PROCEEDINGS AND DEBATES OF THE 109th CONGRESS, FIRST SESSION

Vol. 151

WASHINGTON, MONDAY, APRIL 25, 2005

No. 51

Senate

The Senate met at 2 p.m. and was called to order by the President pro tempore (Mr. STEVENS).

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Dr. Barry C. Black, offered the following prayer:

Let us pray.

O God, who desires truth in our inward parts, strengthen us to live with integrity. Remind us that only the pure in heart will see You. Give us the discipline of introspection that strips the soul to its bare essence. Remove from us every mask of pretense and clothe us with Your righteousness.

Bless the Members of this legislative body. Teach them that truth is not merely academic but commands commitment. Grant that they will not only speak the truth but do it as well. Give them the courage to follow truth wherever it leads them. Empower them to advocate for right, even though unpopular. Make them champions for justice even when they must stand alone.

Lord, show each of us the path that leads to life. We pray this in Your righteous Name.

Amen.

PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE

The PRESIDENT pro tempore led the Pledge of Allegiance, as follows:

I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America, and to the Republic for which it stands, one nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all.

RESERVATION OF LEADER TIME

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Under the previous order, the leadership time is reserved.

RECOGNITION OF THE ACTING MAJORITY LEADER

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The acting majority leader is recognized.

SCHEDULE

Mr. INHOFE. Mr. President, today we will resume debate on the motion to proceed to highway legislation. On Friday, a cloture motion was filed to the motion to proceed. Under the order, that cloture vote will occur at 11:45 tomorrow morning.

On behalf of the leadership, we hope that cloture will be invoked and that we will be able to begin consideration of the underlying bill. If the Senate can proceed to the highway bill tomorrow, Senators should expect another rollcall vote as the Senate considers amendments to the bill. Finally, I would like to announce the Senate will this week also consider any conference report that may become available.

NATIONAL KINDERGARTEN RECOGNITION DAY

Mr. INHOFE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the Senate proceed to the immediate consideration of S. Res. 119, submitted today.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The clerk will report the resolution by title.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

A resolution (S. Res. 119) designating April 21, 2005, as "National Kindergarten Recognition Day."

There being no objection, the Senate proceeded to consider the resolution.

Mr. SALAZAR. Mr. President, I rise today in support of the resolution that nationally recognizes the critical role the kindergarten year plays in the lives of our Nation's children. This resolution designates April 21, 2005 as National Kindergarten Recognition Day.

I have chosen this day because exactly 168 years ago the first kindergarten classroom was opened. In 1837, many believed that young children did not have the ability to focus or to develop cognitive and emotional skills. However, Friedrich Froebel, a German school teacher and private tutor, held a different opinion and opened the first kindergarten classroom with the goal of shaping young children in a nurturing, educational, and protected environment.

Since then, Mr. Froebel's idea has been confirmed time and again by research—early years are learning years and kindergarten has a long history of enhancing children's cognitive, physical, and social development.

In the United States, kindergarten was first introduced to American communities in 1856. Now, close to four million children participate in kindergarten programs throughout the country. With attention now focused on increasing access to high-quality child care and pre-school programs, kindergarten is frequently overlooked.

While I support both of these laudable goals, I believe we cannot ignore the impact of the kindergarten year on the development of our Nation's children. And as policy makers, we must ensure that the kindergarten programs are using developmentally, culturally, and linguistically appropriate curricula and have teachers who have specialized knowledge and skills to address their unique needs.

On a personal note, I fondly remember my kindergarten year with my teacher, Mrs. Espinoza, who encouraged my curiosity and creativity. As a parent, I recall taking my daughters to their first day of kindergarten—they came home excited to tell my wife and me what they learned and to showcase their art and science projects in our home. Kindergarten prepared my girls for their later school success and cultivated their life-long love of learning. I will be just as proud to see my daughter Melinda graduate from high school next month as I was the day of her first school graduation, her kindergarten graduation.

It is a pleasure to introduce this resolution that honors kindergarten. It is my hope that we can use this day now, and in the future, to call attention to kindergarten and to discuss ways in which we can improve kindergarten classrooms throughout the Nation.

Mr. INHOFE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent the resolution and preamble be agreed to en bloc, the motion to reconsider be laid on the table, and any statements be printed in the RECORD, without intervening action or debate.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The resolution (S. Res. 119) was agreed to.

The preamble was agreed to.

The resolution, with its preamble, reads as follows:

S. RES. 119

Whereas Friedrich Froebel, known as the "Father of Kindergarten", opened the first kindergarten classroom on April 21, 1837, with the goal of shaping young children in a nurturing, educational, and protected environment;

Whereas kindergarten has a long history of enhancing children's cognitive, physical, and social development in the United States and throughout the world;

Whereas Margarethe Meyer Schurz opened the first German-speaking kindergarten in the United States in 1856, Elizabeth Peabody opened the first English-speaking kindergarten in Boston, Massachusetts, in 1873, and the first public school kindergarten classrooms were established under the leadership of Susan Blow and William Torrey Harris in St. Louis, Missouri, in the early 1870s;

Whereas kindergarten is a critical year in children's formal education, as well as in their continued physical, social, and emotional development, that prepares them for later school success and lifelong learning;

Whereas quality kindergarten programs use developmentally, culturally, and linguistically appropriate curricula, teaching practices, and assessments to support each child's learning and development progress to reach his or her maximum potential;

Whereas teachers who teach kindergarten need to have specialized knowledge and skills in working with young children to respond to the unique interests, learning styles, and developmental characteristics of children in their kindergarten year;

Whereas kindergarten programs need to be ready for all children who are eligible, including children with disabilities and children who are not native English speakers, and their families;

Whereas kindergarten programs should collaborate and coordinate with preschools and with the other early elementary grades in order to provide a continuum of appropriate, effective early learning for all children as they transition to and through the early grades of school;

Whereas in 2001, more than more 3,700,000 children between the ages of 4 and 6 years old attended kindergarten, including full-day, half-day, or alternate day programs;

Whereas the percentage of children attending full-day kindergarten programs has grown from 28 percent in 1977 to 60 percent in 2001; and

Whereas establishment of a "National Kindergarten Recognition Day" will help draw attention to the critical role kindergarten plays as the transitional year from early education programs to the elementary and secondary education system: Now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Senate—

(1) designates April 21, 2005, as "National Kindergarten Recognition Day" to raise public awareness about the impact of the kindergarten year on the development of our nation's children; and

(2) urges the people of the United States to recognize the historic tradition of kindergarten in the United States and its contribution to preparing children for their elementary and secondary educational achievement and experiences.

NATIONAL SMALL BUSINESS WEEK

Mr. INHOFE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent the Senate now proceed to the consideration of S. Res. 120, which was submitted today.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The clerk will report the resolution by title.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

A resolution (S. Res. 120) honoring small businesses during the Small Business Administration's National Small Business Week, the week beginning April 24, 2005.

There being no objection, the Senate proceeded to consider the resolution.

Ms. SNOWE. Mr. President, I rise today in support of a Senate resolution that honors our Nation's 25 million small businesses and the tremendous contributions they make to our economy, as we celebrate the Small Business Administration's—SBA—National Small Business Week which runs April 24 through April 30, 2005.

Small businesses form a solid economic foundation for growth and job creation. The success of our Nation's small businesses have helped create nearly three-quarters of all new jobs and produce 50 percent of our country's gross domestic product.

Since becoming Chair of the Senate Committee on Small Business and Entrepreneurship, I have made it one of my top priorities to be a megaphone for small businesses and help raise the needs and concerns of our countries' job creators in the Senate. Each year, there are 3 to 4 million new business startups—and one in 25 adult Americans take the steps to start a business. With one quarter of existing small business owners intending to form another business, this is clearly a sector that deserves our accolades and recognition.

And of course, one of our most valuable assets for ensuring the success of small businesses is the Small Business Administration. This agency is pivotal in overseeing the delivery of financial and business development tools for millions of aspiring entrepreneurs and existing small businesses across the United States. And since 1999, the SBA's programs have helped created and retain over 4.5 million jobs.

Particularly, the SBA's financing programs have been a crucial source to accessing capital for small businesses, and have never been more in demand with both the 7(a) program and 504 program delivering measurable results. The numbers from fiscal year 2004 represent these programs indisputable success, with the 7(a) program providing over $13.5 billion in loans to help small businesses create 132,603 new jobs. The 504 program lent $4 billion to support the creation of 86,847 jobs.

Furthermore, the SBA's entrepreneurial development programs assisted almost 1.5 million startup and existing small businesses. In fact, the Small Business Development Center—SBDC—program served over 725,000 clients and helped create or retain over 168,000 jobs in fiscal year 2003, while the SBA's Women's Business Center's training and counseling helped to create or retain over 6,500 jobs in fiscal year 2003.

We have also provided small businesses with tax relief to help grow their business. For example, I championed an increase in the amount a small business can deduct when they invest in equipment and other business assets capital that fuels expansion and job creation.

So as we celebrate our Nation's small businesses, we must be mindful of Congress's responsibility to ensure that each business has the opportunity to flourish. With the BA's budget drastically declining by 36 percent over the last 5 years, I will not hesitate to take action and ensure that this vital sector continues to have the valuable resources they deserve.

The SBA has been a critical partner to millions of small enterprises as well as aspiring entrepreneurs as they embark on the path to prosperity and job creation. The least we can do is strengthen, not erode, the SBA's core loan and technical assistance programs that have proven time and again to be the keystone in aiding the efforts and dreams of America's entrepreneurs.

Today we celebrate our Nation's entrepreneurs and honor America's small businesses. I urge my colleagues to show their support for the small businesses in their States and support this resolution. We must remember that the investment and support that we provide to our small business today is integral to our Nation's economic and job security tomorrow.

Mr. KERRY. Mr. President, I rise today to honor America's single greatest economic resource: our small businesses. Small businesses drive our economy, making up 99 percent of all firms, and today marks the first day of the annual National Small Business Week celebration. This week, we honor the firms that are working year round to provide goods and services to us all. Every day, small businesses and entrepreneurs are making innovations, creating new jobs, and pushing our economy forward. In fact, more than 50 percent of our Nation's GDP and more than two-thirds of all new jobs in our economy are attributable to small businesses. From the high-tech startup and the small manufacturer to the family-owned bookstore and the lemonade stand run by the little girl down the street, small businesses and entrepreneurs are an exciting part of our communities. And the opportunities they create represent the American Dream.

Given the importance of small businesses to our economy, it is only logical that there would be a Federal agency dedicated to promoting and protecting their interests. The Small Business Administration, which I am sure my colleagues are well aware of, serves as an indispensable small business advocate and resource within the Federal Government. With offices and strategic resource partners across the country, the SBA is able to serve entrepreneurs at the local level by providing training, mentorship, and valuable resources and at the national level by encouraging agencies to extend contracts to small businesses and to develop small-business friendly regulations.

The SBA offers a number of programs designed to help small businesses overcome obstacles to success. I am proud to support these programs, which tackle issues ranging from entrepreneurial development and access to capital to Federal contracting and trade assistance.

Without these SBA resources, thousands of small businesses would not have grown, survived tough times, or even been created. Once small businesses such as Staples, Intel, Nike, America Online, Black Enterprise Magazine, Eskimo Joe's, Callaway Golf, FedEx, Hewlett-Packard, Jenny Craig, Gymboree, Ben & Jerry's, Winnebago, Sun Microsystems, and Outback Steakhouse all received assistance through at least one of the SBA's programs. These businesses started out small but are now household names. They prove that their owners had excellent business ideas even though traditional lenders or venture capitalists would not take a chance on them. The SBA gave these once small businesses an opportunity to grow, helping them to get their foot in the door and eventually bring new products to markets across the country and the world. The long-term gains that our economy experiences from helping these companies are too numerous to list entirely, but they include thousands of jobs, a stronger economy, increased opportunities and millions in additional tax revenue, which has paid for the SBA's budget many times over.

While helping them grow is a part of SBA's mission, many small businesses are not looking to become large corporations, and these too need SBA's assistance and support. Every small business is important. Our neighborhoods could not function and would not be the same without the local dry cleaner, the corner market, the day care provider, the hardware store, the car mechanic, the restaurant, and countless other small businesses. Whether family-owned or a franchise, an S Corp or a sole-proprietor, fast-growing or home-based, all small businesses contribute greatly to our economy. And for decades, the SBA has been there to help.

According to SBA Administrator Hector Barreto's recent testimony before the Senate Small Business and Entrepreneurship Committee, the SBA backed a record $21.3 billion in loans and related financing to small businesses last year. Of that money, nearly one-third of it went to businesses owned by women or minorities. The SBA's major technical assistance programs reached a record number of clients last year, and the procurement assistance programs aided more than 37,000 small businesses. These impressive figures demonstrate that the entrepreneurial sector of our economy is alive and flourishing, in part because of the SBA. It is up to us, in the Federal Government, to ensure that this entrepreneurial spirit continues to thrive.

This week, in honor of National Small Business Week, the SBA is hosting SBA Expo '05, which serves to highlight the year's greatest achievers and small business advocates. I am proud to join Senator SNOWE and several other members of Congress as an honorary cochair of this event, where the SBA will also honor the National Small Business Person of the Year and State winners, including Massachusetts' own Fred Curtis, Jr. of Curtis Tractor Cab. Mr. Curtis has worked tirelessly to expand his company, growing from 21 employees in 1988 to 221 employees last year. Demonstrating the value that a small investment can give, Curtis Tractor Cab has grown more than 700 percent since receiving an SBA 504 loan from the Worcester Business Development Corp. I thank Mr. Curtis for his important contributions to the Worcester area. I know I speak for the small business community in Massachusetts when I say we are very proud to have an entrepreneur like Mr. Curtis representing our State with this award.

I also commend all of the SBA award winners this week. Their contributions to their States, communities, and our national economy are immense. In addition, I specifically congratulate Steven Stultz, the National 2005 Financial Services Champion of the Year. Much of what the SBA does involves access to capital, and Mr. Stultz has been a ubiquitous leader for the greater lending community. He is an active member of the National Association of Development Companies—NADCO—sits on the Board of Directors for CDC Small Business Finance, and is in his second year of a 3-year term as chairman of the National Association of Government Guaranteed Lenders—NAGGL. Mr. Stultz's dedication and leadership have propelled the 7(a) and 504 loan programs into powerful economic development tools. He has worked closely with Congress, particularly with the Senate Committee on Small Business and Entrepreneurship, to make necessary and thoughtful changes to the SBA's several loan program. I am thankful and supportive of his tireless advocacy and work to make access to capital easier for small businesses nationwide.

As a tribute to the SBA and the 25 million small businesses in the Nation, Senator OLYMPIA J. SNOWE and I support S. Res 120, to honor their impact on our Nation and our economy. As the resolution indicates, the SBA has assisted more than 20 million entrepreneurs throughout its history. However, despite the agency's noble mission, its assistance to small businesses is being threatened by this administration, which has cut funding to the SBA by 36 percent since 2001—more than any other Federal agency. One can only imagine how much more the SBA could have done for small businesses this year with just the same funding it received in 2001. We may never know the true cost these cuts have had on the future growth of our economy. How many Intels were passed up for funding, how many rural businesses weren't able to get management assistance, and how many jobs weren't created?

Small businesses give entrepreneurs the opportunity to pursue their passion, they give parents the opportunity to stay at home with kids while supplementing the household income, they give people the opportunity to be their own bosses, they empower women and minorities, and they spark innovation. Small businesses are vital to the success of our country and our economy, and we must do everything in our power to ensure our small businesses and entrepreneurs have the greatest resources in the world.

Mr. INHOFE. I ask unanimous consent the resolution be agreed to, the preamble be agreed to, and the motion to reconsider be laid on the table.

The resolution (S. Res. 120) was agreed to.

The preamble was agreed to.

The resolution, with its preamble, reads as follows:

S. RES. 120

Whereas America's 25,000,000 small businesses have fueled the Nation's economy, creating more than ¾ of all new jobs and accounting for more than 50 percent of the Nation's gross domestic product;

Whereas small businesses are the Nation's innovators, advancing technology and fueling the economic growth and productivity;

Whereas the Small Business Administration has been a critical partner in the success of the Nation's small businesses and these businesses' continued economic growth;

Whereas the mission of the Small Business Administration is to maintain and strengthen the Nation's economy by aiding, counseling, assisting, and protecting the interests of small businesses and by helping families and small businesses recover from natural disasters;

Whereas the Small Business Administration has helped small businesses access critical lending opportunities, protected small businesses from excessive Federal regulatory enforcement, played a key role in ensuring full and open competition for government contracts, and improved the economic environment in which small businesses compete;

Whereas the Small Business Administration, which was established in 1953, has also provided valuable service to small businesses through financial assistance, technical assistance, procurement assistance, small business advocacy, and disaster recovery assistance;

Whereas for over 50 years the Small Business Administration has helped approximately 22,000,000 Americans start, grow, and expand their businesses and has placed almost $250,000,000,000 in loans and venture capital financing into the hands of entrepreneurs;

Whereas the Small Business Administration has helped millions of entrepreneurs achieve the American dream of owning a small business; and

Whereas the Small Business Administration will mark National Small Business Week, the week beginning April 24, 2005: Now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Senate—

(1) honors small businesses during the Small Business Administration's National Small Business Week, the week beginning April 24, 2005;

(2) supports the purpose and goals of National Small Business Week; and

(3) commends the Small Business Administration and the Small Business Administration's resource partners—

(A) for their work, which has been critical in helping the Nation's small businesses grow and develop; and

(B) for being key players in the Nation's economic vitality.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

A bill (S. 893) to make technical corrections to the Anabolic Steroid Control Act of 2004.

There being no objection, the Senate proceeded to consider the bill.

Mr. INHOFE. I ask unanimous consent the bill be read a third time and passed, the motion to reconsider be laid on the table, and any statements relating thereto be printed in the RECORD, without intervening action or debate.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The bill (S. 893) was read the third time and passed, as follows:

TRANSPORTATION EQUITY ACT; A LEGACY FOR USERS—MOTION TO PROCEED

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Under the previous order, the Senate will resume consideration of the motion to proceed on H.R. 3, which the clerk will report:

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

Motion to proceed to the consideration of a bill (H.R. 3) to authorize funds for Federal-aid highways, highway safety programs, and transit programs, and for other purposes.

Mr. INHOFE. Mr. President, on Friday, the leader filed a cloture motion on the motion to proceed to H.R. 3, the highway bill. I believe the cloture vote has been scheduled for tomorrow at 11:45 am. I strongly urge all of my colleagues to vote yes.

The Transportation Equity Act for the 21st Century, TEA-21, expired on September 30, 2003, nearly 19 months ago. Yet we are still attempting to get a bill done. The Federal-aid program has been operating under a number of short-term extensions—a total of six to date.

We need to get this done. The vote on Tuesday on cloture is critical. If we cannot proceed to this bill, we will miss yet another deadline and our States will continue to pay the price. The current May 31 expiration date for the highway, transit and safety programs is fast approaching. The House bill, H.R. 3, has some very significant differences from S. 732 the Safe, Accountable, Flexible, and Efficient Transportation Equity Act of 2005, SAFETEA, the bill reported out by the Environment and Public Works Committee on March 16. We will need as much time as possible to work out a compromise. Although we may not all be in perfect agreement here on the Senate floor on each and every provision of S. 732, one thing I believe we are all in agreement on is that we need to get this done. In addition to conversations with colleagues, I have visited with community leaders and outside interest groups and the message is clear . . . get the bill done.

My committee colleagues and I are asking the Senate to consider essentially the same language that 76 Senators voted for in 108th Congress. The Environment and Public Works Committee used as its mark the Senate-passed S. 1072 with the exception that we adjusted the numbers to reflect the President's proposed spending level of $284 billion over 6 years. During our markup we accepted several non-controversial amendments from committee members. None of these amendments substantially changed the policy goals of the bill as passed last year.

Therefore, I strongly urge my colleagues to support the pending cloture motion and allow us to move to H.R. 3. We really need to keep this moving. The longer we delay enactment of a long-term bill, we are negatively affecting economic growth. According to DOT estimates, every $1 billion of Federal funds invested in highway improvements creates 47,000 jobs. The same $1 billion investment yields $500 million in new orders for the manufacturing sector and $500 million spread throughout other sectors of the economy.

State contract awards for the 2005 spring and summer construction season are going out to bid. If we fail to send a bill to the President by May 31st, States will not know what to expect in Federal funding and the uncertainty will potentially force States to delay putting these projects out for bid. According to the American Association of State Highway Transportation Officials—AASHTO, an estimated 90,000 jobs are at stake. This problem is exacerbated for northern States, such as Alaska, that have shorter construction seasons. Many State transportation departments have advanced State dollars to construct projects eligible for Federal-funding in anticipation of our action to reauthorize the program. Without a new bill, States are essentially left “holding the bag.”

Over the past 6 years under TEA-21, we have made great progress in preserving and improving the overall physical condition and operation of our transportation system. However, more needs to be done. A safe, effective transportation system is the foundation of our economy. We are past due to fulfill an obligation to this country and the American people.

I am pleased that the President's budget assumed more funding for reauthorization over his previous level of $256 billion. I and along with many of you believe we need more. Certainly that is an issue that will be thoroughly debated on the floor of the Senate, but we can't even have that debate unless we get to the floor.

Again, if we are able to proceed, the language that the Senate will be considering is essentially the same bill that was passed on the Senate floor last year—a bipartisan product of many months of hard work and compromise. This bill remains a very good piece of legislation which I hope will require few, if any, changes here on the floor. However, I am anxious to discuss with Senators their amendments so that we can debate them and hopefully get this bill in conference with the House prior to the recess, but we need to get to the bill first.

S. 1072 passed the Senate last year guaranteed all donor States a rate of return of 95 percent. I can remember that was 75 percent when I first came here. At a lower funding level we were able only to achieve a 92 percent rate of return but kept the 10 percent floor over TEA-21. The scope, or split of percent funding above and below the line, remain the same at 92.5 percent.

In order to get this bill off the floor, we have to balance the needs of donor and donee States. I will be the first to acknowledge that this balance—as with any compromise—is not perfect. My colleagues representing donee and donor States that receive lower rates of return or growth rates than they feel fair have made this fact very clear to me over the past year.

I am very sympathetic to the concerns of both donors and donees in this situation. Both have significant transportation needs that cannot be ignored. Addressing their concerns has become more difficult in the last year due to the fact that we have less money. Providing either group with more money would add significantly to the cost of the bill or take away from other programs. But holding up even consideration of this bill will not solve the problem. We need to proceed to H.R. 3 so that donor and donee States will have the opportunity to offer their amendments on how to improve their State's treatment.

I am certain my colleagues share my strong desire to get a transportation reauthorization bill passed. We must act to get a bill to and through conference prior to the May 31 expiration of the current extension. This will be a very difficult challenge, but if we act quickly we can do it.

Now let's look at the alternative. What will happen if we do not pass a highway bill? There will not be another extension. If we don't pass the bill there will be no chance of improvement on donor State rate of return and no new safety core program to help States respond to thousands of deaths each year on our roadways.

Our bill up has many safety provisions, as the ranking Democrat, Senator JEFFORDS knows. We didn't agree on all these, but we finally agreed on a final product. Without a bill, there will be no real streamlining of environmental reviews, so critical products would be still subject to avoidable delays. There will be no increased ability to use innovative financing, thereby giving States more tools to advance projects.

Out in California, they have done some things that are working very well. We have studied these and put some very innovative provisions in this bill to allow us to get more for the dollar than we can get today. But without a bill, we cannot do that.

Without a bill, we would not have any Safe Routes to School. This is a program many of the Democrats and Republicans in the House and Senate have embraced. But without a bill, we will not have that.

Without a bill, the States will continue to have uncertainty in planning, thereby delaying projects and negatively impacting jobs.

It is easy to sit up here in Washington and be indecisive about these things, but the States have to make plans in advance. For each delay, that is less they are going to get.

Without a bill, we have no new border program, which is critical to border States dealing with NAFTA.

Without a bill, we have delay in the establishment of the national commission to explore how to fund transportation in the future. It is something we have been doing essentially the same way year in and year out, but we are studying new methods now as motor vehicles are more fuel efficient and a tax collection system based solely on fuel consumption becomes less practical.

Without a bill, we won't have any increased opportunity to address choke points at intermodal connectors.

The firewall protection of the highway trust fund would not be continued, thereby making the trust fund vulnerable to raids in order to pay for other programs.

It is very important that we move forward. We studied this for a year and a half before coming to the Senate a year ago right now. Certainly the ranking Democrat on the committee, Senator JEFFORDS, can remember the months and months we worked on it. We came to the Senate with a good bill, passed it, went to conference, and were unable to get a vote on the conference report. Because of that, all these 10 things I mentioned did not happen this year. For all these things to happen, to move forward, we have to have a bill. We cannot have a bill until we vote on the motion to proceed so that we will be able to move to the bill. That is what this is all about.

I recognize the ranking Democrat on the Environment and Public Works Committee, Senator JEFFORDS.

Mr. JEFFORDS. Mr. President, I thank Senator FRIST for the opportunity to debate this important legislation.

I also thank Senator REID for his leadership in getting us to where we are today on this bill.

In addition, I thank Chairman INHOFE, Senators BOND, and BAUCUS, as well as other chairmen and ranking members for all of their hard work and cooperation on this legislation.

A little over a year ago, I stood before my colleagues, in the same place I am standing now, asking for their support of our Nation's surface transportation system.

I am hopeful now, as I was then, that we will be able to work in a bipartisan fashion to pass this legislation quickly so our states can proceed with their critical work.

Today we are in a similar situation as we were a year ago.

Our bill maintains the important principles that were developed over the years of work in our committees.

We continue to grow and support the core programs that are the building block of a strong transportation system.

We maintain flexibility for States, because they know best how to meet their needs.

We also try to increase the funds going out to the States.

This bill will enhance safety on our Nation's highways through education, better infrastructure, and enforcement.

The increased intermodal flexibility set forth in the bill will allow States, if they wish to improve freight handling and movement.

The growth in congestion mitigation and air quality funding will help States improve air quality, reduce pollution and address congestion.

The bill makes it easier for States to mitigate project effects on habitat and wetlands, and retains and expands popular programs such as enhancements recreational trails and scenic byways.

This bill also reduces congestion on our Nation's roadways by enhancing public transportation and promoting intermodal solutions to regional transportation problems.

These are all critical components to a successful bill and I am glad that, through much hard work, we were able to develop strong national policy.

It may not be exactly what any one Member would have crafted on his or her own, but this is a strong and unified step in the right direction.

There are, however, some key differences.

A year ago, we presented you with a well-funded bill that struck a delicate balance between the core programs and flexibility on program and modal spending at the State and local level.

This time our job was made more difficult by fiscal constraints insisted upon by the administration.

The White House has suggested an overall funding level for surface transportation of $284 billion over 6 years.

This despite the President's own Transportation Department saying we need at least $300 billion to simply maintain the status quo, and something well above that level to make progress on conditions and performance.

Last year the Senate passed a highway bill at $318 billion with 76 votes.

It is unfortunate that the President fails to see the value of a robust transportation program.

It is unfortunate the President fails to see the jobs that will be lost, and the roads and bridges that will go unrepaired and unbuilt.

It is unfortunate the President doesn't see the lives that could be saved with better roads and the time that will be wasted sitting in traffic.

All of this is the result of inadequate funding.

While my colleagues and I have continued to impress upon him the value of increased funding, we continue to work within the box that the administration has put us in.

We tried to meet everyone's needs while not neglecting our responsibilities to the highway trust fund.

This is a very difficult task given the restrictions this administration has imposed on us.

But we did what was asked of us.

All of the committees have acted and passed a bill at $284 billion.

Make no mistake—we have made sacrifices that none of us wanted.

I am hopeful we will increase the funding in this bill as we move it through the Senate in the coming days.

That said, I stand here before you with the structure of a bill that has the potential to move our transportation system forward—not the giant leap we had hoped to make but meager steps that I hope will be the first of many in helping us get where we need to go.

Mr. President, I need not remind you that the authorization for this program expired 19 months ago.

In that time, there have been nearly 70,000 traffic fatalities with an economic cost of over $370 billion.

Americans continue to sit in traffic for close to 50 hours a year, 10 minutes more per hour traveled than when the last reauthorization bill was passed.

Mr. President, 18 percent of our roads are in poor or mediocre condition; 29 percent of bridges are deficient or functionally obsolete; over a quarter of our transit facilities are in below average condition; more than 3 million jobs are waiting to be created.

While we neglect to act, transportation in this country continues to degrade.

Things are getting worse, not better.

We have lost one construction season and are on our way to missing another.

In northern States such as Vermont, this is not a little problem. It is a big one.

We must act on this legislation now.

We must pass a nationwide surface transportation reauthorization bill this year.

I look forward to working with my colleagues to debate H.R. 3 on the Senate floor.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Oklahoma.

Mr. INHOFE. Mr. President, I say to my good friend, Senator JEFFORDS, we are not political equals in philosophy; yet I, as a conservative, agree with everything the Senator has said in terms of the need for roads and the need for infrastructure.

Senator JEFFORDS talked about some of the deficiencies we have, but I have to say in my State of Oklahoma the FAWA goes out and they rate roads and bridges. Oklahoma is dead last in bridges. This is a life-and-death situation. We lose lives every year.

A lot of my friends say: Well, you did not want to have a robust, expensive highway bill. I say to them: That is what we are supposed to be doing here.

I am a conservative. There is no one more conservative, according to the ACLU, than I am in this Senate. Yet I can say we need to spend money on infrastructure in the United States.

I will say a little bit about the formula of which I have been very proud. Both my good friend from Vermont and I used to serve in the other body before we came to the Senate. At that time, I was on the Transportation Committee in the House. I watched the way we did things there and how we do things here. I don't want to be critical of the way the other body operates, but we do it in a more fair and equitable way.

It would be easy—if we needed 60 Senators, we could give them projects until everyone signed on, and then forget about the other 40, have a vote, and go home. That could happen, but we did not do that. We have a complicated formula.

This creates different anxieties in different States where there is opposition because in one particular area they do not do as well as another State. Let me give an example of how complicated the formula is.

In a formula, you take into consideration an abundance of items, such as interstate lane miles. This is something in the formulas we take into consideration. Obviously, there is a reason. Or vehicle miles traveled, which is referred to as VMT. Over the next few days we will hear that quite often. The vehicle miles traveled on interstate has to be something to consider in terms of authorizing a 6-year program.

The contributions to the highway trust fund are very significant. We hear from some of the large States that they give more to the highway trust fund. I suggest it is not just people in that State who are making those contributions; people driving through the State also have to buy fuel in those States.

The lane miles on principal arteries, excluding the intersection, is weighted in the formula to a percentage. The VMT on principal arteries is considered. Diesel fuel used on highways is a consideration. Total lane miles on principal arteries divided by population is considered when we look at a formula that would affect all 50 States. So total lane miles on Federal aid highways, total vehicle miles traveled on Federal aid highways, the contributions to the highway trust fund, or the highway account, attributable to highway users, the cost to repair or replace deficient highways and bridges have to be considered. In the State of Alaska, for example, the Presiding Officer's State, it is more expensive. They have severe winters in Alaska. We do not have severe winters in some of the Southern States. This has to be part of the consideration.

The weighted nonattainment and maintenance area, population, the equal shares to each eligible State on highways, recreational trails program, the border planning, borders and corridors—this is significant to States such as California and Arizona, Texas, Florida, and, of course, the northern tier of States. The border States' share of cargo weight, what their share is of cargo value, the number of commercial vehicles entering the border State, the number of passenger vehicles entering the border State—all these are part of the formula.

We have low-income States. My State of Oklahoma is a low-income State. The State of Arizona is a high-income State. That is a consideration. One of the chief workers on the bill has been Senator BAUCUS from Montana. He is the ranking member on the committee; KIT BOND chairs that subcommittee on transportation within our committee. He has a low-population State. Obviously, if you have a low-population State, that has to be a consideration. There still have to be roads so they can travel and other people can travel through their States. But if they base it all on getting 100 percent back, and they do not have extra consideration—that has to be part of the formula.

Low-population-density States is a factor. The high fatality rates are a factor. The fatality rate in my State of Oklahoma is higher than average. The guaranteed minimum growth of each State—there is a limit applied to that—and the guaranteed minimum rate of return for donor States is a consideration. I remember when that guaranteed minimum rate of return for donor States was 75 percent, and it only crept up to 80, 85 and 90; now we operate on 90.5 percent. If we passed the bill offered last year, the way it passed in Senate, we would be at 95 percent. Every State would be guaranteed 95 percent return of donations of that State.

If we did not do it this way, we could do it the politically easy way—handing out projects until it is done. But that is where pork comes in. That is where most of the criticism comes from. I have heard a lot of the commentators talk about the highway bill the Senate has is full of projects and pork. My response is they have not read it yet. There are only two projects in the entire bill. Only two. On the other side, there are several hundred. It is a totally different approach.

So we have these things that are of major consideration. We have to get this bill done. The best way to get it done, of course, is to vote favorably tomorrow on the motion to invoke cloture on the motion to proceed, and then to move on to the bill.

Now, we have several people who may wish to speak. I mentioned Senator BOND, who is the chairman of the Transportation Subcommittee. Senator BAUCUS, who has been very helpful in working with us, is the ranking member of the subcommittee. There is Senator JEFFORDS and myself. Of course, we have 18 members of our committee. We would like to invite them to come down right now. I will defer to anyone who wants to come down and talk about this legislation. In the event that nobody shows up, I have more to say. I think, probably, the Senator from Vermont might have more to say, too.

So at the present time I will go ahead and suggest the absence of a quorum and encourage members of our committee and others who want to be heard on the highway bill to come down and speak.

Mr. President, I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. BURR). The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. INHOFE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. INHOFE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that I be recognized to speak for up to 30 minutes as in morning business. However, I want to say if anyone comes down to speak on the motion to proceed to the highway bill, I will stop at that point so they can be recognized. I will yield to them. However, I want my entire speech to be printed in the RECORD as if given intact.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Without objection, it is so ordered.

THIRD PILLAR OF CLIMATE ALARMISM

Mr. INHOFE. Mr. President, today I will continue my series of the four pillars of climate alarmism. This is the third pillar speech. In my first speech, I outlined how the media and some of the environmental extremists distorted, exaggerated, and mischaracterized a major climate change report from the National Academy of Sciences.

I showed how the left and the media exaggerated a document that contained numerous caveats about the uncertainties of current knowledge and the caution that its conclusions were tentative, proclaiming the report showed conclusively that global warming due to man is occurring.

In my second speech, I described some of the more serious and, indeed, fatal flaws in the 2001 Third Assessment Report from the U.N.'s Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change, known also as the IPCC, which I will refer to from time to time. In that speech, I exposed how Michael Mann's now infamous "hockey stick," the flagship of the IPCC's claims that global warming is real, has been thoroughly discredited in scientific circles, and that the IPCC's projections of future carbon emissions, which drive temperature model conclusions, have been proven to be based on political decisions that, by the end of the century, countries such as Libya will be as wealthy or wealthier than the United States.

Now, I would like to examine the Arctic Climate Impact Assessment Report, which received considerable attention on its release late last year. Last November, the Arctic Council, described as a "high-level information forum" that includes the United States, Canada, Denmark, Finland, Iceland, Norway, the Russian Federation, and Sweden, released its 140-page arctic synthesis report, entitled, "Impacts of a Warming Arctic." It details the major findings from the Arctic Council's 1,200-page scientific report, which will be released in the coming weeks.

The essence of the synthesis report is this: The Arctic is experiencing unprecedented climate change, caused, in large part, if not entirely, by manmade greenhouse gas emissions, while projections show dramatic Arctic warming accompanied by even more pronounced changes that will have serious repercussions for the entire planet.

At first blush, the report appears to be quite impressive. It contains glossy photos, charts, and graphs, and was produced by some 300 scientists from several nations. But it lacks virtually any scientific documentation, which casts doubt on the report's page after page of unqualified, matter-of-fact claims about Arctic warming. That documentation, we are told, is forthcoming in the more lengthy scientific report. So it is unclear if the 140-page document accurately reflects the contents of the scientific report.

If it does, then the scientific report simply ignores or dismisses reams of peer-reviewed scientific work contradicting the Arctic Council's conclusions. If it does not, then the synthesis report would appear to be an exercise in global warming propaganda.

The release of the report created a media sensation with nearly every major news outlet declaring, once again, that the scientific consensus on global warming had been reaffirmed.

Here is the Chicago Tribune's report from November 24, 2004:

The council's 140-page report, four years in the making, warns of immense ice melts, a dramatic rise in ocean levels, the depletion of the Gulf Stream and other sea currents, wild fluctuations in weather patterns, increased ultraviolet radiation and wrenching dislocations in the food chain and habitat.

In equally dramatic fashion, the Associated Press described the report this way. It said:

This most comprehensive study of Arctic warming to date adds yet more impetus to the projections by many of the world's climate scientists that there will be a steady rise in global temperature as the result of greenhouse gases released into the atmosphere from the burning of fossil fuels and other sources.

Such descriptions of the report are really not far off the mark, and for good reason. In this case, the media and extremist groups got exactly what they wished for—140 pages detailing a daunting list of projected environmental catastrophes: permafrost melting, infrastructure collapsing, glaciers vanishing, sea levels rising, coastal communities flooding, polar bears facing extinction.

Worse, the authors left the impression that these scenarios were all but assured, despite the fact that the assumptions on which they are based are highly uncertain—a point I will examine later in this speech. Thus, no spin, distortion, or exaggeration on the media's part was necessary.

The synthesis report constructs a deceptive picture of climate changes that have occurred in the Arctic over the last 30 years, particularly with respect to temperature change. A major piece of evidence supporting the Arctic Council's alarmist conclusions is the Arctic's "unprecedented" temperature increase over the last several decades. The report's authors make the following statement on page 23. I am quoting now. It says:

Examining the record of past climatic conditions indicates that the amount, speed, and pattern of warming experienced in recent decades are indeed unusual and are characteristic of the human-caused increase in greenhouse gases.

Specifically, according to the Council, annual average temperature in the Arctic has increased at almost twice the rate of the rest of the world, while winter temperatures in Alaska and western Canada have increased about 3 to 4 degrees Celsius over the past half century, with larger increases projected in the next 100 years.

Surely, this is proof of unprecedented, human-induced warming, and of worrisome warming trends for the future? Not quite. Let's take a closer look at the peer-reviewed literature on the temperature history of the Arctic, which the Arctic Council's synthesis report totally ignored.

First, in the November 2002 issue of the Journal of Holocene, researchers examined proxy temperature data in northern Russia spanning over 2,000 years. They found that "the warmest periods over the last two millennia in this region were clearly in the third, tenth to twelfth, and during the twentieth centuries." The earlier periods, they claim, were warmer than those of the 20th century, while 20th century temperatures appeared to peak at around 1940.

For a much broader perspective on Arctic temperatures, one can read the 2003 paper by researcher Igor Polyakov in the journal EOS, a publication of the American Geophysical Union. In the paper titled "Trends and Variations in Arctic Climate Systems," Polyakov studied land and ocean data from northward of latitude 62.5 degrees north, dating back to 1870.

As is obvious from this chart, one can see that current temperature over the entire region is similar to that measured 70 years ago. According to Polyakov:

Two distinct warming periods from 1920 to 1945, and from 1975 to the present, are clearly evident.

He goes on to note that "compared with the global and hemispheric temperature rise, the high-latitude temperature increase was stronger in the late 1930s to the early 1940s than in recent decades."

Strangely there is no mention of this in the Arctic report, but alarmists don't seem to care. They would probably respond that: 300 scientists from all over the world believe such warming is occurring. You, sir, have merely identified two whose research presents a contrary view.

To answer that charge I will submit for the RECORD an impressive list of scientists from several countries, including the United States, whose peer-reviewed work shows current Arctic temperatures are no higher than temperatures recorded in the 1930s and the 1940s.

Let me quote from a few salient examples. In a 2003 issue of the Journal of Climate, seven researchers concluded the following:

In contrast to the global and hemispheric temperature, the maritime Arctic temperature was higher in the late 1930s through the early 1940s than in the 1990s.

Here is another excerpt from the 2000 International Journal of Climatology, Dr. Rajmund Przybylak of Nicholas Copernicus University in Torun, Poland. It reads:

The highest temperatures since the beginning of instrumental observation occurred clearly in the 1930s and can be attributed to changes in atmospheric circulation.

Finally, in 2001, researchers examined a 10,000-year span of sea core sediment in the Chukchi Sea and concluded that "in the recent past, the western Arctic Ocean was much warmer than it is today." They also found that "during the middle Holocene [approximately 6,000 years ago] the August sea surface temperature fluctuated by 5 degrees Celsius and was 3-7 degrees Celsius warmer than it is today." Obviously, the middle Holocene period was not known for SUVs and coal-fired powerplants.

To get a fuller sense of the report's bias, consider the Arctic Council's geographical definition of "the Arctic." This is important because the temperature record differs depending on one's definition. The Arctic report's temperature record includes data from northward of latitude 60 degrees North. Why the Arctic Council chose this point is not explained. In fact, the report's authors responsible for defining the Arctic admitted last November that their choice was arbitrary.

The Arctic Council's starting point is problematic for two reasons. First, Dr. George Taylor, Oregon's State climatologist and a past president of the American Association of State Climatologists, recently examined Arctic temperature trends using different starting points. As Dr. Taylor found, "[u]sing 60 degrees North introduced a lot of . . . questionable Siberian stations." In other words, measurements at that point are based in part on bad data.

Second, other researchers see the Arctic differently, and probably more accurately when describing long-term temperature trends. Polyakov, for example, defined Arctic as northward of 62.5 degrees North. This 2.5-degree difference is not trivial. Temperatures can change significantly between 62.5 degrees North and 60 degrees North. In fact, pushing the geographical boundaries southward, as the Arctic Council did, contributes to a substantial upward bias in temperature measurements.

Not only was the Arctic region arbitrarily defined, it appears that marine and coastal-based data were arbitrarily excluded from the report's temperature record. This is strange, considering two-thirds of the Arctic is covered by the Arctic Ocean. So it seems unreasonable to use only land-based stations, as the Arctic Council did, and not to include coastal stations, Russian drifting stations in the Arctic Ocean, and drifting buoys from the International Buoy Programme, as Polyakov and his colleagues did.

Using such data reveals a less dramatic temperature picture than the Arctic Council's. In 1993, University of Wisconsin climatologist Jonathan Kahl examined declassified data collected over the Arctic Ocean during the Cold War. In a paper in the journal Nature, Kahl found an "absence of evidence for greenhouse warming over the Arctic Ocean in the past 40 years" and a net decline in Arctic temperature. Admittedly, Kahl's temperature history stretches only from 1958 to 1986. But more importantly, it relies on marine and coastal-based data.

Dr. Taylor was among many mystified by these omissions. For him, there is only one possible explanation: "The [Arctic Climate Impact Assessment] appears to be guilty of selective use of data." He further explained, "Many of the trends described in the document begin in the 1960s or 1970s—cool decades in much of the world—and end in the warmer 1990s and early 2000s. So, for example, temperatures have warmed in the last 40 years, and the implication, 'if present trends continue,' is that massive warming will occur in the next century. Yet data are readily available for the 1930s and early 1940s, when temperatures were comparable to (and probably higher than) those observed today. Why not start the trend there? Because there is no net warming over the last 65 years?"

This is kind of interesting because I can remember also giving a speech where I showed the cover of "Newsweek" magazine and the cover of "U.S. News and World Report." This was back in the 1970s. And the headlines were: Cooling period is coming; a new ice age is coming. We are all going to die. It is the same thing people are saying about a warming climate. If your starting point is at the end of that cold period, it gives a distortion, if there has been no net warming over the last 65 years.

In the pop culture version of global warming, there is no greater attraction than melting glaciers and sea ice. Press accounts appear daily of new studies purporting to show a widespread glacial retreat stemming from man-made greenhouse gas emissions. Warnings abound that this melting will cause a calamitous rise in sea levels. True to form, the Arctic Council follows the same story line, asserting that, "glaciers throughout the Arctic are melting." "This process is already under way," the report states, "with the widespread retreat of glaciers, snow cover, and sea ice. This is one reason why climate change is more rapid in the Arctic than elsewhere." but is this really the case?

Interestingly, the IPCC Third Assessment Report references peer-reviewed studies that contradict the Arctic Council's assessments. The IPCC, an organization convinced of the validity of the global warming consensus, noted that, "Glaciers and ice caps in the Arctic also have shown retreat in low-lying areas since about 1920," but also stated, "However, no increasing melting trend has been observed during the past 40 years."

Sonar data on sea ice collected in the 1990s also tell a different story. As the BBC wrote in 2001, "The latest and most comprehensive analysis yet of the sonar data collected in the 1990s shows little if any thinning—at least towards the end of that decade. Indeed, at the North Pole, there are indications in the data that the ice even got a little thicker."

What they are saying is, there are some areas that you can visibly go to and say yes, glaciers are melting, but in other areas it is getting thicker.

Among other omissions, the Arctic Council gave little weight to the observed variability of Arctic sea ice thickness. The term "observed variability" of sea ice thickness has specific meaning in the Arctic: Scientists estimate that sea ice mass there can vary by as much as 16 percent in a single year. As Dr. Seymour Laxon, a lecturer in the Department of Space and Climate Physics at the University College London, explained, "The observed variability of Arctic sea ice thickness contrasts with the concept of a slowly dwindling ice pack, produced by global warming."

So what causes these variations in sea ice mass? In 2002, Dr. Greg Holloway, of the Institute for Ocean Sciences in Sidney, Canada, and his colleagues Dr. Tessa Sou, showed that decadal wind pattern changes caused a shifting of Arctic sea ice, creating thinner ice in some regions and thicker ice in others. As Dr. Holloway explained, "It's a circumstance where the ice tends to leave the central Arctic and then mostly pile up against the Canadian side, before moving back into the central Arctic again." Based on this research, Dr. Holloway believes that "we have been a little bit overly stampeded into the idea that here is a terribly alarming melting taking place."

Holloway is not alone in his assessment. In 2003, German researchers Cornelia Koeberle and Ruediger Gerdes found evidence of natural "wind stress" strongly affecting variability in Arctic sea ice. "The results make connecting 'global warming' to Arctic ice thinning very difficult for two reasons," the researchers wrote. "First, the large decadal and longer-term variability masks any trend . . . Second, the wind stress strongly affects the long-term development of ice volume. A long-term change in wind stress over the Arctic, possibly by an increase in the number of atmospheric circulation states that favor ice export, would affect the ice volume in a similar manner as a temperature increase."

In addition to questionable claims about Arctic sea ice, the Arctic report includes dubious projections about the Greenland Ice Sheet. Climate models, the Arctic Council reports, "project that local warming in Greenland will exceed 3 degrees Celsius during this century." The result? "Ice sheet models project that a warming of that magnitude would initiate the long-term melting of Greenland Ice Sheet." And furthermore, "Even if climactic conditions then stabilized, an increase of this magnitude is projected to lead eventually (over centuries) to a virtually complete melting of the Greenland Ice Sheet, resulting in a global sea level rise of about seven meters."

This sounds ominous, but again, peer-reviewed literature on the subject, excluded from the Arctic report, tells a countervailing story. For example, a team of experts at Los Alamos National Laboratory recently examined Greenland's instrumental surface temperatures. Here's what they found: "Since 1940, however, the Greenland coastal stations data have undergone predominately a cooling trend. At the summit of the Greenland ice sheet, the summer average temperature has decreased at the rate of 2.2 [degrees Celsius] per decade since the beginning of the measures in 1987." We are talking about a reduction in temperature, of an increase.

Finally, the report's projections for the Greenland ice sheet, glaciers, and sea ice were based on data obtained from global climate models. Those projections assume anthropogenic warming, and proceed to show a gradual but persistent melting of glaciers and ice, leading to a dangerous rise in sea levels. However, as climate scientists have repeatedly pointed out, climate models are highly imperfect. In fact, they are notoriously inaccurate in how they simulate the complexities of the climate system.

This is especially true of Arctic climate. According to a letter signed by 11 climate scientists, sent to the Senate Commerce Committee last fall, "Arctic climate varies dramatically from one region to another, and over time in ways that cannot be accurately reproduced by climate models. The quantitative impacts of natural and anthropogenic factors remain highly uncertain, especially for a region as complex as the Arctic."

Researchers associated with the University of Alaska-Fairbanks wholeheartedly endorsed this view. They recently wrote, "Unfortunately, most global climate models are not capable of sufficiently reproducing the climatological state of the Arctic Ocean, sea ice and atmosphere . . . as [an] example, the simulated sea ice thickness is overestimated, and its overall pattern is in error, with the thickest ice located in the Siberian instead of the Canadian sector of the Arctic Ocean."

Based on these well-documented technological constraints, how can one take seriously the Arctic Council's claim that "While the models differ in their projections of some of the features of climate change, they are all in agreement that the world will warm significantly as a result of human activities and that the Arctic is likely to experience noticeable warming particularly early and intensely"?

The alarmist nature of the Arctic report is to be expected. How else can they justify its enormous costs of regulating carbon dioxide? We know the costs of this would be enormous. Wharton Econometrics Forecasting Associates—this is from the Wharton School of Economics, not from Senator JIM INHOFE—estimates that implementing Kyoto would cost the average American family of four $2,715 a year. Acknowledging the holes in the science underlying claims of catastrophic global warming would undermine their agenda. What is the agenda? Two international leaders have said it best.

Margot Walstrom, the EU's environmental commissioner, said that Kyoto is "about leveling the playing field for big business worldwide." French President Jacques Chirac said during a speech at The Hague in November 2000 that Kyoto represents "the first component of an authentic global governance." That is what they want to do, level the playing field for big business worldwide, bring the United States down to Third World status eventually, and have an authentic global governance.

Based on these and other major deficiencies, the Arctic Climate Impact Assessment hardly serves as compelling proof that greenhouse gas emissions are causing unprecedented changes in Arctic climate, or that trends point to a future marred by widespread damage to Arctic ecosystems. To be sure, the report fails to provide a thorough, balanced, comprehensive overview of the most compelling research on Arctic climate.

Instead, the so-called "synthesis report" is a biased, selective examination of climate trends in the Arctic. It completely ignores well-known, established facts. For instance, it is firmly established that Arctic temperatures in the late 1930s and early 1940s were higher than in the 1990s and that Greenland's temperatures in recent decades have undergone a cooling trend, not a warming trend. It is also well known that sea ice mass can vary by as much as 16 percent in a single year. Moreover, this report fails the test of transparency and openness and lacks virtually any documentation. It reads more like an ideological tome. Extremist groups are using it as a legal brief to sue energy producers on behalf of Arctic peoples. Hardly surprising.

Dr. George Taylor, Oregon's State climatologist, succinctly described the report when he said: "Nice graphics, but bad science."

This is what we have been hearing. The extremists have to make us believe that something catastrophic will happen. The same people who are talking about global warming today were the ones who, in the 1970s, were talking about global cooling, saying another ice age is coming. It is interesting.

I recommend reading a book by Michael Creighton called, "The State of Fear." Michael Creighton is one of the best-known authors in America. He writes fiction; these are novels, but he is a scientist and also a medical doctor.

He was going to write a novel on global warming and the terrible things that could happen. Instead of that, after he did research, he wrote another novel. While it is fiction, its footnotes are all scientific. I recommend that book. As any thoughtful person who has a scientific background will tell you, the idea of global warming very well may be the greatest single hoax ever perpetrated on the American people.

With that, I made the comment before speaking that I am anxious for Members to come down and talk about our bill. We are now under debate on the motion to proceed to the consideration of the highway bill, H.R. 3. We will have a vote on that motion to proceed tomorrow morning. The vote is set for sometime around 11 o'clock tomorrow morning. I have been told there are some Members who wish to speak in morning business. I would like to inquire, if there are any real long speeches, if at some point someone comes down to speak on the highway bill, or on the motion to proceed to that bill—I would not want a commitment, but I would request they defer to them when they should arrive on the floor.

With that, I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from North Dakota is recognized.

Mr. DORGAN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to speak as in morning business.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

CHALLENGES IN THE SENATE

Mr. DORGAN. Mr. President, first of all, I am really pleased we finally have the highway bill on the floor. I appreciate the leadership of the chairman and the ranking member. This is an authorization that is, I think, 2½ years old or so. Many of us have been frustrated. I know the chairman and Senator JEFFORDS have been frustrated that we have not been able to finish this work. I hope we can finish this bill and move it through the Senate.

I wanted to comment about another couple of issues. I am worried about the way things develop here in the Senate. We treat serious things too lightly; we treat light things too seriously. We have, it seems to me, the framework for a huge brawl in the Senate over procedure, and there are so many challenges facing our country that this President and this Congress are not looking in the eye with the thought of responding directly to them. I will mention a few of them today.

Politics, regrettably, in recent times has become a sport in which one side trashes the other side, and it is either our way, or no way, or the highway. Now, we have a circumstance where we are facing serious challenges: we face fiscal policies that are off the rail, the largest budget deficits in history; we face the largest trade deficit in history, with massive numbers of American jobs being shipped overseas; we face energy problems that are causing severe pain and dislocation, and everybody knows what the price of gasoline is these days; we struggle with health care costs that are skyrocketing; and all of these issues are hard for families to deal with. And yet, despite these issues, we are confronted by the prospect of a majority that doesn't like the current rules with respect to judgeships, so they will try to break the rules of the Senate, for the first time in history, in order to change the rules because we have approved only 205 out of 215 judges sent to us by the President—again, we have approved 97 percent of all of the judges sent to us by the President for lifetime appointments on the bench. But because there are 10 that have not been approved, the President and the majority party believe they want to break the rules of the Senate in order to change the rules of the Senate.

There are so many other important things we ought to deal with. It is just Byzantine that this issue is what we are fighting about. There is a constitutional role for the Congress—particularly the Senate—with respect to judgeships. The President proposes, and we advise and consent. There is nothing in the Constitution that says we cannot use the rules of the Senate for those few judges we believe are inappropriate, those few we think represent the extreme and should not be on the bench for a lifetime.

Yet, because, again, 3 percent of the judges have not been approved, while 97 percent have, we have the prospect of what is commonly called the “nuclear” option of trying to change the Senate rules by breaking the Senate rules.

I will tell you what I think we should be working on. First, health care costs. The fact is, when most families sit around their supper table and talk about their lives, they are talking about things that relate to their everyday existence: Do I have a good job? Does it pay well? Do I have job security? Do grandpa and grandma have access to good health care? Are we sending our kids to good schools? Do we live in a safe neighborhood?

These issues affect the daily lives of the American people. Health care is not an option. When you are sick, you need health care. We have 45 million people without health insurance. We have the cost of health care skyrocketing. It is rising at a much more rapid pace than inflation. The cost of prescription drugs is going out of sight. Yet, is this Congress tackling health care issues? No, we are not. Will we allow legislation on the floor of the Senate that would provide for the safe reimportation of prescription drugs to put downward pressure on prescription drugs? No. Will we allow the Federal Government to negotiate lower prices with the pharmaceutical companies like the VA? Will we allow that negotiation for the Medicare Program? No. In fact, this Congress explicitly says you may not do that. It is unbelievable. We have these huge health care challenges, but we will not look that issue in the eye.

Our budget deficits are the largest in the history of our country. We just passed an $80 billion emergency bill last week. We knew for 2 years that is what it would cost—$5 billion, $6 billion a month in Iraq and Afghanistan—and there was zero in the President's budget request for it. So they proposed spending it on an emergency basis. Nobody talks about raising money for it; just spend it. In fact, I have raised questions about how it is being spent—and I offered an amendment saying we are being stolen blind with respect to contractors in Iraq—to wit, Halliburton. Halliburton is charging us for 42,000 meals a day served to U.S. soldiers, when it turns out they are serving only 14,000 meals a day. In my hometown, they have a word for that sort of thing.

I asked for an investigation into this kind of waste, fraud, and abuse in contracting. It is massive. But you cannot get a committee to investigate that. The Congress doesn't want to have a select committee to investigate that. So it is just throwing the money out the door in hopes that some of it will stick. In fact, there is massive waste, fraud, and abuse and everybody knows it. But nobody wants to confront it.

Education. We have a serious problem with education in this country. There are 400,000 qualified high-school kids that will not go to college this year because of financial burdens, and another 220,000 kids won't go to college because they simply cannot afford it. You have well over a half-million qualified kids who will not be going to college who should be in college. We know college tuition has risen 28 percent, after inflation, in the last 4 years. We have not considered the reauthorization of the Higher Education Act. We extended it, but that should have been reauthorized several years ago. It is set to expire. The President's budget would eliminate the Perkins student loan program, Upward Bound, and a series of other programs that I think are very important. Pell grants have largely been stagnant in terms of their level, while tuition has gone way out of sight.

We don't look energy right in the eye, although I must say there is hope here. I met with Senators DOMENICI and BINGAMAN. I am a senior member on the Energy Committee, and I hope we can bring a bill to the floor of the Senate. That is a bipartisan bill.

Go to the gas pump these days, and then read in the paper after you paid for that gas, that Exxon reported the highest profit ever reported for one quarter by any corporation. Think of that. We have a revenue-sharing system by which the American taxpayer, the American consumer shares their money with the Saudis, the Kuwaitis, the Iraqis, the Venezuelans, and others who have the oil, and then the oil companies that are the conduit for that oil are making record profits as well.

If anything demands an investigation, it is that, in my judgment. We need an energy policy that does not hold this country hostage to oil, 60 percent of which comes from off our shores.

These are a few of the issues we ought to stare straight in the eye, and those of us who are not part of the political extreme—and there are too many these days who are perverting the political process in this country, I think a shameful perversion of the political process in many ways—but I hope those of us who are part of the strong political center in America will finally convince this administration and this Congress to take a hard look at the real challenges our country faces and then begin the long, challenging work to try to address them.

This is a great place. We are lucky to be here, lucky to be alive now. There is no place like it on Earth. It is our job as caretakers of this wonderful democracy to fix problems as we see them, to address problems, not to go off on these political searches to figure out who is the worst. The question is not who is the worst in the political system of ours, the question is whose ideas are the best that can move this country forward and give our country and our children the prospect for a better and brighter future.

I have much more to say, but because of time constraints today, I will leave it at that and say I hope as these weeks unfold we will begin to address the substance of the real challenges facing our country—Federal budget deficits, trade deficits, health care, education, energy, and other issues—all of which have a significant impact on the way we live in the country and all of which will have a significant impact on America's future.

Mr. President, I yield the floor and suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. INHOFE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. INHOFE. Mr. President, I want to make a couple comments in response to my good friend from North Dakota.

First, I encourage Members to come down to the Chamber. The current order of business is the motion to proceed to the highway bill. It is very important. It is critical. There is nothing we are dealing with right now that is more important. There is so much at stake, as I already outlined. We need to have more Members come down. Certainly, if I am talking, I will defer to them if they do come to the floor.

PARTNERSHIP FOR FISH AND WILDLIFE

Mr. INHOFE. Mr. President, I wish to share with you an experience from last Friday. We had a field hearing in Oklahoma on the Partnership for Fish and Wildlife. This is a program not many people know about. It is one that has not ever been authorized, but it is one that has gone year to year with an appropriation, whereby a landowner who is trying to do something for the environment, trying to do something for conservation, trying to do something for habitat will put up $3 for every $1 the Fish and Wildlife Service puts up to join a partnership with them. They have come up with some incredible results, and it shows that those areas of Government where you work with Government and not have Government dictating mandates to individuals or to communities works so much better. This is a model for other programs. Consequently, I thought Earth Day was a good day for me, as chairman of the Environment and Public Works Committee, to introduce the bill, which I have introduced, to authorize this Partnership for Fish and Wildlife Program.

Also, there is a vacancy that has occurred with the Director of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service. We have a Southwest regional director by the name of H. Dale Hall. He came up for our hearing on Friday in Oklahoma. He is one of the incredible, dedicated Federal workers. It seems to me he would be an excellent Director for the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service. I would like to nominate this man for that purpose.

He is a wildlife biologist. Mr. Hall meets the qualifications for the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service Director as established by 16 United States Code 742B, being knowledgeable in the principles of fisheries and wildlife management by reason of education and experience. Mr. Hall received a bachelor of science degree in biology and chemistry from Cumberland College in Williamsburg, KY, and a master's degree in fisheries science from Louisiana State University.

He had military experience prior to joining the Service in 1978. Mr. Hall served 4 years in the U.S. Air Force beginning in 1968 with overseas assignments in Italy and the Philippines.

He has private sector experience. After returning to civilian life in 1972, Mr. Hall managed catfish farms in the Mississippi Delta region for Eden Fisheries and Farm, Inc.

He has experienced all kinds of awards. He joined the Service in 1978 and has worked in the Mississippi Valley, Houston field office, the Washington, DC, office, the Pacific regional office, the Southwest regional office, and now serves as regional director for the Southwest region. That is Oklahoma, Texas, Arizona, and New Mexico.

He was honored as one of the Service's 10 most outstanding merit pay employees for 1986. In February of 1996, he was presented with the Department of Interior's Meritorious Service Award by then-Secretary Bruce Babbitt.

I nominate this man for this position. I think he would make an excellent Director of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

I again reiterate that the order of business now is on a motion to proceed to the highway bill. Cloture has already been filed. We will be voting on cloture tomorrow morning. I cannot think of one thing we are doing now that is more important than getting a highway bill. We have been operating on extensions for a long period of time. When we do extensions, we do not get any of the benefits of streamlining, we do not get any of the safety benefits, we do not get any of the school-to-work programs, or any of the other programs. These are things that need to be done.

All an extension does is extend what is currently out there. Therefore, the States and communities do not know what to expect. They do not know how to anticipate how much money is going to be there or whether any of these programs to protect the environment are going to be there, or any streamlining programs.

I cannot tell you how important it is we not operate on extensions but instead that we do pass this highway bill. We should have done it last year. Last year, we had the bill that came up. The President of the United States felt it should be a smaller number. We felt if the bill is paid for—and at that time the Finance Committee, under the chairmanship of CHUCK GRASSLEY and the ranking member, MAX BAUCUS, came up with money that could be raised for that purpose so it would not add to the deficit. Consequently, we passed a bill out of the Senate that was $318 billion for a 6-year reauthorization. That would have been fine. It went to conference and got hung up in conference. One or two people stopped us from having this bill. Now all of America is suffering for it.

This is our second run at it. We are almost out of time. The current extension expires on May 31. If we do not have a bill by May 31, then we are going to have to operate on an extension. This is something that would certainly be to the detriment of all States.

Obviously, we are all prejudiced for our own States. My State is Oklahoma. Oklahoma has very severe problems with bridges. We need to correct those problems. Border States have problems with NAFTA traffic coming up, south to north, and back down. That adds a lot.

We are trying to do something with the Borders and Corridors Program. If we do not have a bill, we will not have that program. We have a lot of things that are very significant and need to be addressed.

I encourage my fellow Members to come to the floor and talk about the motion to proceed to the highway bill, talk about the highway conditions in their States, and help us to get this bill passed.

I will say this, the bill we had last year, even though it was $318 billion over a 6-year period, we enjoyed a 76-to-21 majority in this body. I know the distinguished Presiding Officer was not here at the time, but I had an opportunity to talk to all the Members who were not here to vote last time about how they would vote, and virtually all of them are supporting this highway bill.

It is essentially the same bill. We have been working on it, my friend from Vermont, the ranking Democrat of the committee I chair, we have been working on this now for 2½, almost 3 years. We can never make up what happened. We understand that. When you get into a complicated formula and consider all the things I outlined a few minutes ago, there are going to be some people who do not want to have a bill. There are procedural steps that can be taken to stop us from having a bill. All we want is to have a vote.

Speaking of a vote, I do not have a better friend than the Senator from North Dakota. We disagree on issues politically. He made some comments to which I would like to respond. First on judges.

I do not think my State of Oklahoma is that different from other States. I do not think it is different from North Carolina. I do not think it is different from North Dakota or most States. When I walk around and visit people in my State of Oklahoma—for 19 years I have gone back on a weekly basis, so I am there talking to normal people, because there are not that many here in Washington—I find out what concerns them. They are concerned about a lot of the issues with which we deal.

Certainly, they are concerned about the war in Iraq. They are concerned about the fact that we are finally winning the war against terrorism. We are doing a good job over there. I was there a few days ago and made a point, since I am on the Senate Armed Services Committee, to spend some time in the Sunni Triangle where they are supposed to dislike us the most. I have never seen anything like it. In Fallujah, there is a guy who was the brigade commander for Saddam Hussein who hated Americans before. Then he got the title of brigade commander for the Iraqi security forces, and he started working with our Marines over there. He started loving them so much, he said when they rotated out—and this includes embedded training where his troops were training with our Marines; our Marines were helping to train these individuals—when our Marines rotated and left, he said they actually cried. He has renamed the Fallujah Iraqi security forces. They are now called the Fallujah Marines, named after our marines. That is what is happening in the Sunni Triangle.

I went to Tikrit, the hometown of Saddam Hussein. During the training process in Tikrit, outside one of the stations they were training in was a car bomb that killed 10 Iraqis and severely injured 30 more. In Tikrit, the 40 families who either lost through death or severe injuries people who are being trained to fight for the Iraqi security forces substituted other members of their families. It is incredible because they have this great love.

We got in a Blackhawk helicopter and flew all over the Sunni Triangle at less than 100 feet. It is the safest way to fly. There are terrorists out there who can hit the helicopter.

As we went across, we saw little kids come up on villages waving American flags. There are many people, I am sure, right now who send care packages to our troops over there. What these troops are doing with the care packages is taking the candy and cookies and repackaging them. Then we go 100 feet over the Sunni Triangle, when the kids are waving, and they throw the candy out to the kids. There is a love that is indescribable. We never hear that from the media back here. The media is very biased. The networks are biased, and we do not hear the success stories. Good things are happening.

I was there a few weeks before that after the January 30 election. Everyone was saying the election was not going to go off. People risked their life to vote, and they told me they could not see the ballot because of the tears in their eyes. Another one told me it occurred to her when she voted that it was not only ending a 35-year bloody regime of Saddam Hussein, but it was the first time in 7,000 years she and the Iraqi people were having a right, an opportunity for self-determination. It is a huge thing happening over there.

We all know about the weapons of mass destruction and trying to discredit the President. We knew there were terrorist training camps. We have gotten rid of them. We are seeing a new democracy emerge and totally change the Middle East. It has been successful.

I only say that because there are a lot of important things going on, and one is, of course, dealing with the current deficit. We are going to have deficits. My good friend from North Dakota was critical of the deficit that is taking place right now. I think it has been pretty well established—in fact, even the Democrats have agreed—that this recession actually started in March of 2000, which was under the Clinton administration. When you go into recession, for every 1-percent decrease in economic activity, that translates to $46 billion in revenues.

We had the revenue going down at the same time we had 9/11. We are in a war and we cannot come out of a deficit while we are in a war. We had a reduction in the military. I do not criticize the Clinton administration for what happened to the military after the first gulf war, but when the military is downsized, some of our modernization programs are stopped and it is expensive.

Right now I do not know how many American people realize that we are actually sending our kids out to battle with equipment that is not as good as our potential adversaries. Our best artillery piece, for example, is the Paladin. The Paladin is World War II technology. After each shot, you have to get out and swab the breach, like you used to have to do during World War II.

Yet there are five countries right now, including South Africa, that are making a better non-line-of-sight cannon than our Paladin. Our kids do not have as good equipment, and that is because our modernization program came to somewhat of a screeching halt.

I was very proud of GEN John Jumper back in I think it was 1998 when out of his frustration he was trying to say we have to do something about our modernization programs; that our best strike vehicle is currently the F-15 and the F-16 and the Russians are making the SU-30s and 31s, as they were at the time, and selling them to potential adversaries, and they are better than our F-15s and F-16s. When we have our F-22s online, and our Joint Strike Fighter, we will change that, but we have to progressively do this, and it is expensive. That is why we will continue to have deficits for a while until we get this thing done.

In all fairness, we have to realize that, No. 1, the administration inherited a deficit; No. 2, we are at war; and, No. 3, we are rebuilding a military operation.

Getting back to the judges, as I said, I do not think Oklahoma is a lot different from other States. When I go down the street and I talk to people, they are much more concerned about what is happening with the judicial decisions and liberal judges trying to make law from the benches. They are concerned about school prayer, gay marriage, and the Pledge of Allegiance with “one Nation under God” coming out. These things bother people back in Oklahoma. Maybe they do not bother people in other States but they do in Oklahoma. All we want are circuit judges to be nominated and then given a simple majority vote on the floor, so that we can determine whether that nomination by the President can be confirmed.

I do appreciate what the Senator from North Dakota was saying. However, I have to say to my knowledge never in the history—sometimes people say, well, how about Judge Bork back several years ago? That was a different situation altogether. Never in history has there been a filibuster of circuit judge nominees. It should not be 60 people to confirm a judge; it should be 51 people. All we want is a vote. We do not care how it comes out. That is going to be the will of the Senate, but the Constitution specifically says “Advice and Consent of the Senate.” That is a majority, and that is all we really want.

I know there are liberals who have a liberal agenda who do not want to have conservatives or constructionists confirmed on the various circuit courts and Federal benches, and ultimately the U.S. Supreme Court. But I can assure my colleagues that the vast majority of people in Oklahoma do.

Lastly, I do agree with the Senator from North Dakota when he talked about the need for an energy policy. I became aware of this and concerned with this way back in the early 1980s when Ronald Reagan was President of the United States. I believed that he should have had an energy policy for America. Quite frankly, even though he was my favorite guy in contemporary history, he did not do it. There were so many other things facing his two terms that he was not able to come up with an energy policy.

I can remember when Secretary Hodel and I would go around the country, we would make speeches about how our dependence on foreign countries for our ability to fight a war for our energy supply was not an energy issue, it was a national security issue. We tried to convince people of that, and we were not successful.

Then, of course, along came other administrations and they did not do it, either. I thought certainly the first Bush administration, since he had an oil background, would be more concerned about it. But this President does. He says we should have a comprehensive energy policy for America, and one of the cornerstones should be a limit as to how much we should be dependent upon foreign countries for our energy supply—or I will put it a different way, for our ability to fight a war.

So here we have a situation where back when I started making speeches about our dependency on foreign countries for our oil was when we were dependent for about 34 percent. Now it is up to 65 percent. We are dependent upon foreign countries for our ability to fight a war twice as much as we were back in the 1980s. So it is going in the wrong direction.

What we need is an energy bill. I was very glad to see the vote on ANWR. It is kind of interesting, the Arctic National Wildlife, that tiny little part of the wildlife reservation that people are concerned about, all of the Natives in Alaska want it, all the Alaskans want it, the House wants it up in Alaska, the Senate wants it, everybody else wants it, but we refused to give it to them to allow them to explore and produce on ANWR. Now they can do that.

A comprehensive energy bill should have an oil and a gas component to it. It should have fossil fuels, coal, nuclear energy, and renewable energy. If we can have that, we can have an energy bill. I think we are going to have one. I am particularly concerned about it because I chair the Environment and Public Works Committee and about one-third of the Energy bill is in the jurisdiction of my committee. We are going to do what we can to work with the distinguished Senator from New Mexico, Mr. DOMENICI, to try to make that happen.

I encourage Members to come to the floor, and in the event they do I would certainly relinquish the floor to anyone who wants to talk about the highway bill.

I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. KERRY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. KERRY. What is the pending business?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The motion to proceed to the highway bill.

Mr. KERRY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent I be permitted to speak as in morning business for a period not to exceed 15 minutes.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

DEPENDENCY ON FOREIGN OIL

Mr. KERRY. Mr. President, this morning, Americans braced themselves for another week of devastating news about the gas pump. This morning, Americans learned again of the record increases in the price of oil in America. When they turn on the news tonight, they are not going to learn of anything that has been done by this Congress or the administration in the past months or even past years. They are not going to see Washington taking the necessary steps to end our dependency on foreign oil. Instead, people will see President Bush meeting with Saudi Crown Prince Abdullah, a stark reminder of our dangerous dependence on foreign oil and how much that dependence threatens our economy as well as our national security.

The President offers strong words against nations that sponsor terror, but for those in control of 65 percent of the world's oil supply, those words are compromised from the get-go. That is wrong, but it is fundamentally what happens when the administration is committed to an energy future that is dependent on oil, oil, and more oil, at all costs, even if that cost is our national security.

The fact is, we are more dependent on foreign oil today than ever before. Despite the sharp rhetoric of the 1970s and the initial effort to try to be less dependent on oil, it has consistently increased. This dependence slows our economy, harms our environment, dilutes our national security, and it burdens Americans with the high gas prices they face today. Sadly, the President's energy bill, which we are going to soon debate in the Senate, fundamentally ignores these problems, and it does nothing to lower gas prices.

In the last days, the administration has conceded "changes to production, consumption, imports and prices are negligible under the plan submitted to the Congress." Frankly, Washington has danced around this statement for a year now. But last week, President Bush himself acknowledged the truth. He said:

[The] energy bill wouldn't change the price at the pump today. I know that and you know that.

So if we all know that, why pass this Energy bill along in its current form when real solutions are staring us in the face? Americans are paying an average of $2.28 a gallon at the pump. That is up 6 cents in the last week, over 50 percent in the last year, and up a staggering 56 percent since 2001. The President's so-called energy plan does nothing to reduce our dependency on foreign oil. The President's own economists found oil imports will actually increase 85 percent by 2025 under a proposal such as the one we see in the Congress. Less than 5 percent of the incentives in this bill are devoted to developing alternative sources of energy. That is 5 percent for the future, 95 percent for the status quo.

In 2002, when the Senate passed an energy bill with a bipartisan vote of 88 to 11, the bill provided for a balanced tax package: 50 percent of the benefits to oil and gas and 50 percent to renewables. By abandoning that balanced, forward-looking approach, this bill sells out our Nation's dream of an energy independent future.

Why are we taking the time in the Senate and the House to discuss an energy bill that does not take the steps available to begin to free us from our dependency? The failure to aggressively address the dependency will condemn a generation of Americans to higher gas prices, and the problem will only get worse. The era when the United States, Japan, and Europe comprised the bulk of the world's demand for oil is long over. Oil consumption from developing Asian nations is going to more than double in the next 25 years, from 15 million to 32 million barrels a day. Chinese consumption will grow from 5 million to nearly 13 million per day. India's consumption will rise from 2 to more than 5 million barrels per day.

The escalating demand for foreign oil is simply unsustainable. Every American who has taken an economics class, who owns a small business, or who balances the family checkbook understands that when demand for the product goes up and supply of that product is limited, prices are going to go through the roof. If you do not own your own product, that is great, but if you do, you are in trouble. Obviously, we do not. The fact is that the United States only has 3 percent of the world's oil reserves. So no matter what happens, we are going to remain dependent if fossil fuel and oil are going to remain the staple of our transportation, heating, and other product sources in the United States.

In reality, international demand for oil is going up, and prices are going up as that demand goes up. There is little we can do to stop it unless we change the fundamentals on which we are currently producing and providing for the various oil needs of our Nation. We cannot drill our way out of this problem under any scenario whatever. Whether we drill in Alaska or even the oil in the deep water of the gulf, we cannot drill our way out of it.

America needs to move forward in the technology race. We need to invent our way out of it. The spectacle of an American President literally reduced to asking—some would describe it as begging—another country to open the spigots and try to provide some momentary relief is really its own statement about where we find ourselves today. The fact is, what we ought to be doing is accelerating research and development in our country.

Today's meeting with the Saudis really underscores what is wrong with the energy policy of our country. The danger of maintaining our dependence on foreign oil is so obvious that Americans cannot help but question the actions of this administration. The actions do not meet their words. The President has said the right things. Last week, he said:

With oil at more than $50 a barrel . . . energy companies do not need taxpayer funded incentives.

So he said the right thing. But the facts tell a different story. The Energy bill provides 95 percent of the tax benefits to oil and gas companies, with over $8 billion directly going to the oil and gas companies of the country. Only 5 percent—less than even in the bill we passed 2 years ago in the Senate, or 3 years ago—is going to go to those things that would actually provide Americans with relief. At a time when oil and gas prices are at historic highs, our energy policy ought to be aimed at investing in new and renewable sources of energy, not lining the pockets of the special interests.

On energy, the administration has not been leveling with the American people. I think the President and Congress continue to miss an extraordinary opportunity. Most public policy forces us to make difficult tradeoffs: foreign versus domestic, urban versus rural, consumer versus business. But energy policy does not require us to do that. Other than the big oil companies, everyone benefits from reducing our dependence on foreign oil. Energy policy provides us with a unique opportunity to address a huge group of challenges all at the same time.

If we lead the world in investing in new energy technologies, we create thousands of high-paying jobs right here in America. If we learn to tap clean energy sources, we preserve a clean environment for our families and future generations. We reduce mercury and acid rain. If we remove the burden of high gas prices, American consumers will have more cash in their pockets to spend on consumption products or on savings or on college or other things. That will all give our economy the boost it needs. Most importantly, if we end our dependence on foreign oil, we strengthen our national security.

The Energy bill before the Congress accomplishes none of these goals. In fact, it weakens all of them. Let me focus on one of those things that it weakens, our national security. Increased American energy dependence further entangles our Nation in unstable regions of the world and forces us even to compromise our values. In exchange for oil, we transfer wealth to people who have done us harm and would do us harm in the future.

This is, obviously, as bad for our troops and for those serving abroad as it is for people who experience the high gas prices here. We risk being drawn into dangerous conflicts because of our dependency in a particular region. We also see an already overburdened military that has to bear the consequence of that.

In recent years, U.S. forces have had to help protect the Cano Limon pipeline in Colombia. Our military had to train indigenous forces to protect the pipeline in Georgia. We plan to spend $100 million on a special network of police officers and special forces units to guard oil facilities around the Caspian Sea and to continue to search for bases in Africa so we can protect all of the facilities there. Our Navy patrolled tanker routes in the Indian Ocean, South China Sea, and the Western Pacific.

The reality is, we have to protect oil because that is what protects our way of life today. This is a serious issue, with real consequences, because of the unstable nature of conflict-ridden, oil-producing areas which challenge our security.

In the spring of 2004, insurgents attacked an Iraqi oil platform. There was violence against oil workers in Nigeria. The result was to press global oil output and record-high gasoline prices. We were helpless to stop it. I do not think any American wants to be helpless where national security is concerned.

Our dependence on foreign oil creates just the sort of alliances that George Washington warned against in 1796. These alliances with foreign suppliers leave us more vulnerable, and they can crumble the foundations of our economic and national security.

The most dangerous aspect of this is that we are not alone in this dependency. I mentioned it earlier: International demand for oil is rising at an alarming rate. Another word for "demand" is "competition." Another word for "competition" is "race." At this rate, the great powers of the world may resume the race to secure the remaining energy reserves. That is an alarming scenario, but it is exactly the course we find ourselves on. With strong leadership, we can avoid it. But we cannot do it without a balanced energy plan that ends our dependence on foreign oil.

If anyone needs an example of how energy dependence can shortchange national security, look no further than the war on terror itself. If we assume oil miraculously drops back to $30 a barrel—no one assumes that, but if you did—over the next 25 years, the United States will send over 3 trillion American dollars out of the country, much of it to regimes that do not share our values, and even, in many cases, our goals.

It is bad enough to think that those $3 trillion are not going to go directly into the American economy, that they are going to go to other countries. It is worse to consider the impact on our volatile relationship with regimes such as the House of Saud, fragile as it finds itself increasingly today.

Our dependence on Saudi oil is a bad bargain for the war on terror. In the past, Hamas received almost half of its funding from Saudi Arabia. We know al-Qaida has relied on prominent Saudi Arabians for financing, and Saudi Arabia sponsors clerics who still, after all the rhetoric, promote the ideology of terror.

We all know what is going to happen today. The President is going to ask Prince Abdullah to raise production. But we have to be honest with the American people and acknowledge it is a short-term fix at best, and it is one that carries its risks.

In the year 2000, Governor Bush said he would "jawbone OPEC" to "open the spigots." But 5 years later, either he has not jawboned enough or it is not important. It is time the administration learned the only long-term solution to America's energy crisis and to our security itself is to end our dependence on foreign oil.

National security is the most inexcusable casualty of our energy policy. But again, it is not the only one. Federal Reserve Chairman Alan Greenspan has said:

Markets for oil and natural gas have been subject to a degree of strain over the past year not experienced for a generation.

I might say, respectfully, it may not have been experienced for a generation, but it was entirely predictable that this would come around again, particularly when you look at the development rates of China, India, and other Asian and South Asian countries.

As the chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers said:

High energy prices are now a drag on our economy.

That is the Republican administration speaking for itself.

This administration's energy policy works for Saudi Arabia, it works for the countries that get those trillions of dollars, it works for big oil and gas companies—all of which have record profits. I think one of the top companies had a 213-percent increase in profits, others 146 percent, others in the double digits. Show me the American family whose income went up commensurately. Show me most American businesses that are struggling with health care costs and now have increased costs of transportation. The American trucking industry has billions of dollars, perhaps $20 billion paid out because of the rise in the cost of fuel.

So everyone is losing: consumers, small businesses, the environment, our troops, our security—everyone but the oil and gas companies.

We need an energy policy that works for America and works for the 21st century. We have successfully moved from different sources of fuel in our history.

We went from wood to coal. We went from coal to oil.

We went from oil to a mix of oil and gas and coal and nuclear and hydroelectric, and now we are talking about wind power and other sources. We have the capacity to have various kinds of additives and even biodiesel and other forms, but we are not moving rapidly to secure the marketplace for those alternatives.

It is time now for America to make its next transition in fuel, to move to a mix of solar and wind and biomass and fuel cells and clean coal and other wonders of American ingenuity. We have huge reserves of coal. But despite all the rhetoric, the administration hasn't even adequately funded the clean coal technology program. We need to tap America's strength. The new president of MIT wrote a couple of articles the other day pointing out how America is slipping backwards in technology. All you have to do is pick up any of the analyses on competitiveness in technology in America today. America is producing fewer engineers, fewer scientists. Fewer kids in college are going into science and the physical sciences. Less money is being put into the R&D to move us into that competitive edge.

That competitive edge is what built the economy of the 1990s. It is what helped us to be able to create the high value-added jobs so we moved to an unemployment rate that was the lowest in the modern history of our Nation, and we paid down debt. We invested in the long-term future of our country. We have seen a complete reversal of that in the last 4½ years.

I hope this Congress will do what it ought to do, not start pitting people against each other according to definitions of faith, but come here with faith in America and American ingenuity and understand that we need to tap America's strength. We need to tap our markets, our capacity for invention, innovation, and our values. That is the way we will control our own destiny. We need to embrace and foster a revolution toward an energy world that benefits our environment, our economy and, most importantly, our security.

The President's energy plan will bring us more of the same—the status quo, a more dangerous future of energy dependence and high prices. It is time we came together with a real energy policy that works for the American people and puts Americans back in charge of their future and liberates our children from the stranglehold of fossil fuel.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Oklahoma.

Mr. INHOFE. Mr. President, the regular order is the cloture motion on the motion to proceed to the highway bill. This is one we are very much concerned about. I have said several times I am hoping Members will come to the floor and speak on the highway bill. I know the distinguished Senator from Illinois wants to be heard right now. Let me only make one comment.

Earlier on I talked a little bit about the Energy bill. The distinguished junior Senator from Massachusetts started off with a quote by the President that was not quite complete. What the President said was the Energy bill would have no immediate impact on gas prices but long-term gas prices will be affected by an energy bill. I made that very clear a few minutes ago when I talked about the fact we have been trying to get an energy bill since the 1980s.

I don't say this in a partisan way because we tried to get an energy bill during the Reagan administration and the Carter administration before that, the first Bush administration, and the Clinton administration. We were unable to do it. It was not until this President came along and offered an energy bill or an energy policy for America. It is long in waiting. Obviously, supply and demand tells us that portion of energy that is generated by oil and gas is going to be cheaper if we are able to do it locally and do it in this country without depending upon foreign sources of oil.

We know what happened in OPEC days back in the 1970s. We know we can be held hostage again. It is a very serious problem. But an energy bill should include all forms of energy. I agree with the Senator from Massachusetts, we should be concentrating also on technology, on renewables. Certainly I disagree with the Senator from Massachusetts when he says he wants clean coal technology and he wants to be able to utilize coal. It was the Democrats in the committee I chair who killed the Clear Skies—didn't kill it, but delayed it—Initiative of the President which would have the most dramatic reduction on pollutants, on NO_x, SO_x, and mercury pollution than any President has ever advocated in the history of America, a 70-percent reduction. To do this we had to continue to have clean coal technology. That is part of the bill, as are oil and gas and nuclear and renewables.

We made an effort to do that and were unable to do it on a partisan line. If the Senator from Massachusetts is interested in having a bipartisan approach to the use of clean coal technology and to expand the use of coal, we need to look at all of the above, all of the forms of energy. I will join him in that program.

The Senator from Illinois wants to be recognized as in morning business. Since I do want to get back to the highway bill, I ask unanimous consent that the Senator from Illinois be recognized for 30 minutes as in morning business and then immediately following his 30 minutes, I be recognized for 30 minutes as in morning business, and then we would go back to the regular order. I encourage Members who are interested in the motion to proceed to the highway bill to come to the floor, to be heard, and so we can recognize them for that purpose.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The Senator from Illinois.

Mr. DURBIN. If I overheard the request, the Senator from Oklahoma suggested 30 minutes in morning business.

Mr. INHOFE. Yes, for the Senator from Illinois, unless he desires more.

Mr. DURBIN. That should be adequate. I thank the Senator.

JUDICIAL NOMINEES

Mr. President, I come to the floor with some feelings of disappointment. I had hoped that on reflection, Majority Leader FRIST would change his mind about taking part in a rally yesterday in Kentucky with groups that claim anyone who opposes President Bush's judicial nominees is opposed to "people of faith." The organizers of that rally, the Family Research Council, called their rally "Justice Sunday." I agree with Bob Edgar, general secretary of the National Council of Churches. A better name would have been "Just Us Sunday."

This Republican religious group is trying to redefine faith to fit its own narrow definition. What is their test? Does their definition of faith turn to the Bible? You know the biblical test, how do you treat the least of your brethren. No, the litmus test of faith for this group is as follows: Do you agree that a President—namely President Bush—ought to be able to ignore the Constitution, the rules of the Senate, and 200 years of Senate tradition to appoint people to the Federal bench for lifetime appointments even if those nominees hold extreme political views outside the mainstream of America?

That is their test of faith. If you say yes, then you are a person of faith. If you say no, they would brand you as anti-God and antifamily.

The depth we have reached in this political debate that the majority leader of the Senate would add his name and his words to a rally which is so divisive, which tries to make a constitutional issue a religious issue. I had hoped Senator FRIST would decide not to take part in it. I hoped he would have used his leadership position to discourage those who are using this religious McCarthyism that seems to be gripping our political system now that the Republicans are in control of the House and the Senate. Unfortunately, he did not.

He sent a taped message which contained within it, I will concede, some conciliatory words warning those involved not to go too far, as Senator LINDSEY GRAHAM did yesterday on a television show which I shared. But unfortunately, I am sure those who were involved with the Family Research Council were heartened by the appearance of Senator FRIST.

Now we are learning that placing your own candidates in lifetime Federal judgeships is not enough for this group.

They are also plotting to rid the bench of Federal judges they don't like.

The Los Angeles Times ran a story last Friday about a private conference of evangelical leaders in Washington, attended by Senator FRIST and House Majority Leader TOM DELAY, whose name appears constantly in this national debate. They had an audiotape of the conference. The story quotes two of the organizers of yesterday's rally in Kentucky, talking about working with congressional Republicans on plans to get rid of the Federal courts they don't like. This is a quote from Tony Perkins, one of the lead spokesmen yesterday for the Family Research Council. He said this at this Washington, DC, conference with TOM DELAY and BILL FRIST:

There's more than one way to skin a cat, and there's more than one way to take a black robe off the bench.

According to the Times article:

Mr. Perkins said he had attended a meeting with congressional leaders a week earlier where the strategy of stripping funding from certain courts was "prominently" discussed. "What they're thinking of is not only the fact of just making these courts go away and recreating them the next day, but also defunding them," Mr. Perkins said.

The story reports Mr. Dobson, a reverend also involved with this effort, as saying:

Very few people know this, that the Congress can simply disenfranchise a court. They don't have to fire anybody or impeach them or go through that battle. All they have to say is the Ninth Circuit doesn't exist anymore, and it is gone.

Mr. Perkins said these plans to remake America's courts are "on the radar screen, especially of conservatives here in Congress."

We have valued, since the creation of this great Nation, our independent and balanced judiciary. I am certain that members of the judiciary are angered at times with positions taken and things said by those in the executive and legislative branches. It works both ways. Yet we understand the nature of our checks and balances, the nature of three separate branches of government is unique to America and has given us the strength to survive in this democracy for over 200 years.

The strategy of TOM DELAY, Senator FRIST, and groups like the Family Research Council challenge this premise of our constitutional democracy. I would like to address the questions raised about what might happen if the Republicans go forward with the so-called nuclear option. First, let me tell you that the phrase "nuclear option" was not conceived by a group of Democrats in a back room. As I understand it, Senator TRENT LOTT, a leading Republican, called this approach a nuclear option, understanding, as he did, that it is an assault on some of the most fundamental principles of the Constitution and the Senate. It was, in fact, nuclear war and the use of a nuclear weapon from a procedural point of view. It assaulted one of the most basic principles of America, the principle of checks and balances.

Look at the political landscape in America today. Republicans control the White House, the House, the Senate, and the Supreme Court. Not in 60 years has so much power been vested in one party. But from the point of view of many of their special interest groups, it is not enough; they want more. They don't just want to govern in America; they want to rule. That means they need and want powers beyond those given to a political party under our Constitution.

Think about why we have a Senate. It was part of the Great Compromise. Thirteen colonies came together, deciding whether they could work together as one government, and the smaller colonies said we don't have a chance. If you count numbers, the more populous colonies will always win the debate. So the Great Compromise said the House of Representatives will have more people, with more representatives in the more populous States, so they will have more votes. But the Senate is different. Every State gets two Senators. The rules of the Senate were written so, even within the Senate, when one Senator objected to a major change in law, the Senate rules respected that minority Senator. In fact, it wasn't until right after World War I that there was a way to even stop what was known as a filibuster. If you saw "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington," you saw Jimmy Stewart, that new idealistic Senator, take to the floor arguing for something he believed in until he ran out of breath and collapsed. Well, that is the filibuster. The way you can stop it is with a certain number of votes. Beginning in the 20th century, that number of votes is 60. It recognizes that this unique Chamber in America's Government will always recognize the rights of the minority.

We have built on that principle, and that is why the filibuster was created. Sadly, the Republican majority today wants to break the rules of the Senate and change the filibuster rule. They want to end the checks and balances that have been part of this institution since the Constitution was written. For what? So President Bush can have every judicial nominee he proposes to Congress, without debate, without dissension, and it would not be subject to a filibuster.

I think the filibuster is one of the most basic tenets of our checks-and-balances system. It prevents a tyranny of the majority and encourages compromise and moderation. Think about it; if it takes 60 votes, you need to compromise. If it takes 60 votes, neither side has that, so you need bipartisanship. It works every single day on legislation and on nominees.

What about the President's track record when it comes to judges? Consider this: Since President Bush came to office, he sent 215 names of judicial nominees to the floor of the Senate; 205 have been approved. Only 10 have not been approved. More than 95 percent of the President's nominees have been approved by the Senate but, sadly, the point of view of the White House is that it is not enough. They want them all. They are willing to assault the Constitution and change the Senate rules. With an approval rate of 95 percent, this is not a crisis; it is a manufactured political crisis.

Republicans claim it is unconstitutional to filibuster. They are wrong. The Constitution makes it clear that the rules of the Senate are the decision of the Senate. Here is what article I, section 5 of the Constitution specifically states:

Each House may determine the rules of its proceedings. . . .

That means the House and the Senate may determine the rules of its proceedings. From the beginning, the Senate has allowed filibusters. In 1789, the first Senate filibustered a bill about moving the capitol from New York City to Washington. But these Republicans, under President Bush and Vice President CHENEY, want to change that time-honored rule. They claim the use of the filibuster to block judicial nominees has never happened, that it is unprecedented. That is what you hear from them. They are wrong.

Before George W. Bush became President, 11 judicial nominations needed 60 or more votes—cloture—to end a filibuster.

On two other judicial nominations—one in 1986 and one in 1994—cloture was filed in order to end filibusters, but it was later withdrawn. Of those 11 nominations on which cloture was needed to end a filibuster, 4 occurred during the Clinton administration.

Let me just point to one. March 8, 2000, the nomination of Richard Paez to be a judge of the Ninth Circuit. Fourteen Republican Senators voted on the Senate floor to filibuster Judge Paez's nomination. Look at the list of the 14 Senators, and do you know what name you will find? Senator BILL FRIST. He is now the majority leader, and he claims this never happened in the history of the Senate. He, in fact, voted on the floor of the Senate for a filibuster against Richard Paez, a Clinton nominee to the Ninth Circuit. For the record, it was vote No. 37, 106th Congress, second session, March 8, 2000.

In addition to the 4 Clinton judicial nominees who were filibustered, 60 additional Clinton nominees never received a hearing. It was a pocket filibuster. What is unprecedented is what Republicans are threatening now, to fundamentally change the rules and traditions of the Senate and the constitutional principle of checks and balances. To argue that no judicial nominee will ever need more than 51 votes—7 times since 1949, the Senate has faced this question: Can a simple majority change the cloture rule? Every single time, the answer has been no, whether it was Democrats in the majority or Republicans in the majority.

In 1953, Minority Leader Lyndon Johnson, the "master of the Senate," as he was dubbed, a man who knew something about finding and using power wherever he could legitimately find it, worked with Majority Leader Taft to protect the Senate from the nuclear option of his day, when a single Democratic Senator threatened to use it.

Time and again, there have been threats to change this filibuster, and it has never happened. There has been ample opportunity to do that.

One Senator who was involved in that was Senator Fritz Mondale of Minnesota. He led a 1975 effort to change the cloture rule. Twenty-seven years later, in September 2002, an older and wiser Fritz Mondale came back to the Senate to talk about his years as part of the Leader's Lecture Series.

He admitted he made a mistake to try to push through a nuclear option. I want to read part of what he said. This is what Fritz Mondale said on reflection:

When I came to the Senate, I thought a simple majority should be enough to end debate. I had seen the cloture rule abused in the past, especially on civil rights. The old rules permitted virtually endless talk. In recent years, many Senators had developed a postcloture strategy where, even after a successful cloture vote, they could still carry on forever, reading and amending the Journal, reading and amending the Chaplain's prayer—as we did for several days—filing hundreds of amendments with no end in sight.

Listen to what Fritz Mondale said:

It had to be changed, and it was, to what is now called the Byrd rule. But to end a filibuster still requires 60 votes, and I believe that is about right.

It is a balancing act. You need to be able to close off debate, but you also need to give an individual Senator the power to stop everything in the country and to rip open an issue in a way that no other institution in America can. It can't happen in the House. Their rules of debate are very different. It can't happen in news conferences. It can't happen on talk shows. That is entertainment, not debate. Only the Senate can stop the Nation in its tracks, and it is the only body in the world that allows it.

To claim, as nuclear option supporters do, that the 1975 effort proves the constitutionality of their plan is simply wrong. It is a misrepresentation of the facts. They argue we are simply talking about judicial nominees. Yet we know from a Congressional Research Service analysis of this issue that if they went forward with the nuclear option on judicial nominees, nominees who are being appointed to the bench for a lifetime, more could follow from that.

I still hope we can avoid this constitutional confrontation, this crisis. I hope the destruction that will be brought to the Senate can be avoided. I hope we can have a positive view toward the Senate's future. But let me say this: If the Republican majority in the Senate exercises the nuclear option, breaks the rules of the Senate for the first time to change the rules, to eliminate the filibuster on judicial nominees, to attack the principle of checks and balances, the constitutional principle of our Government, then I think the response from the Democratic side can easily be described as this: If the Republicans are going to break the rules, the Democrats are going to play by the rules. Let me tell you what I mean.

We believe we must defend the Senate and the Constitution. We will not allow one party to eliminate an essential part of checks and balances. The Senate operates according to customs. The minority party defers to the majority party regarding what bills come to the floor, and other questions. It is a system that requires trust and cooperation every day.

If Republicans choose to use the nuclear option, they are choosing to assault that trust and cooperation. We can no longer routinely give our unanimous consent to whatever procedural request the majority leader makes. Instead, we will use the existing rules and precedents to have the Senate focus on the real crises facing America's families and businesses. Instead of granting deference to the Republican majority to set the agenda on the Senate floor, Democrats will use the existing rules and the precedents of the Senate to focus on issues such as health care, energy, education, minimum wage, making certain we take care of our veterans and soldiers.

We have already placed a number of important bills on the Senate calendar, any of which can be brought up at once if the Republicans trigger the nuclear option. These bills address real priorities and challenges we face: funding our schools, bringing down the price of gasoline at the pump, finding a way to provide health insurance and health care for Americans, veterans benefits, and imposing fiscal discipline with Government spending.

Let me make it clear. We are not going to set out to close down the Senate or to close down the Government. Senator REID, our Democratic leader, and all the Members of the Senate feel as I do, that shutting down the Government was the hapless tactic of the Gingrich revolution. It was a terrible idea. Rush Limbaugh was the only American applauding it every day, but the American people knew better. They want our Government to continue. They want Government services that are essential not to be in danger. So we are prepared to use the Senate rules to make certain that the defense of our Nation and the defense of our Armed Forces will be paramount, that passing key appropriations bills will occur, the Government will go about its business.

But when it comes to the rest of the debate in the Senate, when it comes to the agenda of legislative issues, we believe we can and will use the rules, if the nuclear option is exercised, to make certain that this debate is broadened—broadened beyond the special interest debates of K Street, the lobbyists who sit around the corridors out here begging for their bills to be called. We will expand this to include a debate over issues American families are begging us to consider, such as the cost of health insurance, help in putting children through college, finding a way for us to deal with the energy crisis in a responsible way that will conserve energy and bring about more fuel efficiency, in addition to environmentally responsible exploration for new energy sources.

Let's talk about gasoline for a minute. Americans are paying nearly 50 cents a gallon more for gas today than they were a year ago. Gas prices have surged an average of 19 cents per gallon in the last 3 weeks. What is the Republican solution? Many times it is more of the same. Keep increasing America's dependence on increasingly expensive oil from increasingly volatile parts of the world.

If Republicans are insisting on changing the rules of the Senate, Democrats will use the opportunity to press for an end to price gouging at the pumps today. We will also push for real long-term solutions, including conservation and new sources of alternative energy that will make America more secure in the future.

Think of it, 45 million Americans in our country, 1 in 7 have no health insurance. Tens of thousands more are underinsured. Rising health costs are eating up every penny of the profits at many companies. Did you read the report in the paper in the business section last week? General Motors lost $1 billion in the last quarter. When they were asked why they were losing money if they were still selling cars, they said: With every car we sell is $1,500 in health insurance costs and $500 in pension costs. So before we can compete with the foreign manufacturers, we have to pay for the health insurance and the pension costs.

What we are saying is this ought to be part of a national debate. There has not been a single suggestion on the floor of the Senate from the Republican leadership that they are ready to even discuss health care, nor from the White House.

If we move beyond the nuclear option, we on the Democratic side feel this debate has to take place, and we will move proactively to put this on the calendar for debate during this session of the Senate.

In recent months, we found the new prescription drug benefit under Medicare will cost hundreds of billions of dollars more than first estimated. Now this week a new report warns the drug benefit will not provide adequate coverage for seniors with cancer and other chronic illnesses, and leave them with huge personal prescription drug bills. If the Republicans in the Senate use the nuclear option to try to change the rules of the Senate, Democrats will use whatever rules we can, whatever leverage we can find to fix the Medicare prescription drug bill.

Millions of young people across America are going to graduate from high school next month. Many are off applying to colleges, fingers crossed they will get into that great school. But there is a fear in every family—at least in most families—that some of the sons and daughters who are accepted at the best schools will not be able to go because the families cannot afford it. If the Republicans insist on using the nuclear option, the Democrats will push to bring to the floor Senate measures to make college more affordable for families across America.

We will look for ways to bring to the floor a bill to fund properly VA health facilities and end the deficits that are forcing Americans all across America to wait months to see a doctor.

We do not have to manufacture crises. There are real, urgent problems with which this Senate ought to be dealing. If the Republicans are interested in governing, they will join the Democrats in addressing these issues. If they are more concerned about political gains, they will object. Democrats will not break the rules and we will not stand by idly if others try to destroy the rules of the Senate for temporary political advantage. We will use the rules, we will live by the rules, we will follow the rules at every opportunity to protect the Constitution and do the people's business.

Senators can expect if the nuclear option is called and passes we will spend more time at our desks, more time in session, more time on the floor, more time in Washington. The old complaint about 1,000-page bills coming to the Senate never having been read, they will be read. The complaint that amendments come to the floor Senators have not had a chance to read, they will be read. The complaint about speaking to an empty Chamber with few Senators around, that may change. There will be Senators on the floor, part of a debate over amendments that are important to this country.

I sincerely hope the Republican majority will think twice. Senator MCCAIN said, and I think rightly, you never know what the next election might bring. You might find yourself in a minority status, and it is important for us to understand that as Senators have come and gone, almost 1,900 now in the history of the United States, as issues have come and gone, as Congresses have come and gone, the traditions and rules of the Senate have endured. The Constitution which guides this Chamber, which brings us to the floor today and every day, the Constitution we have all sworn to uphold and defend is worth fighting for.

When a White House with any President of either party tries to extend their power at the expense of the Constitution, historically the Senate has said no.

This time, unfortunately, this President is demanding more power than any President in the history of the United States when it comes to judicial nominees. This President is demanding powers that have never been exercised under this Constitution. Sadly, his party, the proud Republican Party, is not willing to say no. They should. In the past, Franklin Roosevelt's Democratic Party said no to him when he overextended. Thomas Jefferson's party said no to him when he tried to extend his Presidential power. They understood that the Constitution is more important than the power of any President.

I yield the floor, and I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. INHOFE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. INHOFE. Mr. President, right now, the regular order is the motion to proceed to the highway bill. It is one of the most significant bills we will be addressing this year. It is one that we are very hopeful will pass. Last year, the highway bill passed with a vote of 76 to 21. Having received that very strong majority, we believe that this bill is so much like it that we should be able to do the same thing.

I understand that tomorrow morning at 11:45 there will be a vote. Again, as I have said since 2 this afternoon, I encourage Members to come to the floor to be heard on the motion to proceed to the highway bill, and I am hoping that will happen. I will only make a couple of comments.

I do not want to sound redundant, but I will respond to the distinguished Senator from Illinois. A couple of hours ago I commented that the people from Oklahoma maybe are different from the rest of the country. When I go down the street, people are concerned about the decisions of the U.S. Supreme Court. They are concerned about liberal judges legislating from the bench, and this President has been concerned about that. I am talking about things like school prayer, gay marriages, and "one nation under God" in the Pledge of Allegiance. These things are very important. These things are probably important to people all over the country.

It can be talked about hour after hour. Threats can be made about what one would do, but it is not a nuclear option, it is a constitutional option. This has been true for 214 years now, where there has not been a filibustering of circuit court judges. This is something that should not require a supermajority of 60 votes. If there is one thing my people in Oklahoma want changed, it is to be able to select judges who will interpret the Constitution and not use the bench for legislation purposes.

As far as the Energy bill is concerned, I do agree with the Senator from Illinois that we need to do something about our dependence on foreign oils for our energy supply. It is going to be absolutely necessary to have this Energy bill, and I believe we will have it. We need to address drilling. We need to do something about fossil fuels. We need to do something about nuclear and renewables. Just one example: In the House bill that was passed, there is a tax provision that will encourage people to go after marginal production. My State of Oklahoma happens to be a very large marginal producer. For those who are not familiar with this, a marginal well produces 15 barrels or fewer a day. We have the largest number of marginal wells in our State of Oklahoma. If we had every marginal well producing today that has been shut down or plugged up in the last 10 years, it would be more than we are currently importing from Saudi Arabia. These are little things that can be in an energy bill.

The President was misquoted on the Senate floor a few minutes ago, but certainly everyone realizes it is just a supply and demand issue. If we are able to produce more here, it is going to be cheaper. That is what we need to do. Those individuals who are somehow living in this mythical world that we can run the greatest machine in the history of the world on windmills are wrong. By the way, speaking of windmills, I find even some of the environmentalist extremists now do not want windmills because they are killing the birds. We have to realize we have the most powerful, largest machine ever in the history of the world, and we need to have an energy bill to run that machine.

CHINA'S THREAT TO NATIONAL SECURITY

Mr. President, over the past 3 weeks I have given three speeches calling our attention to the rising threat that China is becoming to our national security. Today I will highlight the areas that most directly affect our national security: weapons proliferation and military modernization. These two aspects are interrelated and add an alarming dynamic to our complex relationship with China.

It is a difficult situation, one in which information is our best resource. Five years ago, Congress created the bipartisan U.S.-China Commission to study the significance of recent events and the impact these events have on our national security. The Commission has held hearings and enlisted the services of experts across the world to gain clarity about what is happening with China. The conclusions are compiled in the U.S.-China Economic and Security Review Commission's 2004 report to Congress, a document that reveals an alarming picture of where we are heading.

China has made commitments to stop proliferating illegal technology over and over since 1992. However, its actual practice has been markedly different. Just this past January, the Bush administration sanctioned eight Chinese companies for aiding Iran's missile development. Two of these companies, China Great Wall Industry Corporation and China North Industry Corporation, have been repeatedly sanctioned for over a decade. Another penalized company, China Aero-Technology Import and Export Corporation, is suspected of transferring technology from McDonnell-Douglas to China's military. The fact is that China has been unable to control its own companies. According to State Department testimony, China has a "serial proliferation problem," and while the official line is to crack down on the weapons trade, "reality has been quite different."

Over recent years, these transfers have become even more problematic, as the Commission details in its report:

... Chinese transfers have evolved from sales of complete missile systems, to exports of largely dual-use nuclear, chemical, and missile components and technologies ... Recent activities "have aggravated trends that result in ambiguous technical aid, more indigenous capabilities, longer range missiles, and secondary proliferation." Continuing intelligence reports indicate that Chinese cooperation with Pakistan and Iran remains an integral element of China's foreign policy ... Beijing's failure to control such transfers gives the appearance that these are allowed in accordance with an unstated national policy. China has generally tried to avoid making fundamental changes in its transfer policies by offering the United States carefully worded commitments or exploiting differences between agreements.

In mid-2003, the CIA reported to Congress that "firms in China provided dual-use missile-related items, raw materials, and/or assistance to ... countries of proliferation concern such as Iran, Libya, and North Korea." With these recently sanctioned companies, we see that China is fully willing to proliferate regardless of the consequences. Why? Well, perhaps we need to consider that something else is going on here besides profits.

China seems to proliferate with countries that have been terrorist sponsors, countries such as Iran, Iraq and Libya. These countries in turn offer China something they desperately need: oil. In my last speech I discussed China's search for oil sources and the implications this has on economic and national security. But the connection here is beyond energy. The Commission report describes what it looks like:

This need for energy security may help explain Beijing's history of assistance to terrorist-sponsoring states, with various forms of WMD-related items and technical assistance, even in the face of U.S. sanctions ... But, this pursuit of oil diplomacy may support objectives beyond just energy supply. Beijing's bilateral arrangements with oil-rich Middle Eastern states also helped create diplomatic and strategic alliances with countries that were hostile to the United States. For example, with U.S. interests precluded from entering Iran, China may hope to achieve a long-term competitive advantage relative to the United States. Over time, Beijing's relationship-building may counter U.S. power and enhance Beijing's ability to influence political and military outcomes. One of Beijing's stated goals is to reduce what it considers U.S. superpower dominance in favor of a multipolar global power structure in which China attains superpower status on par with the United States.

I cannot say it stronger than that. China is exploiting our timidity. The Commission recommends that we pressure the administration to develop and publish a coordinated, comprehensive strategy. I think that is very sound advice and I will be introducing a resolution shortly to that effect.

Another major area of concern is China's military modernization. The weapons China is investing in include cruise missiles, amphibious assault ships, submarines, long-range target acquisition systems, and advanced SU-30 and SU-31 fighter aircraft it has been purchasing from Russia.

I have always been very proud of GEN John Jumper, who had the courage back in 1998 to stand up publicly to say right now we have other countries that are producing better equipment than we have, such as our strike vehicles. The very best we have is the F-15 and F-16. The SU-30s, according to General Jumper, are in many ways superior to ones we make in this country. We have to correct that situation and we are going to with the advent of the FA-22 and joint strike fighters that will be coming on line, but in the meantime China is buying these vehicles. We have always known they have a nuclear capability, but what is more concerning now is they have developed a conventional capability that is equal to or greater than ours in many respects.

The commission believes that this force is being shaped to fit a Taiwan conflict scenario:

[China's] military advancements have resulted in a dramatic shift in the cross-Straits balance toward China, with serious implications for Taiwan, for the United States, and for cross-Straits relations.

The commission states that there are two ways we can prevent a military escalation over Taiwan. The first is to pressure the EU to maintain its arms embargo on China. This is a group of bipartisan experts saying this. Second, we should have harsher punishments for contractors who sell sensitive technology to China. We need a comprehensive annual report on who is selling what to China because, quite frankly, right now we simply don't know exactly how deep this problem goes.

Opting to ignore the situation with China is not a choice that we as representatives of the American people can afford to make. I urge this body to listen closely to the commission's conclusion:

We need to use our substantial leverage to develop an architecture that will help avoid conflict, attempt to build cooperative practices and institutions, and advance both countries' long-term interests. The United States has the leverage now and perhaps for the next decade, but this may not always be the case . . . If we falter in the use of our economic and political influence now to effect positive change in China, we will have squandered an historic opportunity . . . China will likely not initiate the decisive measures toward more meaningful economic and political reform without substantial, sustained, and increased pressure from the United States.

In the resolution I introduce, I will be asking you to stand behind the US-China Commission's recommendations.

These recommendations are listed in the Commission's 2004 Report to Congress. I have highlighted a few of these in my recent speeches, but there are many more. We need to send a message of urgency to the administration to adopt what our own commission recommends. This is not a partisan move. This is a real and legitimate need to respond to the facts before us. We have a clear picture of where the trends are heading—economically, militarily and in ideology—and the security of the United States demands our response.

In my last speech that will accompany the resolution I will be introducing, I will summarize all the recommendations from the commission. I hope it will be the first—but not final—step in the development of a more proactive and comprehensive policy toward China. It needs to be a policy that adequately addresses our national security, especially the proliferation of military technology. It also needs to address free trade, human rights and, of course, Taiwan. I fear the track we are on does not adequately address any of these.

This is very distressing. In some of the previous talks we quoted some of the Chinese colonels when they said we can do this to America, we can compete not only militarily but economically. This is something we have to be concerned about. I cannot think of anything that would be more important to address from a national security objective than that.

However, there is something that is most important to address right now and that is the subject we are on, which is the reauthorization of the highway bill.

I will make a couple of comments about that. I know there are some other people who want to come down. I will yield to them at that time. But when you look at the way the Senate has historically approached the reauthorization of the highway bill, it is different than has been done on the other side. It is the more difficult way because there are so many things that are in a formula. Formulas address problems in low-income States, in low-population States, in low-population density States, in States with high fatality rates, with guaranteed minimum growth and guaranteed minimum rate of return from donor States. We have done States. All of these things are part of a very complex formula.

We will tomorrow be talking about this for an hour, from 10:45 to 11:45. There will be 1 hour equally divided between both sides. I will be controlling the time on this side. I hope at that time we have Members come down who are concerned about this bill, who have problems with this bill, so we can respond to those problems but, most importantly, so we can have cloture on a motion to proceed and have a vote. That vote will take place at 11:45 tomorrow morning. I look forward to coming down and debating the merits of the highway bill.

The bill passed last year—and this is substantially the same as last year's bill—passed this body by a margin of 76 to 21. I anticipate the same thing will happen, but it will not happen until we get to the bill. We will not get on the bill until the cloture on the motion to proceed is voted on, which will be at 11:45 tomorrow morning.

With that, I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. INHOFE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

MORNING BUSINESS

Mr. INHOFE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent there now be a period of morning business with Senators permitted to speak up to 10 minutes each.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

SILVER STAR IN ILLINOIS ARMY RESERVE UNIT

Mr. DURBIN. Mr. President, I would like to say a few words about two Army Reserve soldiers from Illinois I had the pleasure of meeting recently: SPC Jeremy Church and LT Matthew Brown.

Both of these soldiers fought last year in a battle that remains the largest enemy ambush of American troops in the war in Iraq. The battle occurred on Good Friday last year, April 9, 2004.

The 724th Transportation Company of Bartonville, IL, was taking part in a convoy escort operation delivering fuel to Baghdad International Airport when it was ambushed by insurgents. More than 150 enemy fighters poured heavy weapons fire onto the convoy.

Lieutenant Brown was the convoy commander. Specialist Church was his driver. In the first minutes of the attack, Lieutenant Brown was wounded, losing his eye. Specialist Church remained calm, simultaneously treating his wounded lieutenant, driving his damaged vehicle, and firing his rifle, one-handed, at the enemy.

Specialist Church drove to safety, dropped off the wounded Lieutenant Brown, rallied some assistance, and then drove back into danger, the kill zone, to help rescue, extract, his buddies who were still trapped under fire. He loaded casualties onto a truck until it was full, then sent the wounded soldiers to safety while he remained behind to continue the fight, taking cover behind destroyed vehicles.

For his actions that day, Specialist Church was awarded the Silver Star, the third-highest honor the United States can offer for valor in combat. He is the first and only U.S. Army Reserve soldier to win this medal in this conflict. Lieutenant Brown was awarded the Bronze Star.

In that same battle, PFC Gregory Goodrich was killed. SPC Keith Maupin was captured and remains missing in action.

Members of the National Guard and Reserve train on weekends and during 2-week annual training periods to prepare for that day when their country might call upon them to step away from families and civilian careers in order to fight America's wars.

These citizen-soldiers were ready to do that. The call came. They answered it. Now they have borne the terrible burden of battle. Gregory Goodrich gave his life. Keith Maupin remains missing. Matthew Brown has lost an eye and, because of that, he will probably lose his job as a Peoria, IL, law enforcement officer. Jeremy Church risked life and limb to save others and to vigorously fight back the attackers. All of these men exemplify the finest traditions of America's citizen-soldiers. We honor their service.

APPROVAL OF COMMITTEE RULES

Mr. LOTT. Mr President, on April 21, 2005 the Joint Committee on Printing approved the following rules for the committee. Pursuant of rule XXVI, paragraph 2, of the Standing Rules of the Senate, I ask unanimous consent that a copy of the committee rules be printed in the RECORD.

The staff director of the Committee shall promptly notify the Daily Digest of the Congressional Record as soon as possible after such public announcement is made.

(b) So far as practicable, all witnesses appearing before the Committee shall file advance written statements of their proposed testimony at least 48 hours in advance of their appearance and their oral testimony shall be limited to brief summaries. The information contained in any books, papers or documents furnished to the Committee by any individual, partnership, corporation or other legal entity shall, upon the request of the individual, partnership, corporation or entity furnishing the same, be maintained in strict confidence by the members and staff of the Committee, except that any such information may be released outside of executive session of the Committee if the release thereof is effected in a manner which will not reveal the identity of such individual, partnership, corporation or entity in connection with any pending hearing or as a part of a duly authorized report of the Committee if such release is deemed essential to the performance of the functions of the Committee and is in the public interest.

RULE 12.—BROADCASTING OF COMMITTEE HEARINGS

Specifically, the Chairman is authorized, during the interim periods between meetings of the Committee, to act on all requests submitted by any executive department, independent agency, temporary or permanent commissions and committees of the Federal Government, the Government Printing Office and any other Federal entity, pursuant to the requirements of applicable Federal law and regulations.

ARMENIAN GENOCIDE

Mr. CHAFEE. Mr. President, yesterday marked the 90th anniversary of the beginning of the Armenian Genocide. A date of great significance for many Rhode Islanders, and growing in significance for all Americans, this day not only commemorates the atrocities of the past, but also reminds us that it must not happen again. Remembering the victims is our duty to the past and to the future.

The term "genocide" did not even exist when these atrocities occurred from 1915 to 1923, yet the numbers are staggering. Over 1.5 million people perished. Over 500,000 people were forcibly removed from their homes and their homeland. Armenian religious, political, and intellectual leaders were killed. Men were removed from their families and women and children were left vulnerable to deportation, kidnapping, and starvation, and 132,000 Armenian orphans became foster children in American families.

It is vital for the distinct identity of every culture to be honored and celebrated. Over one and a half million Americans are of Armenian heritage, and on this day we are grateful for their many contributions to our country. Rhode Island and this entire Nation continue to benefit from a strong and vibrant Armenian community.

HONORING OUR ARMED FORCES

MEDIC STEVEN SIRKO

Mr. BAYH. Mr. President, I rise today with a heavy heart and deep sense of gratitude to honor the life of a brave young man from Portage. Steven Sirko, 20 years old, died on April 17 while stationed in Maqadiyah, Iraq. With his entire life before him, Steven risked everything to fight for the values Americans hold close to our hearts, in a land halfway around the world.

Recently married to another army medic, Steven turned down a chance to stay stateside with the Army's Special Forces in order to be in Iraq near his wife. A football player in high school, Steven was remembered by friends and family as a tough, outgoing student. His father told a local newspaper, that his son was "very strong, very outgoing, very respectful. After 9/11, like so many young men, he wanted to fight terrorism." His stepbrother, who also served in the Army, called Steven, "the light of any crowd."

Steven was killed while serving his country in Operation Iraqi Freedom. He served in the first battalion, 30th infantry regiment, third brigade, and third infantry division. This brave young soldier leaves behind his wife, Virginia; his father, Rick Sirko; his mother, Linda Lipford; his stepmother, Rose Sirko; three sisters; one brother; and two stepbrothers.

Today, I join Steven's family and friends in mourning his death. While we struggle to bear our sorrow over this loss, we can also take pride in the example he set, bravely fighting to make the world a safer place. It is his courage and strength of character that people will remember when they think of Steven, a memory that will burn brightly during these continuing days of conflict and grief.

Steven was known for his dedication to his family and his love of country. Today and always, Steven will be remembered by family members, friends, and fellow Hoosiers as a true American hero and we honor the sacrifice he made while dutifully serving his country.

As I search for words to do justice in honoring Steven's sacrifice, I am reminded of President Lincoln's remarks as he addressed the families of the fallen soldiers in Gettysburg: "We cannot dedicate, we cannot consecrate, we cannot hallow this ground. The brave men, living and dead, who struggled here, have consecrated it, far above our poor power to add or detract. The world will little note nor long remember what we say here, but it can never forget what they did here." This statement is just as true today as it was nearly 150 years ago, as I am certain that the impact of Steven's actions will live on far longer than any record of these words.

It is my sad duty to enter the name of Steven Sirko in the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD of the Senate for his service to this country and for his profound commitment to freedom, democracy and peace. When I think about this just cause in which we are engaged, and the unfortunate pain that comes with the loss of our heroes, I hope that families like Steven's can find comfort in the words of the prophet Isaiah who said, "He will swallow up death in victory; and the Lord God will wipe away tears from off all faces."

May God grant strength and peace to those who mourn, and may God be with all of you, as I know He is with Steven.

SPECIALIST GRANT CROFT

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. President, I rise today to publicly recognize SPC Grant Croft of Sioux Falls, SD, for receiving the Army Commendation Medal.

Specialist Croft is serving in Mosul, Iraq, as a medic for the 2nd Platoon, 194th Military Police Company based at Fort Campbell, KY. He is a talented and dedicated serviceman, who, according to his superiors, "On a daily basis, sets the standard for what a soldier medic should be. Specialists Croft's strength, stamina and moral character are a constant source of strength for our platoon."

On January 21, 2005, while training at the Udari Range in Iraq, prior to the platoon's arrival in Mosul, Specialist Croft earned the Army Commendation Medal for his performance following an Apache helicopter crash. The Army's description of the event states: "Without regard for his own safety, Specialist Croft quickly moved to the crashed aircraft and immediately began the necessary medical treatment for [the pilots'] life threatening injuries. He placed himself in harms way through the entire process. His selfless act and professional actions were those of a highly skilled and dedicated medic."

It is with great honor that I share Specialist Croft's tremendous accomplishments with my colleagues. He is a true patriot, and America is deeply grateful for his service.

TRIBUTE TO JOE BEYRL

Mr. LEVIN. Mr. President, on Friday, April 22, a true American hero was laid to rest in Arlington National Cemetery. Joe Beyrle of Muskegon, MI, was a paratrooper in the 101st Division on D-Day in World War II. His capture by the Germans and his heroic escape to fight with the Russian Army on the Eastern Front, making him the only American soldier to fight with both the United States and Russian armies against Nazi Germany, have been chronicled in a wonderful book by retired Army Colonel Thomas Taylor called The Simple Sounds of Freedom.

It was my privilege to speak at the burial ceremony for Joe Beyrle. I ask unanimous consent that my remarks be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

EULOGY FOR JOE BEYRL

Arlington National Cemetery, April 22, 2005

We cannot be reminded often enough about the extraordinary things that seemingly ordinary Americans have done to protect our country and our freedoms.

A short year after Joe Beyrle graduated from Muskegon's Saint Joseph High School in June of 1942, he found himself on the way to England as an elite paratrooper in the storied Screaming Eagles of the 101st Airborne Division. And that is when Joe Beyrle, like other members of the Greatest Generation, came face to face with unimaginable challenges, and went from being seemingly ordinary to extraordinary.

I knew Joe and JoAnne, and I knew of Joe's wartime exploits, long before Tom Taylor's wonderful book about Joe was published. What makes that book so special for me is that now everyone can be inspired by the amazing story of Joe's service during World War II: the rigorous training that made "Jumpin' Joe" such an expert paratrooper that he was selected for clandestine drops in occupied France before D-Day to supply the French resistance with gold; his dogged determination after his capture on D-Day by the Germans to escape and rejoin his unit; his courageous decision to fight with the Russian Army after he finally escaped the German POW camp—even helping to liberate the very POW camp from which he had escaped—making him the only American soldier to fight for both the United States and the Russians against Nazi Germany; and the remarkable story of his travel after he was wounded to the American Embassy in Moscow, where American officials at first thought he was a spy because his dog tags had been found on a dead soldier thought to be him two years earlier.

And of course who can forget the story of Joe marrying JoAnne in September, 1946—in a ceremony conducted by the same priest who had conducted a funeral mass for the presumed killed-in-action Joe Beyrle a few years before.

And what a memorable moment it was in 1994 when President Clinton and President Yeltsin honored Joe simultaneously in the White House Rose Garden as part of the celebration of the 50th anniversary of D-Day.

Joe's indomitable spirit, love of country and will to survive come through every page of his remarkable story, a story that reads more like fiction than history. One of my favorite examples of the legendary Beyrle tenacity—Joe would probably call it bull-headedness—took place at the end of the story when Joe was being held in custody in Moscow until the American Embassy officials could establish his true identity.

In a feverish and woozy state from his wounds, Joe decided to overpower the Marine guarding his room and escape again—to rejoin the Russian Army and get home by way of Berlin! Even Joe admitted: "Of all my escape plans, this was the wildest and dumbest of all!"

It is said that courage isn't the absence of fear but the presence of faith. Joe was a man of courage because he had such a vast reservoir of faith—faith in himself; faith in the cause that his country asked him to fight for; and faith in his Creator.

Shortly after Tom Taylor's book about Joe was published, I hosted a reception for Joe and his family and Tom Taylor in the hearing room of the Senate Armed Services Committee. The Secretary of the Army, the Army Vice Chief of Staff, and the Russian Ambassador attended out of respect for Joe. Joe was in his element that day, passing out Screaming Eagle lapel pins and replicas of the paratrooper's crickets used by the Screaming Eagles on D-Day to identify one another behind enemy lines. I still have the one he gave me. Listen.

When I referred to Joe Beyrle at the reception as a hero, Joe said that "the real heroes are buried in Europe." There are indeed a lot of American heroes buried in Europe. But surely some of America's greatest heroes are here at Arlington, visited each day by a hushed and awestruck multitude of their grateful fellow citizens whose freedom was defended by their sacrifices.

There is no more hallowed ground than where we stand today. And there is no hero more deserving of resting here than Joe Beyrle. Let us all honor Joe by resolving in this sacred place to live by his example of selfless service. The highest tribute we can pay to this extraordinary American is to make sure that the Simple Sounds of Freedom always resonate in this great country that he loved so much.

 ADDITIONAL STATEMENTS

HONORING THE INDIANA SPORTS CORPORATION

• Mr. LUGAR. Mr. President, I rise today to call to the attention of my colleagues a signal anniversary occurring on May 3, 2005, the 25th Anniversary of the Indiana Sports Corporation, ISC.

Over the past quarter of a century, the ISC has been a tremendous contributor to the city of Indianapolis, providing economic stimulus, volunteer and community involvement opportunities, and most importantly, working to identify our capital city as a worthy destination for amateur sporting events. I have been pleased to work with the ISC through the Dick Lugar Community Run, Walk and Corporate Challenge, an event I look forward to every year.

Since 1979, the ISC has hosted more than 400 national and international sporting events. These events include: NCAA Championships, highlighted with four NCAA Division 1 Men's Basketball Final Fours, 1980, 1991, 1997, 2000; the 1987 Pan American Games; the 1982 U.S. Olympic Festival, the 2001 World Police and Fire Games; 2001 Championships in track and field, 1987, gymnastics 1991, rowing 1994, basketball 2002 and swimming, 2004. Additionally, they have hosted U.S. Olympic trials and other National Governing Body, NGB, national championships in canoe/kayak, diving, gymnastics, judo, rowing, swimming, synchronized swimming, table tennis, track and field, and volleyball.

It is likewise noteworthy that since 1988, the ISC has awarded over $2.5 million to more than 200 youth service organizations across the State of Indiana, and 132 Olympic hopefuls through its CHAMPS and Future Olympians grant programs respectively.

I am pleased to join the vast number of individuals who have been touched by the efforts of the Indiana Sports Corporation over the years in congratulating them on this signal anniversary.●

40TH ANNIVERSARY OF MOORE'S LAW

• Mr. WYDEN. Mr. President, 40 years ago, when having a computer in your home was inconceivable and being able to hold a miniature computer in the palm of your hand was the stuff of science fiction, Gordon Moore, then a young engineer with Fairchild Semiconductor, had a revolutionary idea.

In the April 19, 1965, issue of Electronics Magazine, Moore first articulated what would come to be known as Moore's law: that the number of transistors on a computer chip would double in power approximately every 18 months but the price would actually decrease. Moore's law was revolutionary because it said that computer power improves essentially for free. Not only did this mean technology could be accessible and affordable for all Americans, it set the stage for increases in productivity unheard of since the Industrial Revolution.

Today, Moore's 40-year-old prediction is not just the thought of a dreamer, written for the benefit of a few early high-tech pioneers; it is the metronome of the technology industry. The drive to keep up with the drumbeat of Moore's law has meant unparalleled innovation in the high-tech industry. It has resulted in quality, high-paying jobs and contributed to our Nation's economic stability. The growth of computer technology in the U.S. has brought countless benefits to consumers and businesses throughout this country.

We are proud in my home State of Oregon to be part of the high-tech engine that helped build the digital economy. We are happy to be home to companies like Intel Corporation, which Moore helped found in 1974. Intel, which employs 15,500 people and has invested approximately $11 billion in Oregon, is an important contributor to our economy and an example of the impact that leadership in technology can have at the local level.

Oregon's high-tech industry continues to be a vital and growing part of the State's economy, creating jobs, fueling the growth of small and large businesses, and driving the innovation necessary to keep pace with Moore's law today.

The fulfillment of Moore's 40-year-old prediction will continue to lead to advances in virtually every aspect of our lives. It means smaller and more affordable computers, and cameras the size of pills that can be swallowed to explore our insides without surgery. It also means family and friends can overcome great distances, connecting in an instant over the digital airwaves.

Though his prediction has held true, Gordon Moore could not have foreseen the power and influence of his observation. I'm proud today to pay tribute to his contributions and recognize the impact Moore's law has had on our economy and our world.●

HONORING REVEREND FRED SHUTTLESWORTH

• Mr. TALENT. Mr. President, I honor Rev. Fred Shuttlesworth, who is a key leader in the civil rights movement and continues to be a guiding light in his community. I am honored that Reverend Shuttlesworth is visiting Missouri on April 29, and I want to commemorate his visit by briefly sharing some of his accomplishments.

Reverend Shuttlesworth grew up in Birmingham, AL, and graduated from Alabama State University in 1951. After graduating, he continued to do graduate work at Alabama State and then received seminary training at Cedar Grove Academy and Selma University. His involvement in civil rights has been grounded in his belief that "a man should not be judged by the color of his skin any more than he is judged by the color of his eyes."

In 1953, at the age of 30, Reverend Shuttlesworth became pastor of the Bethel Baptist Church in Birmingham, during the period of time when the city earned the nickname "Bombingham" for the black homes that were bombed by white supremacists. In May 1956, Reverend Shuttlesworth helped lead a group of ministers to establish the Alabama Christian Movement for Human Rights, in response to the NAACP being outlawed in Alabama.

Reverend Shuttlesworth, on many occasions, nearly became a martyr of the Civil Rights Movement. On Christmas Day 1956, as Reverend Shuttlesworth prepared to lead protests against the segregation of Birmingham's buses, someone threw a bomb under his bed in the parsonage of his church, where he was talking to a visiting deacon. Miraculously, he was unharmed.

Undeterred, in 1957 Reverend Shuttlesworth joined with Dr. Martin Luther King, Reverend Ralph David Abernathy and Bayard Rustin to form the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, which was firmly committed to using nonviolence to advocate for Civil Rights despite the violence that was being committed against its members. He would later help to organize sit-ins against segregated lunch counters and was a key leader of the mass protests and demonstrations in Birmingham during the spring of 1963. During those tumultuous times, Reverend Shuttlesworth was also assaulted by police dogs, knocked unconscious by a fire hose, and jailed more than 35 times.

Reverend Shuttlesworth moved to Cincinnati, where he founded the Greater New Light Baptist Church in 1966, and today he continues to serve as Pastor. In 1988, Reverend Shuttlesworth established the Shuttlesworth Housing Foundation to help needy families access capital for down payments for the purchase of homes. His efforts have helped hundreds of low-income families in the Cincinnati area to become homeowners.

These are just a portion of the good works that this outstanding servant of God has done to help make our Nation more just. I commend Reverend Shuttlesworth for his outstanding contributions to the cause of civil rights for all Americans. I am honored to share his story with my colleagues, and I wish him and his family all the best for the future.●

STATE REPRESENTATIVE CHARLES W. CAPPS, JR.

• Mr. COCHRAN. Mr. President, I am pleased to bring to the Senate's attention the distinguished career of Charles W. Capps, Jr., who has served with distinction and honor as a member of the Mississippi State House of Representatives from Bolivar County since 1971.

My friend, Charlie Capps has announced that he will retire from the legislature in June. As a member of the House of Representatives, Charlie Capps has earned the respect of eight governors, the members of the Mississippi Congressional Delegation, and all who have called upon him for advice and assistance over the past three decades.

Charlie Capps is well known throughout our State for his contributions to higher education, highways, wildlife conservation, job development, and job training. He made special efforts to improve the quality of life in the Mississippi Delta.

He has held many positions of responsibility including service as Chairman of the Committee on Appropriations from 1988 to 2003. During those years, the State has experienced unprecedented economic growth. Today, workforce training centers, mental health facilities, university libraries, recreational lakes, and distance learning centers are part of the legacy of this great Mississippian.

I congratulate Charlie Capps for his distinguished career of public service and for his indelible contribution to our State.●

TRIBUTE TO DONNIE R. WHEELER

• Mr. WARNER. Mr. President, I rise today to commend Mr. Donnie R. Wheeler for becoming the first president of the National Association of Clean Water Agencies—NACWA—formerly the Association of Metropolitan Sewerage Agencies, AMSA. Mr. Wheeler currently serves as the General Manager of the Hampton Roads Sanitation District—HRSD—Virginia Beach, VA. He is regarded by his peers as an exceptional leader, dedicated to protecting the environment and health of Virginia and the Nation.

Mr. Wheeler is a graduate of Virginia Tech and for 7 years was employed by the Virginia State Water Control Board before joining HRSD in 1974. HRSD, a nationally recognized regional wastewater treatment utility, serves 17 cities and counties covering 3100 square miles of southeast Virginia. Under his management, HRSD has received numerous awards from the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency and is recognized as a state innovator for such initiatives as Virginia's first municipal water reuse project.

Under his leadership, I trust that NACWA will promote responsible national policies to advance clean water and a healthy environment. Mr. Wheeler, is a founder of the Virginia Association of Municipal Wastewater Agencies—VAMWA—and served as its president for 6 years. In his long career, Mr. Wheeler has earned the respect of his colleagues at all levels of government and his achievements have earned him awards from the Virginia Water Environment Association—VWEA—and Environment Virginia. Mr. Wheeler also has served as an adjunct professor of Environmental Engineering at Old Dominion University.

In the true sense of the word and by his many achievements in a long and distinguished professional career, Mr. Wheeler is an "environmentalist" who will now proudly serve in a new leadership role the industry in which he has worked for so many years. It is with pleasure that I congratulate and commend Mr. Wheeler on being elected the first president of NACWA.●

COWBOY VIGIL

• Mr. SALAZAR. Mr. President, I today honor a great American, a great Coloradan, and a great Puebloan.

Alcario Vigil was born and raised in the San Luis Valley in Colorado and on April 1st turned 100 years old. His life has been rich with accomplishments and extraordinary devotion to his family, his friends, and his community.

Known as "Cowboy," Alcario Vigil grew up in Lobatos, CO, just down the road from the Salazar family ranch in the San Luis Valley. Like most of his neighbors, he was brought up in a poor family and eventually took over responsibility for his parents' ranch with his wife Sophia. Together, the Vigil family survived the hardships of the Great Depression and raised eight children on the Lobatos family ranch, where they prospered and strengthened Colorado and this country.

Throughout his life, Alcario has been respected as an outstanding community servant, a devoted husband, and a loving father. He has a remarkable record serving as a Penitente for more than 70 years. He has passed those values to his descendants, some of whom are now seventh-generation Coloradans.

Although "Cowboy" lost his devoted wife Sofia in 1994, and his son Jose just 2 years ago, Alcario remains strong and healthy in his Pueblo home. Even at 100 years, he works the ranch's irrigation ditches in the summer months and enjoys visits from his family and friends.

The Pueblo County Commission recently declared April 1, 2005, to be "Alcario (Cowboy) Vigil Day." Given all he has done and all he has seen, I think every day ought to be Alcario "Cowboy" Vigil Day. •

RECOGNITION OF AMSA ON ITS 35TH ANNIVERSARY

• Mr. INHOFE. Mr. President, I take this opportunity to congratulate the Association of Metropolitan Sewerage Agencies, AMSA, on the occasion of its 35th anniversary and on its name change to the National Association of Clean Water Agencies or NACWA. NACWA is the only association that exclusively represents the Nation's municipal wastewater treatment agencies. Its 35-year record of advocacy and leadership in fully meeting the goals of the Clean Water Act has helped guarantee the chemical, biological and physical health of our Nation's rivers, lakes, streams, bays, and coasts.

NACWA's members serve the majority of the sewered population in the country and treat and reclaim over 18 billion gallons of wastewater a day. Simply stated, NACWA and its members deserve to be celebrated for their ongoing role in the remarkable revitalization of America's waterways.

Despite the improvements made so far to the Nation's waters, the Senate Environment and Public Works Committee and NACWA understand that significant work remains to be done to achieve the lofty goals of the Clean Water Act. From the committee's close working relationship with the association, we know NACWA is well-positioned to continue to build on this Nation's water quality gains.

The Senate Environment and Public Works Committee has looked to AMSA and will continue to look to NACWA as a valued informational resource. The association has always been willing to share its expertise and to provide leadership in challenging times. For example, in the wake of the attacks on September 11, 2001, the association responded immediately with creative ideas and vital leadership in developing tools and resources to help further secure the Nation's critical water infrastructure. In fact, the association has been a vital resource on a host of clean water issues from wet weather control and the critical need for a Federal-State-local partnership to meet the Nation's clean water challenges.

As chairman of the Environment and Public Works Committee, I have worked closely with the association and know that NACWA will build on its tradition as a trusted resource for Congress and the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency. I am also confident that NACWA will meet its strategic objectives and the goals of AMSA's original founders. Most importantly, NACWA's success is a direct result of its unparalleled membership. NACWA, then AMSA, was established in 1970 by representatives of 22 municipal wastewater treatment agencies. Since then, AMSA has grown into an organization of nearly 300 municipal agency members, including Oklahoma City, Stillwater and Tulsa, and a total membership of nearly 400 organizations poised to ensure that the 21st century will enjoy continued water quality progress.

The association's public agency members not only represent what is best about public service, they exemplify what it means to be environmental practitioners. Their daily work enables us to enjoy our Nation's rivers, lakes, streams and bays—something we as a Nation must never take for granted.

Once again, I congratulate NACWA on this important milestone as an organization and applaud its members for their outstanding service. •

STATEMENTS ON INTRODUCED BILLS AND JOINT RESOLUTIONS

By Mr. DOMENICI (for himself, Mr. BINGAMAN, Ms. MURKOWSKI, Mr. BENNETT, and Mr. JOHNSON):

S. 895. A bill to direct the Secretary of the Interior to establish a rural water supply program in the Reclamation States to provide a clear, safe affordable, and reliable water supply to rural residents; to the Committee on Environment and Public Works.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, in the 1746 Poor Richard's Almanac, Benjamin Franklin wrote, "When the well is dry, we learn the worth of water." Nowhere is the bottom of the well approaching more quickly than in western United States. Nearly depleted aquifers and deteriorated infrastructure on which our small and rural communities rely coupled with their inability to raise large amounts of capital to afford water infrastructure has resulted in substantial want. When the water dries up, so will many of our communities. As such, the scarcity of water in rural western communities is a dire situation.

An article appearing on April 15, 2005 in the Wall Street Journal elucidates the breadth of our Nation's water infrastructure need. The article states that most water infrastructure and water treatment plants in the U.S. are more than 50 years old and, in many cases, are more than 100 years old. The huge capital outlays needed to rehabilitate this aging and, in many cases, deteriorated infrastructure far exceeds the ability of many rural communities to pay. Neither can these communities accommodate the costs in their rate structures nor are the necessary capital outlays within their bonding capacity. Exacerbating this problem is that, in many western states such as my home state of New Mexico, ground water supplies for which many communities have relied on for water are nearly depleted. In many cases, the only practicable alternative for providing water to these communities is to build public works projects to transport water from other sources. This, too, requires large sums of money which rural and small communities can ill-afford.

Today, I rise to introduce the Rural Water Supply Act of 2005. This bill would begin the process of providing for the essential water needs of rural communities in the western United States. It establishes a federal loan guarantee program within the Bureau of Reclamation that would allow rural communities to obtain loans at interest rates far lower than had the loans not been guaranteed by the Federal Government. This allows rural communities access to the large sums of money required to construct water infrastructure while recognizing the significant demand on the Bureau's budget. The bill also expedites the appraisal and feasibility studies which allow these communities to assess how best to address their water supply needs and act accordingly. At present, rural communities have to wait for Congress to direct the Bureau of Reclamation to proceed with appraisal and feasibility studies. This bill expedites the appraisal and feasibility level process by requiring that, upon request of the community, the Bureau perform a study, provide funds to a rural water community to perform them, or accept and review studies undertaken independently by a community. This bill will provide much needed assistance to struggling communities.

I would like to thank Senator BINGAMAN, the ranking member of the Committee of Energy and Natural Resources who I have had the great pleasure of serving with for over two decades for being an original co-sponsor of this bill. In addition, I very much appreciate the willingness of the Bureau of Reclamation to work with my staff on this important matter.

Preserving our rural communities in the west requires that we address this instantly and vigorously. The U.S. Congress cannot sit idly by as water shortages cause death to our rural communities. I assure you that this bill will receive prompt consideration in the Energy and Natural Resources Committee and it is my sincere hope that the Senate will give this legislation its every consideration.

I ask unanimous consent that the text of the bill be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the bill was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

BY Mr. FEINGOLD:

S. 896. A bill to modify the optional method of computing net earnings from self-employment; to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. FEINGOLD. Mr. President, today I am introducing legislation to address an injustice in the Tax Code that is threatening family farmers and other self-employed individuals. Some of my constituents, primarily Wisconsin farmers, have requested Congress’s assistance to correct the Tax Code so they can protect their families. The legislation I introduce today, the Farmer Tax Fairness Act of 2005, is similar to legislation I introduced last Congress and will solve the problem for today and into the future.

Farming is vital to Wisconsin. Wisconsin’s agricultural industry plays a large and important role in the growth and prosperity of the entire State. Wisconsin’s status as “America’s Dairyland,” is central to our State’s agriculture industry. Wisconsin’s dairy farmers produce approximately 23 billion pounds of milk and 25 percent of the country’s butter a year. But Wisconsin’s farmers produce much more than milk; they also are national leaders in the production of cheese, potatoes, ginseng, cranberries, various processing vegetables, and many organic foods. So when the hard-working farmers of Wisconsin need help, I will do all I can to assist.

One concern that I have heard from Wisconsin farmers is that the Tax Code can limit their eligibility for social safety net programs, including old age, survivors, and disability insurance, OASDI, under Social Security and the hospital insurance HI part of Medicare. These programs are paid for through payroll taxes on workers and through the self-employment tax on the income of self-employed individuals. To be eligible for OSADI and HI benefits an individual must be fully insured and must have earned a minimum amount of income in the years immediately preceding the need for coverage. Every year, the Social Security Administration, SSA, sets the amount of earned income that individuals must pay taxes on to earn quarters of coverage, QCs, and maintain their benefits. An individual's eligibility requirements depend upon the age at which death or disability occurs, but for workers over 31 years of age, they must have earned at least 20 QCs within the past 10 years.

Self-employed individuals can have highly variable income, and, particularly for farmers who are at the whim of Mother Nature, not every year is a good year. During lean years, individuals may not earn enough income to maintain adequate coverage under OASDI and HI. Therefore, the Tax Code provides options to allow self-employed individuals to maintain eligibility for benefits. These options allow individuals to choose to pay taxes based on $1,600 of earned income, thus allowing self-employed entrepreneurs to maintain the same Federal protections even when their income varies.

Unfortunately, both the options for farmers and nonfarmers—Social Security Act 211(a) and I.R.C. §1402(a)—have not kept pace with inflation, and they no longer provide security to families across the country. Decades ago, self-employment income of $1,600 earned an individual four QCs under SSA's calculations. In 2001, the amount needed to earn a QC rose to $830 of earned income, so individuals electing the optional methods were only able to earn one QC per year, making it much harder for them to remain eligible for benefits because they must average 2 QCs per year to be eligible.

Congress's failure to address this problem threatens the ability of self-employed individuals to maintain eligibility for OASDI and HI. I have heard from several of my constituent who want these options to be fixed so they can make sure their families will be taken care of in the event that something unforeseen occurs.

Therefore, I am introducing the Farmer Tax Fairness Act of 2005 in order to provide farmers and self-employed individuals with a fair choice. Under this bill, they will continue to be able to elect the optional method if they so choose. When individuals do elect the option, this legislation provides an update to the Tax Code so farmers and self-employed individuals can retain full eligibility for OASDI and HI benefits. It indexes the optional income levels to SSA's QC calculations, allowing these farmers and self-employed individuals to claim enough earned income to qualify for four QCs annually. In addition, by linking the earned income level to SSA's requirements for QCs, the bill will ensure that the amount of income deemed to be earned under the optional methods will not need to be adjusted by Congress again.

Along with providing security to self-employed individuals and farmers across the country, this solution is fiscally responsible. It actually provides a short run increase in U.S. Treasury revenues while having negligible impact upon the Social Security trust fund in the long run.

Let me take a moment to acknowledge the efforts of the Senator from Iowa, Mr. GRASSLEY, to address this problem in the 107th Congress. As chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, he included similar legislative language in the chairman's mark for the Small Business and Farm Economic Recovery Act of 2002. The Senate Finance Committee held a markup on the legislation on September 19, 2002, but the changes to the optional methods did not become law.

When incomes fall, the Tax Code provides optional methods for calculating net earnings to ensure that farmers and self-employed individuals maintain eligibility for social safety net programs. When these provisions were developed, Congress intended self-employed individuals to have the ability to pay enough to earn a full 4 QCs. Unfortunately the Tax Code has not kept up with the times and due to inflation many farmers are losing eligibility for some of Social Security's programs. Congress needs to provide security to farm families and other self-employed individuals. I urge my colleagues to support the Farmer Tax Fairness Act of 2005.

I ask unanimous consent that the text of the bill be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the bill was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

By Mr. HATCH (for himself, Mr. GRASSLEY, and Mr. BAUCUS):

S. 897. A bill to amend the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 to clarify the calculation of the reserve allowance for medical benefits of plans sponsored by bona fide associations; to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. HATCH. Mr. President, I rise today to introduce a bill to clarify the tax treatment of a narrow range of health plans sponsored by associations. I am joined in this effort by my good friends and colleagues, the Chairman and the Ranking Democratic Member of the Finance Committee respectively, Senator GRASSLEY and Senator BAUCUS.

For many years, trade associations of small businesses have sponsored plans for their member companies to provide health care coverage to their employees. These plans have helped thousands of small businesses across the country control rising health care costs and keep administrative costs to a minimum.

Unfortunately, final regulations issued by the Internal Revenue Service in 2003 concerning "10-or-more" employer health benefit plans that use the experience-rating method threaten to shut down the health plans of many associations. Essentially, these regulations state that health plans that utilize experience rating are not allowed to accumulate reserves, forcing them into the untenable position of either operating on a break-even basis or losing money.

These regulations were not aimed directly at association health plans, but at certain other employer-provided benefits, such as life and disability insurance, where the IRS has found a pattern of abuse among some companies. However, the proposed implementation of the regulations make it impossible for an association to continue operating a health plan for the group's small business members, even where no abuse of the rules has occurred.

For example, in my home State of Utah, at least one association of small businesses has already been negatively affected by these regulations. This association has dozens of small business members that are dependent upon the health plan the association has had in place for decades. Compliance with the regulations will very likely lead to increased costs for health coverage for the 1,300 employees and their 2,200 dependents of these small businesses. If the trust is not able to properly reserve funds for the future, some of these businesses could be forced to drop out as premiums rise higher and higher and the plan is unable to offset those increases with the reserves.

The legislation we are introducing today would correct this problem by providing that medical benefit plans of bona fide associations may have a reserve of up to 35 percent. This amount is designed to give association health plans the flexibility they need without raising the potential for abuse.

In the face of rising health care costs, employers that offer health coverage to their employees are struggling to maintain these benefits, and those who do not offer coverage find the cost of providing this important advantage increasingly out of reach. With the recent 59 percent spike in health care costs over the past five years, employers have had to resort to various cost-cutting moves in order to keep providing health care benefits. The IRS regulations affecting 10-or-more employer health benefit plans could strike a devastating blow to many small businesses, forcing them to stop providing health care benefits altogether, or at least making the coverage more expensive and/or less available to employees.

This legislation was developed with bipartisan support. It is noncontroversial. It corrects a problem created by a well-meaning regulation that inadvertently overreached its target. I urge all of my colleagues to help us correct this error and not allow medical benefit health plans offered by small business associations to be forced to shut down, leaving thousands of employees facing higher costs for medical coverage, or worse, no coverage at all.

I ask unanimous consent that the text of the bill be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the bill was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

S. 897

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, SECTION 1. ALLOWANCE OF RESERVE FOR MEDICAL BENEFITS OF PLANS SPONSORED BY BONA FIDE ASSOCIATIONS.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Section 419A(c) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 (relating to account limit) is amended by adding at the end the following new paragraph:

“(6) ADDITIONAL RESERVE FOR MEDICAL BENEFITS OF BONA FIDE ASSOCIATION PLANS.—

“(A) IN GENERAL.—An applicable account limit for any taxable year may include a reserve in an amount not to exceed 35 percent of the sum of—

“(i) the qualified direct costs, and

“(ii) the change in claims incurred, but unpaid, for such taxable year with respect to medical benefits (other than post-retirement medical benefits).

“(B) APPLICABLE ACCOUNT LIMIT.—For purposes of this subsection, the term ‘applicable account limit’ means an account limit for a qualified asset account with respect to medical benefits provided through a plan maintained by a bona fide association (as defined in section 2791(d)(3) of the Public Health Service Act (42 U.S.C. 300gg-91(d)(3))).”

(b) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendment made by this section shall apply to taxable years ending after December 31, 2004.

Mr. BAUCUS. Mr. President, I am pleased to join my colleagues, Senators HATCH and GRASSLEY, in introducing legislation that will allow associations to make health insurance available to employers without either wondering if the full premium is deductible, or holding minimal reserves.

Across this country, many associations sponsor health insurance plans for member employers—plans that provide health coverage for thousands of working Americans. These arrangements allow smaller employers to get a better deal on insurance than they could on their own. As we struggle to improve the number of Americans who have health insurance coverage, we surely want to encourage an arrangement that provides cost-effective health benefits.

In order to smooth the cost of these medical benefits, these plans often hold reserves that are more than is necessary to cover unpaid claims that have been incurred at the end of the year. We should encourage that practice. But current law discourages these plans from holding more than the bare minimum in reserve.

The problem is that these plans use welfare trusts as a vehicle to fund the benefits. Under current law, if a state trade association sponsors a health welfare trust, and that trust does not charge every participant the same premium, then that plan may have to go back to employers after the end of the year and say “Sorry. You can’t deduct all of that premium we asked you to pay last year.” Either that, or the association has to keep premiums low enough to avoid non-deductible contributions, and risk under-funding the benefits. That is not a good outcome.

So we have a simple solution here. This bill allows these association health plans to maintain reserves of thirty-five percent of annual costs without jeopardizing the deductibility of employer contributions to the trust. With current technology, claims are usually processed in a matter of days, not months, so thirty-five percent of annual costs is more than is normally needed to cover unpaid claims at the end of the year. That will leave a cushion to cover adverse experience, and help smooth future premium fluctuations.

This simple change will allow bona fide associations all over this country to not only continue providing health benefits, but to secure those benefits with adequate reserves. Plans like the State Bankers Association Group Benefits Trust that has been operating out of my home town of Helena, Montana, since 1978. This Trust provides health insurance to employees of banks in Montana, Wyoming, and Idaho. Forty-nine Montana banks provide coverage for nearly 3,000 Montanans through this program.

This bill is important to the employers and employees who get health insurance coverage through the State Bankers’ trust, and the many other association health trusts in Montana and around the country. We encourage our colleagues to join us in helping associations continue to provide health benefits to tens of thousands of American workers and their families.

By Mr. BURNS:

S. 899. A bill to direct the Secretary of Agriculture to convey certain land in the Beaverhead-Deerlodge and Kootenai National Forests, Montana, to Jefferson County and Sanders County, Montana, for use as cemeteries and other purposes; to the Committee on Energy and Natural Resources.

Mr. BURNS. Mr. President, this bill conveys 3.4 acres on the Beaverhead-Deerlodge National Forest to Jefferson County, MT and 10 acres on the Kootenai National Forest to Sanders County, MT for continued use as cemeteries.

The Elkhorn Cemetery in Jefferson County has been used as a cemetery since the 1860's. Due to surveying errors and limited information when the National Forest boundaries were surveyed in the early 1900's, the cemetery was included as National Forest lands. The cemetery is still in use by local families who homesteaded and worked the mines in the area. However, Forest Service manual direction strongly discourages burials on National Forest lands, placing both the families and Forest Service in an awkward position.

The Noxon Cemetery is part of a Kootenai National Forest administrative site that is currently for sale. The cemetery has been used since at least 1910 and contains over 300 graves. Sanders County wants to protect the cemetery from potential damage, and the Forest Service wants to remove the encumbrance of the cemetery from the administrative site sale or future Federal ownership.

In both locations, it is clear the cemeteries should not have been included as part of the National Forest. The County Commissioners and the local public strongly support the conveyance.

I ask unanimous consent that the text of the bill be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the bill was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

S. 899

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

This Act may be cited as the “Montana Cemetery Act of 2005”.

SEC. 2. CONVEYANCE TO JEFFERSON COUNTY AND SANDERS COUNTY, MONTANA.

(a) CONVEYANCE.—Not later than 180 days after the date of enactment of this Act and subject to valid existing rights, the Secretary of Agriculture (referred to in this Act as the “Secretary”), acting through the Chief of the Forest Service, shall convey to Jefferson County, Montana, the Elkhorn Cemetery and to Sanders County, Montana, the Noxon Cemetery, for no consideration, all right, title, and interest of the United States in and to the parcels of land as described in subsection (b).

(b) DESCRIPTION OF LAND.—The parcels of land referred to in subsection (a) are the parcels of National Forest System land (including any improvements on the land) known as—

(1) the Elkhorn Cemetery, which consists of 10 acres in Jefferson County located in SW1/4 Sec. 14, T. 6 N., R. 3 W.; and

(2) the Noxon Cemetery, which consists of 3.4 acres in Sanders County located in SE1/4, Sec. 24, T. 26 N., R. 33 W.

(c) ADDITIONAL TERMS AND CONDITIONS.—The Secretary may require such additional terms and conditions for the conveyance under subsection (a) as the Secretary considers appropriate to protect the interests of the United States.

SUBMITTED RESOLUTIONSSENATE RESOLUTION 119—DESIGNATING APRIL 21, 2005, AS “NATIONAL KINDERGARTEN RECOGNITION DAY”

Mr. SALAZAR (for himself, Ms. LANDRIEU, and Mr. BINGAMAN) submitted the following resolution; which was considered and agreed to:

S. RES. 119

Whereas Friedrich Froebel, known as the “Father of Kindergarten”, opened the first kindergarten classroom on April 21, 1837, with the goal of shaping young children in a nurturing, educational, and protected environment;

Whereas kindergarten has a long history of enhancing children’s cognitive, physical, and social development in the United States and throughout the world;

Whereas Margarethe Meyer Schurz opened the first German-speaking kindergarten in the United States in 1856, Elizabeth Peabody opened the first English-speaking kindergarten in Boston, Massachusetts, in 1873, and the first public school kindergarten classrooms were established under the leadership of Susan Blow and William Torrey Harris in St. Louis, Missouri, in the early 1870s;

Whereas kindergarten is a critical year in children’s formal education, as well as in their continued physical, social, and emotional development, that prepares them for later school success and lifelong learning;

Whereas quality kindergarten programs use developmentally, culturally, and linguistically appropriate curricula, teaching practices, and assessments to support each child’s learning and development progress to reach his or her maximum potential;

Whereas teachers who teach kindergarten need to have specialized knowledge and skills in working with young children to respond to the unique interests, learning styles, and developmental characteristics of children in their kindergarten year;

Whereas kindergarten programs need to be ready for all children who are eligible, including children with disabilities and children who are not native English speakers, and their families;

Whereas kindergarten programs should collaborate and coordinate with preschools and with the other early elementary grades in order to provide a continuum of appropriate, effective early learning for all children as they transition to and through the early grades of school;

Whereas in 2001, more than more 3,700,000 children between the ages of 4 and 6 years old attended kindergarten, including full-day, half-day, or alternate day programs;

Whereas the percentage of children attending full-day kindergarten programs has grown from 28 percent in 1977 to 60 percent in 2001; and

Whereas establishment of a “National Kindergarten Recognition Day” will help draw attention to the critical role kindergarten plays as the transitional year from early education programs to the elementary and secondary education system: Now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Senate—

(1) designates April 21, 2005, as “National Kindergarten Recognition Day” to raise public awareness about the impact of the kindergarten year on the development of our nation’s children; and

(2) urges the people of the United States to recognize the historic tradition of kindergarten in the United States and its contribution to preparing children for their elementary and secondary educational achievement and experiences.

Ms. SNOWE (for herself, Mr. KERRY, Mr. TALENT, Mr. VITTER, Mr. CORNYN, Mr. COLEMAN, Mr. BURNS, Mr. BOND, Mr. ALLEN, Mr. ISAKSON, and Ms. LANDRIEU) submitted the following resolution; which was considered and agreed to:

S. RES. 120

Whereas America’s 25,000,000 small businesses have fueled the Nation’s economy, creating more than ¾ of all new jobs and accounting for more than 50 percent of the Nation’s gross domestic product;

Whereas small businesses are the Nation’s innovators, advancing technology and fueling the economic growth and productivity;

Whereas the Small Business Administration has been a critical partner in the success of the Nation’s small businesses and these businesses’ continued economic growth;

Whereas the mission of the Small Business Administration is to maintain and strengthen the Nation’s economy by aiding, counseling, assisting, and protecting the interests of small businesses and by helping families and small businesses recover from natural disasters;

Whereas the Small Business Administration has helped small businesses access critical lending opportunities, protected small businesses from excessive Federal regulatory enforcement, played a key role in ensuring full and open competition for government contracts, and improved the economic environment in which small businesses compete;

Whereas the Small Business Administration, which was established in 1953, has also provided valuable service to small businesses through financial assistance, technical assistance, procurement assistance, small business advocacy, and disaster recovery assistance;

Whereas for over 50 years the Small Business Administration has helped approximately 22,000,000 Americans start, grow, and expand their businesses and has placed almost $250,000,000,000 in loans and venture capital financing into the hands of entrepreneurs;

Whereas the Small Business Administration has helped millions of entrepreneurs achieve the American dream of owning a small business; and

Whereas the Small Business Administration will mark National Small Business Week, the week beginning April 24, 2005: Now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Senate—

(1) honors small businesses during the Small Business Administration’s National Small Business Week, the week beginning April 24, 2005;

(2) supports the purpose and goals of National Small Business Week; and

(3) commends the Small Business Administration and the Small Business Administration’s resource partners—

(A) for their work, which has been critical in helping the Nation’s small businesses grow and develop; and

(B) for being key players in the Nation’s economic vitality.

SENATE RESOLUTION 121—SUPPORTING MAY 2005 AS “NATIONAL BETTER HEARING AND SPEECH MONTH” AND COMMENDING THOSE STATES THAT HAVE IMPLEMENTED ROUTINE HEARING SCREENING FOR EVERY NEWBORN BEFORE THE NEWBORN LEAVES THE HOSPITAL

Mr. COLEMAN (for himself, Mr. LIEBERMAN, and Ms. SNOWE) submitted the following resolution; which was referred to the Committee on Health, Education, Labor, and Pensions:

S. RES. 121

Whereas the National Institute on Deafness and Other Communication Disorders reports that approximately 28,000,000 people in the United States experience hearing loss or have a hearing impairment;

Whereas 1 out of every 3 people in the United States over the age of 65 have hearing loss;

Whereas the overwhelming majority of people in the United States with hearing loss would benefit from the use of a hearing aid and fewer than 7,000,000 people in the United States use a hearing aid;

Whereas 30 percent of people in the United States suffering from hearing loss cite financial constraints as an impediment to hearing aid use;

Whereas hearing loss is among the most common congenital birth defects;

Whereas a delay in diagnosing the hearing loss of a newborn can affect the social, emotional, and academic development of the child;

Whereas the average age at which newborns with hearing loss are diagnosed is between the ages of 12 to 25 months; and

Whereas May 2005 is National Better Hearing and Speech Month, providing Federal, State, and local governments, members of the private and nonprofit sectors, hearing and speech professionals, and all people in the United States an opportunity to focus on preventing, mitigating, and treating hearing impairments: Now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Senate—

(1) supports the goals and ideals of National Better Hearing and Speech Month, May 2005;

(2) commends those States that have implemented routine hearing screenings for every newborn before the newborn leaves the hospital; and

(3) encourages all people in the United States to have their hearing checked regularly.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I am pleased to submit the Better Hearing and Speech Month Resolution with my friend and colleague Senator JOSEPH LIEBERMAN of Connecticut.

By passing this resolution, Congress will recognize May 2005 as National Better Hearing and Speech Month which will help raise public awareness, encourage prevention and treatment of hearing impairments, and commend those States that have implemented routine hearing screening for every newborn baby before the infant leaves the hospital. One in every ten Americans has hearing loss making it one of the most prevalent chronic health conditions in this country. In addition, every day 33 babies are born in the United States with permanent hearing loss, making it one of the most frequently occurring birth defects. The impact of delayed detection and intervention can last a lifetime.

When hearing loss is found early, intervention and treatment can produce dramatic improvements in child speech and language development by school age.

This Resolution will raise public awareness of the 28 million Americans who suffer from hearing loss and the importance of early detection and treatment.

I look forward to working with my colleagues to pass this Resolution as research shows that children identified with hearing loss early and those who receive appropriate early qualified intervention by the age of six months have significantly improved speech skills than children whose hearing loss is identified later.

SENATE RESOLUTION 122—RECOGNIZING THE HISTORIC EFFORTS OF THE REPUBLIC OF KAZAKHSTAN TO REDUCE THE THREAT OF WEAPONS OF MASS DESTRUCTION THROUGH COOPERATION IN THE NUNN-LUGAR/COOPERATIVE THREAT REDUCTION PROGRAM, AND CELEBRATING THE 10TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE REMOVAL OF ALL NUCLEAR WEAPONS FROM THE TERRITORY OF KAZAKHSTAN

Mr. LUGAR submitted the following resolution; which was referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations:

S. RES. 122

Whereas at the time of the collapse of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics in December 1991, 1,410 nuclear warheads on heavy intercontinental ballistic missiles, air-launched cruise missiles, and heavy bombers were located within the Republic of Kazakhstan;

Whereas, on July 2, 1992, the parliament of Kazakhstan approved and made Kazakhstan

a party to the Treaty on the Reduction and Limitation of Strategic Offensive Arms, with annexes, protocols and memorandum of understanding, signed at Moscow July 31, 1991, and entered into force December 5, 1994 (commonly known as the "START Treaty");

Whereas, on February 14, 1995, Kazakhstan formally acceded to the Treaty on the Non-Proliferation of Nuclear Weapons, done at Washington, London, and Moscow July 1, 1968, and entered into force March 5, 1970 (commonly known as the "Nuclear Non-Proliferation Treaty");

Whereas, on December 13, 1993, the Government of Kazakhstan signed the Safe and Secure Dismantlement Act (SSD) and its 5 implementing agreements with the United States, and became eligible to receive $85,000,000 in assistance under the Nunn-Lugar/Cooperative Threat Reduction Program;

Whereas the decision of the people and the Government of Kazakhstan to transfer all nuclear weapons from the territory of Kazakhstan to the control of the Russian Federation allowed Kazakhstan to become a non-nuclear-weapon State Party to the Nuclear Non-Proliferation Treaty;

Whereas the continuing efforts of the Government of Kazakhstan to pursue cooperative efforts with the United States and other countries to secure, eliminate, destroy, or interdict weapons and materials of mass destruction and their means of delivery provides a model for such efforts; and

Whereas, in April 1995, the Government of Kazakhstan formally transferred the last nuclear warhead from the territory of Kazakhstan to the territory of the Russian Federation: Now, therefore be it

Resolved, That the Senate commends, on the occasion of the 10th anniversary of the removal of the last nuclear warhead from the territory of Kazakhstan, the people and the Government of the Republic of Kazakhstan for their historic decision to rid Kazakhstan of nuclear weapons.

Mr. LUGAR. Mr. President, today I submit a Senate resolution to celebrate the decision made by Kazakhstan to join the Nuclear Nonproliferation Treaty (NPT) as a non-nuclear weapon state. Ten years ago this month Kazakhstan sent the last Soviet nuclear warhead on its territory to Russia.

With the Review Conference on the NPT in New York starting next week, it is an especially important time to note the progress made toward the NPT's goals, with U.S. assistance, in Kazakhstan.

More than a decade ago, when the Soviet Union collapsed, Kazakhstan became the fourth largest nuclear power in the world. But instead of enlarging the nuclear club, Kazakhstan joined Ukraine and Belarus in turning away from weapons of mass destruction. Courageous leaders chose instead to embrace the NPT in removing all nuclear arms from Kazakhstan.

The world cheered when Kazakhstan formally acceded to the NPT. I am proud of the role the United States played in Kazakhstan's decision and of our role in facilitating the removal of thousands of nuclear warheads and the elimination of hundreds of SS-18 intercontinental ballistic missiles, silos, and command centers. The addition of three more nuclear-armed states would have been a devastating setback for the NPT.

It is particularly important that the Senate draw attention to Kazakhstan's wise and brave choice, as it stands in stark contrast to events in India, Pakistan, North Korea, and Iran. In 1998, the world was shocked by the testing of nuclear weapons in India and Pakistan. In January 2003, the durability of the NPT was shaken by North Korea's purported withdrawal. We have watched for the past two years as the IAEA deliberated over Iran's numerous safeguards violations amid Tehran's threats of withdrawal from the NPT should the body seek to enforce the treaty's provisions.

With these events in mind, we should remember Kazakhstan. Instead of violating international norms and retaining nuclear weapons, Kazakh leaders made the right choice. When searching for success stories, the international community can turn to Kazakhstan.

The Nunn-Lugar Program also assisted Kazakhstan in eliminating the former Soviet nuclear weapons testing complex at the Degelen Mountain Test Tunnel Complex and at Balapan. In close cooperation with Kazakh partners, the Nunn-Lugar program systematically dismantled the complex and sealed nearly 200 nuclear test tunnels and shafts. These facilities will never again contribute to the weapons systems that threatened the world during the Cold War.

The United States, Kazakhstan, and the international community still have much work to do and these efforts will require compromise and sacrifice. The last ten years have shown that nothing is impossible. Both sides have set aside past differences to accomplish this cooperation. Let us continue to approach these challenges with creativity, a willingness to cooperate, and a commitment to the NPT.

REQUESTS FOR FUTURE FUNDING FOR MILITARY OPERATIONS IN AFGHANISTAN AND IRAQ

SEC. 1130. (a) FINDINGS.—The Senate makes the following findings:

(1) The Department of Defense Appropriations Act, 2004 (Public Law 108-87) and the Department of Defense Appropriations Act, 2005 (Public Law 108-287) each contain a sense of the Senate provision urging the President to provide in the annual budget requests of the President for a fiscal year under section 1105(a) of title 31, United States Code, an estimate of the cost of ongoing military operations in Iraq and Afghanistan in such fiscal year.

(2) The budget for fiscal year 2006 submitted to Congress by the President on February 7, 2005, requests no funds for fiscal year 2006 for ongoing military operations in Iraq or Afghanistan.

(3) According to the Congressional Research Service, there exists historical precedent for including the cost of ongoing military operations in the annual budget requests of the President following initial funding for such operations by emergency or supplemental appropriations Acts, including—

(A) funds for Operation Noble Eagle, beginning in the budget request of President George W. Bush for fiscal year 2005;

(B) funds for operations in Kosovo, beginning in the budget request of President George W. Bush for fiscal year 2001;

(C) funds for operations in Bosnia, beginning in budget request of President Clinton for fiscal year 1997;

(D) funds for operations in Southwest Asia, beginning in the budget request of President Clinton for fiscal year 1997;

(E) funds for operations in Vietnam, beginning in the budget request of President Johnson for fiscal year 1966; and

(F) funds for World War II, beginning in the budget request of President Roosevelt for fiscal year 1943.

(4) The Senate has included in its version of the fiscal year 2006 budget resolution, which was adopted by the Senate on March 17, 2005, a reserve fund of $50,000,000,000 for overseas contingency operations, but the determination of that amount could not take into account any Administration estimate on the projected cost of such operations in fiscal year 2006.

(5) In February 2005, the Congressional Budget Office estimated that fiscal year 2006 costs for ongoing military operations in Iraq and Afghanistan could total $65,000,000,000.

(b) SENSE OF SENATE.—It is the sense of the Senate that—

(1) any request for funds for a fiscal year after fiscal year 2006 for an ongoing military operation overseas, including operations in Afghanistan and Iraq, should be included in the annual budget of the President for such fiscal year as submitted to Congress under section 1105(a) of title 31, United States Code;

(2) the President should submit to Congress, not later than September 1, 2005, an amendment to the budget of the President for fiscal year 2006 that was submitted to Congress under section 1105(a) of title 31, United States Code, setting forth detailed cost estimates for ongoing military operations overseas during such fiscal year; and

(3) any funds provided for a fiscal year for ongoing military operations overseas should be provided in appropriations Acts for such fiscal year through appropriations to specific accounts set forth in such appropriations Acts.

(c) ADDITIONAL REQUIREMENTS FOR CERTAIN REPORTS.—(1) Each semiannual report to Congress required under a provision of law referred to in paragraph (2) shall include, in addition to the matters specified in the applicable provision of law, the following:

(A) A statement of the cumulative total of all amounts obligated, and of all amounts expended, as of the date of such report for Operation Enduring Freedom.

(B) A statement of the cumulative total of all amounts obligated, and of all amounts expended, as of the date of such report for Operation Iraqi Freedom.

(C) An estimate of the reasonably foreseeable costs for ongoing military operations to be incurred during the 12-month period beginning on the date of such report.

(2) The provisions of law referred to in this paragraph are as follows:

(A) Section 1120 of the Emergency Supplemental Appropriations Act for Defense and for the Reconstruction of Iraq and Afghanistan, 2004 (Public Law 108–106; 117 Stat. 1219; 10 U.S.C. 113 note).

(B) Section 9010 of the Department of Defense Appropriations Act, 2005 (Public Law 108–287; 118 Stat. 1008; 10 U.S.C. 113 note).

(A) refrain from taking any action that could cause harm to the biodiversity of the Galapagos or encourage illegal fishing in the Marine Reserve;

(B) abide by the agreement to select the Directorship of the Galapagos National Park Service through a transparent process based on merit as previously agreed by the Government of Ecuador, international donors, and nongovernmental organizations; and

(C) enforce the Galapagos Special Law in its entirety, including the governance structure defined by the law to ensure effective control of migration to the Galapagos and sustainable fishing practices, and prohibit long-line fishing which threatens the survival of shark and marine turtle populations.

(c) The Department of State should—

(A) emphasize to the Government of Ecuador the importance the United States gives to these issues; and

PROGRAM

Mr. INHOFE. Tomorrow, following morning business, the Senate will resume consideration of the motion to proceed to the highway bill. The cloture vote will be at approximately 11:45 a.m., and that will be the first vote of tomorrow's session. Once on the bill, we will move forward with the amending process. Senators should expect additional rollcall votes during tomorrow's session.

On behalf of the leader, I inform my colleagues we will have a busy week leading into next week's recess. In addition to the highway bill, we will act on the budget resolution conference report once it becomes available. There are a couple of important nominations expected to be reported out of the committee this week that we hope to act upon, as well. Rollcall votes are expected each day this week, and Senators are asked to plan their schedules accordingly.

HONORING OUR ARMED FORCES

Mrs. BOXER. Mr. President, I had asked for an hour to speak for the RECORD on a number of issues. First, I will pay tribute to 53 young Americans who have been killed in Iraq since December 7, 2004. I pray for these young Americans and their families.

Mr. President, it is with a very heavy heart that I continue to report to the Senate on these young people, and not so young people, who are being killed in Iraq, it seems, almost every day. In this eulogy where I simply read the names and tell you how this happened, we have talked about people from the age of 19 to 51 years old. In this war, we have people of all ages because it is the regular military and also Reserves and National Guard. We have a lot of people who are married with children. The loss is huge, regardless of age. Often, there are even more people who are affected when we have someone who is married with a family—not only the moms and dads but the spouses and the children and the broader community.

So I pray for these young Americans, may they rest in peace; and I pray for their families, may they heal. It is the ultimate act of bravery to answer the call of the Commander in Chief. It is the ultimate act of bravery. I was in Iraq last month, and the security challenges we face there are enormous. I don't have the time tonight to go into detail. It was a bipartisan trip of Senators, and each Senator had two guards at all times with machine guns, plus additional security all around us. We could not go on the main road from Baghdad Airport because of the lack of safety. We flew in Blackhawk helicopters with the greatest pilots in the world, with two machine guns looking out at all times. Every time we were anywhere on the ground, you could smell the danger. We were so well protected. Even in the General Assembly building, where you would think it would be very safe, they said it was the site of kidnappings.

Even in the Embassy compound, we heard that one of the military people killed there, LCDR Keith Taylor, died January 29 in a rocket attack on the U.S. Embassy in Baghdad. That is a highly protected and defended place. We sat there, and I noted the looks on the faces of the civilians sitting around—the fear, the anguish, the anxiety. I made a point of thanking them for their service. I know they want to build a democracy there. I noted how fearful and anxious they looked. I truly expected at least one of them to say: No, you are misreading it; that is not so. But they did not contradict it.

It is a very dangerous place. I think we all learned that through loss of that beautiful young woman, Marla Ruzicka, who is a true hero of her generation, if not the country. She was working in Iraq with a nonprofit organization she set up that actually was funded by this Senate, I am proud to say, to find the innocent victims of war, what we call collateral damage of war. Marla put a face on these little children and these grieving mothers and fathers.

She would go out into the homes of the Iraqi people—it is so dangerous to do that—with her blond hair flying. She would take the testimony, and then she would bring it back to the military who grew to trust Marla. Then, if it all checked out, these people would get some recompense to try and rebuild their lives.

It was a very moving funeral I went to with my family in Lakeport, CA. People came from all over the country and all over the world to honor Marla. I know Senator LEAHY, on our side, has taken the lead on this incredible program. I hope to work with him and Members of both sides of the aisle to make sure that program continues.

Of course, we need to have a plan for success in Iraq, and my view is we do not have that right now. When we ask the people who brought us the war, namely the President, how long we are going to be there, he says: As long as it takes. I think we can do better. I think there are five or six things we can do. But, again, I do not have time to go into it tonight, and I have spoken about this at length before.

Clearly, training the Iraqis is key, and General Petraeus told us when we met with him that he is very high on the Iraqi troops. He thinks they are terrific. He thinks they can step in. There are 120,000 of them. This is good news. We ought to be able to begin to bring our troops home and replace them with the Iraqis.

I also met with the new leaders of the country, and I believe if we do not set some dates, they will forever rely on us. I do not think that is the way it should be. I really do not. They need to get on their own two feet, and we ought to help them—train these soldiers, train these police forces and bring our troops back.

It is not working out well for us over there. It is counterproductive right now. The CIA told us that when we visited. Indeed, the head of the CIA told us in hearings that it is fueling the insurgency. General Newbolt, who planned the original military victory in Iraq, told us the same. We need to have a goal of when we are going to leave because otherwise it is fueling discontent. The insurgency is so deep now. Different groups are coming every day taking "credit" for these horrible civilian deaths.

The status quo is not good there. I hope we can move forward with a plan for success. A lot of our people have given their lives and their limbs, thousands of them coming home without limbs, over 11,000 at this point. We need to stand with them and with their families and make sure we are there for them because they are suffering mightily.

They are brave, they are courageous, they will do whatever they are asked to do. They are extraordinary. We need to stand with them, regardless of whether we think this war was the best thing we ever did or the worst thing we ever did. That is secondary. We have to stand with them.

WELDON AMENDMENT

Mrs. BOXER. Mr. President, Senator FRIST was true to his word. He told me I could have a vote to repeal what I consider to be a very dangerous amendment that came into an appropriations bill without any hearings, without any discussions, without any votes, and I think could very well lead to a very dangerous situation for the women of our country.

I decided not to push the vote. It was too close to call. Some people said there were 56 votes against us. That was not my count, but I knew that in order to win this vote I needed to talk with people individually at great length.

Why is that? Because this is one of the most confusing amendments that we have ever faced in the Senate. Just ask the people at HHS, who are trying to implement it. Just ask the people who filed suit. They say it is so vague and so broad that it could literally mean people coming into an emergency room, not getting served, and dying in an emergency room. This is what could happen.

I thank Senator FRIST for being true to his word, for giving me the opportunity, and I want to briefly explain what I plan to do about this Weldon amendment, with the help of my friends and colleagues.

Senator HARKIN and I plan to work across the aisle to modify this amendment so that it really is what it claims to be, a conscience clause. No one objects to conscience clauses. I support them. Conscience clauses are in the law. I am happy to clarify them, make sure anyone who has a moral objection to performing an abortion absolutely has every right not to have to do that.

I have talked at length with Senator HARKIN, and we are going to work with our colleagues. That means with Senator SPECTER and the other members of the Appropriations Committee so they understand the ramifications of this Weldon amendment, which I will go into in a minute.

Second, as I mentioned, there have been lawsuits filed challenging the constitutionality of the Weldon amendment. I believe the arguments are compelling. As I have said before—and we were proven right when other anti-choice amendments that were thrown out of court—I believe this one also will be thrown out. Because it cannot possibly be that any judge anywhere, regardless of whether he or she is liberal, conservative, moderate, Republican, Democrat, or anything else, would put women's lives in danger like this could do. So I feel very confident it will come out all right.

I am going to give a brief discussion on what I think the Weldon amendment means as it is now written.

Although the proponents of the Weldon amendment call it a conscience clause, nowhere in the amendment do we see the words "religion," "morals," "beliefs," or "values." It is masquerading as a conscience clause, but it really is not. I call it a denial clause because it will deny women emergency care when their lives are in danger, deny low-income rape victims reproductive health care, deny doctors the right to give their patients vital information, and deny States the ability to enforce critical laws ensuring the health of women.

The fact is, our hospitals and doctors already have a Federal conscience clause, it's called the 1973 Church Amendment. What Weldon does is different. It's a big loophole that allows anyone, including HMOs, to decide, for any reason, that they do not want any of their doctors not only not performing abortions but also telling a woman that it is a legal right for her, referring her, talking to her honestly about what her options are.

This amendment is giving a denial clause to an HMO which, by the way, I do not think they have a conscience, given the way many of them treat people. So we are giving the HMO, a corporation, a big denial clause—not the doctor, not the nurse but the corporation. So that means they can now gag doctors who work for them by telling them: You better not inform a woman about her rights because if you do, it is against the guidelines of this HMO.

Now, in this Weldon amendment, there is no exception for rape or incest. Imagine, there is no exception for rape and incest. So even if a woman comes in who has been brutally raped or the victim of incest, under this Weldon amendment, the hospital or the HMO could violate current law and say: So sorry about that, you are on your own. Now, this is America in 2005. Where is our conscience? Where are our moral values? Where are our family values if we pass an amendment like this, that would throw a woman out in the most dire of circumstances? It is just horrific.

And this goes against our Medicaid law. The Hyde amendment makes an exception for rape and incest if a woman is on Medicaid and if she is poor. HENRY HYDE and I talked about that quite a bit, and he supported that very much. First the exception was if one's life is at stake, they can get Medicaid help to end the pregnancy. Then it was rape and incest. There is no such exception in Weldon, and guess what happens. If the Medicaid law is enforced, states can now lose all of their Federal funds for education, labor, and health. This is just crazy. It makes no sense at all.

We believe that Weldon would allow a woman to die in an emergency room. There are very unbelievably tragic stories. Let us say a woman is in a car accident while she is in the early stages of her pregnancy. She is rushed into the emergency room, and she is losing blood. The only way to save her life is to terminate the pregnancy. Under Weldon, if the hospital says, I am sorry, we do not do that, she could just simply die waiting for help. This is what Weldon does. This is why I cannot believe a judge is going to allow it to continue.

So the Weldon amendment is drawn in such a way that all the laws we have—including the emergency room law ensuring a hospital takes measures to stabilize patients if their lives are endangered and the Medicaid law that allows a woman to get an abortion if she is raped or the victim of incest—are overridden by Weldon. Any State law that steps in to help guarantee reproductive services and referrals to woman is overridden by Weldon. And if States enforce their own law to help a woman in a crisis, they can lose all of their Federal funds, not just their family planning funds but every dollar of their education money, their labor money, and their health money. We are talking about billions of dollars across the board.

We all know it is totally unconstitutional to gag a doctor. Every year the anti-choice people pass a Mexico City gag rule, which I am proud to say the Senate does not support, but the President does, and it always manages to survive. The gag rule is in effect abroad, but they cannot do it here. Why? Because in this country we have freedom of speech, and a gag cannot be put around a doctor's mouth and tell them they cannot let their patients know all of their options; that is unconstitutional. But here, under Weldon, an HMO can gag any doctor that works for it. So it is really completely outrageous.

In essence, we are going to have a whole series of laws overturned by the Weldon amendment. The odd thing is, if the backers of the Weldon amendment would come to the table and tell us all the things they want to do, we could have an honest debate. The trouble we have is that the people who support Weldon will say: All we have is a conscience clause. But that isn't the case.

We have letters from doctors, patients, States, and we have lawsuits that really unmask the true ramifications of Weldon. What we have is a provision that masquerades as a conscience clause when it is really a denial clause that would punish States. These are the people who I thought liked States rights.

Let us take the issue of hospital mergers. In the past, under current law, every State in the Union that I know of has the ability, when a hospital merges, to set conditions for those mergers. The attorneys general of those States have the right to put conditions on those mergers. Under Weldon, that's no longer possible if such conditions include making sure that in this merger a woman has still reproductive health care. So it is taking away the rights of States, and that is again why I believe we can fix this, because it is so dangerous in its current form.

We have this amendment masquerading as a conscience clause. But it is not a conscience clause, it is a denial clause because it will deny women the health care they need to live, to be helped and saved in an emergency. It will gag doctors. It will stop attorneys general in all of our States from carrying out their duties. A couple of States have sued on behalf of this. Many who must implement it have thrown their hands up. They do not know how to enforce it. It never had a hearing in the Senate. We never looked at it, and it passed as part of the appropriations bill.

Again, I thank Senator FRIST for living up to his commitment he made to me. I appreciate it. What we are going to do is continue to work to let everyone know how outrageous this law is, how far reaching this law is, how dangerous this law is to women, how it walks away from family values, from States rights, from anything decent when one says to a woman who has been raped or is the victim of incest that she is on her own. That is not what this country is about.

At some point, we are going to make sure that this Weldon amendment is either modified so it becomes what it says it is, which is a conscience clause that no one has an objection to, or is repealed.

How much more time do I have remaining?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from California has 23 minutes remaining.

JOHN BOLTON NOMINATION

Mrs. BOXER. Mr. President, I want to close on a couple of topics. The first one, because I sit on the Foreign Relations Committee, is the nomination of John Bolton to be our Ambassador to the United Nations. I do call on the President to rethink this nomination. Out of the thousands of strong, conservative Republicans who care about the world, there has to be somebody better than someone who has a pattern of not only abusing his staff, called a serial abuser by one witness, but also, and this is really threatening, trying to get them fired if they do not give him the information he wants.

I am talking about false information and reaching down from the very high level at which he has been to the bottom of another agency that he did not even have direct line control over and trying to force not one but two and maybe three intelligence analysts to paint a picture that he wanted to use so that he could present a country as an imminent threat to this Nation, which could have led to some serious ramifications. Of all the people to pick now, it should not be someone who would try to politicize intelligence gathering.

I received another letter on Friday, which I sent to both sides of the committee. I hope this will be looked at. It concerns a case where years ago John Bolton was trying to overturn a U.N. resolution—or have it modified—that dealt with infant formula in the developing nations. Some of my colleagues may remember that issue, where babies were dying throughout the developing world because they were mixing the baby formula with contaminated water, and the U.N. voted very strongly to stop distributing and selling that baby formula. According to this woman, who has a lot of credentials—an attorney who worked with John Bolton—she said that Bolton ordered her to contact these developing nations and tell them to back off and modify this resolution so that Nestle Company and others could sell their product in the developing world. And this is interesting—conscience clause—she said: My conscience does not allow me to do this because if one baby died as a result of what I did, I could not live with myself. There is a conscience clause in the agency that says if somebody has a conscience problem when given an assignment, they do not have to do it. Well, Bolton said, if you do not do this, you are fired, and he fired her on the spot, according to her. She is going to go under oath and testify to this. Then he found out he could not fire her because she was protected by Civil Service. She comes back to work, and what do they find? Her entire office had been moved. Where is it moved? To the basement of the building. No telephone. A desk and a chair. She loved her job, and she eventually got a telephone down there and worked around John Bolton and stayed there doing her work.

This is yet another story. So we have a pattern of abusive behavior. Some of my friends on the other side of the aisle say, this is just the person we need for the U.N.—somebody tough. If you want someone in the U.N. who has a history of trying to change intelligence information—and now the world knows it.

As my ranking member JOE BIDEN has stated, this is the guy who may have to make the intelligence case against Iran. This is the guy who may have to make the intelligence case against North Korea with this background of using political pressure to get the kind of intelligence he wanted to build a case. This is not the right person. We do not want someone there who will politicize intelligence gathering. I don't think we want someone there who is such a hothead that it will turn a lot of people off.

We have testimony from multiple sources. At first, my friends on the other side of the committee said it is an isolated incident; you are talking about one incident. We have incident after incident.

Oh, he is just the person we need. We want someone tough. Tough is one thing. Tough and principled and committed is one thing. Abusing people is something else. A man is called a serial abuser by someone who has the credentials to know—e-mails back this up—trying to get people fired because they want to do their job.

It was so bad that Colin Powell, the Secretary of State, had to actually go and talk to all these “independent” analysts; his message was, don't you worry about it. You continue to do your work. I thank him for that. The testimony is clear. He went there and told those analysts, don't you be bullied. I am using those words. But the message he had was, don't you worry about it. Do your work. Do your job. It is very clear.

How refreshing it was to see Senator VOINOVICH, at the committee, listen to what Senator BIDEN, in particular, was saying. They had the information, chapter and verse, proof of why this is not a good appointment.

I know the pressures that have come to bear on Senator VOINOVICH. It is not pleasant to be alone. I have been there. I know how it feels. But he is answering to his conscience. I think he did the Senate proud by doing that.

Now we hear other colleagues on the committee saying maybe they need more time and more information.

Again, this can all be avoided. There are so many other people who can do this job. I said before that John Bolton is very loyal to this conservative doctrine. There could be many positions for him in the administration. We need someone in the spirit of John Danforth—Republican, conservative, wonderful former Senator who went to the United Nations, who immediately had the support and the credibility and the respect.

In closing, I will talk about an issue I know the Presiding Officer has been very involved with, and that is the filibuster issue. As someone who once wanted to end a filibuster myself at an early stage, I now understand how foolish I was at that point. Why did I want it to end when I first came here as freshman? We had the majority and the Republicans were thwarting us. It was very frustrating. We wanted to fix everything. I voted to say this filibuster has to go.

Little did I realize that is the way the Senate is supposed to operate in a deliberative fashion. As one of the Founders said, the House is the cup. It gets hot. It is steaming. And when the issues get to the Senate, it is the saucer. They cool down. One of the ways to ensure that is to have extended debate.

FILIBUSTER

Mrs. BOXER. Mr. President, there has been so much misinformation on the filibuster I want to make sure I put my thoughts into the record. We hear Republican Senators actually get up and say they never filibustered any judges. I was stunned, so we went back into history and we have a chart for that.

The first filibuster in modern times was started by the Republicans in 1968 against Abe Fortas for the Supreme Court. We know there have been 11 in recent times, 11 filibusters. Here is one in 1971, probably started by the Democrats, William Rehnquist to be a Supreme Court justice. Here is one in 1980, probably started by the Republicans, Stephen Breyer, to be a judge on the First Circuit Court of Appeals. Then in 1984 Harvie Wilkinson, Fourth Circuit Court of Appeals. In 1986, Sydney Fitzwater, to be a judge for the Northern District of Texas. 1992, Edward Earle Carnes to be judge on the Eleventh Circuit. 1994, Lee Sarokin to be a judge on the Third Circuit Court of Appeals. In 1999, Brian Theodore Stewart, to be a judge for the District of Utah. In the year 2000—and this is my State—there was a major filibuster; we fought hard and we beat the filibuster. We got the votes needed, Richard Paez to be a judge on the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals and Marsha Berzon to be a judge on the Ninth Circuit.

When we hear Republicans say they never launched a filibuster, you can ask, what? Here is Bob Smith who led the filibuster, Republican, from New Hampshire. Here is what he said:

... It is no secret that I have been the person who has filibustered these two nominations, Judge Berzon and Judge Paez.

Here he is again:

So don't tell me we haven't filibustered judges and that we don't have the right to filibuster judges on the floor of the Senate. Of course we do. That is our constitutional role.

Here is a Republican Senator who started a filibuster against two judge nominees for the Ninth Circuit. He called this a "constitutional role." Now we have other Republicans saying the constitutional option is no filibuster. Wrong. You are contradicting your own people here.

Now, ORRIN HATCH himself admitted there were filibusters on the floor:

Indeed, I must confess to being somewhat baffled that, after a filibuster is cut off by cloture, the Senate could still delay a final vote on nomination.

That is ORRIN HATCH. This is the major point I want to make, Who is the real leader out there pushing to end the filibuster on judges? Pushing, pushing, pushing?

And, by the way, it is unbelievable we have confirmed 205 of George W. Bush's nominees to the courts. We have stopped 10. Let me say it again: 205 have gotten through and we have stopped 10.

Now, do the math, and I will say to you: In your life, if you get 95 percent of what you want, wouldn't you go around with a smile on your face? I would. If I got 95 percent of what I wanted from the Senate, I would be so happy. If I got 95 percent of what I wanted from my family—if they sought my way 95 percent of the time—I would be happy; especially when they were teenagers, I would be really happy.

But do you know what. If I were arrogant, and I wanted everything, and I thought I knew best all the time, and I wanted to grab all the power, I would be sunk. So these folks over here, who got 95 percent of what they wanted—205 judges, and then 10 whom we thought were out of the mainstream—and, by the way, wow, are they out of the mainstream—they are unhappy. And now they are going to change the rules in the middle of the game.

For 200 years of our Constitution we have been able to speak and express ourselves. I have to tell you, this is dangerous to our democracy. When one party wants its all, when one party wants to stop minority rights, that is dangerous. And that is where we are.

But here is the best of all—and I hope people will know this—when we had this filibuster on Marsha Berzon, and when we had this filibuster of Richard Paez, guess who voted to keep the filibuster going on Richard Paez. I will give you a clue. He appeared on a big screen over the weekend. I will give you another clue. He was elected by the Republicans to be the majority leader of the Senate, BILL FRIST. He says filibusters are terrible, filibusters are wrong. Yet he voted to continue the filibuster on Richard Paez.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Executive vote No. 37 of March 8, 2000, on Richard Paez to cut off the filibuster be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the vote was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

NOT VOTING—1

McCain (R-AZ)

Mrs. BOXER. So let's hold people accountable for what they do and say. I admit I was foolish on the filibuster when I was a freshman and I came in here. I also wanted everything to go my way. I was wrong. And it is hard for a Senator to say they are wrong. We do not like to admit it. But I was wrong. But how can BILL FRIST lead the charge, say that filibusters are wrong, it is terrible, it is awful, it is against the Constitution, and everything else he says—which I do not agree with any of what he said—and then not address the fact that he voted to sustain a filibuster. It does not make sense.

We have soldiers dying in Iraq, in Afghanistan. Lord knows where they are going to go in this very dangerous world. And the mission: to make sure democracy thrives. Do you know that when I was in Iraq, we were told one of the reasons the minority groups there, the Kurds, felt comfortable was they knew they were going to copy the model of this democracy, including the filibuster?

They said: Oh, we know we are going to have our rights heard because we are going to have the right to filibuster. They even told that to a Republican Senator who went over there.

By the way, when I was in the Palestinian territories—this is another interesting part of my trip—the first thing the Palestinians said they want to do is make sure their people get a monthly social security benefit that is guaranteed. I truly wanted to ask the Minister there—I think he was the Minister of the Interior—to please contact President Bush and tell him that a guaranteed social security benefit was their first priority, as the President tries to undo the guaranteed benefit for Social Security. That trip I went on was fascinating in so many different ways. But mostly, what I realized was, we need to be the model of freedom and democracy. If we start taking away minority rights, if we start saying we cannot stand to hear each other—by the way, I understand it. I know it is painful to hear me speak for some of my colleagues who do not agree with me. They say: Oh, I can't listen to one more word. And I feel the same way when they start talking about things with which I fundamentally disagree.

But that is what it is about here because all of America has to be represented here, from the most liberal, to the most conservative, to everything in between. All of us have to feel represented. But if we stop the ability of the other to debate and discuss, especially on judges, where it is a lifetime appointment, at a very high salary—they never have to face the electorate. This is the only moment.

So what if we say they have to meet a higher bar? That is a good thing on behalf of the people. Because—guess what—do you know what they rule on? They rule on everything to do with your life. They rule on whether there should be child labor. They rule on whether you should be harassed and exploited in the workplace. They rule on whether you have the right to clean air and safe drinking water. They rule on everybody's rights: voting rights, civil rights, human rights. They rule on whether your child can get a good education. They rule on whether corporate America must provide a safe workplace for you. They rule on whether the Federal Government can say that people who pollute have to clean up that pollution.

Why do you think there are so many people who want to get every single judge? Because they want judges of a certain philosophy. That is wrong. We should work for mainstream, fair judges—that is what we need on the bench—who can see all sides. But when one side wants everything, when 95 percent is not enough, when 205 to 10 is not good enough, beware of what is coming down. Do not change the rules in the middle of the game. That is not fair. That is not right. It is throwing a fit over something, when you have gotten 95 percent of what you want.

You do not change the rules in the middle of the game, like they did in the House on the Ethics Committee. Do not do that. That is not right, it is not fair, and it is wrong. It is wrong for the American people.

Everyone in the world looks to America—everyone in the world. When we start weakening our rules around here, and weakening the rights of the people to exercise the rights they have been given as Senators, we are in a lot of trouble.

So, Mr. President, I have gone through a number of issues, starting off with the most solemn, which was reading the names of those in the military who have died, who were either from California or were based in California. I promised my constituents I would always come to the floor periodically to remember them. The saddest thing: 26 percent of the dead soldiers happened to be either from California or based in California. That is a huge number. So it is with a very heavy heart that I did that.

But we have a lot to do, a lot on our agenda. I hope we will stay focused on the things that matter to the people—on the things that matter to the people. Let's not spend time changing the rules of the Senate that we have had for so many years. Let's not do that. Let's do the work. Let's get a success strategy for Iraq. Let's get health care for our people. Let's get education for our children. Let's make sure the air is clean and the water is safe, that we protect our beautiful places. Let's make sure we attack this issue of gas prices, which in my State we are seeing $3 a gallon. I wrote to the FTC, and I said: Please investigate what is going on with the refiners. Please look at these mergers that are coming at us now that will make it even worse.

We have work to do. But, no, we have to have our leader go on a Sunday, or whatever, and—big publicity—address a group about changing the rules of the filibuster. This does not meet the test, it seems to me, of doing the job.

We know there will be fallout. That is the nuclear option, and nuclear explosions have fallout. It doesn't mean shutting down the Senate, but I can assure you, it is going to mean working harder in the Senate, working really hard, working on some things that maybe we haven't worked on in a while, forcing that. But I have to tell you, 205 to 10, you should be smiling, not frowning, not addressing people and saying how terrible you are doing. You should be happy. It is a heck of a lot better than a lot of Democratic Presidents have done. You should be happy.

You should bring us judges that are mainstream, and there wouldn't be any filibusters. I have supported so many. You succeeded 205 times. You failed 10 times because you tried to put people on there who really were so far out of the mainstream it would be dangerous.

Can't we compromise this thing and come together? Let's get back to work.

I ask unanimous consent that my prepared text on the Weldon amendment be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the text was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

WELDON AMENDMENT

Mr. President, I rise this evening to talk about the Weldon amendment, a sweeping provision endangering women's health that was slipped into the 2005 appropriations bill at the last minute without any hearings, discussions, or votes.

In November, Senator Frist promised me an up or down vote on repealing the Weldon amendment by the end of April. Last week, I decided to hold off on that vote for the time being.

First, the Weldon amendment will expire in less than 6 months. I believe that the best way to defeat this provision right now is to work with Senator Harkin and Members on both sides of the aisle to remove or modify it in the next spending bill.

I have talked at length with Senator Harkin about this. He has promised that he will work closely with Senator Specter and me to underscore our commitment to a real conscience clause for doctors and hospitals without undermining our commitment to the health of women across our country.

Second, two lawsuits have already been filed challenging the constitutionality of Weldon. Their arguments are compelling and I believe that the plaintiffs one of which is the California attorney general—will prevail.

There has been a lot of misinformation about Weldon. So I thought it would help to show this provision in black and white:

Here is what Weldon says:

(d)(1) None of the funds made available in this Act may be made available to a Federal agency or program, or to a State or local government, if such agency, program or government subjects any institutional or individual health care entity to discrimination on the basis that the health care entity does not provide, pay for, provide coverage of, or refer for abortions.

(2) In this subsection, the term "health care entity" includes an individual physician or other health care professional, a hospital, a provider-sponsored organization, a health maintenance organization, a health insurance plan, or any other kind of health care facility, organization or plan.

I have read this language over and over again. And nowhere do I find the words "religion, morals, beliefs, or values."

That is because Weldon is not a conscience clause. It is a denial clause because it could deny women emergency care when their lives are in danger, deny low-income rape victims reproductive health care, deny doctors the right to give their patients vital information, and deny states the ability to enforce critical laws ensuring the health of women.

Some are saying that Weldon is needed to protect the religious beliefs of doctors and hospitals that don't want to perform abortions. But that is not true.

No Federal law forces any doctor to perform an abortion. And no Federal law forces any hospital to perform an abortion, unless the woman will die without an emergency procedure.

In fact, we already have many Federal and State laws protecting the conscience of our health care providers, including the 1973 Church amendment.

That conscience clause says that public authorities may not require any individual or health care entity that receives financial assistance under our federal health programs to perform or assist in the performance of any sterilization procedure or abortion if his performance or assistance in the performance of such procedure or abortion would be contrary to his religious beliefs or moral convictions make its facilities available for the performance of any sterilization procedure or abortion if the performance of such procedure or abortion in such facilities is prohibited by the entity on the basis of religious beliefs or moral convictions, or provide any personnel for the performance or assistance in the performance of any sterilization procedure or abortion if the performance or assistance in the performance of such procedures or abortion by such personnel would be contrary to the religious beliefs or moral convictions of such personnel. Or discriminate in the employment, promotion, or termination of employment of any physician or other health care personnel, or discriminate in the extension of staff or other privileges to any physician or other health care personnel, because he performed or assisted in the performance of a lawful sterilization procedure or abortion, because he refused to perform or assist in the performance of such a procedure or abortion on the grounds that his performance or assistance in the performance of the procedure or abortion would be contrary to his religious beliefs or moral convictions, or because of his religious beliefs or moral convictions respecting sterilization procedures or abortions.

It is not just the Federal law that offers protections. As you can see on this chart, some 46 States—almost every one of them—have enacted their own conscience clauses for doctors and providers who don't want to provide abortions.

Some are claiming that Weldon is simply a clarification of current law. I find that amazing, given that it takes hours for even the most seasoned attorneys and lawmakers to make any sense of this provision. There is nothing clarifying about it.

Weldon is a giant loophole that effectively bars federal, state, and local governments from enforcing laws protecting the reproductive health of women.

Most Americans, including most people of faith, believe that we need to strike the right balance between honoring personal beliefs and protecting the public at large.

In one survey, 89 percent of people said they oppose allowing insurance companies to refuse to pay for medical services on religious grounds.

Weldon takes it a step further, allowing any insurance company, HMO, or other entity to refuse to provide services or referrals on any grounds, and in any circumstances, even if a woman's life is in danger.

Late last week, Rev. Carlton Veazey, the president of the Religious Coalition for Reproductive Choice, brought me 2,000 petitions from people of faith in all 50 States.

These petitions said that, "Weldon is not just bad law, it is immoral law, dangerous law, and women will be hurt by it, some perhaps even killed by it."

What do our consciences say about that?

What do our consciences say about helping the thousands of women who become pregnant as a result of rape each year? The Weldon amendment makes no exceptions for them, or for women whose lives are in serious danger.

Weldon tells our State and local governments that they can not ensure that any woman, including victims of rape and incest, receive abortion referrals and services without losing all their Federal health, education, and labor funding.

Weldon tells our State and local governments that their title X clinics no longer have to refer a poor woman who asks about an abortion, even if she has been raped or her life is in danger.

Weldon tells our State and local governments that they should no longer honor the Hyde amendment, which provides Medicaid coverage for low-income women who are victims of rape or incest, or whose lives are in danger.

Here is what the Hyde amendment says:

None of the funds appropriated under this Act, and none of the funds in any trust fund to which funds are appropriated under this Act, shall be expended for any abortion. . . .

The limitations established in the preceding section shall not apply to an abortion (1) if the pregnancy is the result of an act of rape or incest; or (2) in the case where a woman suffers from a physical disorder, physical injury, or physical illness, including a life-endangering physical condition caused by or arising from the pregnancy itself, that would, as certified by a physician, place the woman in danger of death unless an abortion is performed. . . .

What if a poor woman is raped by her uncle? Say she does not have a job. She relies on Medicaid for her health care. She is not told about the option of emergency contraception and becomes pregnant.

What if she cannot emotionally bear to give birth to her relative's child—her rapist's child?

Under the Hyde amendment we say Medicaid must pay for her abortion if she is the victim of rape or incest. But, under Weldon, that is no longer the case.

What if she goes to her regular Medicaid managed care organization, but is never told that these services are covered, and never referred anywhere else? The States can no longer enforce the Hyde amendment, or even their own laws helping rape and incest victims.

What do our consciences say about helping women who will die without emergency abortions?

Weldon has no exceptions for women whose lives are in danger.

It tells States that they cannot enforce laws ensuring that poor women who face life-threatening situations will receive abortion referrals or services.

It undermines the 1986 Federal Emergency Medical Treatment and Active Labor Act, EMTALA, which says that if a pregnant woman comes to a hospital with a life-threatening situation, she will receive the treatment needed to be stabilized, even if that includes an abortion.

This law states:

If any individual comes to a hospital and the hospital determines that the individual has an emergency medical condition, the hospital must provide . . .

. . . within the staff and facilities available at the hospital, for such further medical examination and such treatment as may be required to stabilize the medical condition, . . .

A San Francisco doctor called my office to tell some of these tragic stories. One of her patient's blood was not clotting. She was bleeding for over an hour.

If she had been sent home or encouraged to continue her pregnancy, she would have likely died. Thankfully, she got care.

Another woman, a married mother, came to the hospital with an ectopic pregnancy, which means the pregnancy was developing in her cervix. If a woman grows a pregnancy in her cervix, she can die.

Again, this doctor was able to save her life.

But, what if these woman had walked into a hospital that refused to provide emergency abortions?

The Congress passed the Emergency Treatment and Active Labor Act to ensure that no one is ever turned away if their lives are in danger.

Now, Weldon tells a hospital or HMO to ignore this law. It says they can let a woman die if they don't want to perform an abortion.

And there is nothing States can do about it without losing all their Federal labor, health, and education funding.

Weldon allows all health care companies to gag doctors, and deny women vital information about their reproductive health options.

Weldon tells State and local governments they can no longer protect the doctor-patient relationship through Federal or State laws without losing all their Federal health, education, and labor funding.

Weldon conflicts with current title X Federal regulations, which require family planning clinics to:

Offer pregnant women the opportunity to be provided information and counseling regarding each of the following options:

- (A) Prenatal care and delivery;
- (B) Infant care, foster care, or adoption; and
- (C) Pregnancy termination.

(i) If requested to provide such information and counseling, provide neutral, factual information and nondirective counseling on each of the options, and referral upon request, except with respect to any option(s) about which the pregnant woman indicates she does not wish to receive such information and counseling.

Under Weldon, a title X clinic can take our funding, but refuse to give women information. Think about what this could mean for the poor women who rely on these clinics.

Last year, a married Latina woman in her early 30s came to one of our title X family planning clinics in Los Angeles. She had two children under six.

She had been to the clinic before because her husband is unfaithful. He had infected her with severe STDs.

When she became pregnant again, she was very scared about having the baby. Her home life was extremely unstable, and she was worried about the impact of STDs on the fetus.

She made the extremely difficult decision to have an abortion. She asked the clinic to refer her. It did. That was the law.

But now Weldon is in direct conflict with this Federal regulation saying that title X family planning clinics that serve poor women must give them a referral if asked.

Now clinics can ignore this law. Women can be left without information. And States have no power to act.

The American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists says:

The Federal refusal clause would jeopardize a physician's ability to inform a patient of all her legal medical options at federally funded Title X family planning clinics, and would categorize the Title X referral requirement as discriminatory—effectively gagging physicians across the country.

According to ACOG ethical guidelines, "Under all conditions of practice . . . consultation and referral should be carried out in the patients' best interest."

Weldon is not in the patient's best interest. It allows title X clinics, HMOs, and anyone else to deny our health care professionals their right to free speech and their patients the right to full information about their options.

If States try to enforce their own laws, they could lose billions of dollars in Federal labor, health, and education funding. For example:

All 50 States have the power to ensure that hospital mergers don't undermine the public interest. In some cases, an attorney general might determine that, for a merger to go forward, the two parties must find some way to protect the reproductive health care of women.

The Indiana supreme court has held that limits on State medical assistance for abortion in cases of life endangerment, rape or incest are unconstitutional under the State constitution because they do not include exceptions for women's health.

The New Mexico supreme court held that a regulation limiting medical assistance for abortion in cases of life endangerment, rape or incest is unconstitutional under the New Mexico constitution.

A court in Illinois has held that under a law limiting State medical assistance for abortion to cases of life endangerment is unconstitutional, under the constitution of Illinois.

Under Weldon, States face a Hobson's choice between denying reproductive health services and information to women or losing billions of dollars in Federal labor, health, and education funding.

They are told they have to ignore their constitutions, to ignore Federal law and State law. They are told they no longer can find creative ways to ensure women's health.

In New Jersey, a court approved an arrangement that set aside some of the assets of a secular hospital prior to its acquisition by a Catholic hospital.

The assets were meant to support the continuation of the secular hospital's mission of providing reproductive health services, which it would not be able to fulfill after the merger.

Now, New Jersey can no longer enforce this arrangement without risking more than $7 billion in Federal funding.

Now, some say that States are free to enforce laws protecting reproductive health. They say States can do whatever they want if they just give up Federal funds. Sure.

Let's look at what States would lose. And, keep in mind: these numbers are very conservative.

This chart has California losing at least $37 billion in Federal funding, but our Attorney General has put the number at $49 billion.

No State can afford to give up substantial resources that help educate and care for its children, provide for and train its workers, and bring health care to all its citizens.

This is not about choice, it is about coercion.

That is one of the many reasons why the California attorney general has sued in Federal court, a lawsuit that I believe will prevail.

The suit says the Weldon amendment is unconstitutional because it restricts a woman's right to abortion when necessary to preserve her life or health.

It says that Weldon exceeds Congress's spending power because it is so vague.

In South Dakota v. Dole, 1987, the court said that when "Congress desires to condition the States' receipt of federal funds, 'it must do so unambiguously, enable[ing] the States to exercise their choice knowingly, cognizant of the consequences of their participation.'"

Another lawsuit filed in the District of Columbia on behalf of health care clinics makes the same claim. It says: "The amendment 'leaves Title X grantees to guess how to meet Weldon's mandate while meeting the mandates of [Title X regulations], and, indeed, whether this is even possible.'"

If States aren't sure how to comply with Weldon, they cannot make a knowing choice. And, with the amount of funding at stake, they are bound to err on the side of extreme caution, thereby creating a chilling effect.

The California lawsuit says that Federal funding conditions must be rationally related to the Federal interest in the program receiving them.

What does unemployment insurance or No Child Left Behind funds have to do with reproductive health?

Nothing. But the penalties under Weldon are so unconstitutionally extreme and coercive that States have no choice but to comply.

This amendment is unconstitutional and dangerous.

It is not a conscience clause. We already have that.

It is a denial clause that will cause unnecessary hardship for victims of rape, women whose lives are in danger, poor women who rely on their doctors for information, and States that will be forced to choose between protecting women and losing billions of dollars in funds.

If the Senate wants a new conscience clause, we can draft a real conscience clause.

I will work with my colleagues on both sides of the aisle to do just that.

But I will not back down until we alter or repeal the Weldon language as written and do right by the women, doctors, and States across America.
