behalf of the American Nurses Association (ANA) to express support for the Hospital-Based Nursing Initiative Act. We applaud your hard work on this important issue. ANA is the only full-service association representing the nation's registered nurses (RNs) through its 54 state and territorial member nurse associations. With more than 160,000 members, the ANA represents RNs in all practice settings throughout our nation.

ANA understands that a major contributing factor to the current and emerging nursing shortage is dissatisfaction with the work environment. The Congressional Research Service, General Accounting Office, academic research, and recent ANA surveys of American nurses have all revealed startling levels of frustration with working conditions. This dissatisfaction is leading experienced nurses to leave the bedside, and hindering recruitment efforts.

Fortunately, we know what can be done to address this growing problem. There are proven best practices for nursing that improve patient outcomes, and enhance nurse recruitment and retention. The American Nurses Credentialing Center, an ANA affiliate, recognizes facilities that have met these best practices by granting the "Magnet" designation. Magnet facilities have consistently outperformed their peers in nursing services, even in times of national nursing shortages. In fact, average nurse retention in Magnet facilities is twice as long as that of non-Magnet institutions.

ANA is pleased to endorse your efforts to further the implementation of these best practices through the Hospital-Based Nursing Initiative Act. The quality of work environment and nurse retention grant program, and the continuing education scholarships contained in your bill will greatly aid in the adoption of Magnet criteria. ANA looks forward to working with you and your staff to support this legislation.

Sincerely,

ROSE GONZALEZ, MPS, RN,
Director, Government Affairs.

AMERICAN COLLEGE OF HEALTHCARE EXECUTIVES,
Chicago, IL, September 18, 2001.

Hon. JOSEPH I. LIEBERMAN,
U.S. Senate, Washington, DC.

DEAR SENATOR LIEBERMAN: Thank you for inviting the American College of Healthcare Executives to review and provide comments on the "Hospital-Based Nursing Initiative Act of 2001."

Upon reviewing the bill, ACHE wishes to endorse it. This legislation offers a comprehensive approach to the crisis facing our nation's healthcare system—a shortage of nurses. The bill attempts to address this important issue by supporting hospitals in a number of ways, including: retaining nurses; improving the work environment for nursing staff; fostering nursing leadership; providing continuing education programs for nurses; creating recognition and reward programs for nurses who obtain nursing-related certification; and finally, offering educational assistance for nurses to earn their Bachelor of Science Degree in Nursing. We believe this bill encompasses the various elements to make a genuine difference and increase the nursing population.

Thank you for your work in developing this legislation. If there is anything ACHE can do to assist further in this endeavor, please contact Susan M. Oster, CAE, Vice President, Administration at (312) 424-9340.

Sincerely,

THOMAS C. DOLAN, Ph.D., FACHE, CAE,
President and Chief Executive Officer.

PENNSYLVANIA STATE
NURSES ASSOCIATION,
Harrisburg, PA, September 17, 2001.

Hon. JOSEPH LIEBERMAN,
U.S. Congress, Washington, DC.

DEAR SENATOR LIEBERMAN: The Pennsylvania State Nurses Association (PSNA) would like to commend you for the excellent legislation you plan to introduce, which is meant to establish grant and scholarship programs enabling hospitals to retain and further educate their nursing staffs. The bill contains excellent ideas and creative solutions to entice nurses to join or remain a member of a hospital nursing staff.

The focus on nurses having opportunities to participate in decision-making regarding nursing care and maintaining autonomy in the delivery of care are especially important attractants for nurses. Also, the emphasis on having a system for measuring outcomes is imperative for quality patient care.

The organization welcomes the opportunity to work with you in ensuring the passage of the legislation that will greatly benefit the profession of nursing and the quality of care provided to consumers.

Sincerely,

JESSIE F. ROHNER, DrPH, RN,
Interim Executive Administrator.

By Mr. KERRY (for himself, Mr. BREAUX, and Mr. HOLLINGS):

S. 1587. A bill to provide improved port and maritime security, and for other purposes; to the Committee on Commerce, Science, and Transportation.

Mr. BREAUX. Madam President, along with Mr. KERRY, Chairman of the Oceans, Atmosphere and Fisheries Subcommittee, and Mr. HOLLINGS, Chairman of the Commerce Committee, I rise today in support of the Port Threat and Security Act of 2001. I believe this legislation will help United States' authorities identify and counteract maritime threats from terrorist actions. Importantly, these provisions are designed in part to protect U.S. citizens and property from terrorist attacks before they reach our shores.

As Chairman of the Surface Transportation and Merchant Marine Subcommittee, I held several oversight hearings on transportation security, including one on maritime security three weeks after the terrible attacks of September 11. The maritime security hearing solidified an opinion that I, and others on the Commerce Committee, had long held, the need for increased maritime security was important before September 11, and is absolutely crucial following the terrorist attacks on New York city and Washington, D.C. The Oceans, Atmosphere and Fisheries Subcommittee, of which I am a member, followed with another hearing that underscored this message. Luckily, because of the foresight of Chairman HOLLINGS, we had a head start on improving maritime security. S. 1214, the Maritime and Port Security Improvement Act, of which I am a proud cosponsor, was introduced in July and was reported out of the Committee in August. S. 1214 establishes a regime that will go a long way towards creating a safe and secure maritime transportation system. However, since much of it was crafted before September 11, it is only natural that additional measures are needed to ensure that our maritime system is as safe as possible.

The bill we are introducing today is based on the testimony that was presented at the hearings before the Commerce Committee in the first two weeks of October. Administration and industry witnesses testified on the need to improve certain areas of S. 1214. This bill intends to fill the gaps identified by our witnesses. We will work with Committee members to ensure these provisions are included in S. 1214 before the Senate sends it to the House.

A constant theme following the September 11 attacks has been the need for better information. Testimony at our hearings confirmed this theme in the maritime realm, we need to increase our information collection capabilities immediately and we need to hold our trading partners to the same standards to which we hold our maritime industry. This legislation requires the identification of nations that have inherently insecure or unsafe vessel registration procedures that can pose threats to our national security. It requires the Secretary of Transportation and Secretary of State to prepare an annual report for the Congress that would list those nations whose vessels the Coast Guard has found don't play by our rules. For example, investigations by the Department of Transportation reveal that it is common practice for vessels to possess false, partial, or fraudulent information concerning cargo manifests, crew identity, or registration of the vessel. This legislation will allow us to get a handle on these practices by identifying the most egregious violators of maritime law. However, the additional information collection required by this bill is just a start; the bill also requires the Administration to recommend to this Committee additional actions that can be taken, either domestically or through international organizations such as the International Maritime Organization, that will increase the transparency of vessel registration procedures.

One of the responses following the highjackings has been to dramatically expand the air marshal program on air carriers, a step which I fully support. However, there is no similar program for maritime vessels in U.S. waters. The Coast Guard recently established a sea marshal program in the port of San Francisco where armed personnel accompany maritime pilots aboard vessels that cause security concerns. This legislation expands that small project into a national sea marshal program to help prevent terrorists from using maritime vessels as weapons of mass destruction. This legislation directs the Secretary to analyze vulnerability of ports and place sea marshals in ports that handle materials or vessels that make them potential targets of attack.

Expansion of the sea marshal program is strongly supported by our Nation's sea pilots. Many people do not know that almost all maritime vessels that enter U.S. ports are accompanied by a U.S. sea pilot that has intimate knowledge of port and navigational channels, a living nautical chart, so to speak. They are an integral part of our maritime system that help to keep our ports and waterways safe. Pilots are often the first U.S. citizen to board inbound foreign vessels and may be the only U.S. citizens on vessels bound for U.S. ports; thus, they can be a valuable source of information. This legislation requires the Secretary of Transportation to use them more effectively in the war on terror. The Secretary is directed to investigate secure and reliable methods in which sea pilots can aid the Coast Guard and other U.S. authorities in an expanded maritime domain awareness program. The pilots themselves came forward to this Committee suggesting this idea, and I think it is critical that these pilots be provided with methods and equipment that will allow them to safely provide the authorities with information on illegal or terrorist activities while there is still time to prevent a catastrophe. One such example is the Vessel Traffic System, VTS, in the Port of New Orleans and the excellent partnership between the Coast Guard and the Crescent River Pilots Association. Under this partnership, vessels entering port are boarded by pilots carrying transponders. As the vessel transits the Mississippi River, inbound and outbound, the operations center manned by Coast Guard and pilots know the exact position of the vessel, as well as the course, speed and other important information. While already considered a model VTS program, once additional transponders are acquired, this program will continue to serve as a template for other ports.

This legislation also greatly improves the information collected on the safety and security of foreign ports. With regards to foreign seaport assessments, the bill aligns the authority of the Secretary of Transportation with authorities that currently exist for foreign airports. The Secretary of Transportation is required to conduct 25 foreign port vulnerability assessments each year and to ensure that U.S. citizens are informed about the results of these assessments in advance of embarking on their travel plans. Testimony before the Commerce Committee emphasized that in order to ensure that our shores are as safe as possible, we must view foreign ports as the outer boundary of our "maritime domain." Much as the first provision in our bill provides for the collection of better information on vessels and countries that do not follow international standards, this provision provides for the collection of information on foreign ports that present potential security threats to the United States. By requiring the Secretary to conduct annual assessments of 25 ports, we not only gain a valuable source of information, but we also put foreign ports on notice that they will be held responsible for actions to secure their ports.

If the assessments reveal that foreign ports do not have or maintain adequate security measures, the President is authorized to prohibit any vessel, U.S. flagged or foreign, from entering the United States from that port. Vessels that transit unsafe and insecure ports should not be allowed unrestricted access to United States ports. I would like to remind everyone that similar security protections were enacted for foreign airports, and I see no reason why the President should not have the same powers with respect to foreign maritime ports.

We must begin to think of a maritime security program that begins well before a ship enters U.S. waters and certainly before they enter U.S. ports. I believe that the measures in this bill along with the port security program of S. 1214 will provide much better tools to guard against maritime threats to our Nation and our citizens.

Mr. KERRY. Madam President, As Chairman of the Oceans, Atmosphere and Fisheries Subcommittee, I rise today to introduce legislation to identify and reduce maritime threats from criminal or terrorist action, particularly those originating from foreign ports and vessels. I am particularly pleased to be joined by the Chairman of the Commerce Committee Mr. HOLLINGS of South Carolina and the Chairman of the Surface Transportation and Merchant Marine Subcommittee Mr. BREAU of Louisiana.

Senator BREAU and I recently held oversight hearings before our respective Subcommittees on the Coast Guard and its role in improving maritime security after the terrible attacks of September 11. As Senators HOLLINGS and BREAU well know, even before September 11 our maritime and port security was in sorry shape. Senator HOLLINGS had already recognized the need to rectify these deficiencies and authored S. 1214, the Maritime and Port Security Improvement Act, which was reported out of the Committee in August, and which I am proud to cosponsor. However, the attacks on New York and Washington made it clear we need to go farther afield to guard against terrorism and other crimes.

Today's legislation is intended to supplement the security provisions of

S. 1214 by improving our ability to detect and prevent maritime terrorism and crime before it has the chance to sail into U.S. ports. We intend to work with Committee members to ensure these provisions are included in the final bill the Senate sends to the House.

At our October 11 oversight hearing, Coast Guard Commandant James Loy and other witnesses gave some thoughtful testimony that is the backbone of this legislation. The hearing also brought to light the challenges presented to the Coast Guard in securing our maritime border from such threats. In addition to introducing this legislation, we also will address glaring Coast Guard resource shortfalls through increased authorizations in our FY 2002 Coast Guard authorization bill, which we will bring to the floor shortly. The Port Threat and Security Act is focused on giving the Coast Guard the tools and the information they need to do the job right.

First, we need to improve our base of information to identify bad actors throughout the maritime realm. This legislation would help us identify those nations whose vessels and vessel registration procedures pose potential threats to our national security. It would require the Secretaries of Transportation and State to prepare an annual report for the Congress that would list those nations whose vessels the Coast Guard has found would pose a risk to our ports, or that have presented our government with false, partial, or fraudulent information concerning cargo manifests, crew identity, or registration of the vessel. In addition the report would identify nations that do not exercise adequate control over their vessel registration and ownership procedures, particularly with respect to security issues. We need hard information like this if we are to force "flag of convenience" nations from providing cover to criminals and terrorists. Mr. President, this is very important as Osama bin Laden has used flags of convenience to hide his ownership in various international shipping interests. In 1998 one of bin Laden's cargo freighters unloaded supplies in Kenya for the suicide bombers who later destroyed the embassies in Kenya and Tanzania. To that end, the bill requires the Administration to report on actions they have taken, or would recommend, to close these loopholes and improve transparency and registration procedures, either through domestic or international action—including action at the International Maritime Organization.

My legislation would also establish a national Sea Marshal program to protect our ports from the potential use of vessels as weapons of terror. A Sea Marshal program was recently established in San Francisco, and is supported strongly by the maritime pilots who, like airline pilots, are on the front lines in bringing vessels into U.S. ports. Sea Marshals would be used in ports that handle materials that are hazardous or flammable in quantities that make them potential targets of attack. The Coast Guard took a number of steps including using armed Coast Guard personnel to escort a Liquid Natural Gas, LNG, tanker into Boston last evening. This was the first delivery of LNG to Boston since September 11 and a number of people were concerned about the safety of bringing LNG into the port. Prior to September 11 these vessels were escorted by Coast Guard vessels into the port but no armed guards were present on the vessel. I strongly believe that having armed personnel, such as Sea Marshals, on these high interest vessels is very important and will considerably increase security in our nation's ports, including Boston. The ability of terrorists to board a vessel and cause a deliberate release of LNG or gasoline for that matter is very real. Sea Marshals will make it much more difficult for this to happen. The Secretary of Transportation would be responsible for establishing qualifications and standards for Sea Marshals which could be comprised of Federal, State or local law enforcement officials.

This legislation also aims to make use of unarmed pilots as yet another way to combat terrorism in our ports. Nearly every vessel that enters a U.S. port is first boarded by a sea pilot to assist the crew in navigating the harbor. Many times these pilots are the first set of U.S. eyes on vessels that may be headed to our ports bearing criminals or contraband from overseas. They are our eyes and ears, but cannot be expected to be a line of physical defense, that is the job of the Sea Marshals. This legislation would require the Secretary of Transportation to use these "eyes and ears" effectively in the war on terror. The Secretary is directed to investigate discrete ways in which sea pilots can provide information to warn of a possible terrorist attack or other crime. It is important that we explore secure mechanisms to allow these pilots to contribute to our maritime domain awareness, including notifying law enforcement officials of suspicious activity on a vessel. I am convinced there are a number of ways that these pilots could safely provide the authorities with information that can thwart illegal activities without alerting the vessel's captain or crew, or potential terrorists.

This legislation would also require the Secretary of Transportation to conduct 25 foreign port vulnerability assessments each year, and places on foreign ports the same reporting and assessment requirements we use for foreign airports. This is essential to ensure that U.S. citizens are protected from harm in foreign ports, and are informed about any risks before leaving U.S. soil. It is also absolutely necessary to use foreign ports as our first defense against threats to U.S. ports. We cannot expect to protect U.S. borders by erecting a fence only at our own ports. As one of our witnesses said, "the leading edge of our boundary for homeland defense is, in fact, foreign ports." In many instances, such defenses would be fruitless because of the sheer volume of cargo that passes through our ports daily. We need advance warning long before these vessels appear at our harbor entrances. Critical information that can help the Coast Guard identify these risks can only be collected at foreign ports where cargo and persons are first placed aboard the vessel. Despite this obvious need, we have fallen behind on our assessments of foreign ports. I firmly believe that the only way we can make U.S. ports and harbors safe is by going to the source and ensuring appropriate measures and facilities are in place to guarantee the safety of U.S. citizens visiting foreign ports as well as the safety of cargo bound for the United States.

In order to pay for these inspections this legislation authorizes the Secretary of Transportation to collect a 50 cent user fee on all cruise passengers that depart the United States for a foreign port. Quite frankly, 50 cents is a small price to pay for the peace of mind that comes with knowing that a port vulnerability assessment has been completed prior to a cruise ship with as many as 5,000 U.S. citizens as passengers, docks in a particular country. U.S. citizens should not be disembarking in ports that have not been scrutinized for security violations. One witness pointed out that in many circumstances U.S. cruise ship passengers are passing through ports that could not be assessed because they were deemed too dangerous for military personnel! This is ludicrous. I am sure those passengers had no idea of this potential danger, and we need to make sure that they are both safe and informed.

Lastly, this legislation would allow the President to prohibit any vessel, U.S. flagged or foreign, from entering the United States if the vessel has embarked passengers or cargo from foreign ports that do not have adequate security measures as determined by the Secretary of Transportation. Recently inspectors in Italy checking a container bound for Canada discovered a member of the al-Qaida terrorist organization hiding in a shipping container equipped with a bed and makeshift bathroom. The suspect, an Egyptian in a business suit, had with him a Canadian passport, a laptop computer, two cell phones, airport maps, security passes for airports in three countries and a certificate proclaiming him an airplane mechanic. We cannot allow any country to have such poor security such that terrorists can stow away in a shipping container. I would like to remind everyone that a similar provision exists in the airline industry and I see no reason why the President should not have the power to suspend commerce from a port with inadequate security, just like he can now do with international airports.

I believe that these provisions, when combined with the strong port security program of S. 1214, will ensure that the United States has the tools, the information, and the personnel to guard against waterborne threats to our nation and our citizens.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the text of the bill be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the bill was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

S. 1587

(2) PRESIDENTIAL ACTION.—If the Secretary makes such a determination under subsection (e) about a seaport, the President may prohibit a United States or foreign vessel from providing transportation between the United States and any other foreign seaport that is served by vessels navigating to or from the seaport with respect to which a decision is made under this section.

(3) WHEN ACTION TO BE TAKEN.—

(B) TRAVEL ADVISORY NOTIFICATION.—The Secretary of Transportation immediately shall notify the Secretary of State of a determination under subparagraph (A)(ii) of this paragraph so that the Secretary of State may issue a travel advisory required under section 908 of the International Maritime and Port Security Act (46 U.S.C. By Mr. CRAIG (for himself, Mr. DORGAN, Mr. GRASSLEY, Mr.

BAUCUS, Mr. CRAPO, Mr. BAYH, Mr. BENNETT, Mr. CARPER, Ms. COLLINS, Mr. ENSIGN, Mr. HOLLINGS, Mr. HUTCHINSON, Mr. INHOFE, Mr. KYL, Mrs. LINCOLN, Mr. MURKOWSKI, Mrs. MURRAY, and Mr. SMITH of Oregon):

S. 1588. A bill to provide a 1-year extension of the date for compliance by certain covered entities with the administrative simplification standards for electronic transactions and code sets issued in accordance with the Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act of 1996; to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. CRAIG. Mr. President, I am happy to join Senator DORGAN in reintroducing legislation regarding the administrative simplification provision of the Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act. We originally introduced legislation five months ago and have worked since then with members from both the Finance and HELP committees to negotiate a compromise. The bill we are introducing today is the product of those discussions. It provides for one additional much-needed year for providers, State health programs, health plans and others to implement the transactions and code set provision of administrative simplification. Importantly, this new version also includes language to clearly differentiate between this provision and the privacy provision of HIPAA. It was our intention all along that the medical privacy regulations not be affected by our legislation, and we believe this bill accomplishes that goal. My colleague and I have the benefit of being joined on this bill by many of the cosponsors of the original bill, and we are happy to have their support.

Mr. DORGAN. Mr. President, Like Senator CRAIG, I appreciate the cooperation of our colleagues in helping us to work through this issue. We have arrived at a solution that is agreeable to the majority of parties involved, while at the same time reaching our goal of providing relief to small providers and plans and public health programs that are struggling to prepare their systems for this cost. Senator CRAIG and I would have preferred that this bill go further in providing more time and coordination for affected entities. On the other hand, we acknowledge that others would prefer no action in this area. Since we are just one year from the scheduled compliance date, however, we recognize that all those affected need some certainty as they move forward with complying with the transactions and code sets regulation. Given that this bill does provide needed relief for our states and given the time constraints we are facing, we believe this compromise is appropriate and do not feel an additional extension can be acquired.

By Mr. ROCKEFELLER (for himself, Mr. WELLSTONE, and Mr. BAUCUS):

S. 1589. A bill to amend title XVIII of the Social Security Act to expand medicare benefits to prevent, delay, and minimize the progression of chronic conditions, establish payment incentives for furnishing quality services to people with serious and disabling chronic conditions, and develop national policies on effective chronic condition care, and for other purposes; to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. ROCKEFELLER. Madam President, I join several colleagues today to introduce the Medicare Chronic Care Improvement Act of 2001. Although we in Congress are focused on helping the Nation recover from the horrific attacks of September 11, we must also stand tall against the terrorists who wish to sabotage our domestic policy agenda and continue to work on the issues that affect the everyday health and well being of American citizens. With this conviction, I believe it is time to address the leading health care problem of the 21st century, chronic conditions.

Chronic conditions account for an astounding 90 percent of morbidity, 80 percent of deaths, and over 75 percent of direct medical expenditures in the United States. Nearly 125 million Americans have chronic conditions, and this number is expected to increase to 157 million, approximately half the population, by 2020.

Chronic conditions encompass an array of health conditions that are persistent, recurring, and cannot be cured. They include severely impairing conditions like Alzheimer's disease, congestive heart failure, chronic obstructive pulmonary disease, diabetes, depression, hypertension, and arthritis. Certainly in West Virginia, many of our workers, especially coal miners and steelworkers, suffer from chronic conditions.

Treating serious and disabling chronic conditions is the highest cost and fastest growing segment of health care. Direct medical costs for chronic conditions reached $510 billion in 2000 and are projected to reach $1.07 trillion by 2020.

An estimated 80 percent of Medicare beneficiaries suffer from at least one chronic condition and those beneficiaries account for an astounding 95 percent of Medicare spending. But Medicare does not provide many of the health care services that people with chronic conditions need. For example, current Medicare data show that, on average, people with chronic conditions see eight different physicians. Medicare does not compensate these physicians for communicating with one another, nor are they paid for care coordination, monitoring medications, early detection, or for educating or counseling patients and caregivers. As a result, few of these services, which are critical to people with chronic conditions, are provided.

To meet the needs of these individuals, our health care system must embrace a person-centered, system-oriented approach to care. Payers and providers who serve the same person must be empowered to work together to help people with chronic conditions prevent, delay, or minimize disease and disability progression and maximize their health and well being.

Over 10 years ago, I served as Chairman of the Pepper Commission. Our final report recognized that people with chronic conditions have special needs requiring multidisciplinary health care or social services to complement or augment their health care. The Commission further recognized that medical care cannot be fully accessible or effective for this segment of the population unless it is accompanied by education, outreach, and systems to coordinate a broad range of services. The Commission identified these needed changes over ten years ago. And, as I stand before you today, not a single one of these recommendations has been made.

I am here to propose a long overdue and much needed solution. The Medicare Chronic Care Improvement Act of 2001. This bill establishes a comprehensive plan to update and streamline the Medicare healthcare delivery system to better meet the needs of people with chronic health conditions.

First, the Medicare Chronic Care Improvement Act of 2001 helps prevent, delay, and minimize the progression of chronic conditions by authorizing the Secretary of Health and Human Services to expand coverage of preventive health benefits. The bill permits providers to waive deductibles and co-payments for preventive and wellness services and streamlines the process of approving preventive benefits.

Second, this bill provides a person-centered, system-oriented approach to care for this extremely vulnerable segment of our population by expanding Medicare coverage to include assessment, care-coordination, self-management services, and patient and family caregiver education and counseling.

Third, this legislation improves Medicare fee-for-service and managed care financing for plans that serve beneficiaries with multiple, complex chronic conditions. The Secretary is directed to develop a plan to refine payment incentives to ensure appropriate payment for serving these high-cost individuals.

And finally, the Medicare Chronic Care Improvement Act of 2001 requires the Secretary of HHS to report to Congress on chronic condition trends and costs as a foundation for establishing national chronic care policies.

For more detail, I am also entering a section-by-section bill summary into the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD following this statement.

This legislation has been endorsed by a variety of health organizations representing consumers and providers including:

Chronic Care Coalition, comprising the American Association of Homes and Services for the Aging, American Geriatrics Society, Catholic Health Association of the United States,

Elderplan Social HMO, National Chronic Care Consortium, National Council on the Aging, and National Family Caregivers Association;

National Depressive and Manic-Depressive Association;

Association for Ambulatory Behavioral Healthcare; American Lung Association; American Academy of Neurology; American Neurological Association; and United Seniors Health Cooperative.

The Medicare Chronic Care Improvement Act of 2001 provides a comprehensive solution to improving the quality of life and health for millions of Americans who are struggling with serious and disabling chronic conditions. It improves benefits for people with chronic conditions, it empowers providers to better care for these people, and it provides us with the research we need to better address chronic conditions in the future.

And last, but not least, this legislation has the potential to save the Medicare program money, by better managing and treating chronic conditions before costly complications result. That is good for seniors and good for Medicare, a win-win situation. It is time to step up to the plate and fulfill our obligation to our Nation's most vulnerable citizens. This bill should stimulate the debate, and when Congress returns to business not related to the September 11th attacks, I intend to advance this legislation in the Finance Committee.

I ask unanimous consent that the text of the bill and the summary be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

SUMMARY OF THE MEDICARE CHRONIC CARE IMPROVEMENT ACT OF 2001

TITLE I—EXPANSION OF BENEFITS TO PREVENT, DELAY, AND MINIMIZE THE PROGRESSION OF CHRONIC CONDITIONS

Improve access to preventive services

Eliminate deductibles and co-insurance for Medicare covered preventive services.

Streamline process of approving preventive benefits by directing the Secretary of Health and Human Services to contract with the Institute of Medicine (IOM) to investigate and recommend new preventive benefits every 3 years. Grant the Secretary the authority to implement these recommendations, and fast-track the recommendations through Congress if the Secretary chooses not to act upon this authority.

Expand access to health promotion services

Establish demonstration projects to promote disease self-management.

Implement a Medicare health education and risk appraisal program no later than 18 months after a series of demonstration projects conclude.

Expand coverage for care coordination and assessment services

Create a new benefit that covers assessment, care coordination, counseling, and education assistance for individuals with serious and disabling chronic conditions. Services could be provided by health care professionals, including physicians, social workers, and nurses.

Examples of items and services to be covered include: initial and periodic health screening and assessments; management and referral for medical and other health services; medication management; and patient and family caregiver education and counseling.

TITLE II—ESTABLISH PAYMENT INCENTIVES FOR FURNISHING QUALITY SERVICES TO INDIVIDUALS WITH SERIOUS AND DISABLING CHRONIC CONDITIONS

Improve medicare financing methods

Direct the Secretary to refine Medicare prospective payment systems for skilled nursing facility (SNF), home health, therapy, partial hospitalization, end stage renal dialysis (ESRD), and outpatient hospital services and refine resource-based relative value scale (RBRVS) payment methods for physicians to ensure appropriate payment for serving individuals with serious and disabling chronic conditions.

Direct the Secretary to refine Medicare+Choice risk adjustment methodology to provide adequate payment for plans with specialized programs for frail elderly and at-risk beneficiaries.

Until the refined risk adjustment methodology is implemented, direct the Secretary to continue current payment methodologies for existing specialized programs for frail elderly and at-risk beneficiaries.

Create a demonstration program to provide additional payments to Medicare+Choice plans that provide a specialized program of care for beneficiaries with serious and disabling chronic conditions. These plans must exclusively serve such beneficiaries or serve a disproportionate share of such beneficiaries. The demonstration program would expire one year after the refund risk adjustment methodology is implemented.

TITLE III—STUDY AND REPORT ON EFFECTIVE CHRONIC CONDITION CARE

Evaluate Medicare policies regarding chronic condition care

Direct the Secretary to study chronic condition trends and associated service utilization, cumulative costs, and quality indicators in Medicare.

Direct the Secretary to report the study results to Congress every 3 years. The report must include recommendations on improving care for Medicare beneficiaries with chronic conditions, reducing chronic conditions, and reducing related medical expenses.

Identify improvements in Medicare to ensure effective chronic condition care

Direct the Secretary to contract with the IOM to investigate and identify barriers and facilitators to effective care for Medicare beneficiaries with chronic conditions, including inconsistent clinical, financial, or administrative requirements across care settings. The IOM's report must include recommendations to improve access to effective care.

Definitions

“Chronic condition” means one or more physical or mental conditions which are likely to last for an unspecified period of time, or for the duration of an individual's life, for which there is no known cure, and which may affect an individual's ability to carry out basic activities of daily living (ADLs), instrumental activities of daily living (IADLs), or both.

“Serious and disabling chronic condition(s)” means the individual has one or more physical or mental conditions and has been certified by a licensed health care practitioner within the preceding 12 months as having a level of disability such that the individual, for at least 90 days, is unable to perform at least 2 ADLs or a number of IADLs or other measure indicating an equivalent level of disability or requiring substantial supervision due to severe cognitive impairment.

By Mr. NELSON of Florida:

S. 1592. A bill to amend title XI of the Social Security Act to prohibit Federal funds from being used to provide payments under a Federal health care program to any health care provider who charges a membership or any other extraneous or incidental fee to a patient as a prerequisite for the provision of an item or services to the patient; to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. NELSON of Florida. Mr. President, I am pleased to introduce the Medicare Equal Access to Care Act. I am joined by my colleagues Senators DURBIN and EDWARDS. This legislation is designed to address a disturbing development which may make it harder for some seniors to have access to Medicare.

I have recently become aware of a practice, an early example of which took place in Florida, in which doctors assess their existing patients a $1,500 membership fee in order to receive continued care. In some States, these fees have been as high as $20,000. By charging these extraneous and unwarranted dues, the doctors can shrink their practice, yet maintain their profits. Another version of this arrangement is to require that patients seek and pay for non-Medicare covered services from their doctors as a condition for joining or remaining in the practice. Tragically, the patients who can't afford these large sums for the privilege of medical care or who choose not to purchase non-Medicare covered services are simply told to find another doctor. In areas where there is already a shortage of doctors, this practice could severely hamper Medicare beneficiaries' access to health care.

Then, in addition to membership fees the doctors bill Medicare for the cost of the covered services they provide.

Were Medicare a private insurance company, this practice would not be allowed. Private health insurance companies do not permit their providers to charge an “access fee” as a condition to being accepted as a patient. The Federal Government, the American taxpayers, should not hold its providers to a looser standard, thereby supporting a distasteful division of Medicare beneficiaries into haves and have-nots. This situation is unacceptable.

The Medicare Equal Access to Care Act bill will put a damper on such agreements. This legislation is simple: it will prevent any federal health program, like Medicare, from reimbursing doctors who charge their patients membership fees, as defined by the Secretary of Health and Human Services, or who require that their patients purchase non-Medicare.

I want to emphasize that this legislation does not interfere with the right of the doctor and patient to enter into private arrangements. A doctor may forego Medicare reimbursement and charge patients a membership fee of any amount, and patients have the choice of whether to accept that condition. Likewise, a doctor is free to charge a patient for any service that is not reimbursed under Medicare.

Though they present a carefully crafted loophole, these arrangements violated the intent and spirit of the Balanced Billing Act.

Clearly, our health care system is not working for patients. Additionally it's not working for doctors, if they must resort to these types of practices. Also, hundreds of thousands of our nation's seniors have been informed that their managed care company will be withdrawing from the Membership program. We need to adequately reimburse doctors, to provide the incentive to continue to participate in the Medicare+Choice program. Just as we don't want Medicare beneficiaries to be told their HMO is unavailable, we don't want them to be told their doctor is unavailable, unless they pay a fee. These are among these reasons that Congress needs to complete and pass a Patient's Bill of Rights and send it to the President. But in the meantime, we must protect our seniors and ensure that their access to Medicare is not subject to hurdles and conditions.

I look forward to working with my colleagues to pass the Medicare Equal Access to Care Act.

I ask unanimous consent that the text of the Bill be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the bill was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

S. 1592

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

This Act may be cited as the "Equal Access to Care Act".

SEC. 2. LIMITATION ON PAYMENTS TO PROVIDERS UNDER A FEDERAL HEALTH CARE PROGRAM.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Title XI of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 1301 et seq.) is amended by inserting after section 1128F the following new section:

"SEC. 1128G. LIMITATION ON PAYMENTS TO PROVIDERS UNDER A FEDERAL HEALTH CARE PROGRAM.

"(a) IN GENERAL.—No Federal funds shall be used to provide payments under a Federal health care program to any physician (as defined in section 1861(r)), practitioner (as described in section 1842(b)(18)(C)), or other individual who charges a membership fee or any other extraneous or incidental fee to a patient, or requires a patient to purchase an item or service, as a prerequisite for the provision of an item or service to the patient.

"(b) FEDERAL HEALTH CARE PROGRAM DEFINED.—In this section, the term 'Federal health care program' has the meaning given that term under section 1128B(f) except that, for purposes of this section, such term includes the health insurance program under chapter 89 of title 5, United States Code."

(b) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendment made by subsection (a) applies to payments made on or after the date of enactment of this Act.

By Mr. JEFFORDS (for himself,
Mr. SMITH of New Hampshire, and Mr. CRAPO):

S. 1593. A bill to authorize the Administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency to establish a grant program to support research projects on critical infrastructure protection for water supply systems, and for other purposes; to the Committee on Environment and Public Works.

Mr. JEFFORDS. Mr. President, Members of the Senate, I rise before you today to introduce the Water Infrastructure Security and Research Development Act. This legislation authorizes the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency to provide funding to support research projects on critical infrastructure protection for water supply systems.

Our Nation's water supply system is truly unique. It uses a decentralized, community-based approach to provide superior water services to all citizens of the United States. Here, we turn on the tap in our homes and receive clean, fresh water without giving it much thought. This not the way water systems operate throughout the world.

A 1997 United Nations report on the state of water resources worldwide states that at least one-fifth of all people do not have access to safe drinking water, and more than one-half lack adequate sanitation. Quoting from the report:

The World Health Organization estimates that a total of more than five million people die each year just from diseases caused by unsafe drinking water, and a lack of sanitation and water for hygiene. Provision of safe drinking water and sanitation could reduce the amount of illness and death by as much as three-quarters, depending on the disease.

In this country, we often take our water system for granted. When considered in the international context, the true value of our water system becomes more apparent. We truly have something to protect.

During my tenure as Chairman of the Environment and Public Works Committee, we have been evaluating the state of our Nation's water infrastructure, both drinking water and wastewater. It is clear that we have work to do to modernize our existing systems and ensure that we continue to provide clean, safe water to our citizens into the future. Our discussions in the Committee tend to focus on infrastructure replacement needs, the funds that will be required, and the extent of the federal role. I am committed to this process, and I look forward to continuing to work with my colleagues on legislation that we plan to introduce early next year.

However, today, I rise to speak to you about another aspect of our Nation's water infrastructure—security. Since the events of September 11, I have worked with the members of the Environment and Public Works Committee and the Environmental Protection Agency to ensure that we are taking the steps necessary to protect our nation's water infrastructure system during these times. There are many short term actions that have already been taken.

Based on the recommendations of Presidential Decision Directive 63, issued by President Clinton in 1998, the Environmental Protection Agency and its industry partner, the Association of Metropolitan Water Agencies, have established a communications system, a water infrastructure Information Sharing and Analysis Center, designed to provide real-time threat assessment data to water utilities throughout the nation.

Through this partnership, the Environmental Protection Agency and the Association of Metropolitan Water Agencies are working to develop generic assessment tools that individual water utilities can use to assess their facilities for potential physical and cyber threats. I believe that the rapid completion of both these tools and the individual assessments is imperative. In early October, I sent a letter to the President with Senators SMITH, GRAHAM, and CRAPO and Representatives TAUZIN, DINGELL, GILLMOR, and PALLONE requesting that he use a portion of the $20 billion of discretionary funds provided to the Administration by Congress this year to provide assistance for these assessments to water utilities.

The legislation I am introducing today with Senator SMITH will take us one step further by authorizing support of both ongoing efforts under Presidential Decision Directive 63 and new research to assess potential threats to our water supply system and develop solutions.

This legislation authorizes twelve million dollars per year from 2002 to 2007 for the Environmental Protection Agency to use for grants to or cooperative agreements with research institutions. Projects conducted under these agreements will be used to conduct research addressing physical and cyber threats at water supply systems, improvements in information sharing and analysis efforts, and technical assistance and training. These projects will address both drinking water and wastewater systems that make up our nation's water supply infrastructure.

Eligible research institutions will include public and private entities, including national laboratories that perform research that will improve the security of water supply systems. Our legislation includes a provision to ensure that those entities conducting this research have the ability to effectively safeguard sensitive information.

Individual projects will fall into a series of categories designed to develop the information we need to protect our water supply system nationwide.

First, projects will assess the security issues for water supply systems by conducting assessments and developing and refining vulnerability assessment tools.

Second, projects will protect water supply systems from potential threats by developing technologies, processes, guidelines, standards, and procedures for the purpose of protecting water supply systems. Projects will also develop real-time monitoring systems to protect against chemical, biological, or radiological attack.

Third, projects will develop technologies and processes for addressing the mitigation, response and recovery of biological, chemical and radiological contamination of water supply systems.

Fourth, projects will implement requirements of Presidential Decision Directive 63 by refining and operating the Information Sharing and Analysis Center to capture and share threats, events and best practices.

Finally, projects will test and evaluate new technologies and processes by developing regional "pilot facilities" to demonstrate upgraded security systems, assess new technologies, and to determine operational and cost impacts due to enhanced security.

Individual awards may not exceed one million dollars. Test and evaluation projects will be cost-shared on a 50-50 basis.

I look forward to working with my colleagues on this legislation and other efforts to enhance the security of our Nation's water infrastructure in the weeks, months, and years to come. We truly have something to protect; clean, safe, fresh water is worth our investment.

By Mrs. CLINTON (for herself, Mr. SMITH of Oregon, Mr. KENNEDY, and Mrs. MURRAY):

S. 1594. A bill to amend the Public Health Service Act to provide programs to improve nurse retention, the nursing workplace, and the quality of care; to the Committee on Health, Education, Labor, and Pensions.

Mrs. CLINTON. Mr. President, I am proud to introduce today the Nurse Retention and Quality Care Act of 2001 and to speak about the importance of nurses and the work they do. On September 11, nurses were among those who were on the front lines of the battle against terrorism. With courage, skill and determination, they were on the job, treating the injured, helping to save lives.

To this day, nurses are defending America. In clinics, hospitals and offices around the country, they are working to detect and treat actual or suspected cases of anthrax. Should our Nation face other biological threats or terrorist attacks, nurses will be there for us.

Today's news that a woman who works in the Manhattan Eye, Ear and Throat Hospital is in critical condition with possible inhalation anthrax is a reminder of the hazards faced by health care workers. And it is a reminder of how important it is that our public health system be fully staffed with trained health care professionals.

Sadly, America is facing a nursing shortage at a time when the need for more nurses is so clear. Our nurses are facing an emergency of their own and they need our help. The nursing shortage imposes increasing hardship on hospitals and nurses alike, and threatens the ability of our health care system to provide basic patient care, much less respond to health crises and terrorism.

Not only is the number of individuals entering the nursing profession falling, but hospitals are also facing difficulty retaining the nurses already on staff. Fifty percent of nurses say they have recently considered leaving their jobs for reasons other than retirement, and approximately half a million licensed nurses are not currently practicing nursing. Many of the nurses who have considered leaving the profession cite their low level of overall job satisfaction.

While we must do more to improve the number of nurses in training, we must also take steps to enhance the workplace to retain current nurses, and that is what the bill that Senator GORDON SMITH and I will be introducing today would address.

One way to retain nurses is to follow the example of those hospitals that have become nursing "magnets." They are successful because they involve nurses in decision-making, encourage collaboration among health professionals, give nurses the opportunity to pursue continuing education and advancement, and they organize care to improve patient outcome.

Our bill is designed to encourage more hospitals to follow these leads. And I am pleased that hospitals and nurses support this bill. It has been endorsed by the American Nurses Association and the American Hospitals Association.

It is also a good bill for patients and their quality of care as well. Research has shown that magnet hospitals have lower mortality rates, shorter lengths of stay, higher patient satisfaction and cost-efficiency.

As our Nation faces increasing threats of terrorist and biological attack, our health system must be stronger than ever before. One of the best ways we can do this is by taking steps to reverse the nursing shortage, and ensure that nurses on the front lines are well-prepared to respond to emergencies.

Our bill does both. First, it creates demonstration programs to encourage states to adopt magnet hospital practices, which will help attract and retain the nursing staff our hospitals need so they can cope with surges in patient volume.

And, second, our bill encourages nurses to pursue continued education. That is so important today, when we need more health care professionals who can detect the early signs of a bioterrorist attack. This legislation will promote the kind of training that the New York State Nurses Association, Bellevue Hospital and New York College provide for nurses in my state.

Mr. SMITH of Oregon. Mr. President, I rise today to join my colleague from New York, Senator CLINTON, in introducing the Nurse Retention and Quality of Care Act of 2001. As most of my colleagues already know, our Nation is facing an unprecedented nursing shortage. A Northwest Health Foundation study released this year found that Oregon alone will have 3,200 nursing vacancies in 2010. It is critical that we act immediately to address this shortage, and we must start by retaining the highly skilled nurses that already constitute the foundation of our health care system.

Our Nation's nursing shortage is not merely the result of poor nurse recruitment, this shortage exists in large part because nurses are leaving the profession altogether. Half a million licensed nurses are not currently practicing. These nurses represent some of our Nation's most compassionate and experienced health care professionals, but they feel compelled to look elsewhere for work, and we must do something to change this disturbing trend.

The Nurse Retention and Quality of Care Act will give hospitals incentives to develop and implement model practices for retaining nurses, such as the methods used by "magnet hospitals". Magnet hospitals have been in existence for a number of years, and share certain characteristics designed to make these hospitals attractive workplaces for nurses. These hospitals promote nurse participation in decision-making, collaboration and communication among health care professionals, opportunities for nurses to pursue education and career advancement, and a balanced and accommodating work environment for nurses.

Nurses in magnet hospitals stay twice as long on average as those in non-magnet hospitals, and consistently report greater job satisfaction. Patients also express higher satisfaction in magnet hospitals. There is one such hospital in my home state of Oregon, Providence St. Vincent Medical Center in Portland, OR, and I am not alone in hoping this legislation will lead to additional magnet facilities. Our legislation will authorize $40 million in demonstration grants for health care facilities to implement the model practices utilized by magnet hospitals, and I believe that this will be an important step toward fixing our Nation's impending nursing shortage.

Nurses are the human face of medicine, but the demands on them are increasingly difficult to bear. The Nurse Retention and Quality of Care Act paves the way for hospitals to implement practices that will improve the morale of nurses and encourage them to stay in the nursing profession. Now, more than ever, with the current health and safety concerns facing our Nation, we must let nurses know that they are important to us and that we value their expertise and compassion. By passing this bill, we can do just that, and take important steps to ensure an adequate supply of highly qualified nurses for years to come.

STATEMENTS ON SUBMITTED RESOLUTIONS

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION 80—EXPRESSING THE SENSE OF CONGRESS REGARDING THE 30TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE ENACTMENT OF THE FEDERAL WATER POLLUTION CONTROL ACT

Mr. BOND (for himself, Mr. GRAHAM, Mr. VOINOVICH, Mr. JEFFORDS, and Mr. CRAPO) submitted the following concurrent resolution; which was referred to the Committee on Environment and Public Works:

S. CON. RES. 80

Whereas clean water is a natural resource of tremendous value and importance to the United States;

Whereas there is resounding public support for protecting and enhancing the quality of the rivers, streams, lakes, wetland, and marine water of the United States;

Whereas maintaining and improving water quality is essential to protecting public health, fisheries, wildlife, and watersheds, and to ensuring abundant opportunities for public recreation and economic development;

Whereas it is a national responsibility to provide clean water for future generations;

Whereas substantial progress has been made in protecting and enhancing water quality since the date of enactment, in 1972, of the Federal Water Pollution Control Act (33 U.S.C. 1251 et seq.) due to concerted efforts by Federal, State, and local governments, the private sector, and the public;

Whereas serious water pollution problems persist throughout the United States and significant challenges lie ahead in the effort to protect water resources from point sources and nonpoint sources of pollution;

Whereas further development and innovation of water pollution control programs and advancement of water pollution control research, technology, and education are necessary and desirable; and

Whereas October 2002 is the 30th anniversary of the enactment of the Federal Water Pollution Control Act (33 U.S.C. 1251 et seq.): Now, therefore be it

Resolved by the Senate (the House of Representatives concurring), That, as the United States marks the 30th anniversary, in October 2002, of the enactment of the Federal Water Pollution Control Act (33 U.S.C. 1251 et seq.), Congress encourages the people of the United States and all levels of government to recognize and celebrate the accomplishments of the United States under, and to recommit to achieving the goals of, that Act.

Mr. BOND. Mr. President, it is a pleasure for me to submit a concurrent resolution with the House of Representatives to commemorate the 30th anniversary of the Clean Water Act next October 2002. Representative SHERRY BOEHLERT is introducing the House version and joining me in the Senate are Senators CRAPO, GRAHAM, and VOINOVICH.

Every time we look out onto a river, swim in a lake, or cast a line in search of a fish, we have the Clean Water Act to thank. Streams that were once devoid of fish and other aquatic life now support numerous and varied aquatic populations. Lakes that were once choked by pollution are now vastly improved. Wastewater discharges from municipal and industrial sources are being controlled.

One of the first and most successful national environmental laws to be passed by the Federal Government, the Federal Water Pollution Control Act, commonly known as the Clean Water Act, was enacted in 1972 and set the goal of restoring and maintaining the chemical, physical, and biological integrity of the nation's waters. In the nearly three decades since its enactment, Clean Water Act programs have yielded measurable improvements in water quality.

We have come a long way, yet much remains to be done to achieve the Act's goals of "fishable" and "swimmable" waters. Nonpoint sources of pollution from urban, suburban and rural areas are remain a significant threat to the nation's water resources. Science has given us the ability to detect pollutants in ever decreasing amounts. Technological advances, while providing solutions to pollution problems, also pose new pollution concerns.

Therefore, while commemorating a successful 30 years in clean water, we must also recommit ourselves to solving remaining clean water problems. The time until the 30th anniversary on October 18, 2002, will provide us a year to renew our commitment to clean our waters. As it did in 1992, America's Clean Water Foundation, ACWF, will coordinate the Year of Clean Water with activities: 1. highlighting the need to enhance collective appreciation for the importance of our water resources, 2. educating our nation's youth 3. building a better understanding of remaining challenges and solutions, and 4. rekindling the stewardship ethic begun in the 1970's.

The Year of Clean Water activities, scheduled throughout 2002, will provide the opportunity for citizens and governments to come together in support of clean water and water resource protection programs. For example, program planning is under way for a World Watershed Summit, a Youth Watershed Summit, a National Stormwater Conference, a Legal and Economic Issues Forum, and a national water quality monitoring effort to gather water quality data from around the country. Please join me in support this legislation.

SENATE RESOLUTION 174—EXPRESSING APPRECIATION TO THE UNITED KINGDOM FOR ITS SOLIDARITY AND LEADERSHIP AS AN ALLY OF THE UNITED STATES AND REAFFIRMING THE SPECIAL RELATIONSHIP BETWEEN THE TWO COUNTRIES

Mr. MILLER (for himself and Mr. HELMS) submitted the following resolution; which was referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations:

S. RES. 174

Whereas the United Kingdom has been a stalwart and loyal ally to the United States;

Whereas in response to the September 11, 2001 terrorist attacks on the United States the Prime Minister of the United Kingdom, Tony Blair, declared that "America is our closest ally and friend. The links between our two peoples are many and close and have been further strengthened over the last few days. We believe in Britain that you stand by your friends in times of trial just as America stood by us";

Whereas the United Kingdom has worked with the United States to build and consolidate an international coalition of countries determined to defeat the scourge of terrorism;

Whereas Prime Minister Tony Blair and other senior officials of the Government of the United Kingdom have personally traveled to foreign capitals, including Moscow, Islamabad, and New Delhi, as part of the effort to build this international coalition; and

Whereas British military forces participated in the initial strikes against the Taliban and the Al Qaeda terrorist network and continue to fight side by side with United States forces in this war against terrorism: Now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Senate—

(1) extends its most heartfelt appreciation to the United Kingdom for its unwavering solidarity and leadership as an ally of the United States; and

TITLE VII—MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS

SEC. 701. SENSE OF THE SENATE.

(a) FINDINGS.—The Senate finds the following:

(1) The Low-Income Home Energy Assistance Program (referred to in this section as “LIHEAP”) is the primary Federal program available to help low-income households, the elderly, and individuals with disabilities pay their home energy bills.

(2) Congress provided $300,000,000 in emergency funding for LIHEAP in the Supplemental Appropriations Act, 2001 because regular appropriations were insufficient to help States offset the increase in high utility bills from November 2000 through February 2001 (referred to in this section as the “winter of 2000”).

(3) Congress directed that half of the emergency funding would be made available for targeted assistance to States with the most critical needs, and half would be given to help States address unmet energy assistance needs resulting from the extraordinary price increases in home heating fuels and residential natural gas, experienced during the winter of 2000.

(4) In the winter of 2000 there was a 30 percent increase in households receiving LIHEAP assistance in large part due to the high price of home energy and severe weather.

(5) In the winter of 2000, the LIHEAP program was only able to serve 17 percent of the 29,000,000 households eligible for LIHEAP assistance.

(6) In the winter of 2000, heating oil prices were 36 percent higher than from November 1999 through February 2000 (referred to in this section as the "winter of 1999"), and residential natural gas cost 42 percent more per cubic foot than in the winter of 1999 even though the weather was 10 percent colder than the winter of 1999.

(7) In the winter of 2000, record cold weather and high home energy bills took a financial toll on low-income families and the elderly who spend, on average, 19.5 percent of their annual income on energy bills, as compared to 3.7 percent for all other households.

(8) Families in the United States need emergency LIHEAP funding to pay home energy bills from the winter of 2000 and restore heat as the succeeding winter approaches.

(9) More citizens will need LIHEAP assistance in fiscal year 2001 due to the recent increase in unemployment and the slowing economy.

(10) States are being forced to draw down fiscal year 2002 LIHEAP funds in order to address unmet needs from fiscal year 2001 and help low-income households pay overdue home energy bills.

(11) Emergency LIHEAP funding will provide States with critical resources to help provide assistance to residents.

(b) SENSE OF THE SENATE.—It is the sense of the Senate that the President should immediately release the $300,000,000 in emergency funding for LIHEAP provided by the Supplemental Appropriations Act, 2001.

AMENDING THE RECLAMATION RECREATION MANAGEMENT ACT OF 1992

Mr. REID. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent that the Senate proceed to the consideration of H.R. 2925, just received from the House, which is at the desk.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report the bill by title.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

A bill (H.R. 2925) to amend the Reclamation Recreation Management Act of 1992 in order to provide for the security of dams, facilities, and resources under the jurisdiction of the Bureau of Reclamation.

There being no objection, the Senate proceeded to consider the bill.

Mr. REID. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent that the bill be read three times, passed, and the motion to reconsider be laid upon the table, and that any statements relating thereto be printed in the RECORD, with the above occurring with no intervening action or debate.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The bill (H.R. 2925) was read the third time and passed.

ORDERS FOR WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 31, 2001

Mr. REID. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent that when the Senate completes its business today, it adjourn until the hour of 10 a.m., Wednesday, October 31; that following the prayer and pledge, the Journal of proceedings be approved to date, the morning hour be deemed expired, the time for the two leaders be reserved for their use later in the day, and there be a period for the transaction of morning business until 10:30 a.m., with Senators permitted to speak for up to 5 minutes each, with the following exceptions: Senator STEVENS, 20 minutes; Senator REID of Nevada or designee, 10 minutes; and further, at 10:30 a.m., the Senate resume consideration of the Labor-HHS Appropriations Act.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

PROGRAM

Mr. REID. Madam President, the Senate, even though we had a number of matters that took a lot of time on and off the floor, did make progress. We have a finite list of amendments that has now been placed in the RECORD. We have paper to work from, in effect. Beginning tomorrow, at 10:30, we are going to start working our way through these amendments. It would be possible to complete the bill by tomorrow evening or maybe late afternoon. But regardless of when we are going to complete it, we are going to complete it, and it is going to be done at the earliest possible date.

All Senators should understand that there could be some late nights the next couple of nights. The majority leader has told me I should relay this to all Senators: that if we are going to complete the business we have prior to the Thanksgiving recess, which I think is the 16th—I am not sure of that date—we have a lot of work to do. We have this appropriations bill to do, and two others, one of which is a very big Defense appropriations bill. We have bioterrorism. We have a stimulus package. We have a number of bills that are going to take some time. So everyone should understand there could be some votes into the evening.

ADJOURNMENT UNTIL 10 A.M. TOMORROW

Mr. REID. Madam President, if there is no further business to come before the Senate, I ask unanimous consent that the Senate stand in adjournment under the previous order.

There being no objection, the Senate, at 6:29 p.m., adjourned until Wednesday, October 31, 2001, at 10 a.m.
