PROCEEDINGS AND DEBATES OF THE 104th CONGRESS, SECOND SESSION

Vol. 142

WASHINGTON, TUESDAY, MARCH 26, 1996

No. 43

Senate

The Senate met at 10 a.m., and was called to order by the President pro tempore [Mr. THURMOND].

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. We have a guest chaplain this morning, Father Lavin from St. Joseph's Catholic Church.

PRAYER

The guest chaplain, the Reverend Paul E. Lavin, pastor, St. Joseph's on Capitol Hill, Washington, DC, offered the following prayer:

Let us listen to the word of the Lord from the book of Tobit.—Tobit 12:6-8:

"Raphael called the two men aside privately and said to them: 'Thank God! Give him the praise and glory.'

"Before all the living, acknowledge the many good things he has done for you, by blessing and extolling his name in song.

"Before all men, honor, and proclaim God's deeds, and do not be slack in praise being Him.

"A king's secret it is prudent to keep, but the works of God are to be declared and made known.

"Praise them with due honor.

"Do good, and evil will not find its way to you.

"Prayer and fasting are good, but better than either is almsgiving accompanied by righteousness."

Let us pray:

Good and gracious God, it is by Your light, the light of Your spirit, that You inspired us to understand Your goodness and called us to be faithful.

In that same spirit, help us to relish what is right and always to rejoice in the consolation that You give us.

Grant eternal rest to our colleague, Senator Edmund Muskie, and grant consolation to his family.

Strengthen us with Your grace and Your wisdom, for You are God forever and ever. Amen.

RECOGNITION OF THE ACTING MAJORITY LEADER

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The able acting majority leader is recognized.

SCHEDULE

Mr. LOTT. Mr. President, today, there will be a period for morning business until the hour of 10:30 a.m. with Senators permitted to speak therein for up to 5 minutes each, except for the following: Senator DORGAN for 15 minutes and Senator REID for 15 minutes.

At 10:30, we will be scheduled to resume consideration of Calendar No. 300, H.R. 1296, the Presidio legislation, with the Murkowski substitute pending. A cloture motion was filed on the Murkowski amendment last night. Therefore, a cloture vote will occur tomorrow morning under the provisions of rule XXII. There are expected to be amendments offered during the day. Therefore, rollcall votes will occur today, but not prior to 2:15 this afternoon.

The Senate will recess from 12:30 p.m. to 2:15 p.m. today for the weekly policy conferences to meet.

Other very important items to be considered this week include the farm bill conference report, hopefully under a time agreement; the line-item veto conference report; the omnibus appropriations conference report; the debt limit extension; and the State Department authorization conference report. Senators can expect busy sessions throughout the week in order to complete action on a number of these important issues.

Mr. President, I yield the floor.

RESERVATION OF LEADER TIME

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. KYL). Under the previous order, leadership time is reserved.

MORNING BUSINESS

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Under the previous order, the Senate will now proceed to a period for the transaction of morning business until 10:30 a.m., with Senators permitted to speak for 5 minutes each, with the following exception: Senator REID will be recognized for up to 15 minutes and Senator DORGAN will be recognized for up to 15 minutes.

The Senator from North Dakota is recognized.

THE FEDERAL RESERVE BOARD

Mr. DORGAN. Mr. President, let me claim my 15 minutes, and I ask the Chair to notify me when I have consumed 10 of the minutes.

Mr. President, I came to the floor today with Senator REID from Nevada to discuss a preliminary report that has been completed, after some 2 years of work, by the General Accounting Office. This report takes an extensive look into the activities and operations of the Federal Reserve Board and its regional banks. The Federal Reserve was created in 1913. It is kind of a dinosaur in our Government in an age of openness, an institution shrouded in great secrecy. But in 1913, the Congress created the Federal Reserve Board. That was the year in which Henry Ford built the first assembly line for the Model-T and paid people $5 a day to work to construct automobiles.

That was a long time ago, but some things do not change very much. The Federal Reserve still exists. It still sits as a house on a hill with a large fence around it and invites no one to peer in to see what they are doing. They make a substantial amount of money. They make their own spending decisions, and they are accountable only to themselves.

Senator REID and I asked the GAO to do an investigation and evaluation of how the Fed works: What does it spend its money on? How well does it spend its money? How accountable is it?

We have some 200 pages in a report that represents the work of nearly 2 years by the GAO. This is not a final report. It is a preliminary report that is now awaiting comment by the Federal Reserve Board.

The Senator from Nevada and I decided to release it now only because last week it was made available to us, and this week the Senate scheduled a hearing on Chairman Greenspan's re-nomination. We felt that the Senate Banking Committee at least ought to have the benefit of what is in this report prior to the hearing.

Let me discuss a couple of points in this report and ask Senator REID to discuss a couple of other points, because I think this will provide a substantial amount of information that the American public will be interested in.

You talk about the Federal Reserve Board and people's eyes start glazing over, and there starts to develop a large fog around the subject. This is largely because it is a central bank, accountable largely only to itself. It conducts monetary policy by itself and does so behind closed doors, with great secrecy.

Now, what did the GAO find? A couple of things. First of all, let me discuss the surplus account that exists at the Federal Reserve Board. The Federal Reserve Board has a surplus account of about $3.7 billion. In fact, the surplus account has increased well over 70 percent in the last 6 years. They have increased their surplus, which they set aside to absorb potential losses, by 79 percent over this period. So they have a cash stash of $3.7 billion in a surplus account.

This account presumably is to cover their losses. But the Federal Reserve Board has not lost money in 79 consecutive years and is not going to lose money in the future. Last year, it had a $20 billion-plus profit, it had expenses of about $2 to $3 billion, and it turns the rest back to the Treasury. But it still keeps a small surplus—small by their definition, large by my definition. I come from a town of only 300 people, and there billions mean something.

What does the GAO say about that? The GAO talks about this surplus account by suggesting that the downward adjustment to the size of the surplus account, or perhaps its elimination, would result in a positive budgetary impact, and so on and so forth. Then they point out that when they asked the Federal Reserve Board why they had this and how they determined what they needed, they said it is arbitrary. There is really no criteria used by the Fed to how much they need in the surplus account. They just squirrel away as much as they want.

This is the taxpayers' money, $3.7 billion squirreled away in a concrete edifice that houses the Fed. The GAO recommends, and I recommend—and we will introduce legislation—that this money be returned to American taxpayers and not stashed as a surplus in an institution that has not had a loss in 79 years and is not going to have a loss in the next 79 years.

There are other areas in this GAO report that also describe the operation of the overall Federal Reserve system. The Federal Reserve Board largely conducts monetary policy. While I disagree with its monetary policies these days, I do not think that the monetary policy ought to exist here in the well of the Congress. I think it ought to be separate and apart.

But I do not agree with the Fed when it believes its mission in life is to be a set of human brake pads designed to slow down the American economy. They happen to believe the American economy should not grow more than 2.5 percent. If it grows more than that, somehow we are going to produce more inflation they think.

They are dead wrong. In the global economy, inflation is going down, not up; wages are going down, not up. So I think their monetary policy is wrong, and they are inhibiting growth in this country and slowing down the American economy.

However, that is not what the GAO looked at. The GAO evaluated the other functions of the Fed. What does it spend its money on? Less than 10 percent of the activities of the Federal Reserve System are spent on monetary policy activities. The rest of it is bank supervision, check clearing, and a whole range of other things.

The Fed has counseled this country to cut its expenditures, slim down, downsize, and streamline. What has the Fed done? The Fed has counseled that America go on a diet and it has decided to over-eat. Here you have a circumstance where this shows what has happened between 1988 and 1994 according to the GAO: Personnel compensation up 53 percent. Benefits, that is, benefits per employee, increased about 90 percent during the same period; equipment and software up; buildings up.

In fact, they built one building, and they estimated when they decided to build the building they would need a 7,000-square-foot lobby. That is a pretty good-sized lobby. When they finished the building, they had a 27,000-square-foot lobby. You ought to see a picture of this lobby with no chairs—27,000 square foot. And that also is in the GAO report.

If you take a look at the expenditures of the Fed, you will see this line, which is the blue line, and from 1988 to 1994, the Fed, which writes its own checks and decides how much it wants to spend—nobody is suggesting that it ought to do this or ought not to do this. It decides how much of its money it wants to keep—had a 48 percent increase in expenditures, according to the GAO. During the same period, the Consumer Price Index increased 25 percent—almost double the Consumer Price Index in terms of the increase in costs down at the Fed.

I just indicated a couple of those items, but the cost per employee of the increases in benefits, employee benefits of the Fed increased 90 percent during the 6-year term.

So again, the suggestion by the Fed that the rest of the Government tighten its belt is apparently advice lost on the Fed itself. If you take a look at a whole range of these issues, the amount of money spent on personnel, on buildings, on benefits, and a whole series of issues like that, what you will find is a Federal Reserve Board that has not had a previous audit but a board for which an audit would discover that it seems to be growing while the rest of the Government is shrinking.

Maybe we ought to bring the Federal Reserve Board into the same realm. I am not talking about bringing monetary policy functions into this realm, but maybe the non-monetary policy functions of the Federal Reserve ought to be subject to annual appropriations just as are all of the other functions of Government.

Certainly, we ought to now proceed, based on what we will find in this report, to decide there should be every year, each and every year, an independent audit of the Federal Reserve Board. We ought to, based on what we have discovered in this report, decide that we should have this $3.7 billion taken out of the surplus account that has been squirreled away by the Fed itself and brought back into the stream of income that is available to the American taxpayers. Those are the things that we ought to do together. There are a whole series of recommendations that Senator REID and I will jointly employ in the decision on future legislation as a result of this GAO report.

Let me conclude my portion of this where I began. The Federal Reserve Board is a dinosaur; in the rest of Government, we are now discussing openness. In the Federal Reserve Board, we still have the shroud of secrecy. In the rest of the Government, we have the requirement for financial accountability. At the Federal Reserve Board, it is: We will spend what we need to spend, and we will make that judgment.

While the rest of the Federal Government is shrinking with fewer employees, fewer now than at any time during the Government's history going back to John F. Kennedy, the Federal Reserve Board system is growing. That is why I think this GAO audit suggests it is out of step and does need some correction.

Mr. President, let me yield the floor. My colleague, Senator REID, from Nevada, will discuss some of the other results of this GAO evaluation.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Nevada is recognized.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, will the Chair advise me when I have used 12 minutes of my time.

Mr. President, this report that was released yesterday has taken about 2 years for the General Accounting Office to conduct. The findings of this report, if centered on a Member of Congress or an agency of the Federal Government, would be, for lack of a better word, scandalous.

It is interesting to note the apologists that are around this country for the Federal Reserve Board. Take, for example, the Wall Street Journal. They wrote an article on the release of this report today, but it was an apology for the Federal Reserve Board. The Wall Street Journal looks at the Members of Congress and Federal agencies and anything they do, they do not dot an "i" on the right place on the page, do not cross the "t," they not only report it, but they write an editorial about it.

This $3.7 billion? The huge cost overruns? Not a word said in today's Wall Street Journal, but it is very typical for that newspaper.

This report raises legitimate questions about fiscal management within the Federal Reserve System. Some important questions should be answered as we proceed, Senator DORGAN and I, with our legislative agenda as it relates to this General Accounting Office report. And I think there should be some questions asked during the confirmation proceedings relating to Alan Greenspan.

We have been told by the General Accounting Office that this is the most in-depth study they have ever done of the Federal Reserve Board. In all the time I have been in Congress, certainly it is the most in-depth study by far that has ever been done of the Federal Reserve Board.

I agree the Federal Reserve should be independent, and I think that I will do what I can to make sure it is independent, but that does not mean the Federal Reserve Board and system does not need accountability. It needs accountability, as indicated in this 200-page report that has taken 2 years to prepare by the General Accounting Office.

Mr. President, I think what the Federal Reserve Board has been saying is, "Do not do as I do, do as I say," because they say that Government has to cut back. What do they do? They significantly increase their spending in all areas. Take, for example, the operating costs of the Federal Reserve System. Supervision and regulation, from 1988 to 1994, increased 102 percent—102 percent. An annual audit certainly is the least we should get out of this. We should know what is happening in the Federal Reserve System. A ray of sunlight should begin shining on the Federal Reserve System. It may not need to be part of our sunshine laws that were so popular a decade or two ago, but it needs a ray of sunshine shining on it. It would instill greater public confidence in our banking system. It is important.

I have talked only a little bit about the increased operating costs, but the costs certainly have skyrocketed. And we are talking about big money. From 1988 to 1994, the costs have gone up from $1.3 billion to $2 billion. That is a lot of money. Operating costs for the Federal Reserve have grown at twice the rate of inflation. Fed operating costs jumped 50 percent between 1988 and 1994.

Mr. President, I have behind me here a visual aid, and I think it is pretty clear, if we look at what has happened with travel within the Federal Reserve System, it has gone up 66 percent. We see what has happened to the Federal Government. It has gone up 4 percent; staffing levels of the Federal Government, minus 2 percent. We see what has happened with the Federal Reserve System. It is incredible.

These costs are a story in and of themselves. From 1988 to 1994, the Fed salary costs increased by 44 percent. Interestingly, also, salaries of reserve bank presidents are significantly greater than the Chairman. They vary. Somebody in San Francisco makes more than somebody in St. Louis. It is interesting; there is no conformity as to how much they make. They can kind of pay themselves, I guess, what they want. And 120 top Fed officials earn more than the Chairman of the Federal Reserve System, Alan Greenspan. Within the Federal Reserve System, their benefits increased by 89 percent. Whereas in the rest of the Federal Government, we have been reining in the costs, theirs have gone up almost 90 percent.

I might say, when we talk about the travel expenses increasing by 66 percent—but they travel in style. In 1994, the Fed's travel expenditures were over $42 million. They are permitted to be reimbursed however they feel they should be reimbursed: They can be reimbursed per diem, they can be reimbursed actual costs. How would this institution work if, in fact, every Member of Congress could be reimbursed for travel costs, whatever they felt was appropriate? There needs to be some uniformity. Because the policy varied from bank to bank, these costs could easily be contained by a uniform, more taxpayer-friendly policy.

Senator DORGAN has talked about the double standard, and certainly there is a double standard. When we also understand that 93.25 percent of all of the work that the Fed does has nothing to do with monetary policy—only a little over 6.5 percent of what they do relates to monetary policy—that is why I agree wholeheartedly with my friend, the junior Senator from North Dakota, that in fact they should be subject to the appropriation process. They should be.

I am a member of the Appropriations Committee. We spend most of our time trying to figure out a way to downsize, to cut budgets, to eliminate programs. At the same time the Fed is telling us that we need to do this, their costs are spiraling. The rest of the Government underwent necessary belt tightening.

The Fed enjoyed a smorgasbord of growth; they picked whatever they wanted. While the Federal Government's overall staffing level declined by 2 percent, the Fed's staffing level increased 6 percent over that.

So we know there needs to be better internal management. The General Accounting Office found this. I have gone around the State of Nevada. People ask questions about the Fed. I have introduced legislation in the past to have an annual audit of the Federal Reserve System. It has gotten nowhere. It has gotten from being introduced to the garbage can. But now there are facts to indicate that what I have been talking about is absolutely necessary; that we do need to have an annual report, we do need better management control within the Fed.

We do not know how costs have gone up in the last year and a half or so, but between 1988 and 1994, personnel compensation increased 54 percent, equipment and software expenditures increased 85 percent, building expenditures increased 34 percent, and, as I already talked about, travel expenditures increased by 66 percent. There is very little in the Fed to keep these under control. The Fed is not subject to the same cost reduction pressures that have affected both public and private agencies.

The $3.7 billion slush fund that they have, that they keep around for losses that may occur—we have not had any that occurred in 79 years. I am on the Appropriations Committee. We are now in conference, trying to work out the disputes we have. We badly need a few more dollars to allow this omnibus bill to be signed, these five appropriations bills. It could be done if we had the Fed's money that is sitting there, gathering dust. We would solve the problem. The Federal Government would be financed. We would not need any more continuing resolutions.

So we know, as the Senator from North Dakota has indicated, that we need to do something legislatively. We first must have the $3.7 billion returned to the Treasury. We need to require an annual audit, an independent audit. We need to institute uniform procurement and contracting practices. We need to institute executive branch policies relating to travel, benefits and security. We certainly need to do that, at a minimum.

I think it would be well that we tied the salaries of Fed executives to similarly situated Government personnel, and we need to subject the Fed's non-monetary policy operations to the appropriations process. That is the least we can do.

I think it also says a lot when we realize that the Federal Reserve, as described by my friend from North Dakota, has had this beautiful home. We can just see the top of that home. We cannot see it all because there is a huge fence around it. We know we have responsibilities for the structure, the landscaping in there, but we cannot see it.

All we are asking is let us find out what is going on. It is important. They conduct important functions of this Government, and we should know more about what they do. We have to do away with the shroud of secrecy. We have to peel back this cloak that they covered themselves with since 1913. This rainy-day fund they have set up is not a rainy-day fund, it is for a hurricane. They have this spending free-for-all attitude. That has to stop. They have a blank check mentality. I would like to know who is minding the shop, because 1913 accounting practices must be put to a stop.

Several Senators addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from North Dakota.

Mr. DORGAN. Mr. President, how much time do I have remaining?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from North Dakota has 4½ minutes remaining.

Mr. REID. And the Senator from Nevada?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Nevada has 2½.

Mr. DORGAN. Mr. President, let me use a couple of these minutes by trying to put this in perspective.

There is the policy issue with respect to the Federal Reserve Board, how it behaves, what it does, how it impacts this country's economy. Then there is the issue that we raised with respect to the GAO evaluation of the Fed. That is what we are discussing before the Senate today.

This 200-page evaluation of the Federal Reserve Board and its operations is the most significant look inside the Fed in 70 or 80 years. What it shows, as we have indicated, is they have stashed away $3.7 billion for a surplus, despite the fact they have not had a loss in 79 consecutive years. They are spending more and more during times when others in the Federal Government are being told they ought to tighten their belts. Those issues are issues the Congress ought to deal with. The Federal Reserve Board ought to be subjected to an annual independent audit. We ought to have information and knowledge about what is going on behind that fence. That is the reason we want to make sure our colleagues, the relevant committees, and others will be able to evaluate the wealth of information that exists in this draft GAO report.

Let me, finally, say a word about the policies of the Federal Reserve Board itself, which are different, separate and apart from the issues we have been discussing. I have very serious reservations about the monetary policies pursued by the Fed. As I have indicated, the Federal Reserve Board has seemed to feel, now, for some long while, that this country cannot have economic growth rates above 2.5 percent. If they fancied themselves as a set of human brake pads whose mission in life is to slow down the American economy, I say they have succeeded. Give them a trophy.

That is not what this country needs. The global economy means wages are falling, not rising. It means inflation is going down, not up. And it means this country can have a higher rate of growth. There are Democrats and Republicans who believe very strongly that a 2.5 percent growth rate for our economy is anemic and cannot provide the kind of opportunity and expansion that we need in this country.

I hope, in addition to the discussion we will have about what the Fed is doing, how it runs its operations, how it spends its money—in addition to that, and we should have that discussion as a result of this report, I hope we will also have a discussion about the Fed's monetary policies, and whether they are appropriate to try to produce the kind of economic future that we want in this country. In my judgment, they are not.

Two years ago, we saw the Federal Reserve Board increase interest rates seven times. Why? Because they were heading off the fires of inflation, they suggested. But inflation was not going up, inflation was going down, and it continues to go down.

What they managed to do with those interest rate increases was to slow down the American economy. That is not such a significant talent. My Uncle Joe can slow down the American economy. Just bring Uncle Joe to town, and I am sure he can figure out how to throw a wrench in the crank case. It does not take a special talent to slow down the economy.

The question is, how do we get the economy moving again, a vigorous economy with new jobs and new opportunities for all Americans, without raising the specter of additional inflation? That is the task for all of us.

The Federal Reserve Board sees itself on a singular mission: Keep economic growth somewhere in the range of 2.5 percent. That is not enough growth for this country. No one ought to be satisfied with that. It does not produce the jobs or the opportunities this country needs.

Mr. President, I hope that even as we discuss the report about what the Fed does and how it spends its money, we will alternatively discuss Federal policies, especially in the area of monetary policy.

Mr. President, I yield the floor.

Mr. LOTT. Mr. President, I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. LOTT. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

EXTENSION OF MORNING BUSINESS

Mr. LOTT. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that morning business be extended until the hour of 11 a.m., with Senators to speak for 5 minutes in the case of Senator BOXER; 12 minutes for Senator GRAMS; 10 minutes for Senator GRASSLEY; 5 minutes for Senator BRADLEY; and 5 minutes for Senator KENNEDY.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. LOTT. I yield the floor.

PRESIDENT CLINTON'S BUDGET FOR FISCAL YEAR 1997

Mr. GRAMS. Mr. President, tucked into the 2,000-page, 9-pound-11-ounce stack of documents that make up President Clinton's latest budget was a small booklet that many people might have overlooked. That booklet is called "A Citizens Guide to the Federal Budget." I would like to read to you a couple of the paragraphs from chapter 2, and that chapter deals with where money comes from and where it goes.

It says:

In a typical American household, a father and mother might sit around the kitchen table to review the family budget. They might discuss how much they expect to earn each year, how much they can spend on food, shelter, clothing, transportation, and perhaps a vacation, and how much they might be able to save for future needs.

If they do not have enough money to make ends meet, they might discuss how they can spend less, such as cutting back on restaurants, movies or other entertainment. They also might consider whether to try to earn more by working more hours or taking another job. If they expect their shortfall to be temporary, they might try to borrow.

This is from the "Small Citizens Guide to the Federal Budget." I agree with every word of that—the situation it describes is precisely what American families are facing today. But then the booklet continues and says:

Generally speaking, the Federal Government plans its budget much like families do.

Generally speaking Mr. President, the Federal Government plans its budget nothing at all like a family across the country has to do.

A family does not have unlimited access to a credit card access that has allowed the Federal Government to amass a national debt of more than $5 trillion.

A family would not be allowed to spend beyond its means forever—it would reach its credit limit and the family would eventually have to tighten its belt and begin paying back its debt. The Federal Government, on the other hand, just continues to steal from our children.

A family does not have the resources of foreign investors they can turn to when the bill come due. The Federal Government does, and expects the taxpayers to foot the bills and the massive interest payments those bills generate.

And finally, a family could not impose hundreds of millions of dollar worth of new taxes and fees on its friends and neighbors to help offset its own extravagant spending. But the Federal Government can, and it does.

For years, I have used the story of the family sitting around the kitchen table as an example of how middle-class Americans understand budgeting in a way Washington never will.

The methodical, commonsense approach to reconciling expenses against revenues represents everything that Washington is not.

So to suggest that the Federal Government's free-spending, unaccountable ways have anything in common with the way the working-class people of this Nation plan their budgets is ludicrous.

Librarians take notice: The Government will recommend that "A Citizen's Guide to the Federal Budget" be filed in the bookshelves along with the rest of the official Federal publications.

I say it ought to go up alongside Louis L'Amour and the Harlequin Romances, because it is pure fiction.

Mr. President, there is no question that families are facing tough times.

Money is tight, and there is not much left at the end of the day to put away for savings.

They are cutting back in order to make ends meet—skimping not just on entertainment, as the authors of "A Citizen's Guide to the Federal Budget" would have us believe, but too often on necessities like new clothes, insurance, or even groceries.

Their credit card bills are straining under the load. They are working two or three jobs and taking on overtime hours just to make ends meet.

But why are things so tight for American families? A close look at the President's latest budget offers some answers.

In his State of the Union Address delivered just 2 months ago, President Clinton boldly declared that "the era of big government is over."

Big government presumably meant the high taxes that have squeezed the middle class, the gigantic bureaucracy that has made redtape a synonym for Washington inefficiency, and the wasteful spending that has drained the taxpayers of their precious dollars.

But maybe big government means something different to the President. Under the budget he outlined Tuesday, big government is far from dead. In fact, it is off the respirator, breathing on its own and taking nourishment.

The Clinton budget—the ninth budget he has sent to Congress in the last 12 months—is nothing more than the status quo his administration continues to deliver, because it calls for increasing Federal spending every year over the course of the 7-year plan, until we're spending nearly $1.9 trillion just after the turn of the century.

The President claims he will pay for all that new spending with unspecified cuts in domestic programs sometime in the future. Most of the cuts would not come until after the year 2000, meaning Bill Clinton will never have to make any of those tough choices.

As the President's budget grows, so does the Nation's debt, again, rising every year of the President's plan. By the time we have reached the year 2002, the national debt will have ballooned from $4.9 trillion this year to almost $6.5 trillion. That is an increase of nearly 27 percent in just 7 years.

And where are the tax cuts the President has repeatedly promised American families? It is practically nonexistent. The President claims he is cutting, but in reality, most of his tax reductions are offset by new tax increases. This is unacceptable.

It is nothing but token tax relief, and his child tax credit is a sham. It begins at $300 per child, is slowly ratcheted up to $500, and then eliminated just 2 years later. By the way, teenagers are too old to qualify.

The President pays for all this big government not by controlling Washington's appetite for spending, but by spending the savings Americans have sacrificed over the last year toward a balanced budget.

Other areas of the budget that demand the President's immediate attention are virtually ignored.

He does practically nothing to save the failing Medicare system and bring it into the 21st century.

Under the Clinton plan, Medicare remains a relic from 1960's that does not work in the 1990's, and will not survive much beyond it.

His budget does not reform Medicaid, either.

At a time when a bipartisan coalition of Governors is calling on Washington to entrust the States with managing this vital program, the President says Washington has all the answers.

He does not make fundamental changes in welfare to control spending. The President would not "end welfare as we know it"—he would extend welfare as we know it.

The President's budget plan is just a bandage on a wound that's demanding emergency surgery.

President Clinton is asking the American family to pay for his campaign and he needs to pay off Washington bureaucrats and special interest groups.

His demand for billions of additional taxpayer dollars to finance bigger government, again, is consistent with his support for big Washington government.

And President Clinton funds his new spending, again, through increased taxes, increased user fees, and one-time sales of assets financed directly by the taxpayers.

Mr. President, I am a firm believer that privatization is crucial to reaching a balanced budget and protecting taxpayer dollars. But what is the point in selling off assets if we are just going to spend it on a bigger government?

Asset sales should be dedicated to deficit reduction—if they are not, and are simply redirected by Congress into another Federal program, how are the taxpayers any better off than they were before the sale happened?

Unfortunately, this budget will do nothing to help working Americans devastated by the Clinton crunch that has trapped them somewhere between the falling wages and the President's economy has generated, and the rising taxes the President's budgets have demanded.

That is why families are having trouble making ends meet—the middle-class squeeze is squeezing them dry. A balanced budget would help, and the people deserve one, but the President's budget is not the answer.

We have to inject a dose of reality into the proceedings: President Clinton can claim to support all of these goals, but every time he has had the opportunity to prove it, he has let us down.

Congress passed a budget that balances in 7 years, protecting our children and grandchildren by freeing them from a legacy of debt and tax increases.

Our budget lets taxpayers keep more of their own dollars, for spending on things important to families, not on things Washington thinks are important.

Our budget says a life on welfare is not much of a life at all, and we offer encouragement to get people off the welfare rolls and into society.

Our budget says seniors ought to have a Medicare system they can rely on, so we save it from bankruptcy and offer Medicare patients the same kind of health care choices that are now available to everybody except seniors.

Our budget does all of that and more, and yet despite his claims that he endorses each of those goals, as we all know, the President vetoed every single one of those measures.

So you can see why it is hard to get excited about the President's professed interest in a balanced budget, tax relief, and welfare and Medicare reform, when his commitment to them seems to go no deeper than the tip of his veto pen.

The President met with the distinguished majority leader and Speaker GINGRICH last week, and they will meet again. I wish them well, because negotiating with the President is like boxing with a jellyfish—it is hard to score any points when your opponent seems to have no backbone or any firm principles of his own.

But if there is any hope of reaching an agreement on a budget this year, we will need to see some encouraging signs soon.

So, Mr. President, on a closing note, if the Nation were to continue along the path outlined by the President and the congressional majorities which came before him, a pathway dominated by high taxes and big government, I am afraid we might begin to parallel the experiences of Sweden.

There is this article from the Associated Press that appeared in the Minneapolis Star Tribune on March 15.

In this article it describes what happens when a nation guided by the belief that as long as it was collecting plenty of taxes and building plenty of government, it could provide a good life for everyone. But that has met the realities of the 1990's.

With a top income tax rate of 49.9 percent, Sweden ranks as one of the two highest-taxing countries in the world. "But today," says this article, "Swedes are deep in debt, taxed to the limit, edgy about unemployment, and cynical about the model in which they once took pride."

Even Soviet leaders once praised Sweden's welfare state. But now, continues the story, "the welfare dream is in crisis, along with the Social Democratic Party that built it."

While Bill Clinton and the liberal establishment try to push America toward the kind of high-taxing, big-spending government Sweden has tried and is now rejecting, Sweden's Social Democrats are pushing for a balanced budget, tighter welfare rules, and entrepreneurship.

"There is a growing insight that you can't tax a society into equality." Let me say that again. "There is a growing insight that you can't tax a society into equality." That is from a speechwriter for Sweden's retiring prime minister.

Somehow, Mr. President, we have moved perilously close to following in Sweden's footsteps, but it is not too late to take a step back.

If we are serious about giving our children a better future, the best thing we can do is to cut taxes, end the current spending frenzy, balance the budget, and begin paying off the national debt.

"Americans want a government that uses common sense when it makes decisions that affect their lives," concludes the administration's little budget primer.

I agree, as long as we're talking about the common sense of a family crafting its budget around the kitchen table, and not the nonsense we too often craft around the conference tables here in Washington.

NAVAL PROMOTIONS

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, 2 weeks ago I spoke in support of the Senate Armed Services Committee not granting promotion to Comdr. Robert Stumpf. Last Thursday night I had an opportunity to listen to Senator COATS, Senator BYRD, and Senator NUNN speak on the same subject. I agree with everything they said. I will speak, once again, on that same subject but put it in a little broader context.

Before I do that, there was, last Thursday, in the Washington Post this article about Commander Stumpf and the Navy, pushing for his promotion to be granted again. I suppose that means it will come back to the Senate Armed Services Committee sometime in the future.

If people wonder why this might not be granted, I read a paragraph from this article. It talks about the Tailhook conference 4 years ago in Nevada. It talks about the behavior at the Tailhook convention in September 1991. It drew scrutiny on at least two accounts about the behavior of Commander Stumpf. It says he was present in a hotel room hosted by his squadron where two strippers performed, although he left the room before one of the women engaged in a sex act with another airman. Now, he avoids all responsibility for that. I assume that is the moral of the story, why it should not be considered in whether or not he gets a promotion.

It would be similar if I had a Christmas party for my staff and I hired a couple of strippers, and before they did their act, before other things would happen, I leave the party and claim no responsibility for that. Commander Stumpf was the commander. It was his group that was involved. He thinks he can avoid responsibility for what goes on there. I think not.

But also for the entire Navy, I point out that when you have that sort of convention, it is under the auspice of the U.S. military, and we have two strippers hired and a sex act performed with an airman, I remind the Navy—and I say this because farming is my background and my son operates our family farm—that is the way animals operate. Animals operate that way. Human beings, in their interaction with people of opposite sex, do it with love and with concern and of course with the goals that every act of love has. That is what separates human beings from animals. I suggest to the Navy that they act like human beings and not like animals.

I want to put this whole thing in a different context because the latest tremors concern the future career of this Navy Commander, Robert Stumpf. Commander Stumpf's promotion to the rank of captain has been blocked, and properly so. The committee remains opposed to the promotion because Commander Stumpf is suspected of inappropriate behavior, as I described at this Tailhook convention.

Last week, under intense pressure and lobbying, the committee reexamined the promotion one more time, and the outcome was sustained. Commander Stumpf is off the promotion list and will stay off. I said 2 weeks ago that I support the committee's action, and I support their reconsideration by taking no action.

Unfortunately, Mr. President, I do not think we have heard the last from Commander Stumpf. A recent report in the Washington Times suggests that Commander Stumpf's name will be on the 1997 captain's promotion list. Now the good commander is suing Secretary of the Navy Dalton for helping the Senate to improperly block his promotion.

Commander Stumpf's predicament is a sign of a much bigger problem. It is the "problem of naval leadership," as one naval aviator put it recently. The Navy's leadership problem neither begins nor ends with Commander Stumpf. The root cause of the problem may be much higher up in the chain of command. I believe the Navy's leadership problem may lie at the very top, with people like Secretary Dalton and the Chief of Naval Operations, Admiral Jeremy Boorda.

Mr. Dalton and Admiral Boorda should have been flagged—just like Commander Stumpf was—when their promotions came up here to be at these highest ranks. Unresolved issues in their past raise questions about their integrity and their ability to lead the Navy. The adverse information in their background should have been exposed to public scrutiny and debated, but that did not happen.

Surely these troublesome facts lay buried in Government files somewhere during the confirmation process. We were sleeping at the switch when they were slipped quietly through the Senate confirmation net. Mr. President, we had no reason to ask questions about Mr. Dalton. Mr. Dalton was presented to the Senate as a financial wizard with extensive business and managerial experience. He got a green light instead of a red warning flag that his wizardry deserved.

Mr. Dalton was confirmed on July 21, 1993. Exactly 1 year later, the damaging information in Mr. Dalton's background began leaking into the public domain. The New York Times ran a front-page story on July 22nd, 1994. It was written by Mr. Jeff Gerth. This is how it began:

When President Clinton announced that he had picked John H. Dalton to be Secretary of the Navy, he praised the nominee's true leadership ability as a Texas businessman.

As Mr. Gerth pointed out, "There was a part of Mr. Dalton's background that most Senators were unaware of."

His leadership was not advertised. We did not know he was deeply involved in the management of at least two failed savings and loan institutions. Mr. Dalton's S&L's were bailed out at the cost to the taxpayers of $100 million.

As president of one S&L institution, Mr. Dalton was threatened with a suit by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation for violating State and Federal laws and for gross negligence. The institution's insurance companies had to pay $3.8 million to settle a civil suit.

Now, Mr. President, this is very damaging information, I believe. It raises questions about the Secretary's integrity and his ability to lead the Navy. How did he skate right through confirmation without red warning flags? Commander Stumpf got the flag treatment for the big question marks in his file, and rightly so. Why did Mr. Dalton not get flagged and confronted?

We had an identical experience with Admiral Boorda's nomination. He, too, slipped right through the confirmation net. Admiral Boorda should have been flagged. Admiral Boorda was confirmed on April 1, 1994. About 2 months later I picked up a newspaper and saw this headline, "Court Says Navy Brass Shielded Official's Son: Lenient Treatment is the Latest Plight in the System." That is a headline. This report appeared in the Washington Post June 15, 1994. It was written by Mr. Barton Gellman.

Mr. Gellman's report went on to say, "Some of those criticized by the court in the case remain in important posts. Among them is Admiral Boorda." That really bothered me, so I got the court document and read it. I was truly dismayed by what I saw—a bunch of senior naval officers behaving in dishonest ways. So I came to the floor of this body, and on June 28, 1994, spoke on this subject. If the people are wondering what I spoke about a year ago on this subject, they can find it in the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD S7744 to S7745. Those are the pages.

My concern about Admiral Boorda's character comes directly from that military court document. Specifically, an opinion by the United States Navy-Marine Corps Court of Military Review in the case of the United States versus Chad E. Kelly, U.S. Navy. The document is dated June 13, 1994.

This was a clear-cut case of command influence and abuse of command authority.

The court document clearly indicates that Admiral Boorda may have interfered with a criminal investigation. Now, Admiral Boorda claims he was unaware of the suspect's criminal activities when he had him transferred to his own headquarters. That may be. The suspect was a low-ranking enlisted man who happened to be Navy Secretary Garrett's son. He was suspected of drug use, larceny, credit card fraud, receipt of stolen property, and lying under oath. That is very heavy stuff.

Once Admiral Boorda realized criminal behavior was involved, Garrett should have been ordered back to the scene of the crime—consistent with common Navy practice. But that did not happen. Why not?

Now, Mr. President, this brings me back to Commander Stumpf. We should not be surprised, when Commander Stumpf sets a bad example. A follower likes to imitate a leader's behavior. He is not blind. He sees the big boys abusing the system, doing bad things, and getting rewarded for it. So he figures it should be OK for him to do it as well.

No aspect of leadership is more powerful than setting a good example. If the Secretary and Chief of Naval Operations expect integrity, discipline, courage, and competence from their followers, then they must demonstrate those very same qualities themselves. Herein lies the crux of the Navy leadership problem.

Mr. Dalton and Admiral Boorda demand excellence from Commander Stumpf, but failed to deliver it themselves. "Flagging" is good for junior officers, but somehow not for admirals and above. That attitude does not sit well with junior officers. The big boys are asking their troops to do something they are unwilling to do themselves, and that just does not work.

So we cannot begin to address shortcomings in the leadership at Commander Stumpf's level until those at the top, like Mr. Dalton and Admiral Boorda, set an example of excellence in their personal behavior.

I suggest, once again, that as far as what went on at the Tailhook scandal, I want to remind the Navy that those things are things that are done in the animal kingdom, and human beings should not be involved in that sort of sexual behavior.

I yield the floor.

Mrs. BOXER addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. COVERDELL). The Chair recognizes the Senator from California.

PRESIDIO PROPERTIES ADMINISTRATION ACT

Mrs. BOXER. Mr. President, I just want to express some conflicting feelings here this morning about the bill we are about to go to. I know the Senator from Alaska understands this because we have been talking and working together on the Presidio for quite some time.

The Presidio legislation that is about to be before us—if it simply was the Presidio and other environmental issues that were not controversial, this would be one of my happiest days since I came to the Senate, because, for me, the Presidio bill is so close to my heart. Mr. President, I represented, for many years, the congressional district in which the Presidio sits. Years ago, Congressman Phil Burton, looking at the Presidio, said, "If the gates ever close, we would not want to lose this extraordinary resource." Back in the early 1980's—actually, I stand corrected, in 1972, Congressman Burton's legislation creating the Golden Gate Recreation Area and the Presidio was passed. The law provided that the Presidio would become a national park when it was no longer needed by the Army.

In 1988, when the Base Closure Commission recommended the closure, the law kicked in and triggered this incredible new park called the Presidio for the people of this country.

So why do I say that I am faced with such a terrible conflict here? It is because, rather than just voting this Presidio legislation up or down—which, by the way, we can do in 10 seconds because everybody agrees it is so important; it sets up a trust, and that would enable us to use the buildings on the park to create revenue to keep the park in good shape and to keep it safe and beautiful—we have this tangled up in the Utah wilderness conflict.

I suppose there are those who say, well, that is just the way it is done. Well, I simply do not buy that. If we really want to make progress here, if we really want to cut through the gridlock, what better chance do we have than to pull out this Utah wilderness bill—which is so controversial that it deserves its own separate attention—and pass these other environmental measures that are so important to the people of the country? We could do that in a minute.

I want to give you my feelings as to how much work has gone into this Presidio legislation. I already told you that the vision was established in the 1970's, and in the 1980's when the Presidio was closed, we all realized at that moment that it would become a glorious park. We also knew that funds were not there to keep it in the pristine condition. We figured out a way, with Congresswoman PELOSI's leadership, and Senator FEINSTEIN and I working with many others, we introduced the bill that would set up a trust. Everyone agrees that it is a wonderful idea.

I want to compliment Senator MURKOWSKI for coming out to the Presidio on more than one occasion to meet with the people. Senator CAMPBELL has been a key person working on this. Senator CHAFEE went out to visit the Presidio. Perhaps, for me, the most rewarding thing happened when Senator DOLE went out and, in fact, agreed this was the way to go.

So we did something here that we did not think was possible. We reached across party lines and we agreed on an approach for the Presidio that both Democrats and Republicans could support. Did it have everything that this Senator wanted? No. Did it have everything that the Senator from Alaska wanted? No. Clearly, we would have written it a little bit differently. But we worked together and we got a wonderful bill.

It is hard for me to imagine why it now has to get caught up in this tangle with the Utah wilderness bill, other than the fact that there are those who are pushing that bill and feel the only way they can pass it is to get it on the Presidio train.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair advises the Senator from California that the 5-minute limit has been exceeded.

Mrs. BOXER. I ask unanimous consent for another 3 minutes.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mrs. BOXER. So we have a national historic landmark. Five hundred buildings are on the National Register of Historic Buildings. We need to make sure that these buildings do not deteriorate and make sure we get the revenues to support the Presidio. Today, what are we faced with? The best of bills and the worst of bills—in one bill. It is like the Dr. Jekyll/Mr. Hyde approach here. We take a wonderful piece of legislation, the Presidio trust bill, and everyone supports it from both parties, the whole spectrum, and it gets hooked to this Utah wilderness.

I hope, Mr. President, a couple of things will occur today in the time that we have. No. 1, I hope we take the Utah wilderness bill out of this omnibus bill. It deserves its own debate. Right now, 3.3 million acres of that Utah wilderness are basically under protection. If this bill passes, half of those acres are going to lose protection. How can we even call it a Utah wilderness bill? Clearly, it puts the Senators from California in a very, very difficult position.

So I hope we can move this Presidio on its own. Senator DOLE and Senator DASCHLE both agree—they both cosponsor this bill—that it could be moved in a moment by a unanimous-consent request. Let us not load it down with a bill that has serious, serious problems.

I hope we can get to the point where this is truly a celebration for the people of California, that we can have our bill, have it stand alone, and take up the controversial matters independently.

I thank you very much, Mr. President. I yield the floor at this time.

Mr. KENNEDY addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair recognizes the Senator from Massachusetts.

ORDER OF PROCEDURE

Mr. KENNEDY. I think there was a unanimous consent request that was made by the Republican leader on how we are going to use morning business. Am I correct?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. That is correct. Each Senator is allowed to speak up to 5 minutes with the exception of Senator REID of Nevada and Senator DORGAN of North Dakota, who each have 15 minutes reserved.

Mr. KENNEDY. I am asking whether the consent request went after 11 o'clock. I think the Senator from Mississippi requested it for some of us.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Senator BRADLEY of New Jersey and Senator KENNEDY of Massachusetts are authorized to speak up to 5 minutes at this point.

Mr. KENNEDY. I thank the Chair.

Mr. BRADLEY addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair recognizes the Senator from New Jersey.

Mr. BRADLEY. I ask unanimous consent that I be allowed to complete this. I do not think it will be longer than 5 minutes, but if it is, it will be a minute or two, and I prefer not to be interrupted.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

PRESIDIO PROPERTIES ADMINISTRATION ACT

Mr. BRADLEY. Mr. President, I wish to address a few of the points that were made yesterday by the distinguished Senators from Utah on the underlying wilderness bill. First, there is the assertion that S. 884, that we are now dealing with, had been fixed, particularly that the release language had been fixed, been modified.

It has been modified somewhat, I think, to reflect the debate in the Energy Committee but despite all the changes the amended version just drops the requirement that the released lands shall be managed for "nonwilderness multiple purposes" and substitutes a full range of uses—not much difference. However, the amendment still says that the lands released "shall not be managed for the purpose of protecting their suitability for wilderness designation."

The previous version of the bill as reported out was a kind of belt and suspenders approach to release. It had two protections against further wilderness designation. The revised version still leaves the belt even though the suspenders have been removed. It still remains an unprecedented provision in wilderness bills.

Next, the protected areas. Is it fair to say that almost 20 million acres have been released and can now be exploited? The distinguished Senator from Utah questioned whether you could say that, but both versions of the bill as reported and as amended find that all public lands in the State of Utah administered by the BLM have been adequately studied for wilderness designation. This eliminates further consideration of approximately 20 million acres.

There are other problems which I will not get into at this stage, but I would like to just focus on the acreage where the distinguished Senators from Utah have asserted that plenty of land in the Kaiparowits Plateau and other areas, plenty of land has already been protected—125,000 acres in Kaiparowits and 110,000 in Dirty Devil Canyon—but the point is what is not protected. There are about 525,000 acres in Kaiparowits that were in the House bill and 152,000 acres in the Dirty Devil area. So the question is not what is protected but what is not protected, particularly on the Kaiparowits Plateau.

The proponents of the bill have basically constantly referred to the House bill which is 5.7 million acres. I am not pushing 5.7 million acres. I have not introduced a bill that advocates 5.7 million acres, nor has any such bill been introduced. I am simply concerned that 2 million acres is far too little to protect out of 22 million acres of BLM land. I am concerned that all the remaining land would be permanently released from consideration as wilderness. But once again I am not saying that 5.7 is the right number. Keep in mind that it is 3.2 million acres that are currently protected as wilderness.

Also, the Senators from Utah should recognize that if the Utah wilderness bill does not pass or is vetoed, the result will not be that 5.7 million acres are protected. Instead, for the time being, the 3.2 million will remain protected for study and a new recommendation will have to be developed.

Third, there is the assertion that acreage is an issue for Utah to resolve. I would argue that acreage is far from the only issue here. In fact, there are many other issues that should be of great concern to other Senators and to other taxpayers.

As to the hard release language, as I said, the belt is still there even though the suspenders have been removed. The land exchange provision should be of concern to taxpayers since the State is going to likely give up land of little value in exchange for very valuable Federal land on which they will want to mine coal, according to the Assistant Secretary. The exceptions to traditional wilderness rules for motor vehicle, also to water rights language, all are very ominous precedents.

And finally there is the assertion that there was nothing wrong with the BLM inventory process. The distinguished Senator from Utah basically said that this was not the case, and he quoted Jim Parker, a former Utah BLM State director, to support the assertion that the BLM's inventory was not seriously flawed. Mr. Parker has made statements supporting the BLM wilderness inventory and has been cited as an expert. However, Mr. Parker did not work on the BLM in Utah during the inventory but was living in Washington, DC, at the time.

I think it should be clear what the BLM's position is on this bill. Yesterday, I received a letter from Bob Armstrong, the Assistant Secretary of Lands, Minerals and Management, that supports the view that the BLM officials recognize the Utah BLM process was in fact flawed. Mr. Armstrong says:

I am told by professional career staff at all levels of the organization that the Utah wilderness process was the most controversial, and perhaps the most political, in the entire BLM wilderness process.

The letter goes on to state:

It is the position of the BLM that far too little land is protected under this bill and too much land is released for development. In short, no one should be claiming the support of the Bureau of Land Management and its professional staff—

No one should be claiming BLM support—for S. 884.

I ask unanimous consent that the letter from Mr. Armstrong be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the letter was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY,
Washington, DC, March 25, 1996.

Hon. BILL BRADLEY
U.S. Senate, Washington, DC.

DEAR SENATOR BRADLEY: I understand you will shortly be considering whether to include S. 884, the "Utah Public Lands Management Act of 1995," in an omnibus package of parks legislation. I would like to clarify the record with respect to the position of the Bureau of Land Management and the Department of the Interior on the subject of the acreage covered in this bill.

In 1991, President Bush forwarded his recommendation that 1.9 million acres of Utah lands be immediately protected as wilderness. The Congress did not act on that recommendation and President Clinton did not adopt it when he came into office. Interestingly, President Bush did not support the "hard release" of the rest of Utah's lands, as is proposed in this bill, and neither does the Clinton Administration.

Last July, Deputy Assistant Secretary Sylvia Baca testified before the Senate regarding the numerous problems with this legislation. She testified that the Bush proposal of 1.9 million acres is "inadequate to protect Utah's great wilderness resources." In fact, S. 884 would remove protections for some 300,000 acres recommended for wilderness by President Bush.

Nevertheless, some supporters of the legislation have repeatedly sought to portray the position of the previous Administration as that held by the Bureau of Land Management, or to claim that "field professionals" independently and objectively formulated the previous Administration's position. This is not the case. I am told by professional career staff at all levels of the organization that the Utah wilderness process was the most controversial, and perhaps the most political, in the entire BLM wilderness process.

It is the position of the Bureau of Land Management that far too little land is protected under this bill and too much land is released for development. In short, no one should be claiming the support of the Bureau and its professional staff for S. 884.

We have reviewed the most recent changes proposed by the bill sponsors and find that the same basic problems exist: too little designated, too much opened to development, unprecedented "hard release" language, reduced protections inside wilderness, and unprecedented land exchange language. The Secretary has indicated—most recently in a March 15, 1996, letter to Senator Murkowski—that he would recommend the President veto legislation carrying the text of S. 884. It continues to be my hope that the core problems of this bill can be fixed so the President receives legislation he can sign.

Sincerely,

BOB ARMSTRONG,
Assistant Secretary,
Land and Minerals Management.

Mr. BRADLEY. I remind my colleagues that there are 33 titles to this bill. I personally would have no objection to moving almost all 33, and we already have a veto threat in the form of a letter from the Secretary, and yesterday also we have a statement of administration policy from the Executive Office of the President also being very clear on that issue.

I hope we will be able to recognize that this Utah wilderness bill is far from complete and that there are many things that need to be done before it could be thought to be a true wilderness bill.

Mr. LOTT addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair recognizes the Senator from Mississippi.

PRESIDIO PROPERTIES ADMINISTRATION ACT OF 1995—UNANIMOUS-CONSENT AGREEMENT

Mr. LOTT. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the committee-reported substitute be agreed to and considered original text for the purpose of further amendment. I further ask unanimous consent Senators have until the hour of 5 p.m. today in order to file first-degree amendments, in accordance with rule XXII.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. LOTT. For the information of my colleagues, this now allows the pending substitute amendment offered by Senator MURKOWSKI to be amendable in two degrees. Also, as a reminder, a cloture vote will occur on that substitute tomorrow morning under the provisions of rule XXII.

Senators have until the hour of 5 today in order to file first-degree amendments to the substitute. I thank my colleagues. We have worked with the Democratic leadership in getting this agreement.

EXTENSION OF MORNING BUSINESS

Mr. LOTT. I now ask there be a period for morning business until the hour of 12:30, with the time between now and 12:30 equally divided between the two leaders or their designees.

Mr. BRADLEY. Mr. President, reserving the right to object.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair recognizes the Senator from New Jersey.

Mr. BRADLEY. I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The bill clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. LOTT. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. LOTT. I renew my unanimous consent request.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The Chair recognizes the Senator from Massachusetts.

THE MINIMUM WAGE

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, just as a matter of a point of information, on yesterday when there was the announcement of the Republican leader, which is on page S. 2839, in the Program, Mr. LOTT said, "For the information of all Senators, the Senate will resume the Presidio legislation tomorrow morning with the understanding that Senator DASCHLE or his designee will be prepared to offer an amendment at 10:30."

I am his designee, and I was prepared to offer the amendment at 10:30. The amendment I was going to offer was the increase in the minimum wage. I was offering it for myself, my colleague from Massachusetts, Mr. KERRY, Senator WELLSTONE, and others.

This was not in order, I want to make it very clear. So it was not consent, but it was an understanding about the way we were going to proceed. Now, as a result of our indication to try to get a debate on the increase on the minimum wage, and hopefully some action on the minimum wage, we have been put into this holding pattern to effectively deny us that opportunity for debate and discussion about increasing the wages for working families, some 13 million working families in this country.

What we are being faced with is another procedural effort by our Republican friends to deny the Senate taking action on this issue. This is a similar kind of avoidance by the Senate that we saw on July 31, when we voted 48 to 49 on a sense-of-the-Senate resolution; again on October 27, 1995, 51-48 to override a budget point of order on the issue on the minimum wage, raised by my colleague, Senator KERRY.

We had a hearing on this issue on December 14, 1995. We have not had the markup. We have not reported anything out. We were prepared to debate this issue, which is of such fundamental importance and fairness to working families in this country. Now we are caught up in a procedural situation where we are, at least at this time, foreclosed from being able to offer it.

I can even foresee the possibilities where that will continue in the afternoon, as we are coming down to the line for a cloture motion to be voted on tomorrow, where those, under the current situation, under the right of recognition, will be able to offer an amendment and then offer another amendment right on top of that and virtually foreclose our opportunity to speak for working families, the 13 million working families who have not experienced any increase since 1991 and have seen the real value of that minimum wage deteriorate by some 40 percent.

So we are seeing the commitment of our Republican friends, and Republican leadership, which cannot be separated from the Republican who is on the ballot out in the State of California, Senator DOLE, as well as the Republican leadership, saying on the issue of worker fairness, we are not even going to permit you to vote on that or address that on the floor of the U.S. Senate. We are going to use all the parliamentary means of denying working families the chance to get any kind of increase in that minimum wage.

At a time when CEO salaries have gone up 23 percent and we are having record profits in 1995; again, 1991, of 23 percent—we are refusing to permit the Senate of the United States to even address this issue, to vote on this issue—an issue which will mean some $1,800 for working families. This is an issue which will affect 13 million working families. It will be the equivalent of a year's tuition in a 2-year college; 9 months of groceries, 8 months of utilities for working families. We are seeing, at a time when the disparity between the wealthiest workers and families and poorest families has been growing and growing and growing, the small, modest step to try to do something for working families, families that work 40 hours a week, 52 weeks of the year, trying to make it—we are seeing we are effectively being closed out. You cannot interpret the kinds of actions we have heard here this morning to be anything else.

Mr. President, I want to point out, because I am on limited time on this morning hour—hopefully we will have additional time during the debate going before the break—this has not been a partisan issue, historically. There have only been two Presidents, Presidents Reagan and Ford—they are the only two Republican Presidents who have not supported an increase in the minimum wage. President Eisenhower supported it, President Nixon supported it, President Bush supported it. The last time we had an increase, Republicans supported it. BOB DOLE supported it. NEWT GINGRICH supported it.

At that time, we had a Democratic Congress and a Republican President. Now we have Republican Congress and a Democratic President. And we ask: Why? Why is it that we cannot, at least, debate this issue? And why is it that we cannot afford to provide working families with a livable wage?

Mr. President, I hope we are not going to hear our Republican friends talk about their concern for working families in this country when something that we can do, here on the floor of the U.S. Senate today, and the House of Representatives can do in a matter of hours, that can make a difference to the lives and well-being of those—that we are being denied the opportunity to face this issue, to debate the issue, to talk about the issue, to take on the issues which have been raised against the increase—the questions of inflation, the question of job loss.

All of those issues which we have debated and discussed at other times, we are prepared today, with our colleagues, to debate those here. But we are back at a situation where those who lay the agenda out for the American people in the U.S. Senate, absolutely refuse to give the American working families the opportunity to be heard on the floor of the U.S. Senate.

Mr. President, as we have said before, Senator KERRY, Senator WELLSTONE and others have said before, this issue is not going away. This issue is not going away. We have seen the parliamentary maneuvers to deny us an opportunity to take action. We have seen that before. We know it is out there again today.

I do not understand what it is. Yes, I could understand. It is, again, the power of special financial interests, the special interests that just refuse to let working families in this country be treated fairly, equitably, and decently. Finally, this is an issue about women, since 70 percent of all of those who get the minimum wage are women, and it is an issue about children, whether they are going to grow up in households that are going to be decently fed and clothed, and in a setting which is humane and decent. This is not just an issue about men. It is an issue about women and it is an issue about children. It is an issue about families. We will not be silenced and we will not be denied. We are going to continue to press this. I am absolutely convinced that the working families in this country will be heard and we will have a successful vote.

Mr. KERRY addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair recognizes the Senator from Massachusetts.

Mr. KERRY. Mr. President, I thank my colleague from Massachusetts, Senator KENNEDY, for his leadership in this effort, and Senator WELLSTONE and others who believe that the moment has really come for us to confront the reality of the rhetoric in Washington that talks about worker anxiety, that pays lip service to addressing the problem of downsizing and to the problem of the transformation in the American workplace.

Countless Senators, on both sides of the aisle, have come to the floor on many different occasions and talked about the difficulties that the American worker faces today.

In the Republican primaries, it became a major issue as Pat Buchanan focused on the anger that is coming out of those workers who work harder and harder and harder, play by the rules, pay their taxes, try to make ends meet, teach their kids, and yet they cannot get ahead.

We have an opportunity in the U.S. Senate to ratify what the Senate has already expressed. Fifty-one U.S. Senators already voted last year, saying they want to vote on a proposal to increase the minimum wage. The minimum wage is worth less now than it was when those 51 Senators who voted said we need to raise it.

The Republican majority has the opportunity to set the agenda of the Senate and, to some degree, thereby, the agenda of the country. As my colleague from Massachusetts said, this is their statement about their agenda. Their agenda is to not even let the U.S. Senate debate this and have an up-or-down vote on whether or not a majority of the U.S. Senate thinks it is time to raise the minimum wage.

Increasing the minimum wage is not a great breaking of new ground in this country. In 1938, we passed a minimum wage and set it at 25 cents. In 1938, we came to a consensus in America that we ought to pay people a minimum base standard of living by which they ought to be able to work and achieve the American dream. Every year since 1938, when that wage dipped below because of inflation and changes in the marketplace, we raised the minimum wage. Democrat and Republican alike joined together to raise the minimum wage. The last time we raised it was 1989, and I think there were something like 86 or 89 votes in the U.S. Senate to raise it to the current level of $4.25.

Mr. WELLSTONE. Will the Senator yield for a question?

Mr. KERRY. Yes.

Mr. WELLSTONE. I wonder, given the bipartisan support since 1938, can the Senator answer the question for me, what would be the basis now for the opposition of the majority leader,

Senator DOLE, and others in preventing us from even having this amendment out on the floor and having an up-or-down vote? Does the Senator have any idea, given this bipartisan support, given how important it is to working families, given the fact we have heard the majority leader campaign around the country about the importance of working families and fairness, what would be the basis of opposition to our having this amendment on the floor and having this debate? Does the Senator have any idea?

Mr. KERRY. I must confess to the Senator from Minnesota, I do not understand that. I cannot understand why Senator DOLE, who previously voted to raise the minimum wage, would not want to raise the minimum wage above what soon will be a 40-year low in purchasing power. The minimum wage in this country soon will be at a 40-year low. The poverty level in America is $12,500 for a family of three. It is $15,150 for a family of four. On a minimum wage, you can earn $8,500, three-quarters the level of poverty for a family of three, and only about half the poverty level for a family of four.

I honestly do not know why the Senator from Kansas, the majority leader, the nominee-to-be of the Republican Party, would not want to see the minimum wage raised, particularly since he has previously joined in the bipartisan effort to try to do that. I do not have an answer. Maybe my colleague has an answer.

Mr. WELLSTONE. If I can ask one other question, because I am trying to understand the disconnect between politics in Washington today where at least for the moment you have a Presidential candidate, the majority leader, who does not seem to want us to have a debate on this versus what we hear back in our States.

In Massachusetts, as you visit with families and spend time in communities, do you find that people talk a lot about the importance of jobs, of decent wages and raising the minimum wage? Is this an issue that you hear about all the time from people you represent?

Mr. KERRY. Let me say to my friend from Minnesota, when you talk to working people in Massachusetts and when you talk to almost anybody—white-collar workers, people who have good jobs in our high-technology economy, people who are part of our financial services industry, which is one of the strongest in the Nation—I would say 80 percent of the people believe that workers at the bottom rung of the economic ladder ought to be able to secure income from their work that is at least equal to the poverty level. That is all we are asking for here.

As an example, to answer your question specifically, a fellow named Neil Donovan, who runs something called Project Impact, which is a Massachusetts organization that puts homeless people into jobs, has said that a job placement at the minimum wage is, in fact, a recipe for failure. That is the experience of someone who runs a homeless shelter and wants to help those in the shelter to move toward self-sufficiency.

Why is that? I can tell you, using as examples people who live in homeless shelters. There is a fellow about whom I have talked recently who lost his job. He is now in a homeless shelter. Four months ago, he found a new job. He is working as a stock clerk, doing errands in a small operation. He is working at the minimum wage, and at the end of the week, he brings home $132.50. He proudly brings this $132.50 back to the homeless shelter in which he still lives, because even the full $132.50 is too little to be able to pay for the smallest, cheapest studio apartment in the city of Boston.

That amount does not begin to pay for health care. If you are a parent of a young child, it does not pay for day care. It does not pay the food bills for the month, after you have paid for the rent. We are talking about fundamental subsistence here.

Corporations have seen their revenues increase 12 percent or more, but the total personal income of the country as a whole, taking all incomes into account, has only gone up 2 percent. And we know that even this increase was not evenly distributed across the income spectrum. The incomes that increased were mostly at the upper level.

Here in the Congress we have a lot of people earning 10 times the poverty level. Ten times the poverty level we earn in the U.S. Congress, and the Republican leadership of the U.S. Senate is unwilling to raise the income level for those who are working at three-quarters of the poverty level and one-tenth of the salary of Senators.

Mr. WELLSTONE. Might I ask the Senator two more questions?

Mr. KERRY. Yes.

Mr. WELLSTONE. So what the Senator is saying is that right now, $4.25 an hour, what happens is that with a family, you have somebody working 40 hours a week, 52 weeks a year and still not making poverty wages.

If we were to raise this minimum wage in the amendment we want to offer, I think the senior Senator from Massachusetts said this would be an additional $1,800. I know what this means to a family in Minnesota, but for a working family in Massachusetts, what does that mean? What does $1,800 mean?

Let us talk in real people terms so that people understand this is not some party strategy, this is about people's lives, and we think this is critically important to do. As of the moment, we cannot even get our colleagues on the other side to debate. What does this mean to people in Massachusetts?

Mr. KERRY. To a family in Massachusetts, say a single parent with two kids, that spends about 60 bucks a week on groceries, this means a difference of 7 months groceries. What we are talking about is 7 months of food for the adult who is the combination breadwinner and parent and the two children. Obviously, if you can buy the 7 months of groceries, you then may also be able to move some of the money you had been spending on food to pay the heating bill, pay the rent, pay the utilities, or, if you are lucky enough to own a home, pay the mortgage. But, of course, you are very unlikely to own a home if the family's income depends on a minimum-wage job.

But there are many Americans who are hampered in what jobs they can get because they do not have transportation. Often that is the difference—being able to travel by some means from home to a job. An increase in the minimum wage easily could enable a worker to afford transportation, maybe a $3,000 used car, so you can travel beyond the confines of an area where there are not a lot of jobs, and find a better job.

There are many people with whom I talk in Massachusetts who are limited in their ability to get a decent job by their inability to be able to get to the job. As we are seeing more and more reductions in transit subsidies, bus routes are being cut, the fares are going up. People are actually written out of jobs because they cannot get to them.

But let me just make one further point to my colleague, and then I will yield the floor to him. All of this is not really that complicated. You hear the same arguments every time. Oh, if you raise the minimum wage, all those kids in the work force or who want to come into the work force are going to be denied jobs. But the truth is, we are not talking about kids. We are talking about adults. More than 70 percent of the people working on minimum wage are adults. More than two-thirds of them are women. These are working families that are affected here.

The argument is made that, oh, we are going to lose jobs if we raise that minimum wage. Well, there are at least 12 studies, several of them in the last couple of years, that refute that argument. A couple of these studies were done in New Jersey because New Jersey raised its minimum wage. You heard all the same arguments about New Jersey. And New Jersey experienced an increase in jobs.

Can anyone look around America in any year in which we have raised the minimum wage and say that doing so held us back—that it hurt our economy or cost us jobs? Can you look around this country and suggest that we have not created more jobs and raised people's incomes while we provided that income floor which guaranteed that American workers are not going to be exploited?

Mr. President, let us be honest about the history of what happened in our Nation. Go back and read the "Grapes of Wrath." Go back through the history of the labor movement. Are we going to pretend that the gains for America's workers came spontaneously? Did they come out of the goodness of the hearts of managers or owners of the coal mines or the steel mills or the railroads of this Nation? No.

Everybody knows the sacrifices that the labor movement had to make, and that people lost their lives. People were shut out, people were starved, people were hit over the head, knees were broken. People were killed because workers had to fight for the right to be able to get a decent wage. There was even a time, believe it or not—how amazing—when people had to strike because they thought that they should not work more than 8 hours a day. Remember the exploitation of child labor? Remember the various diseases, the inhumane working conditions?

So through the years we have reached a point in America where we thought we had a fundamental understanding about what was fair. Now you have people working at the minimum wage who are earning only three-quarters or half the level of poverty for their families. And we have a party that believes that those of us elected to try to make these choices in Washington should not have the right on the floor of the Senate to have an up-or-down vote on a proposal to increase that minimum wage. It is very simple. In this body, 51 votes is the measure of what we do. In this case, 51 votes is the measure of whether Americans working at the minimum wage will receive a raise.

The chief executive officers of this country have not had a hard time getting raises. When 40,000 people are laid off at AT&T, the stock goes up and the chief executive can walk away with millions of dollars in additional compensation. What happens to those workers who were the victims of the downsizing? Well, maybe they have a skill level where they will break into another job. But for those people at the very bottom rung of the ladder, they are not going to have a chance to reach the next rung, or even to stay on the bottom rung, unless we lift their living standard and give them a raise.

When one examines the ratio of salaries of chief executive officers to salaries of their companies' wage earners, the ratio has moved from 50 to 1, where it remained for decades in this country, to over several hundred to one today. It just seems incomprehensible to me, Mr. President, that we should be even debating whether we should give the workers on the bottom rung of the ladder a raise, especially when the purchasing power of their current wage is at a 40-year low. That is what this is all about. I hope that our colleagues will join with us in our traditional bipartisan approach on this issue and raise the minimum wage in this country.

Mr. WELLSTONE addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair recognizes the Senator from Minnesota.

PRIVILEGE OF THE FLOOR

Mr. WELLSTONE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that privilege of the floor be granted to Paul Mazur during the duration of the debate on this bill.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. WELLSTONE. Thank you, Mr. President.

I would like to thank both my colleagues from Massachusetts. Let me just get back to basics. This amendment that I thought we were going to lay down this morning is simple and straightforward. It would increase the minimum wage, the Federal minimum wage from the current $4.25 an hour to $5.15 an hour over the next 2 years. That is all. Mr. President, 90 cents over 2 years, no indexing to adjust for the cost of living, no other things to complicate the debate.

A straightforward proposition—raise the Federal minimum wage from $4.25 an hour for working families in our country, to $5.15 an hour over 2 years, and 90 cents over 2 years. For some reason my colleagues on the other side of the aisle, at least as of this morning, do not want us to be able to lay this amendment out on the floor of the Senate and have the debate and vote for it up or down.

I would just say to my colleagues, that this is simple, this is straightforward. My colleague from Massachusetts, Senator KERRY, talked about CEO salaries. Let me just be blunt. The U.S. House of Representatives and the U.S. Senate sure as heck voted themselves a huge raise, an increase from about $100,000 a few years ago to $130,000 a year. I heard my colleagues tell me that, you know, you have kids in college and there is additional expenses and all of the rest.

Fair enough. But if the U.S. Senate can vote for a salary increase from $100,000 to $130,000 a year—and the House took the action earlier—do you not think it is about time we are willing to raise the minimum wage from $4.25 an hour to $5.15 an hour over 2 years? Do you not think it is about time that we would be willing to raise the minimum wage by 90 cents over 2 years?

Mr. President, I do not know what the majority leader plans on doing. But it does seem to me that we have now reached the point where regardless of the strategies and regardless of whatever parliamentary ruling there might be, it is going to be very difficult for Senators to essentially finesse this issue. Because while we are putting off the debate, at least for the moment, there are many Americans who have to live with this minimum wage. We are putting the debate off on the minimum wage this morning, while many Americans have to live with it. For 200,000 working people and their families in Minnesota, this is an extremely important issue.

Later on, Mr. President, when we get to the debate, I will talk about people.

I do not want it to be abstract. But let me just tell you, whether it is a single parent working or whether it is two parents working, this debate about the minimum wage, this effort to raise the minimum wage, is absolutely key toward providing people with a ladder to get into the middle class. This is a fundamental economic justice question. I will just say one more time, I came to the floor about 10:30. I thought we had an understanding that we would go forward with this amendment.

My hope is that after the caucuses meet at lunch we will be able to do so, that we will be able to lay down our amendment, that we will have debate on this amendment, and that Senators will be accountable, Democrats and Republicans alike. Because I will tell you; in Minnesota, the cafe discussion is whether or not your children are going to be able to find jobs at a decent wage. The cafe discussion is whether or not you can pay your mortgage payment or whether you can pay your rent. The cafe discussion is whether you can afford to send your kids to college. The cafe discussion is on the economic squeeze that families feel.

The vast majority of people in Minnesota and the vast majority of people all across this country want to see us take action on this.

I say one more time, the U.S. Senate and the U.S. House of Representatives did not seem to have any problem in voting ourselves a huge pay increase. Do you not think it is about time we vote for a pay increase for working families in this country, and set some kind of decent, humane, compassionate minimum wage floor for working men and women and their children?

That is what this is about. I do not think anybody is going to be able to hide from this debate. I do not think there is going to be any way of maneuvering around this debate. I am just speaking for myself. I am not even speaking for my two colleagues from Massachusetts. But I intend to be a part of this effort to introduce this amendment over and over and over again.

You cannot duck. You cannot hide. It is an important economic issue. It is an important economic opportunity issue. It is all about working men and women and their children. It is all about economic justice. It is all about fairness. And it is time we get serious about these kinds of issues in the U.S. Senate. I hope this afternoon after lunch we will have the opportunity to lay down our amendment and then we will have this debate. Then we will have a positive, affirmative vote for working men, women, and children in the State of Minnesota. Mr. President, I yield the floor.

Mr. KENNEDY addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair recognizes the Senator from Massachusetts.

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, I know the time is divided. I am just wondering—I want to have a few more moments for a statement I want to make between now and 12:30.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Massachusetts, his side has 4 minutes remaining.

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, I will yield myself 3½ minutes.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, why we wanted to have the opportunity to address this issue is because, as this chart shows, between 1979 and 1993, this shows what has happened to real family income during this period of time.

This body is familiar with what happened before 1979 from the postwar period from 1949 up to 1979. Virtually each of these columns all moved up together up to about 100 percent improvement in the family income growth. Virtually at every level of the economy everyone moved up together. We have gone through that in other debates on the minimum wage and we may have a chance, if there is a challenge to this, to go into that in some greater detail.

But what we have now seen is 1979-93, the bottom fifth of the population has seen a real loss of 17 percent. I am always interested in how we evaluate what has happened in the median, where the median is. If you take the median as for the highest wages and the highest profits and the highest growth of the wealthiest families and the least you come out somewhere in the middle.

But the fact of the matter is that is not a good indication of what is happening to those on the bottom rung of the ladder. They are the ones that have fallen furthest behind from 1990 to 1993. This is the group which would be most affected and most helped and assisted with the increase in the minimum wage. It would be modest. It amounts to about $3.4 billion that would go to that particular group.

We will hear a lot about this is very inflationary. That is $3.4 billion in a $5 trillion economy. That is $3.4 billion in a $5 trillion economy. And they are going to talk about, well, it is inflation and it is going to set off all of the economy? This demonstrates what is out there in terms of our colleagues who are working in America.

The ones that are being affected by the minimum wage, as has been pointed out, are the ones that are working full time, 40 hours a week, 52 weeks of the year. This chart shows what the real minimum wage is. That is in the purchasing power. This continues to go. It will be the lowest it was since 1989.

In 1989, as has been pointed out in this debate, at that level, of Republicans and Democrats, there were only nine Members of the U.S. Senate in 1989 that voted against it. And 32 Members of the Republican Party voted for this increase. George Bush voted for that increase. Effectively we are right back down to—BOB DOLE voted for the increase. We are right back to that level now. Plus, I think most would understand that the economy is stronger today than it was at that particular time.

Mr. President, this chart shows what is happening. The Dow-Jones average, inflation adjusted, goes right up through the roof. Here it is. It breaks through the roof. This is what is happening with the stock market, the Dow-Jones average, right up through the roof. The real minimum wage, inflation adjusted, the small increase here with the 90-cent increase, right back down again. And what we are talking about with this amendment would be a 90-cent increase over the next 2 years.

Mr. President, as has been pointed out, these are the individuals who are affected—16 to 19 years is 31 percent; over 20 years of age, 70 percent. We are talking about adults; 70 percent of the individuals are over 20 years of age.

Mr. President, this is an indication, again, as I mentioned briefly, about who in our society is going to be impacted. Men represent 40 percent of the wage earners from $4.25 to $5.14. These are the wage earners that would be impacted by this increase. Again, 60 percent would be women. Many of them are single women. Many of them have children. That is why I believe that this is not just—

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator has 30 seconds remaining.

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, I yield myself the final 30 seconds.

Is not just a workers' issue; it is a women's issue and a child's issue.

Mr. President, we will have the opportunity to go on and show about what the impact has been on inflation and employment since the end of World War II. We are glad to debate this issue, to take on issues and go through them and let the Senate vote its will.

So, Mr. President, I hope that we will have that opportunity when the legislation is going to come up under what was agreed to last evening to be recognized. We will offer this amendment. We hope that we will be able to work out an agreeable format so that we can have a real debate on the issue and then have a final vote, find out who is on the side of working families in this country.

My time has expired. I understand the remaining time will be available to the Members of the other party and we will be back here at 2:15 to continue this debate.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair recognizes the Senator from Washington.

Mr. GORTON. Mr. President, I did not come to the floor for the purpose of discussing this issue, but having listened to this discussion, I do want to remark on the bizarre nature of an argument which emphasized so strongly the outrage of the last three Senators in not being permitted to debate an issue which they were, of course, debating, on which they will place an amendment, when each of those three Senators has been visibly engaged in the last 4 weeks in preventing the Senate from voting on an appropriations bill for the District of Columbia with all of the positive impact that has on poor people, law enforcement, and education in the District, and by foolishly engaging at the same time in filibustering an attempt to bring to conclusion—to extend and bring to conclusion—the Whitewater investigation. We have not been permitted to debate these issues on their merits or to vote on their merits. For the life of me, I do not understand how that differs from the objection they are making today, particularly since they will, of course, be able to bring up such an amendment and have a debate on it.

I also point out, they neglected to state that all of their examples relate to some 10 or 15 percent, a very small percentage, of minimum-wage people who are the primary supporters for their families, and that a proposal that would obviously benefit that small handful of people will have a terribly damaging effect on first jobs for teenager and welfare recipients attempting to build new lives and living for themselves.

The compassion for those people, at the beginning of their careers, seem to be remarkably absent in the debate we have heard so far.

RAISING THE MINIMUM WAGE IS A BAD IDEA

Mr. NICKLES. Mr. President, I rise in opposition to some of the statements that were made by our colleagues from Massachusetts, who said we should increase the minimum wage. I will make a couple of editorial comments because I do not know that we need to debate it at this time, but I feel a need to respond to some of the statements made on the floor of the Senate.

The implication was that if we do not increase the minimum wage, we do not care about low-income people. I find that to be offensive. That attempts to show that maybe those of us who oppose raising the minimum wage are not only insensitive, but we do not care about poor people or something. I disagree with that. Maybe we should turn that argument around. Maybe those of us who care more about poor people should increase the minimum wage to $10, $15, or $20 an hour. I would like for everybody in America to make $20 an hour. But is the proper way to do it to pass a law that says it is against the law for you to have a job if you do not make that? That is what our colleagues from Massachusetts are doing. They want to offer an amendment that says it is against the law for you to have a job unless it pays $5.15 an hour. They do not care if the job is in rural Missouri or Oklahoma. Maybe every job in Massachusetts pays that much. I do not care if the State of Massachusetts passes a minimum wage law for any figure. That is their prerogative. But to pass a law that makes it effective in my State and all across the country and says it is against the Federal law to have a job that pays less than $5.15, I think is a serious mistake.

Who does it hurt? I think it would hurt the very people they propose to help. It would be telling a lot of people who are low income, who have a job that maybe does not pay much, it pays minimum wage—by definition, that is not much, but at least they have a job—and we are going to say, unless that job pays at least $5.15 an hour, we do not think you should have that job. As a matter of fact, it is against the law, against the Federal law for you to have a job unless it pays that amount. I totally disagree with that.

I just have to say that I do not understand the effort made to have this amendment on this bill. We have a lands bill up. We have a bill that deals with Presidio, deals with the land exchange in Oklahoma and Arkansas, and we have a bill dealing with Utah wilderness. It is a complicated bill. I compliment my colleague from Alaska, Senator MURKOWSKI, for his leadership on this bill.

What does the minimum wage amendment have to do with this bill? Nothing—except for politics. I will say it has something to do with politics. My colleagues said that we have not had an increase in the minimum wage since 1989—7 years. Wait a minute. The Democrats were in control of the Senate and the House and the White House in the years 1993 and 1994. Why did they not have the bill on the floor then? The majority leader, Senator MITCHELL, at that time could have brought it up. But he did not. Why? Well, they were trying to have a big increase in the minimum wage because they wanted to mandate a very expensive health care plan on America. Maybe they figured they could not do both. They controlled the agenda. The Senator from Massachusetts could have offered that amendment, and he did not do it. We did not have a vote in 1993 and 1994 when President Clinton and the Democrats were in control. But we are having one today.

I noticed a coincidence in today's paper, the Washington Post. The headline is, "AFL-CIO Endorses Clinton, Approves $35 Million Political Program." They want to enact their agenda. This is on their agenda. My colleagues talked about special interests. I would say this is a pretty big special interest. I would say that all of their members make more than minimum wage. Maybe all of them do. There are a lot of people in rural Missouri or rural Oklahoma making minimum wage, and if you increase the minimum wage by a certain amount, you are going to be putting some people out of work. I do not know who, but I know there are some. I have been in rural areas that have grocery stores that are striving to stay alive because they had a big company come in, like Wal-Mart or somebody, a big competitor.

Yes, they were paying $4.50 an hour or whatever the amount would be, and they are not making any money. But if we mandate that they increase their minimum wage or whatever they are paying by 21 percent as proposed, you are going to be putting some of those jobs out, maybe put the business out.

And what are these jobs? A lot of them are starting level jobs. I worked for minimum wage 27½ years ago. It was when my wife and I were first married. I worked for it before then as well. But I remember that was the best job we could get. We both worked. At that time I think the minimum wage was $1.60 an hour, and was it enough? No. Did I want more? Yes. Did I learn part of the trade? And that trade at the time was a janitor service. Yes. And I started my own.

So the minimum wage was not so much a minimum wage as it was a starting wage. It helped me learn a craft or business, and I was able to start a business. I employed more people and they made more than the minimum wage. But what we are doing, if we increase the minimum wage significantly, what we are going to be doing is telling all people if your job does not pay at least this amount, it is against the law for you to have a job, we are going to pull up the economic ladder. The Federal Government is determined if your job does not pay that amount, you should not have it; it is against the Federal law.

I think that is wrong. That is the heavy hand of the Federal Government coming in and saying we know best. We know you should be making more. Now, what is right in Boston, MA, may not be what is right in my hometown of Ponca City, OK.

So I just really disagree with this idea of big Government knows best; we are going to mandate, we are going to tell everybody what to do and act like there are no economic consequences whatsoever.

Sure, there are economic consequences. You are going to be pricing some jobs—maybe the job is pumping gas—out of the market. That is one of the first jobs that a lot of my group growing up were working at. You do not see that anymore. Most of the gas stations are self-serve. That may not be the greatest job in the world, but I would rather have that young person coming in and getting a start and maybe learning the fact this is not good enough; I cannot make enough money, so maybe I need to go back and complete high school or maybe I need to go into vo-tech or maybe I need to go get some additional training. That is all part of the educational process.

We say, "Oh, no. If the job doesn't pay over $5.15 an hour, you can't have it; it is wrong." Or maybe the job is sacking groceries. You do not see many jobs like that. We used to have those jobs. The Federal Government is going to put people out of business and back on the streets, people who need that job training.

A lot of people in Boston, a lot of people in different parts of the country need that first job. That first job teaches them a lot more than just the dollar amount. And we should give them that opportunity. We should not be pulling the economic ladder up and saying, no, if it does not pay that much, it is not worth it; you go ahead and stay home. And, yes, so what if you are 16 years old and you do not have anything else to do, just stay home. And then what happens? A lot of those idle people say, well, I need some money. How can I make money? Maybe I can make money running drugs, maybe I can make money stealing things, whatever. A lot of people get into trouble because they have time on their hands.

That is a mistake. We should not price them out of the marketplace, and that is what is being proposed.

And then some of our colleagues say, well, there are no economic consequences whatsoever. This is not going to mean an increase in unemployment. I think it just defies the law of supply and demand. If there are no negative economic consequences by a 21-percent increase in the minimum wage, why not increase it 50 percent? Why not increase it 100 percent? Maybe we should have a perfecting amendment that says the minimum wage will be $10 an hour?

That is all right. If you work 2,080 hours a year, that is $20,000 a year. I think that would be nice. I would like for everybody to make $20,000 a year. So maybe we should perfect this amendment. If you are not going to have any negative consequences by a 21-percent increase in the minimum wage, let us make it 100 percent, make it $10 an hour. I just think that argument makes no sense whatsoever. Common sense would say, hey, this is going to cause some problems for some people and those some people are going to be the people on the lowest end of the economic scale that maybe are trying to crawl that ladder and we are going to pull the ladder up. We should not do that.

I wish to make a couple of comments. Yes, there are negative economic consequences. CBO said that this is an unfunded mandate on cities and counties and States and tribes of about $1 billion over the next few years. They said it is an unfunded mandate on the private sector to the tune of over $12 billion for the next few years.

The real problem is that this is going to be telling a lot of young people we are sorry; if you cannot find a job that pays this much, we do not want you to have a job; it is against the law for you to have a job. That is a mistake. I think that is a serious mistake. We should not do that.

So I will urge my colleague at the appropriate time to oppose this amendment if and when it is offered. It does not belong in this bill. Some people are kind of frustrated Congress does not get its business done, and on occasion I may join that frustration. But this amendment is for politics because the leaders of organized labor are in town, because the leaders of organized labor are endorsing Clinton and promising record amounts, record amounts, $35 million in political campaign contributions. This is special interest legislation and the real problem is the real people it will hurt will be low-income people who need jobs.

So I will urge my colleagues at the appropriate time to defeat this amendment.

Mr. President, I yield the floor.

Mr. MURKOWSKI addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Alaska.

Mr. MURKOWSKI. Mr. President, I join with my friend from Oklahoma relative to his concern over what the minimum wage will do if there is an increase. And I believe the increase proposed by the Senator from Massachusetts is from $4.25 to $5.15. That is about 45 cents I believe over a 2-year period.

FEDERAL REGULATIONS

Mr. GORTON. Mr. President, I have today a bizarre example of the unthinking impact of conflicting Federal regulations on other conflicting Federal regulations and the fact that so often our bureaucracy simply does not think out the consequences of what it does.

Recently, I was in the Tri City area of east central Washington and was discussing his business with the manager of a Unocal fertilizer plant in the city of Kennewick. He brought to my attention a fairly recent message that he had received from the U.S. Coast Guard. The Coast Guard has written to everyone with various kinds of facilities in ports from California through the State of Washington, warning them about potential terrorism, pointing out that the base of the explosive at the Oklahoma City courthouse disaster was fertilizer, and telling the manager of this fertilizer plant how important it was to guard against terrorism, to guard against outsiders getting into the facility and engaging in terroristic acts.

Well, it was oratory in nature and did not suggest any particular things to do. I do not think it suggested anything that the plant was not already doing. But at the same time, Mr. President, the Unocal plant was informed by the Environmental Protection Agency of a truly bizarre proposal on its part.

As a fertilizer plant, and because fertilizers do, under some circumstances, raise certain health risks and also certain explosive risks, this business is subject to widespread regulation on the part of the Occupational Safety and Health Administration and the Environmental Protection Agency. In fact, those regulations are so detailed in nature that 23 people out of 150 employees in the plant are devoted almost solely to abiding by various governmental regulations.

In any event, the Environmental Protection Agency announced a new regulation to apply to some 122,000 facilities across the country. That regulation would require each of these 122,000 facilities to make public the worst-case scenario, the worst thing that could possibly happen if any of the materials handled by or stored in the facility were released.

So, in other words, Mr. President, we have a Federal Government warning against terrorism with one hand and instructing companies to publicize the worst thing a terrorist could possibly do with their materials on the other hand—in detail.

The Environmental Protection Agency, when it was asked how many deaths had resulted off of the site of one of these 122,000 plants from the release of such material, came up with the answer “zero.” No such deaths. But they have a regulation which will tell the terrorists exactly how to cause those deaths in very, very large numbers.

Mr. President, there is no question but that safety regulations are vitally important and environmental protection regulations are important. This Unocal plant, I may say, had 1 injury that caused one day of lost time in the last several years in its plant, and that was from heavy lifting, not the use of hazardous material. It runs an extremely safe plant.

But, Mr. President, could we possibly come up with a better illustration of the proposition that we need to look over our old regulations after a certain period of time and determine whether or not they are still relevant or still working; that before we impose new regulations, we ought to figure out what the cost and the downside is against whatever the purported gain is before we impose them? Are we going to simply publicize ways in which to engage in terrorism, when we have not had any serious problems from the very condition that the regulation is designed to control?

Mr. President, should we not have some kind of coordination among various Federal agencies as to whether or not the regulation of one is not going to undercut the very purpose for which another exists? Well, Mr. President, I think the answer to these questions is quite obvious. Here is another example of the use of the so-called safety regulation or environmental regulation in a way which is destructive of the very goals it seeks in the first place.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the Coast Guard missive and the letter from Mr. Powell of Unocal be printed in the RECORD at this point.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

DEPARTMENT OF TRANSPORTATION,
U.S. COAST GUARD,

Alameda, CA, January 14, 1996.

DEAR WATERFRONT FACILITY OPERATOR/
MARITIME TRANSPORTATION COMPANY: As a result of a series of recent U.S. judicial proceedings, I have received an advisory indicating possible retaliatory acts against U.S.

interests. The sentencing of Sheikh Omar Abdel Rahman and nine others for their involvement in the bombing of the World Trade Center and other New York landmarks may prompt sympathizers to possible retaliation. Similar responses could also follow if the U.S. extradites Musa Abu Marzuq, a member of the “Islamic Resistance Movement (HAMAS)” to Israel for his involvement in terrorist activities there. In addition, Salman Rushdie, the target of an Iranian death order, is currently on a multi-city U.S. book tour. Finally, the trial of alleged bomb maker and terrorist Ramei Ahmed Youssef is expected in the first half of 1996. He and his accomplices are charged with conspiring to bomb a U.S. commercial airlines in the Asia Pacific region.

The possible retaliatory acts to these judicial proceedings may include attacks against the U.S. transportation infrastructure. It should be emphasized that no specific threats against any form of transportation have been identified to date. However, the Secretary of Transportation believes it is prudent and appropriate to ensure deterrence and prevention of these activities. Therefore, I am advising all waterfront facility operators and companies involved in maritime transportation in Northern California to take appropriate and immediate actions to ensure that adequate measures are in place to prevent or deter terrorist actions against facilities and port personnel. These actions should begin with a review of your security measures already in place and an assessment of whether or not additional security measures are necessary.

To facilitate information sharing and response actions during a security-related emergency, the Department of Transportation has established a hotline for reporting incidents. The number for the hotline is 1-800-424-0201. Should you receive any threats or notice any unusual activities which may compromise your security, I urge you to contact this hotline and appropriate law enforcement agencies. You may also contact the Marine Safety Office's watch office at (510) 437-3073 to report these incidents.

Your cooperation in ensuring the safety of the port is greatly appreciated. Should you have any questions regarding this matter, please contact Lieutenant Lee of my staff at (510) 437-5873.

Sincerely,

D.P. MONTORO,
Captain, U.S. Coast Guard.

UNOCAL PETROLEUM PRODUCTS &
CHEMICALS DIVISION,
Kennewick, WA, June 26, 1995.
Hon. RICHARD “DOC” HASTINGS,
House of Representatives, Longworth Office Building, Washington, DC.

DEAR REPRESENTATIVE HASTINGS: Thank you for the time you afforded my entire family when we were in Washington, D.C. last week. Meeting a congressman in his office was a big event for us.

During our brief talk I told you that I was in town for a meeting of the Fertilizer Institute where EPA's proposed risk management (RM) regulations were discussed in depth. These regulations which focus on community safety are explicitly called for by the 1990 Clean Air Act Section 112(r)(7). In addition to our internal discussion, an EPA spokeswoman, Dr. Lyse Helsing of EPA's Chemical Emergency Preparedness and Prevention Office, provided us with an update of the status of their proposed regulations. EPA's proposed RM regulations will substantially overlap with existing regulations also called for by the Clean Air Act and already implemented by OSHA to protect worker safety. These are OSHA's Process Safety Management (PSM) regulations which went into effect in 1992. Unfortunately, the overlapping portions of the regulations are not quite identical. The Fertilizer Institute and Unocal feel this problem can be easily solved and that the solution would be in line with President Clinton's recent directive to eliminate or modify regulations that are obsolete or unnecessary.

The attached letter explaining the problem with these overlapping regulations was drafted by the Fertilizer Institute. It briefly explains the problem and offers a solution. I hope you will consider sending this or a similar letter to the EPA.

One element in the RM regulations called for by the Clean Air Act is not dealt with by OSHA in its PSM regulations. That is a requirement that industries storing certain hazardous materials above threshold quantities make public the “worst case” scenario for the release of this material including its impact on the surrounding community. RM regulations will effect 122,000 facilities in this country according to EPA's spokeswoman Dr. Lyse Helsing. When asked how many such worst case releases had ever resulted in an injury to a person offsite from the affected facility, Dr. Helsing stated that EPA's records showed zero deaths. She did not comment on injuries, but I suspect there is scant evidence of a problem. However, the requirement to publicize worst case information will be costly and we will in the process of releasing such information make it known to potential terrorists as well as to average citizens. In the wake of Oklahoma City, the Trade Tower incident in New York and subway incidents in Japan, I doubt that public safety will be enhanced by making worse case information public. This is especially true in this instance where EPA acknowledges no history of problem in this country.

The clock is ticking on EPA's court ordered deadline of March 1996 to issue RM regulations with a requirement for publication of worst case scenarios. I urge you to take action to avoid implementation of this aspect of the Clean Air Act.

Thank you for your time, your consideration and your constant efforts at improving the workings of our government.

Sincerely,

MARK R. POWELL.

Mr. GORTON. Mr. President, I yield the floor.

Mr. NICKLES addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. ASHCROFT). The Senator from Oklahoma is recognized.

Mr. NICKLES. Mr. President, I compliment my colleague from Washington for that statement. That may be the most vivid example of bureaucracies running amok, actually endangering the lives of some of our constituents. That is unfortunate. I appreciate the Senator for bringing that to our attention. I hope we will be able to take some corrective action.

PRESIDIO PROPERTIES ADMINISTRATION ACT

Mr. MURKOWSKI. Mr. President, I wish to continue our earlier discussion a little bit more. I remind this body of the pending business that is before the Senate, and that is a package of parks bills, some 56 titles, and a couple of them are contentious—Utah wilderness and Presidio. And as we look at getting things done around here, it is inconceivable to me that we would not finish what we started. We started yesterday with this parks package. It was scheduled to come up throughout the day. We had about 7½ hours of debate, good debate yesterday. Today, we were going to take amendments, and the first thing out of the box is the minimum wage. Putting aside the merits of the minimum wage, the question is, Why not finish what we started?

The Utah wilderness debate is a legitimate issue for the State of Utah. The Presidio trust establishment is a legitimate issue for the State of California. The concern relative to Utah wilderness is whether or not 2 million acres of additional wilderness is adequate or, as some from the elitist group suggest, it should be 5 to 6 million acres. Currently, Utah has a pretty good chunk of wilderness. They have approximately 800,000 acres that is Forest Service wilderness. The proposed bill that we presented would increase that BLM wilderness classification to 2 million acres, making a total of 2.8 million.

That is pretty significant, Mr. President, when you consider just how big a million acres of wilderness actually is. Few people recognize as they wander around in the great outdoors what a million acres of wilderness equates to. A million acres equates to a State the size of Delaware. Two million acres, what we are talking about, is about three times the size of the State of Rhode Island. Two million acres is about half the size of the State of New Jersey.

With reference to the Utah wilderness, why they are somewhat reluctant to put in even more acreage is that there has been an extended study done as to what would be adequate in the minds of Utahns, the legislature, the Governor, and so forth. And I think some 15 years have been spent in the study, some $10 million expended to come up with the recommendation of 1.9 million. As I said before, the proposal here is 2 million acres.

Now, Utah needs for its economy, for its infrastructure, funds coming from resource development. Some of these areas would be used for the production of resources to support the needs of Utah—the schools and various other long-term commitments to better the residents of that State. Some might wonder why I am speaking coming from the State of Alaska, but we, too, are affected by wilderness designations. We have 56 million acres of wilderness in our State of Alaska, so I know something about the topic.

But, as we reflect on what is behind the issue, on one hand, of trying to reach an accord to get the 56 titles through that represent the parks in some 26 States, I encourage all my colleagues to remember the importance of standing behind this package. Because, if the Senate votes out this package, it will be accepted by the House. If the Utah wilderness is stricken, if the Presidio is stricken, why, the House has assured us, they are not even going to take it up.

But the significance here is what the Utahns are trying to do to develop their economy and meet their school obligations by utilizing the resources in that State, the resources that, if additional wilderness is set aside beyond the 2 million acres, they are simply not going to be able to achieve their needs.

Who are these folks who are proposing it should be 5 to 6 million acres? They are not residents of the State of Utah. They are some of the eastern elitists, who have moved their focus, if you will, from the West as being an area where there is great productivity and return for their investments, as they reside in the East, to easterners who look at the West as a great place to recreate.

What we are talking about here is balance. We are trying to get a balance between preserving the wilderness and developing our resources and trying to address our jobs. As I hear my colleagues this morning talk about the minimum wage, I ask them where in the world are the jobs that we formerly had in resource development in this country? We have lost 600,000 jobs since 1980 in the oil and gas industry; 600,000 jobs. These are not minimum-wage jobs. These are high-paying union jobs, blue-collar jobs of the highest skills necessary to produce oil and gas. What have we done? We have relied on imports. We are bringing in, now, 54 percent of our crude oil. Mr. President, 54 percent of our crude oil consumption is imported. So, what we are doing is we are exporting our dollars, we are exporting our jobs, and we have lost 600,000 jobs since 1980.

I do not see my colleagues on the other side of the aisle saying what can we do to stimulate domestic jobs in oil and gas production, where we have huge reservoirs simply ready to be tapped, we have the technology, we have the expertise to do it safely. They do not want to stand up and be counted, because some of the elitist groups might suggest we should not be developing oil and gas on public lands, we should not be generating revenue and taxes for the communities. They move over to the minimum wage, on a parks bill, and suggest that this is the issue for the Senate. This is not the business of the Senate. The business of the Senate is the 56 titles of the parks bill.

Look at the timber industry. Timber is a renewable resource. Do you know why the U.S. Forest Service was established? It was established so we could have an ongoing supply of timber. It is up to us to determine whether the management is adequate or inadequate. We have lost 30,000 timber jobs in 10 years. How many communities did that affect? Lots and lots.

As a consequence, I just am bewildered at my colleague's immediate jump to a minimum-wage increase with no consideration for the lost jobs in timber, mining, oil, gas, ranching—virtually every resource from public lands that has traditionally employed Americans in high-paying jobs. Where have the jobs gone to in the United States? They have gone to the service industry. They have gone to McDonald's. They have gone to the low pay, as we import the things we need, like our wood fiber. Some of the extreme elitists suggest we do not have to develop that in the United States, we can import it. But many of those countries do not have the same environmental sensitivity that we do in the United States. They are not developing their renewable resources with the same sensitivity that we are.

So, I think it is a little inconsistent, as we listen to this debate today, particularly in view of the statement from my friend from Oklahoma that it is a bit coincidental, with the AFL-CIO in town, endorsing the current administration, committing $35 million out of the union members in this country for a political action effort. Where are those people when it comes to the basic, hard-core resource jobs of this country? They are not on this floor. They are not defending the right to use our science and technology to keep this job base that we have had in this country, that has made this country self-sufficient.

Mr. President, 54 percent of our crude oil is imported. As I said, the dollars and jobs are going overseas. Over one-half the trade deficit is the cost of imported oil. There is absolutely no excuse for that. We are importing over 8 million barrels a day. The total cost to import that is $1 billion per week. We could have those jobs in the United States if we would recognize, as we look at our regulatory requirements, that they really do not keep pace with the technological advancements. To suggest we cannot open up oil and gas deposits safely with the technology that we have been developing is really selling American engineering and ingenuity short.

I see the hour of 12:30 is almost upon us, Mr. President. I again remind my colleagues of the inappropriateness of trying to move a minimum-wage action on a parks bill, a parks bill that addresses some 25 States, 56 titles, and has been worked on for many, many years by many Members here and addresses the needs of many, many States.

So, I urge my colleagues to refrain from the debate on the minimum wage to simply take advantage of the political opportunity associated with the presence of the AFL-CIO and their convention in town and their pledge of $35 million to the current administration and get back to the business of the Senate, which is this parks package, debate it, pass it, and move on. I am sure there will be a time and place for the minimum wage, but it is not on this parks bill.

Mr. President, I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. DOLE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. DOLE. Mr. President, was leader's time reserved?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. It was.

EDMUND S. MUSKIE

Mr. DOLE. Mr. President, during a speech in the 1968 Presidential campaign, Senator Edmund Muskie, who was the Democrat nominee for Vice President, told his audience, "you have the God-given right to kick the Government around—don't hesitate to do so."

That remark was pure Ed Muskie. Blunt. To the point. And leaving no doubt that Americans should expect the best of their public officials.

And the best is just what the people of Maine and America received from Ed Muskie during a public service career that spanned five decades.

Along with all Senators, I join today in mourning the death of Ed Muskie, who passed away here in Washington early this morning.

The son of a Polish immigrant, Ed Muskie grew up knowing about the blessings of freedom and democracy, and he spent a life time standing up for those blessings, beginning with serving for 3 years in the Atlantic and Asiatic-Pacific Theaters in World War II.

After the war, he returned to his beloved Maine, and soon began his political career as a Democrat in a State that for over a century had rarely elected anybody but Republicans.

Ed Muskie changed all that. During his 6 years in the State house of representatives, his 4 years as Governor, and his 21 years in the U.S. Senate, Ed Muskie's intelligence and integrity changed the voting habits of Maine—many of whom called themselves Muskie Republicans.

Ed's years in the Senate were highlighted by his service as the first chairman of the Senate Budget Committee. I was proud to be on that committee with him at that time. In that role, Ed took some criticism from those of his party who believed he was too tough in his opposition to increased spending.

He handled this criticism by saying that America would not get its fiscal house in order if we continued to have public servants who—and I quote—"talked like Scrooge on the campaign trail, and voted like Santa Clause in the Senate."

Ed Muskie was a patriot who always answered the call of his Nation. He resigned from the Senate when President Carter asked him to serve as Secretary of State. And when Ronald Reagan—the man who defeated President Carter—asked him to serve on the Tower Commission, Ed was there, as well.

Mr. President, the State of Maine and America are better because of Ed Muskie's life and career.

I know all Senators join with me in extending our condolences to his family and friends.

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, I want to thank and commend the majority leader for these comments. I join in the feeling which he has spoken so very eloquently about.

I wanted to speak very briefly on Senator Muskie. I do not know whether others wanted to speak on this matter, but I have some remarks.

I ask unanimous consent that we extend our recess time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. KENNEDY. I thank the leader very much.

Mr. DORGAN. Mr. President, I simply wanted to commend the majority leader for his comments about the late Senator Muskie. I did not know him well. I had met him a number of times. This was an era when there is often a caricature created about those involved in public service. He represented, I think, what is the best of public service. He was smart, tough, strong. He served not only the State of Maine but this country with great distinction.

All of us who had met him, or those of us who had crossed paths with him over the years will miss him. We extend our sympathies to the Muskie family. I yield the floor.

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, I join in thanking the majority leader for his comments about Senator Muskie, and I would like to express my appreciation to others for their comments.

Ed Muskie was a fellow New Englander, and over his long and distinguished career, his friendship for the members of our family and for my brothers was very real, ongoing, and based upon our very high regard and great respect for Senator Muskie.

As has been pointed out here in the Senate, he was a Senator's Senator. I like to think of him as being the foremost authority on preserving the environment. Senator Muskie inherited this extraordinary commitment because he represented one of the most beautiful States in our country, the State of Maine. He spent a good deal of time on that issue as Governor and gave it very special attention in the Senate, where he championed the Clean Water Act and other environmental reforms. We made great progress in preserving the environment in those years, and Ed Muskie deserves the commendation and the gratitude of a nation.

He also took on challenging responsibilities as the first chairman of the Budget Committee, in trying to ensure that the Nation acts responsibly in its financial affairs. With his extraordinarily gifted mind and his ability to analyze and understand complex issues, he was able to get at the heart of the problem and master the details of a budget in a way which all of us admired and respected. He played an enormously important role in trying to put this country on a path toward a more sensible and responsible fiscal policy.

His work as Secretary of State was outstanding as well. His key role in the release of the American hostages in Iran was an extraordinary diplomatic initiative and achievement. It was when he served as Secretary of State that this Nation achieved new heights in the preservation of human rights around the world, a cause which he championed.

Many commentators have described Ed Muskie as Lincolnesque. He was Lincolnesque in stature and character—a tall, lean man, a towering figure, with those piercing eyes and strong features that characterized an enormously gifted mind and a backbone of steel and courage.

He was a great public servant for our time. The people of Maine were well served, the Senate was well served, and the country was well served in a range of different responsibilities that he undertook.

Mr. President, I join with those expressing our sense of sorrow and loss to his wife Jane and the other members of the Muskie family. We will be saying our prayers for Ed Muskie and for his family. I yield the floor.

RECESS

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Under the previous order, the Senate will now stand in recess until the hour of 2:15 p.m.

Thereupon, the Senate, at 12:49 p.m., recessed until 2:14 p.m.; whereupon, the Senate reassembled when called to order by the Presiding Officer [Mr. DEWINE].

Mr. DOLE. Mr. President, I need to have a brief discussion with the Democratic leader. Therefore, I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. DOLE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

STATEMENTS ON INTRODUCED BILLS AND JOINT RESOLUTIONS

By Mr. DORGAN:

S. 1642. A bill to amend the Social Security Act to deny cash benefits to drug addicts and alcoholics, and for other purposes; to the Committee on Finance.

THE SOCIAL SECURITY ACT AMENDMENT ACT OF 1996

• Mr. DORGAN. Madam President, today, I introduce legislation for which there is broad bipartisan support. Many of my colleagues share my concern about monthly cash payments provided through the Supplemental Security Income [SSI] and Social Security Disability Insurance [SSDI] programs to people who are considered disabled solely because they are drug addicts and alcoholics. My bill would terminate cash benefits for these recipients of SSI and SSDI, and would instead provide treatment for their addictions.

SSI was established in 1972 to provide cash benefits to needy disabled persons with limited resources. Most Americans would be surprised to learn that drug addiction and alcoholism can qualify a person to receive monthly cash benefits under this program.

In fact, 135,000 people receive monthly SSI payments because they are alcoholics or drug addicts—148 of them in my own State of North Dakota. And this number is growing at a shocking pace.

The number of addicts receiving monthly SSI benefits quadrupled in the last 4 years. Over 10 years, the percentage of SSI recipients who receive payments because of an addiction to drugs or alcohol increased from 0.3 percent of the caseload to more than 2 percent of the total caseload today—for an annual cost to taxpayers of about $630 million.

To most Americans, this policy is wrong-headed. Substance abusers need treatment, not cash handouts from the Federal Government. The bill I am introducing today would address this problem by ending SSI and SSDI cash benefits for those for whom substance abuse is a material factor in their disability. Instead, drug addicts and alcoholics would be provided with access to quality treatment for their diseases.

There is broad consensus that we must end cash benefits for substance abusers. The House and Senate voted to terminate SSI and SSDI for drug addicts and alcoholics when welfare reform legislation was considered. These provisions have now been attached to legislation to raise the Social Security earnings limit, which will soon be considered by the Senate.

My bill is different from these proposals, however, because my bill would retain Medicaid eligibility and provide access to treatment for drug addicts and alcoholics.

Under the current system, recipients are required to participate in treatment programs if they are available. However, quality programs often are not available or are not easily accessible to SSI and SSDI recipients. To make matters worse, the inspector general at the Department of Health and Human Services recently reported that the Social Security Administration does not know the treatment status of most SSI recipients and does not provide monitoring of the program.

Access to quality treatment for drug addiction is not only an effective way to truly help chemically dependent Americans—it is also cost-effective. Experts testifying before the House Ways and Means Subcommittee on Human Resources recently pointed out that every dollar invested in treatment produced between $3 and $76 in health- and criminal justice related savings.

These provisions of my bill ensure that people whose primary disability is alcoholism or drug addiction will receive treatment instead of cash benefits to address their disability. In addition, my bill helps to ensure that people who have other disabilities but who also have a chemical addiction will use cash benefits in a way that is beneficial for their well-being.

Under current law, SSI and SSDI cash payments to recipients whose principal disability is a chemical addiction are distributed through a representative payee, rather than directly to the recipient. This is intended to ensure that payments are used for the benefit of the recipient, rather than to further his or her disability. My bill extends that safeguard to any SSI or SSDI recipient who is chemically dependent if the recipient is incapable of managing his or her own benefits.

I hope my colleagues will join me in cosponsoring this legislation so that we can underscore the importance of this issue. Cash assistance will not help alcoholics and drug addicts overcome their diseases, but quality treatment and medical care will.

I ask unanimous consent that the entire text of the bill be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the bill was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

By Mr. GREGG (for himself and Mrs. KASSEBAUM):

S. 1643. A bill to amend the Older Americans Act of 1965 to authorize appropriations for fiscal years 1997 through 2001, and for other purposes; to the Committee on Labor and Human Resources.

THE OLDER AMERICANS ACT AMENDMENTS OF

Mr. GREGG. Mr. President, I rise today to introduce the Older Americans Act Amendments of 1996. This important law recently saw its 30th anniversary, and I believe it is the type of legislation that we should have more of in this country; it is a bill that is designed to help our senior citizens help themselves. This is a bill that focuses on meeting the needs of senior citizens in ways that will promote their well-being and independence. Through a variety of supportive programs—from providing meals that are both home-delivered and served in congregate settings, to subsidizing seniors' income through an employment and training program, to facilitating information, case management, and referral services so that all available services to seniors can be coordinated and maximized—this bill works to ensure the system works for our older Americans.

This bill essentially takes what has become an overly complicated, prescriptive law and streamlines it, turns significant amounts of authority over to the States, encourages a bottoms-up planning process, and allows programs and services to be tailored to meet actual—rather than perceived—social and economic needs. This legislation will provide maximum authority and flexibility to States and localities in the design and operation of their services for seniors, while protecting the integrity of a number of priority programs—including outreach and counseling programs, the long-term care ombudsman, preventive health efforts, elder abuse prevention, and legal assistance services.

The bill drives more money into the delivery of those services most needed in States and local communities through sound economic principles. Throughout this bill, a "bottoms-up" planning process is facilitated; this means actual needs will be met on the local level, rather than what we perceive the needs to be from our distant vantage point here in Washington. It is clear from a myriad of other programs that we fund and that have failed that Washington does not always know best. We must ensure that we don't drag this program down under a father-knows-best mentality.

This is not a welfare bill. It is not legislation that is designed to only meet the needs of specific populations or address specific problems. Instead, the Older Americans Act is a continuum of programs which have been structured to respond to everything from economic needs, to physical and transportation problems, to answering individuals' social requirements. All of our seniors should have the opportunity for a nutritious meal, or to get other assistance when they need it; this bill facilitates their access to these kinds of services.

This has never been considered a partisan piece of legislation, and Senator KASSEBAUM and I have worked hard, along with Senator MIKULSKI who is the ranking member on the Aging Subcommittee, to ensure that it remains bipartisan. That is not to say that concerns on both sides of the aisle were not fully explored. The goal has been to achieve the strongest policy possible, and in doing so, meet the concerns of all of our colleagues.

A concerted effort has been made to maintain an atmosphere of collegiality and consensus. For the Republican members of the Labor Committee, this has meant a willingness to recognize the value of a particular policy in cases where we would have made other decisions based on our general philosophy. In addition, we have taken a great deal of time and effort to listen to and consult with interested groups who are part of the aging network. We have extended an open-door policy to anyone who expressed an interest in sharing their views and exchanging ideas in a constructive environment. We responded to what we heard; for example, we have retained the Eldercare Locator Service, a program which allows family members to find services for their loved ones, even if they are in a different part of the country. We retained a separate line-item of funding for the long-term-care ombudsman program, after hearing repeatedly of its significance in States across the Nation.

The bill I am introducing here today, along with my colleague from Kansas and the Chairman of our Committee, Senator KASSEBAUM, is a result of that process over the last year. It contains policy that was structured in response to excellent witnesses who testified both before our subcommittee and the House. These individuals brought their unique, grassroots perspective from the trenches to us here in Washington. Their comments had a tremendous value in this process, as their issues are real, not perceived. One provision we adopted on their advice was, for example, to permit States to institute cost-sharing provisions; however, we have ensured that these provisions will not prevent any senior from receiving services due to an inability to pay.

This bill responds to concerns and questions that were posed after we circulated a legislative proposal last December. It also incorporates a number of items raised by the administration and the Democratic members of the Labor Committee, both technical and substantive. These include: Retaining authority for the Assistant Secretary to make grants for preventive health activities, with priority given to medically underserved areas and locations with the greatest economic need; definition of low income at 150 percent of the Federal poverty line; and mandated State planning requirements for legal assistance and insurance-public benefit counseling.

The overall structure of this bill has also been changed. Like a house that had numerous additions over the years, the Older Americans Act had become disjointed. We have corrected that, restructuring the act so that it is logically based on service and oversight responsibilities, as opposed to program by program, fractionalized by seven titles. The four titles of this bill include one for Federal functions, one for State responsibilities, one for Area Agency on Aging authorities, and one title for native American programs.

This bill maximizes flexibility for service delivery at the State and local level, while still retaining protections over priority services, such as outreach and counseling, long-term care ombudsmen, and case management. The bill also rationalizes the funding formulas for both nutrition and supportive services as well as SCSEP, the Senior Community Service Employment Program. This is important because we must direct our limited Federal resources to where a real need exists. We must also be planning now for the future, and ensure that legislation that we pass today will be structured to respond to the needs of tomorrow and the 21st century.

In addition, we have directed funds to the administration, States, and localities as required for the purpose of administering these programs. While important functions are carried out with administrative dollars, when faced with a choice between administration and service, we have opted to meet the needs of our seniors wherever we can. To further promote quality service delivery, we have eliminated the artificial funding wall between home-delivered and congregate meals programs. We have also increased the transfer authority between nutrition programs and supportive services, which funds items such as transportation, in-home assistance, health screening and education, health insurance benefit options, crime prevention, and work on multipurpose senior center facilities.

This bill retains the authority and authorizes funding of research and demonstration grants in order to encourage innovative approaches to the delivery of the critical services provided for under this act. While, again, there is a limit on the number of dollars that can be provided for such activities, we also have seen some excellent programs emerge from these projects, and have attempted to find a way to continue them.

We maintained a number of provisions to protect the quality of the long-term-care ombudsman offices in each State by clarifying the minimal criteria for eligibility and providing conflict-of-interest safeguards. This bill ensures that particular attention continues to be paid to the needs of the minority elderly population. In addition, the legislation permits States to institute cost-sharing requirements as they see necessary under a self-declaration-of-income standard. Confidentiality standards are provided, and there is language which ensures that no one will be denied services due to an inability to pay.

It is time to reexamine the status quo for all Federal programs and make improvements where necessary. And I think we have made an excellent start with this bill, the Older Americans Act. Again, I would like to thank Senators KASSEBAUM and MIKULSKI for their efforts on this bill. I believe the bill will allow seniors across the country to remain healthy, living in their own homes in their community, and supported in their endeavors to stay independent. And this bill does all of this by striving to maximize public-private partnership to supplement the limited Federal funds available—encouraging the Federal dollars to be used to leverage private funding, and by allowing priorities to be set at the grassroots level whenever possible.

Mrs. KASSEBAUM. Mr. President, I rise today as an original cosponsor of legislation to reauthorize the Older Americans Act of 1965. I am pleased that Senator GREGG has taken the lead in drafting a bill that grants States and local communities the authority and flexibility to tailor programs to best fit the needs of their aging citizens.

The original Older Americans Act was passed in 1965 with the intention of using joint Federal and State funds to provide a range of services for elder Americans. Since that time, the act has evolved into a comprehensive list of programs and services—ranging from legal and counseling services to transportation and employment services to, perhaps most importantly, nutrition services.

Every day thousands of seniors gather at congregate meal sites to obtain nutrition services, as well as enjoy the companionship these sites offer. Often, a nutrition site will serve as the point of entry for seniors to gain knowledge of other services available to them through their local communities or their area agency on aging. The congregate meal sites serve as a valuable socialization too, as well as often providing the only nutritious meal of the day for many seniors.

Through changes in the Older Americans Act, this legislation will provide maximum authority and flexibility to States and localities in the design and operation of their services for seniors, while protecting the integrity of certain priority programs including: outreach and counseling programs, case management, the long-term-care ombudsman, preventive health efforts, and elder abuse prevention programs. Mr. President, each State has very different needs. This bill allows each State to craft programs to fit their individual communities.

In addition, this proposal strives to maximize public-private partnership, recognizing that the Federal Government is not able to meet all the needs that exist among this growing population, but that Federal funds can form a basis of support for leveraging private dollars. Also important, I believe, is the retention of the authority and funding for research and demonstration projects which encourage the development of innovative approaches to the delivery of critical services for seniors.

As the population continues to age and as needs change, more pressure will be placed on providers to make sure that essential needs of the elderly are met. I am hopeful that our efforts will lead to a system of senior services that are not only more consumer driven but are also better designed to offer support to seniors in their endeavors to remain healthy and independent.

S. 1644. A bill to authorize the extension of nondiscriminatory treatment (most-favored-nation) to the products of Romania; to the Committee on Finance.

ROMANIA MOST-FAVORED-NATION STATUS LEGISLATION

Mr. BROWN. Mr. President, I rise today with several of my distinguished colleagues, including Senator PAUL SIMON, Senator CHUCK GRASSLEY, and Senator MAX BAUCUS, to introduce a historic measure, a bill to permanently restore nondiscriminatory treatment to the products of Romania. We are joined by Representatives PHIL CRANE, SAM GIBBONS, and BARBARA KENNELLY in the House who are also introducing this same bill in that body today.

On December 22, 1989, Romania emerged from years of brutal Communist dictatorship and began its careful journey toward democracy and free markets. By 1991, Romania had approved a new Constitution and elected a Parliament, laying a foundation for a modern parliamentary democracy. This year will mark the second nationwide Romanian Presidential election under the new Constitution.

Romania's economic legacy of extreme centralization, an oppressive Communist government and a stifling bureaucracy gave it one of the longest paths to reach a functioning market economy of any of the emerging democracies of Central Europe. Nonetheless, according to the U.S. Department of Commerce, after many years of difficult work, much of the necessary legislative framework for a market economy is in place. Romania's economic reforms include the establishment of a two-tier banking system, the introduction of a modern tax system, the freeing of most prices and elimination of most subsidies, the adoption of a tariff-based trade regime, and the privatization of nearly all Romanian agriculture and rapidly developing enterprises.

As I witnessed on my recent visit to Romania, the economic changes are remarkable. Romania's private sector currently accounts for 45 percent of gross domestic product, including more than 80 percent of agricultural property with 5 million new landowners, more than half a million private firms, and 46,000 joint ventures with foreign capital.

American investment in Romania doubled from 1993 to 1994 and doubled again in 1995, with total foreign investment of $1.6 billion as of December 31, 1995. Romanian exports to the United States are growing rapidly, increasing by 27 percent through the third quarter of 1995 over the same period in 1994.

All in all, Romania's progress in instituting democratic reforms and a free market economy has earned it a permanent extension of most-favored-nation treatment. In addition, Romania has been found by President Clinton to be in full compliance with the freedom of emigration requirements under title IV of the Trade Act of 1974. As I found during my recent visit, Romania is clearly making significant progress in rejoining the West. I urge the support of my colleagues for the earliest consideration of this important measure.

By Mr. KERRY (for himself and Mr. HOLLINGS):

S. 1645. A bill to regulate United States scientific and tourist in Antarctica, to conserve Antarctic resources, and for other purposes; to the Committee on Commerce.

THE ANTARCTIC SCIENCE, TOURISM, AND CONSERVATION ACT OF 1996

• Mr. KERRY. Mr. President, today I am introducing the Antarctic Science, Tourism, and Conservation Act of 1996. The purpose of this legislation is to enable the United States to implement the Protocol on Environmental Protection to the Antarctic Treaty. The Protocol was negotiated by the parties of the Antarctic Treaty System and signed in October, 1991. The Senate gave its advice and consent to the Protocol on October 7, 1992. In August, 1993, I introduced the precursor to this bill and the Senate Commerce Committee reported it to the full Senate in early 1994. Unfortunately, continuing disagreements among scientists, conservation groups, and the administration about the legislative changes needed for the United States to carry out its responsibilities under the Protocol prevented further action on that bill.

Today, I am pleased to announce that the legislative impasse has come to an end. The bill Senator HOLLINGS and I are introducing is supported by all the parties engaged in this somewhat lengthy but ultimately successful consensus-building process.

Why are we concerned about implementing this particular international agreement? The protocol recognizes that Antarctica is a unique and fragile ecosystem that must be monitored and protected and it reaffirms the designation of Antarctica as a special conservation area. At the same time, the protocol encourages and supports the unparalleled research opportunities Antarctica offers for scientific study of both global and regional environmental processes. Finally, the protocol acknowledges and addresses the impact of the growing number of tourists who travel to the Antarctic to witness its wild beauty and bountiful marine life, but whose presence is responsible for increasing environmental stress.

The bill before us builds on the existing U.S. regulatory framework provided in the Antarctic Conservation Act to implement the protocol and to balance two important goals. The first goal is to conserve and protect the Antarctic environment and resources, the second is to minimize interference with scientific research. The bill amends the Antarctic Conservation Act to make existing provisions governing U.S. research activities consistent with the requirements of the Protocol. As under current law, the Director of the National Science Foundation [NSF] would remain the lead agency in managing the Antarctic science program and in issuing regulations and research permits. In addition, the bill calls for comprehensive assessment and monitoring of the effects of both governmental and nongovernmental activities on the fragile Antarctic ecosystem. It also would continue indefinitely a ban on Antarctic mineral resource activities. Finally, the bill amends the act to prevent pollution from ships to implement provisions of the protocol relating to protection of marine resources.

Before closing, I would like to thank Senator HOLLINGS, ranking Democrat on the Commerce Committee; the Department of State, especially Under Secretary for Global Affairs Tim Wirth and Tucker Scully of the Bureau of Oceans and International Environmental and Scientific Affairs; Dr. Neil Sullivan, Director of Polar Programs, and Larry Rudolph of the National Science Foundation; and other interested parties including Greenpeace, World Wildlife Fund, and especially the Antarctica Project and its director Beth Marks for their hard work and assistance in developing this bill.

As one of the founders of the Antarctic Treaty System, the United States has an obligation to enact strong implementing legislation, and our action to complete ratification of the protocol is long overdue. I urge my colleagues' support, and prompt action to enact the Antarctic Science, Tourism, and Conservation Act of 1996.

I ask unanimous consent that the text of the bill be printed in the RECORD immediately following my statement.

There being no objection, the bill was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

S. 1645

"SEC. 4A. ENVIRONMENTAL IMPACT ASSESSMENT.

"(a) FEDERAL ACTIVITIES.—(1)(A) the obligations of the United States under Article 8 of and Annex I to the Protocol shall be implemented by applying the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 (42 U.S.C. 4321 et seq.) to proposals for Federal agency activities in Antarctica, as specified in this section.

"(B) The obligations contained in section 102(2)(C) of the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 (42 U.S.C. 4332(2)(C)) shall apply to all proposals for Federal agency activities occurring in Antarctica and affecting the quality of the human environment in Antarctica or dependent or associated ecosystems, only as specified in this section. For purposes of the application of such section 102(2)(C) under this subsection, the term "significantly affecting the quality of the human environment" shall have the same meaning as the term "more than a minor or transitory impact".

"(2)(A) Unless an agency which proposes to conduct a Federal activity in Antarctica determines that the activity will have less than a minor or transitory impact, or unless a comprehensive environmental evaluation is being prepared in accordance with subparagraph (C), the agency shall prepare an initial environmental evaluation in accordance with Article 2 of Annex I to the Protocol.

"(B) If the agency determines, through the preparation of the initial environmental evaluation, that the proposed Federal activity is likely to have no more than a minor or transitory impact, the activity may proceed if appropriate procedures are put in place to assess and verify the impact of the activity.

"(C) If the agency determines, through the preparation of the initial environmental evaluation or otherwise, that a proposed Federal activity is likely to have more than a minor or transitory impact, the agency shall prepare and circulate a comprehensive environmental evaluation in accordance with Article 3 of Annex I to the Protocol, and shall make such comprehensive environmental evaluation publicly available for comment.

"(3) Any agency decision under this section on whether a proposed Federal activity, to which paragraph (2)(C) applies, should proceed, and, if so, whether in its original or in a modified form, shall be based on the comprehensive environmental evaluation as well as other considerations which the agency, in the exercise of its discretion, considers relevant.

"(4) For the purposes of this section, the term 'Federal activity' includes all activities conducted under a Federal agency research program in Antarctica, whether or not conducted by a Federal agency.

"(b) FEDERAL ACTIVITIES CARRIED OUT JOINTLY WITH FOREIGN GOVERNMENTS.—(1) For the purposes of this subsection, the term 'Antarctic joint activity' means any Federal activity in Antarctica which is proposed to be conducted, or which is conducted, jointly or in cooperation with one or more foreign governments. Such term shall be defined in regulations promulgated by such agencies as the President may designate.

"(2) Where the Secretary of State, in cooperation with the lead United States agency planning an Antarctic joint activity, determines that—

"(A) the major part of the joint activity is being contributed by a government or governments other than the United States;

"(B) one such government is coordinating the implementation of environmental impact assessment procedures for that activity; and

"(C) such government has signed, ratified, or acceded to the Protocol, the requirements of subsection (a) of this section shall not apply with respect to that activity.

"(3) In all cases of Antarctic joint activity other than those described in paragraph (2), the requirements of subsection (a) of this section shall apply with respect to that activity, except as provided in paragraph (4).

"(4) Determinations described in paragraph (2), and agency actions and decisions in connection with assessments of impacts of Antarctic joint activities, shall not be subject to judicial review.

"(c) NONGOVERNMENTAL ACTIVITIES.—(1) The Administrator shall, within 2 years after the date of the enactment of the Antarctic Science, Tourism, and Conservation Act of 1996, promulgate regulations to provide for—

"(A) the environmental impact assessment of nongovernmental activities, including tourism, for which the United States is required to give advance notice under paragraph 5 of Article VII of the Treaty; and

"(B) coordination of the review of information regarding environmental impact assessment received from other Parties under the Protocol.

"(2) Such regulations shall be consistent with Annex I to the Protocol.

"(d) DECISION TO PROCEED.—(1) No decision shall be taken to proceed with an activity for which a comprehensive environmental evaluation is prepared under this section unless there has been an opportunity for consideration of the draft comprehensive environmental evaluation at an Antarctic Treaty Consultative Meeting, except that no decision to proceed with a proposed activity shall be delayed through the operation of this paragraph for more than 15 months from the date of circulation of the draft comprehensive environmental evaluation pursuant to Article 3(3) of Annex I to the Protocol.

"(2) The Secretary of State shall circulate the final comprehensive environmental evaluation, in accordance with Article 3(6) of Annex I to the Protocol, at least 60 days before the commencement of the activity in Antarctica.

"(e) CASES OF EMERGENCY.—The requirements of this section, and of regulations promulgated under this section, shall not apply in cases of emergency relating to the safety of human life or of ships, aircraft, or equipment and facilities of high value, or the protection of the environment, which require an activity to be undertaken without fulfilling those requirements.

"(f) EXCLUSIVE MECHANISM.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the requirements of this section shall constitute the sole and exclusive statutory obligations of the Federal agencies with regard to assessing the environmental impacts of proposed Federal activities occurring in Antarctica.

"(g) DECISIONS ON PERMIT APPLICATIONS.—The provisions of this section requiring environmental impact assessments (including initial environmental evaluations and comprehensive environmental evaluations) shall not apply to Federal actions with respect to issuing permits under section 5.

"(h) PUBLICATION OF NOTICES.—Whenever the Secretary of State makes a determination under paragraph (2) of subsection (b) of • Mr. HOLLINGS. Mr. President, today I join with Senator KERRY in introducing the Antarctic Science, Tourism, and Conservation Act of 1996, which will implement the Protocol on Environmental Protection to the Antarctic Treaty. The protocol was signed by the United States 5 years ago and approved by the Senate in the 102d Congress; yet implementing legislation remains to be completed. In the 103d Congress, the Senate Commerce Committee reported implementing legislation, but differences among key agencies and interests prevented further action. Now that those differences have been reconciled, it is timely to complete the implementation effort.

I had the opportunity to visit Antarctica in 1988, and can attest both to its pristine beauty and to the unique scientific activities being conducted there. As many of my colleagues know, the activities of U.S. citizens and interests in Antarctica are almost exclusively those of federally sponsored scientific expeditions, together with their Federal logistics support. These activities are concentrated at the edge of the ice shelf and are based at the three U.S. research stations: McMurdo, South Pole, and Palmer. The peak of activity occurs at the height of the Antarctic summer, when there are about 1,200 personnel at McMurdo, 140 at South Pole, and 40 at Palmer. Occasional U.S. tourists visit as well, under the overall responsibility of the National Science Foundation [NSF]. NSF and the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration [NOAA] are the main scientific agencies, and the logistics and icebreaking support is provided by the Navy and Coast Guard.

The Antarctic provides scientists with a truly unique laboratory to conduct research that cannot be carried out anywhere else. During my visit I was impressed by a number of dedicated scientists operating under difficult circumstances to help us to understand better our global environment. I witnessed NOAA's ozone hole research at the South Pole, the sampling of ice cores at the Newell Glacier along the coast, and marine biology investigations at McMurdo. Much of this research has implications for the long term survival of human beings.

We must recognize, however, that such scientific endeavors need to be carried out with great care in an environment as fragile as Antarctica's.

This is essential if Antarctica is to remain a natural reserve that is of great scientific value for generations to come. While much has been done in recent years to improve the environmental soundness of U.S. operations there, the Antarctic Science, Tourism, and Conservation Act of 1996 will help to ensure that present and future U.S. activities comply with the highest environmental standards. Implementation of the protocol is long overdue, and I am hopeful that we can enact this bill very soon. •

CONGRATULATING THE AMERICAN LEGION POST NO. 88 IN LOUDON, NH ON THEIR 50TH ANNIVERSARY

Mr. SMITH. Mr. President, I rise today to pay tribute to the American Legion Post No. 88 in Loudon, NH on their 50th anniversary.

On January 18, 1946, the American Legion Post No. 88 applied for their first charter. Exactly a month later, the members of Post No. 88 held their first meeting and began planning activities for the community. The original Post No. 88 application had 15 names including H.L. Annis, C.H. Derby, C.B. Hall, S.B. Hall, W.G. Harrison, Laura A. Hayward, R.C. Lovering, W.L. Manchester, G.P. Marcotte, H. McCoy, P.E. Morrill, P.W. Ordway, L.C. Palmer, D.P. Reardon and D.B. Stuart. W.L. Manchester was first the Commander of Post No. 88. This milestone of 50 years is a significant accomplishment for all the post members.

The members of Post No. 88 have become an integral part of the Loudon community and donate hundreds of hours of service to their community each year. So many veterans, children and needy families have been touched by the assistance these legionnaires provide through their volunteer work. They visit fellow veterans in local hospitals, coordinate youth programs and are involved with numerous Boy Scout and 4-H groups who use the post headquarters for meetings. Post No. 88 also participates in the nationwide legion efforts which include: sponsoring students for both Boys and Girls State, sponsoring poster contests that focus on patriotism in local schools, writing and mailing letters to American troops in Bosnia, recycling, collecting eyeglasses for the needy, helping the elderly with housing, and making quilts for at-risk children. All the members of Post No. 88 deserve a special word of appreciation for serving the Loudon and Concord communities so diligently. Many people have greatly benefited from their goodwill and charity.

Fifty years ago, Post No. 88 opened its doors to the town of Loudon. Just last month, exactly 50 years later, a special anniversary program for Post No. 88 was held in the original building on South Village Road. In fact, one of charter members of the auxiliary unit, Marion Stuart, attended the ceremony.

We are truly fortunate to have such a caring group of individuals at the American Legion Post No. 88. For half a century, these members have exemplified goodwill and concern for their needy neighbors and their efforts will no doubt continue for the next 50 years. As a veteran, I congratulate Post No. 88 on their steadfast service to Loudon and Concord. New Hampshire is truly indebted to the Loudon American Legion Post No. 88.

NATIONAL DOMESTIC VIOLENCE HOTLINE

● Mr. WELLSTONE. Mr. President, 2 weeks ago, I came to the floor to announce the realization of another component of our initiative to prevent violence against women—the national domestic violence hotline. At that time, I indicated that I would come to the floor every day for 2 weeks, whenever my colleagues would be kind enough to give me about 30 seconds of time, to read off the 800 number of the hotline.

The toll-free number, 1-800-799-SAFE, will provide immediate crisis counseling, and local shelter referrals to women across the country, 24 hours a day. There is also a TDD number for the hearing impaired, 1-800-787-3224.

Mr. President, roughly 1 million women are victims of domestic violence each year and battering may be the single most common cause of injury to women—more common than auto accidents, muggings, or rapes by a stranger. According to the FBI, one of every two women in America will be beaten at least once in the course of an intimate relationship. The FBI also speculates that battering is the most under-reported crime in the country. It is estimated that the new hotline will receive close to 10,000 calls a day.

I hope that the new national domestic violence hotline will help women and families find the support, assistance, and services they need to get out of homes where there is violence and abuse.

Mr. President, once again, the toll-free number is 1-800-787-3224, for the hearing impaired.●

COMMEMORATING GREEK INDEPENDENCE DAY

• Mr. BRADLEY. Mr. President, I rise today to commemorate Greek Independence Day—a national day of celebration of Greek and American democracy. Yesterday marked the 175th anniversary of the beginning of the revolution which freed the Greek people from the Ottoman Empire.

A historic bond exists between Greece and America, forged by our shared democratic heritage. America is truly indebted to the ancient Greeks for giving the world the first example of direct democracy. The philosophical and democratic influences of the ancient Greeks provides the inspiration for our democratic Government to flourish. It is therefore fitting that Members of this Chamber join in paying tribute to the long struggle for freedom that Greece endured.

On March 25, 1821, when Germanos, the archbishop of Patros, proclaimed Greek independence, another link between Greece and the United States was forged. The American revolution served as a model for the Greek struggle for freedom and when the Declaration of Independence, translated into Greek, served as the declaration of the end of the Greek struggle, a circle was completed.

The interconnection between Greek and American democracies lies not only in the philosophical underpinnings of our Government, but in many areas of American life. Percy Bysshe Shelley once said, "We are all Greeks! Our laws, our literature, our religion, our art, have their roots in Greece." The tremendous influence that Greece has had on American life continues today through the activities of the vibrant Greek community in America. In every field—politics, entertainment, business and education—Greek-Americans continue to contribute to American life.

In particular, I wish to pay tribute to the Greek-American community in New Jersey. Groups that are leaders in the New Jersey Greek Community include: the Greek American Chamber of Commerce of New Jersey, the Greek American Voters League of New Jersey, the Hellenic American Bar Association of New Jersey, the Pan Gregorian Enterprises & Foundation, P.G.E.I. of America Charitable Foundation, Inc., the Council Generals of Greek Cypriot, the Order of AHEPA and the Joint Public Policy Committee of Hellenic American Women. On behalf of these organizations, the Greek community in New Jersey and all Americans of Greek descent, I am honored to pay tribute, on behalf of the Nation, to the Greek community during the celebration of their independence day.●

CONGRATULATING THE LONDON- DERRY HIGH SCHOOL MARCHING BAND FOR BEING SELECTED TO PARTICIPATE IN THE ROSE PA- RADE

• Mr. SMITH. Mr. President, I rise today to congratulate the students of the Londonderry High School Marching Band and Colorguard who will be representing the State of New Hampshire in the 1997 Rose Parade next January. All the band members including Andrew Soucy, the band's director, deserve special commendation for their hard work and achievement.

Being selected for the Tournament of Roses Parade is quite an honor for a high school band. The Lancer Marching Band has a proud tradition of representing the Granite State in parades across the country. They have also performed in Washington, DC, for the St. Patrick's Day Parade, at Foxboro Stadium for the New England Patriots football team, and this will be the second time the Londonderry Lancers will appear in the Pasadena Tournament of Roses Parade. The Lancers should be very proud of their efforts because only the very best bands in the country are asked to participate in this nationally recognized New Years Day parade.

The young men and women of the Lancer Band and Colorguard demonstrate the hard work and dedication that is characteristic of the Granite State students. As special participants in the Tournament of Roses Parade, these students have proven that determination and teamwork are the hallmark of success both as musicians and students. We are honored to have the Lancer Band and Colorguard representing New Hampshire with their outstanding musical performances.

Mr. President, I want to express my thanks to both the students and faculty at Londonderry High School for their commitment to excellence. Congratulations again on such a magnificent accomplishment.●

• Mr. ROCKEFELLER Mr. President, I want to take this opportunity to recognize Sherman Junior High School of Seth, WV. This institution was recently selected as a 1996 National Blue Ribbon School of Excellence by the U.S. Department of Education. It was 1 of 6 secondary schools in my State to garner this prestigious award, and 1 of only 216 public schools from throughout the United States to get this recognition.

Sherman Junior High School's motto is "We believe, we achieve, we succeed." It is thoughtful, provocative and obviously works. For if believing in yourself defines your ability to succeed, let me share with everyone a little taste of the tremendous feats this school has accomplished.

Sherman Junior High School is nestled in a remote southern portion of my State in Boone County, a rural Appalachian county in our legendary coal fields. The geography of this region is challenging. The coal industry dominates the local economy and has a history of sporadic employment which affects the families and the community greatly, including school enrollment and student attendance.

There are more than 200 students enrolled in Sherman Junior High School and most of them have to be bused over narrow, rough roads within a 20-mile radius of the school. Many ride these buses for almost an hour each way, and more than half of the students qualify for free or reduced lunches. Because these students live in a rural, isolated area, the school is their primary center for most activities ranging from cultural events to sports which are crucial activities to help young people make the transition into adulthood.

Under the leadership and support of Principal John Hudson, the creative staff of Sherman Junior High shared their facilities with the local high school, but maintained their autonomy with a separate administration and faculty. This gives the students a sense of community, while also having access to more facilities and high school programs for students ready to accept more challenging programs. For example, many junior high students have an opportunity to learn basic computer and word processing skills. They can also take advanced academic classes, like a foreign language. Having enhanced opportunities obviously makes a difference in the lives of these young people, because almost 70 percent of the students of Sherman Junior High School score above the 50 percentile on their annual CTBS tests.

This is a time when public education faces many challenges—dwindling resources, intense public debates over the proper role of public education, and integrating new technologies into schoolrooms and teaching. Sherman Junior High is a school that is facing such challenges. The enthusiastic and caring teachers and administrators are committed to providing our students with the quality education. As a National Blue Ribbon School, Sherman Junior High is a role model on how teachers, administrators, parents, and students can come together and create an educational environment that helps young people excel. Every member of Sherman Junior High School should be proud of the accomplishments achieved. It is my pleasure to publicly congratulate this school for its community spirit and academic success. I know this school will keep up the good work, and continue to represent West Virginia proudly.●

MINIMUM WAGE

Mr. BIDEN. Mr. President, I come to this debate on the minimum wage from a different perspective than some of my colleagues here today. In January of this year, my State of Delaware decided to raise the minimum wage, after a debate a lot like the one we are hearing today.

We like to think that Delaware is a special place, Mr. President, and in many ways it is. But it is also a lot like the rest of the country. We have big businesses and small, we have world-class high-technology businesses in chemicals and pharmaceuticals, a cutting-edge financial service sector and—a lot of my colleagues are surprised when I tell them this—a major agricultural sector.

With that kind of diversity, I think Delaware has something to teach the rest of the country. We are, after all, the first State to ratify the Constitution, so we think our example is worth following.

The proposal we adopted in Delaware is much like the one before the Senate today. The proposal before us today would call for a two-step increase in the minimum wage, from the current $4.25 an hour to $5.15. In Delaware, we also chose a two-step increase, from $4.25 to $5.00.

In my State, that increase will directly affect over 30,000 Delawareans and their families, 9.5 percent of the work force, just a little below the national average of 11.5 percent who currently work for the minimum wage.

So Delaware is like the rest of the country, Mr. President, just a little bit ahead of everybody else when it comes to addressing the problem of stagnant family incomes in general and the shrinking value of the minimum wage in particular.

And that is what I would like to talk about today, Mr. President—the puzzle of why, in a growing economy, with rising productivity and rising profits, a full-time job for hard-working adults has failed to provide a rising standard of living.

The minimum wage itself provides one important illustration of this disturbing trend. Since 1991, the last time we raised the minimum wage—with a bipartisan majority, Mr. President, and signed into law by President Bush—the real spending power of the minimum wage has dropped nearly 50 cents.

If we fail to raise the minimum wage, it will drop to a 40-year low when this year is over. Right now, you can put in a full 40-hour workweek, 52 weeks a year, and take home just $8,840, just three-quarters of the poverty level for a family of three.

For those families, with a full-time worker, the current minimum wage is not even the minimum they need to stay out of poverty. That is something we cannot forget as we search for ways to convince more people to stay off of welfare and to turn away from crime.

There are, unfortunately, other examples of the declining rewards of hard work for so many American families.

It is not just those wage earners who are working to keep themselves and their families out of poverty who have seen their incomes stuck, who are running as fast as they can just to keep from falling further behind.

Mr. President, the median wage—the real middle income statistically speaking—is actually 5 percent less this year than it was in 1979. This is happening in an economy that has been growing at about 2.5 percent over the same time.

Where has all that growth been going? Who has gained from the growth in the economy? Between 1977 and 1992, the lowest 20 percent of American families saw their incomes drop 17 percent. But the top 20 percent enjoyed a 28-percent increase, and the top 1 percent saw their incomes shoot up 91 percent—virtually doubling.

So there has been growth, Mr. President, but the distribution of that growth among working families has been increasingly unequal.

Now, I for one do not think that human nature has changed all that much in the last 20 to 25 years. I do not think the richest 1 percent are suddenly twice as smart as they used to be, or that workers at the other end of the scale decided to become less productive.

Something else is going on, Mr. President, something more fundamental and far reaching than a simple business cycle, perhaps something we have seen only a couple of times before in our Nation's economic history. There is a lot of evidence that the economy no longer functions the way it used to, that it no longer provides the stable, middle-income jobs that built America's middle class after World War II.

As someone who has put his faith in the free enterprise system, Mr. President, I am inclined to see these changes as part of the way this system works—changing markets, changing products, changing skills have always been a key feature of the American economy.

But while Americans have a strong tolerance—even an appetite—for the dynamic shifts that characterize our economic system, they have an equally strong sense of fairness. Americans expect that hard work will be rewarded—not with riches, maybe, but certainly with a little security and a little comfort.

For far too many Americans, Mr. President, our system is providing far too much of those dynamic changes and far too little fairness.

I don't want my colleagues to forget that the absolute, bedrock requirement of our democratic system is the belief by the majority of our people that they are being treated fairly. Because this is not just a free enterprise economy, Mr. President, that we have here in America. We are blessed to have a system of popular government that provides and protects the property rights that are the foundation of our economy.

Take away that sense of fairness, take away the sense that at the end of the day, there is some justice in the way our capitalist democracy works, and people can start looking at other systems, other answers. The unhappy history of this century provides too many examples for us to blithely dismiss this problem.

It is not too much to say that the real bottom line that we have to keep our eyes on is on the balance sheet of fairness. No amount of national wealth can buy that sense of fairness, no list of statistics can substitute for it.

As an optimist, Mr. President, I do not believe we are facing an insurmountable crisis. In fact, by my reading, a large part of our history has been a pretty successful search for ways to balance the changing demands of a dynamic economy with the unchanging demand for some basic fairness, for some simple justice, in the way we reward work.

We can make work pay, and make work a realistic alternative to the wasteful choices of welfare or crime, that will surely cost us more than the modest minimum wage bill before us today.

So I urge my colleagues to follow the lead of my State of Delaware. Restore some of the historical value of the minimum wage, some of the justice that is the real bottom line in America.

EDMUND SIXTUS MUSKIE

Mr. PELL. Mr. President, I join my colleagues in paying respect to the memory of former Senator Edmund Muskie. He was a very productive Member of this body and he made great contributions to its deliberations and to the welfare of our Nation. I admired him very much.

I first came to know Ed Muskie when he was Governor of Maine and a delegate to our party's national conventions. I always found him to be a person of great common sense and practicality, traits that reflected his years of experience in the Maine State Legislature and before that as a city official in Waterville.

He was always a highly effective advocate for the interests of New England, and in that role as in other aspects of his wide ranging Senate career, he was capable of displaying his sense of righteous indignation in the interests of producing results.

Perhaps his greatest and most lasting contribution was his work in securing enactment of the Congressional Budget Act of 1974, and his subsequent service as the first chairman of the Senate Budget Committee. Here his practical vision saw the need for a consolidated legislative budget that coordinated and reconciled legislative appropriations with executive spending.

Ed Muskie's Senate career came to a sudden and surprising conclusion with his elevation to the office of Secretary of State in the Carter administration at the height of the Iraq crisis in 1980. It was a measure of Senator Muskie's stature in the Senate and in the Nation that President Carter turned to him at a time when circumstances called for a steady and authoritative hand.

It was a fitting climax to a career of exceptionally distinguished public service.

I join my colleagues in honoring the memory of Edmund Muskie and I extend my sympathy to his wife Jane, family and many associates in Maine and across the country.

ED MUSKIE: A TRIBUTE

Mr. HOLLINGS. Mr. President, I would like to take a moment to pay tribute to a colleague and friend of mine who has just recently passed away. To those of us who were here during the sixties and seventies, Edmund Muskie was more than a fellow legislator, he was a model of what a Senator should be. He was well liked and respected by all, and he listened to his constituents closely, and he effected change on their behalf.

To put it simply, Ed Muskie was the best. Today, with all the talk about the Government being too big, and all the public scorn for the establishment, it is easy to lose sight of the optimism that used to be a driving force of politics. Senator Muskie embodied that optimism; He looked upon government as an opportunity, as a solution to problems. Characteristically, he acted on these beliefs to get things done. He led the demand for fiscal responsibility. As the first chairman of the Senate Budget Committee in 1974, he virtually created the budget process. He will also be remembered as a great environmental legislator. The Clean Water Act, the Clean Air Act: these were not a part of Muskie's political agenda due to pressure from lobbyists or special interest groups. They were things that he believed were necessary, and so he made them happen.

I knew Ed Muskie long before I came to the Senate, and he always felt things keenly. I used to joke with him about what I called his righteous indignation, but I always respected the moral conviction and strength that lay behind it. Senator Muskie detested the influence of lobbies and partisanship, and what they were doing to politics. He was in government to do a good job, not to play games. He was—and in this city, this is a great compliment—a man who got things done. The principles that he lived by came through in his work, whether as a Senator, a Secretary of State or as a lawyer and statesman. He knew the importance of character and of listening to the voter.

In 1970, Senator Muskie gave a memorable speech in which he said: "There are only two kinds of politics. They are not radical and reactionary, or conservative and liberal, or even Democratic and Republican. They are only the politics of fear and the politics of trust." As we head into another election year and another century, these are words to remember. Ed Muskie was a champion of the politics of trust. We will remember him fondly.

EDMUND SIXTUS MUSKIE

Mr. BIDEN. Mr. President, few who ever served in this body have been as universally mourned as those of us from both sides of the aisle who knew him will mourn our former colleague, Ed Muskie, who died here in Washington early this morning.

The reports already circulating on the news wire services and the obituaries that will appear in tomorrow's newspapers, all will make much, and rightly so, out of his long and distinguished service as a public man.

Few men or women in our history have contributed so much to the Nation as Ed Muskie did as a U.S. Senator for 21 years and as Secretary of State; few have contributed as much to their native State as Ed Muskie did as a member of the Maine House of Representatives and as Governor of the State he loved so much; and few have contributed as much to one of the major political parties as Ed Muskie did to the Democratic Party, which he served as a Vice Presidential candidate in 1968 and as chairman of the Democratic Senatorial Campaign Committee.

It is fitting that, upon his death just 2 days before his 82d birthday, Americans should be reminded of his long and faithful public service and leadership—but those of us who knew and served with Ed Muskie will remember him more familiarly as a man of principle, as a powerful personality, and, most of all, as our good friend.

One thing that I learned very quickly, serving with him on the Budget Committee and the Foreign Relations Committee, was that while he exhibited the gravitas—the character and substance—that might be expected of a man whose full given name was Edmund Sixtus Muskie, he was a very human, very good-humored man—most of the time—who was most comfortable simply as Ed Muskie, and who if he was your friend was your friend for life.

It is true that his good humor would sometimes momentarily desert him—he had a temper that verged on the volcanic, and he was capable of weeping public tears over an insult to the wife whom he loved—but those moments occurred, for the most part, because Ed Muskie never believed that a career in politics obliged his head to divorce his heart; despite a powerful intellect that won him a law degree, a Phi Beta Kappa key and a long, successful career both in law and in politics, he never believed that political feelings must somehow be set aside.

He was passionate about his politics—he believed the work we do here is important to improving the lives of Americans—and he believed that what he felt was as important to achieving that end as what he thought.

But though Ed Muskie sometimes wore his heart unashamedly on his sleeve, he was also very much a Yankee, very much a man of Maine, who put great stock in getting things done, and getting them done at the right price.

By that I am not referring so much to his chairmanship of the Budget Committee—although he certainly exerted a strong hand at that helm, often to the dismay of bureaucrats throughout the land and not infrequently to Senate colleagues who failed to make a strong enough case for their favorite program—no, for him, getting things done at the right price meant achieving that meld of idealism and realism which we often say a democratic system of Government requires but which few of us ever achieve with the grace and consistency of an Ed Muskie.

The people of Maine understood that as well as we did here in the Senate, and he understood and loved them, as well.

I remember him saying one time, "in Maine, we tend not to speak unless we think we can improve upon the silence."

Out of his wisdom, out of his passion, out of his drive to get things done, Ed Muskie often spoke up for Maine and for America—and we need only feel the silence of his passing gather about us now to know how much he improved upon it during a long and accomplished life.

In the words of William Shakespeare, "he was a man, take him for all in all, [we] shall not look upon his like again."

TRIBUTE TO SENATOR MUSKIE

Mr. BAUCUS. Mr. President, this morning we were sad to learn of the passing of one of our most distinguished former colleagues, Senator Edmund Muskie of Maine.

Ed Muskie served our Nation in many ways. He was a soldier. A Governor. The first chairman of the Budget Committee. The Secretary of State. The Democratic Party's candidate for Vice President.

He also was responsible, in large part, for one of the most positive and profound legislative achievements of postwar America: the passage of the environmental laws of the 1970's, to clean up our Nation's air, water, and waste.

Remember what things were like 25 years ago. We had experienced decades of industrial growth without environmental protection. Lead in the air caused brain damage in children. Toxic waste dumps all across the country caused cancer. The Cuyahoga River even caught fire.

Something had to be done. And, as chairman of the Environmental Protection Subcommittee of the Environment and Public Works Committee, Ed Muskie saw that it was. He worked tirelessly to create bipartisan support for landmark environmental laws.

The Clean Water Act, requiring rivers and streams to be fishable and swimmable; the Clean Air Act, cutting emissions from cars and factories; the Safe Drinking Water Act; the Endangered Species Act.

These laws are not perfect. But, on the whole, they have been remarkably successful. Our air is cleaner. Lead emissions fell nearly 90 percent. To put it another way, we took nearly five ounces of lead out of the sky for every American man, woman, and child. Emissions of sulfur dioxide, carbon monoxide, and particulates are way down, and half as many Americans live in cities with unhealthy air as in 1970.

Our water is cleaner. You can swim without getting sick and eat the fish you catch in twice as many rivers and streams. Even the Cuyahoga River has revived, to become a center for tourism in downtown Cleveland. The bald eagle is back from the brink of extinction.

Overall, because of the work of Ed Muskie and his colleagues, our children are growing up in a more healthy and beautiful America.

Mr. President, I am reminded of the Latin epitaph on the tomb of Sir Christopher Wren, the architect of St. Paul's Cathedral. It's inside the cathedral, and it says, "If you would see his memorial, look around."

So it is with Ed Muskie. If you wish to see his memorial, look around you: at the air in our cities; at the Potomac River, or the Cuyahoga; at a cleaner environment from Maine to Montana; at a nation that is more healthy and more beautiful because of his work.

He was a great environmental statesman, and his passing diminishes us.

THE BAD DEBT BOXSCORE

Mr. HELMS. Mr. President, as of the close of business yesterday, March 25, 1996, the Federal debt stood—down-to-the-penny—at $5,063,054,197,564.33. On a per capita basis, every man, woman and child in America owes $19,141.70 as his or her share of that debt.

(a) FINDINGS.—Congress finds that—

(1) multiple use, as set forth in current law, has been and continues to be a guiding principle in the management of public lands and national forests;

(2) through the cooperative and concerted efforts of the Federal rangeland livestock industry, Federal and State land management agencies, and the general public, the Federal rangelands are in the best condition they have been in during this century, and their condition continues to improve;

(3) as a further consequence of those efforts, populations of wildlife are increasing and stabilizing across vast areas of the West;

(4) grazing preferences must continue to be adequately safeguarded in order to promote the economic stability of the western livestock industry;

(5) it is in the public interest to charge a fee for livestock grazing permits and leases on Federal land that is based on a formula that—

(B) promotes continuing cooperative stewardship efforts;

(6) opportunities exist for improving efficiency in the administration of the range programs on Federal land by—

(A) reducing planning and analysis costs and their associated paperwork, procedural, and clerical burdens; and

(B) refocusing efforts to the direct management of the resources themselves;

(7) in order to provide meaningful review and oversight of the management of the public rangelands and the grazing allotment on those rangelands, refinement of the reporting of costs of various components of the land management program is needed;

(8) greater local input into the management of the public rangelands is in the best interests of the United States;

(9) the western livestock industry that relies on Federal land plays an important role in preserving the social, economic, and cultural base of rural communities in the Western States and further plays an integral role in the economies of the 16 contiguous Western States with Federal rangelands;

(10) maintaining the economic viability of the western livestock industry is in the best interest of the United States in order to maintain open space and fish and wildlife habitat;

Being an affected interest as described in section 104(3) shall not in and of itself confer standing to appeal a final decision upon any individual or organization.

(b) SUSPENSION PENDING APPEAL.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—An appeal of a final decision shall suspend the effect of the decision pending final action on the appeal unless the decision is made effective pending appeal under paragraph (2).

(c) In the case of an appeal under this section, the authorized officer shall, within 30 days of receipt, forward the appeal, all documents and information submitted by the applicant, permittee, lessee, or lienholder, and any pertinent information that would be useful in the rendering of a decision on such appeal, to the appropriate authority responsible for issuing the final decision on the appeal.

Title II—Management of National Grasslands

SEC. 201. SHORT TITLE.

This title may be cited as the “National Grasslands Management Act of 1996”.

SEC. 202. FINDINGS AND PURPOSE.

(a) FINDINGS.—The Congress finds that—

(1) the inclusion of the National Grasslands within the National Forest System has prevented the Secretary of Agriculture from effectively administering and promoting grassland agriculture on National Grasslands as originally intended under the Bankhead-Jones Farm Tenant Act;

(2) the National Grasslands can be more effectively managed by the Secretary of Agriculture if administered as a separate entity outside of the National Forest System; and

(3) a grazing program on National Grasslands can be responsibly carried out while protecting and preserving sporting, recreational, environmental, and other multiple uses of the National Grasslands.

(b) PURPOSE.—The purpose of this title is to provide for improved management and more efficient administration of grazing activities on National Grasslands while preserving and protecting multiple uses of such lands, including but not limited to preserving sportsmen's hunting and fishing and other recreational activities, and protecting wildlife habitat in accordance with applicable laws.

SEC. 203. DEFINITIONS.

As used in this title, the term—

(1) “National Grasslands” means those areas managed as National Grasslands by the Secretary of Agriculture under title III of the Bankhead-Jones Farm Tenant Act (7 U.S.C. 1010–1012) on the day before the date of enactment of this title; and

(2) “Secretary” means the Secretary of Agriculture.

SEC. 204. REMOVAL OF NATIONAL GRASSLANDS FROM NATIONAL FOREST SYSTEM.

Section 11(a) of the Forest Rangeland Renewable Resource Planning Act of 1974 (16 U.S.C. 1609(a)) is amended by striking the phrase “the national grasslands and land utilization projects administered under title III of the Bankhead-Jones Farm Tenant Act (50 Stat. 525, 7 U.S.C. 1010–1012).”.

SEC. 205. MANAGEMENT OF NATIONAL GRASSLANDS.

(a) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary, acting through the Chief of the Forest Service, shall manage the National Grasslands as a separate entity in accordance with this title and the provisions and multiple use purposes of title III of the Bankhead-Jones Farm Tenant Act (7 U.S.C. 1010–1012).

(b) CONSULTATION.—The Secretary shall provide timely opportunities for consultation and cooperation with interested State and local government entities, and other interested individuals and organizations in the development and implementation of land use policies and plans, and land conservation programs for the National Grasslands.

(c) GRAZING ACTIVITIES.—In furtherance of the purposes of this title, the Secretary shall administer grazing permits and implement grazing management decisions in consultation, cooperation, and coordination with local grazing associations and other grazing permit holders.

(d) REGULATIONS.—The Secretary shall promulgate regulations to manage and protect the National Grasslands, taking into account the unique characteristics of the National Grasslands and grasslands agriculture conducted under the Bankhead-Jones Farm Tenant Act (7 U.S.C. 1010). Such regulations shall facilitate the efficient administration of grazing and provide protection for the environment, wildlife, wildlife habitat, and Federal lands equivalent to that on the National Grasslands on the day prior to the date of enactment of this Act.

(e) CONFORMING AMENDMENT TO BANKHEAD-JONES ACT.—Section 31 of the Bankhead-Jones Farm Tenant Act (7 U.S.C. 1010) is amended to read as follows:

“To accomplish the purposes of title III of this Act, the Secretary is authorized and directed to develop a separate program of land conservation and utilization for the National Grasslands, in order thereby to correct maladjustments in land use, and thus assist in promoting grassland agriculture and secure occupancy and economic stability of farms and ranches, controlling soil erosion, reforestation, preserving and protecting natural resources, protecting fish and wildlife and their habitat, developing and protecting recreational opportunities and facilities, mitigating floods, preventing impairment of dams and reservoirs, developing energy resources, conserving surface and subsurface moisture, protecting the watersheds of navigable streams, and protecting the public lands, health, safety and welfare, but not to build industrial parks or commercial enterprises.”.

(f) SPORTSMEN'S HUNTING AND FISHING, AND OTHER RECREATIONAL ACTIVITIES.—Nothing in this title shall be construed as limiting or precluding sportsmen's hunting or fishing activities on National Grasslands in accordance with applicable Federal and State laws, nor shall appropriate recreational activities be limited or precluded.

(g) VALID EXISTING RIGHTS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Nothing in this title shall affect valid existing rights, reservations, agreements, or authorizations. Section 1323(a) of Public Law 96–487 shall continue to apply to non-Federal land and interests therein within the boundaries of the National Grasslands.

(2) INTERIM USE AND OCCUPANCY.—

(A) Until such time as regulations concerning the use and occupancy of the National Grasslands are promulgated pursuant to this title, the Secretary shall regulate the use and occupancy of such lands in accordance with regulations applicable to such lands on May 25, 1995, to the extent practicable and consistent with the provisions of this Act.

(B) Any applications for National Grasslands use and occupancy authorizations submitted prior to the date of enactment of this Act, shall continue to be processed without interruption and without reinitiating any processing activity already completed or begun prior to such date.

SEC. 206. FEES AND CHARGES.

Fees and charges for grazing on the National Grasslands shall be determined in accordance with section 135, except that the Secretary may adjust the amount of a grazing fee to compensate for approved conservation practices expenditures.

PRESIDIO PROPERTIES ADMINISTRATION ACT OF 1995

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report the pending business. The legislative clerk read as follows:

A bill (H.R. 1296) to provide for the administration of certain Presidio properties at a minimal cost to the Federal taxpayer.

The Senate resumed consideration of the bill.

Pending: Murkowski modified amendment No. 3564, in the nature of a substitute.

AMENDMENT NO. 3564, AS MODIFIED

Mr. CAMPBELL. Mr. President, I rise today in support of my substitute amendment for the Presidio bill, offered in conjunction with the Senator from Alaska and the majority leader. Many people have been waiting a long time for this bill. I know the Senators from California and Congresswoman PELOSI have put a great deal of time and energy into this legislation, as have the staff from the Energy Committee and personal offices. In our efforts to try to reach consensus on all levels, we have managed to craft a bill that will provide enough balance and flexibility to incorporate all points of view. This bill offers a unique, creative and innovative approach to provide for the long-term protection and preservation of one of our Nation's greatest cultural, historical, and natural treasures.

When I was a college student at San Jose State University, my buddies and I would often take off for the weekend to "the city." One of my favorite places back then was the Presidio, and I spent a lot of time exploring the batteries and bunkers along the coast. It is just a spectacular site, situated on the threshold of the Golden Gate Bridge, overlooking the entire bay area. Last fall, I had the opportunity to visit the Presidio, and found that the base had changed very little in the years since I was a college student at San Jose.

There is something very special about the Presidio. The natural beauty, as well as the impressive history of the site captivated me 40 years ago, and continues to captivate millions of tourists, locals, and even some politicians today.

Before Christopher Columbus arrived in the New World, the indigenous tribes of Ohlone and Miwok inhabited the area known now as San Francisco. Taking advantage of this unique natural harbor, these tribes flourished from fishing in the plentiful bay.

When the land was finally taken over by the white new immigrants, the Presidio almost immediately became a strategic military post. For over 220 years, the Presidio is the oldest continually operated military post, commanded first by Spain in 1776, then Mexico and finally the United States in 1846. The Presidio has played a supporting role in almost every single major military conflict the United States has ever engaged in, starting with the Spanish-American War to the Civil War, World War I, and of course, World War II. The Presidio served also as a refuge for an estimated 16,000 people after the great earthquake and fire of 1906, and was the very first Army airfield established in the Nation in 1921.

Mr. President, the history of this national historic landmark is indeed distinguished and celebrated. I comment on it to describe to my colleagues the unique nature of this site and thus to explain the particulars of the legislation it requires.

For the past 7 years, since the Base Closure and Realignment Commission [BRAC] included the Presidio on its list of bases to be closed, the fate of the Presidio has been somewhat uncertain. When the National Park Service took control of the post in 1994, along with the addition of one of the most glorious parks to the system, the Park Service was faced with one of their most complex and challenging management problems.

Aside from its spectacular natural beauty, the Presidio is unlike any other national park. Scattered throughout the grounds are over 1,200 residential units, more than 6.2 million square feet of building space, and dozens of miles of paved roads. Because of the nature of the historic facilities, the cost of maintenance and management of this site is a whopping $25 million a year, making it our most expensive national park. Faced with the fiscal realities that we, in the Federal Government, must confront, the question that was posed to Congress was this: How can we continue to protect and preserve the Presidio for the benefit of all Americans without draining the already limited reserves of the National Park Service?

Mr. President, I believe the substitute amendment offered by Senators DOLE and MURKOWSKI and myself answers this question and in so doing, strikes the balance that we are all looking for.

The bill before us today establishes a mechanism that will reduce the need for appropriations to operate the Presidio. Rather than seeing the infrastructure in the Presidio as obstacles to the preservation of the park, this bill will utilize these buildings to generate revenues that will be recycled back into the funds that manage the park. By weaning the Presidio off of Federal taxpayer dependency, this bill will eventually create a self-sustaining park. The management structure created by our bill will enable the Presidio to be used in such a way that it will pay for itself.

Mr. President, our legislation will create a public-private management entity—the Presidio Trust—to provide for the management of the leasing, maintenance, and repair of the property within the Presidio. In addition, the National Park Service will continue to provide its expert guidance for interpretive services, visitor orientation, and educational programs. Under the structure of cooperative management, this bill will allow the trust (made up of private sector real estate and finance experts) and the Park Service to manage what they manage best, thereby eliminating costly bureaucratic blunders. If the bill is enacted, the Presidio will be the only unit of the National Park System, that will cost significantly less in 10 years than it costs today.

Mr. President, as I mentioned, I had the opportunity to tour the base facilities in San Francisco, as well as meet with the various interest groups last fall. While there were some differences on what the legislation affecting the Presidio should include, the groups were unanimous in their belief that the base should remain as a unit of the National Park System. People expressed real fears that there was a movement to sell the Presidio to a private developer, and I stated, at the time, that a sale would happen, "over my dead body." Many of my colleagues feel the same way.

This bill will not enable private interests to develop swank upscale condos, or private dining clubs. This bill will cater only to the interests of all Americans, by protecting the invaluable cultural, historic, and natural resources of the Presidio for this generation and generations to come. It is quite simply a good government approach that strikes a balance with the fiscal realities of our time with the need for continued conservation and preservation. I urge my colleagues to support this worthy piece of legislation.

Mr. DOLE. Mr. President, what is the pending business?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The pending business is the substitute to H.R. 1296.

Mr. DOLE. Presidio properties bill, is that correct?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. That is correct.

Mr. DOLE. As I understand, I do not know how many different projects are involved here, but they are all related and come from the Energy and Natural Resources Committee. I understand the Senator from Massachusetts would like to add to that the minimum wage amendment, which we do not believe belongs on this bill. Maybe it will belong on some other bill. It should not be considered at this time.

We would like to complete action on this. We have a number of items to complete this week, including, we hope, the farm bill conference report, line-item veto conference report, the omnibus appropriations bill, and, of course, the debt ceiling. It would be our hope we can complete action some time early on Friday. That may or may not happen. If not, I suggest we probably would have to be here on Saturday to complete action on those bills because some relate to whether or not the Government is shut down. The debt extension is very important, too.

So we can avoid—there will be a closure vote on this bill tomorrow morning rather early. We have not decided the exact time, so we stay on the matter and amendments germane to the pending business.

AMENDMENT NO. 3571 TO AMENDMENT NO. 3564

(Purpose: To provide for the exchange of certain lands within the State of Montana)

Mr. DOLE. Mr. President, I send an amendment to the desk and ask for its immediate consideration.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Kansas [Mr. DOLE] for Mr. BURNS, proposes an amendment numbered 3571 to amendment No. 3564.

Mr. DOLE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

At the end of the amendment, add the following:

TITLE —MISCELLANEOUS

SEC. 01. LOST CREEK LAND EXCHANGE.

(a) LAND EXCHANGE.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the Secretary of Agriculture (referred to in this Act as the "Secretary") shall acquire by exchange certain land and interests in land owned by R-Y Timber, Inc., its successors and assigns or affiliates (referred to in this Act as "R-Y"), located in the Lost Creek area and other areas of the Deerlodge National Forest, Montana.

(2) OFFER AND ACCEPTANCE OF LAND.—

(A) NON-FEDERAL LAND.—If R-Y offers fee title that is acceptable to the United States to approximately 17,567 acres of land owned by R-Y and available for exchange, the Secretary shall accept a warranty deed to the land.

(B) FEDERAL LAND.—

(i) CONVEYANCE.—On acceptance of title to R-Y's land under paragraph (1), the Secretary shall convey to R-Y, subject to reservations and valid existing rights, by patent, fee title to lands and timber deeds of a value that is approximately equal to the value of the land described in subsection (a).

(ii) TIMBER HARVEST PROVISIONS.—

(I) PRACTICES.—Timber harvest practices used on the national forest land conveyed under clause (i) shall be conducted in accordance with Montana Forestry Best Management Practices, the Montana Streamside Zone Management Law (Mont. Code Ann. sec. 77-5-301 et seq.), and all other applicable laws of the State of Montana.

(II) RELATION TO PLANNED SALES.—Timber harvest volumes on land conveyed under clause (i) shall be in addition to, and not treated in any way as an offset against, the present or future planned timber sale quantities for the National Forest where the harvesting occurs.

(III) TIMBER DESIGNATIONS.—

(aa) CONTRACT.—To ensure the expeditious and efficient designation of timber on land conveyed under clause (i), the Forest Service shall contract with a qualified private person agreed on by the Secretary and R-Y to perform the field work associated with the designations.

(bb) MINIMUM ANNUAL DESIGNATIONS.—Not less than 20 percent nor more than 30 percent of the timber on land conveyed under clause (i) shall be made available by the end of each fiscal year over a 5-year period beginning with the first fiscal year that begins after the date of enactment of this Act, and R-Y shall be allowed at least 5 years after the end of each fiscal year in which to complete the harvest of timber designated in that fiscal year.

(3) TITLE.—

(A) REVIEW OF TITLE.—Not later than 30 days after receipt of title documents from R-Y, the Secretary shall review the title for the non-Federal land described in paragraph (2) and determine whether—

(i) the applicable title standards for Federal land acquisition have been satisfied or the quality of title is otherwise acceptable to the Secretary;

(ii) all draft conveyances and closing documents have been received and approved; and

(iii) a current title commitment verifying compliance with applicable title standards has been issued to the Secretary.

(B) UNACCEPTABLE QUALITY OF TITLE.—If the quality of title does not meet Federal standards and is not otherwise acceptable to the Secretary, the Secretary shall advise R-Y regarding corrective actions necessary to make an affirmative determination.

(C) CONVEYANCE OF TITLE.—The Secretary shall effect the conveyance of land described in paragraph (2) not later than 60 days after the Secretary has made an affirmative determination of quality of title.

(b) GENERAL PROVISIONS.—

(1) MAPS AND DOCUMENTS.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—Maps pertaining to the land described in subsection (a) are subject to such minor corrections as may be agreed upon by the Secretary and R-Y.

(B) NOTIFICATION.—The Secretary shall notify the Committee on Energy and Natural Resources of the Senate and the Committee on Resources of the House of Representatives of any corrections made pursuant to this subsection.

(C) PUBLIC AVAILABILITY.—The maps and documents described in subsection (a)(2) (A) and (B) shall be on file and available for public inspection in the office of the Chief of the Forest Service.

(2) NATIONAL FOREST SYSTEM LAND.—All land conveyed to the United States under this section shall be added to and administered as part of the Deerlodge National Forest in accordance with the laws pertaining to the National Forest System.

(3) VALUATION.—The values of the lands and interests in land to be exchanged under this section are deemed to be of approximately equal value.

(4) HAZARDOUS MATERIAL LIABILITY.—The United States (including its departments, agencies, and employees) shall not be liable under the Comprehensive Environmental Response, Compensation, and Liability Act (42 U.S.C. 9601 et seq.), the Clean Water Act (33 U.S.C. 1251 et seq.), or any other Federal, State, or local law, solely as a result of the acquisition of an interest in the Lost Creek Tract or due to circumstances or events occurring before acquisition, including any release or threat of release of a hazardous substance.

Mr. BURNS. Mr. President, I rise to offer an amendment regarding the Lost Creek Land Exchange Act of 1996.

This amendment is important for the acquisition of the Lost Creek area of Montana for the public.

I want to emphasize that this amendment is a starting point. I fully anticipate major changes will need to be made when this bill goes to conference with the House. Yet, the process needs to move forward.

Under this amendment, 14,500 acres of blueribbon bighorn sheep habitat known as Lost Creek would become a part of the Deerlodge National Forest. For the past few years, local sportsmen and conservation groups, the Forest Service, and many others have been interested in the public acquiring this prime habitat. I, too, believe this is a worthwhile endeavor.

The amendment would transfer the Lost Creek area, and 3,000 additional acres currently owned by R-Y Timber, to the Forest Service. In return R-Y Timber will acquire the deed to land and timber.

The Lost Creek area has been valued at about $8 million. And the days of the Federal Government simply paying the price tag are over.

With assistance from the Forest Service, I am hopeful that alternative lands can be found to exchange for the Lost Creek area. The Forest Service has started this process.

Mr. President, as I stated earlier the amendment I am offering is a starting point. I fully anticipate having to make substantial changes when we move to conference. I hope that the parties involved will continue to work together so this win-win bill can make it to the President's desk.

I yield the floor.

Mr. DOLE. Mr. President, I ask for the yeas and nays.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there a sufficient second?

There is a sufficient second.

Mr. BYRD. Mr. President, I do not intend to object to the amendment, but I think we ought to go by the rules. The Senator did ask for the yeas and nays, so that is business intervening?

Mr. DOLE. Yes.

Mr. DASCHLE addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The minority leader is recognized.

Mr. DASCHLE. Mr. President, I am disappointed that we have not had the opportunity until now to debate the minimum wage amendment. On April 1, it will be 5 years since the last time the minimum wage was increased.

We are now at the lowest point we have been in nearly 40 years with regard to the purchasing power the minimum wage provides. That is unacceptable, at a time when we see CEO incomes going up by 23 percent to an average in the country today of $990,000—something we do not deny to them and something we certainly would not want to preclude. Many of them certainly deserve it.

There ought to be recognition, however, as we consider welfare reform and all of the other legislative measures that we are contemplating, that we need to provide more opportunity for people to go to work, and we ought to give them an economic incentive to do so.

People do not have the economic wherewithal, working full time at the minimum-wage today, to stay out of poverty. That is unacceptable. Sooner or later, we will have a vote on the minimum wage. Sooner or later, it has to be resolved. Sooner or later, this minimum wage increase must pass. We can do it sooner or we can do it later. Our preference is to do it sooner. This vehicle affords us the opportunity to do that. Whether it is this vehicle or any other bill, I certainly hope that we can do it soon.

I yield to my colleague from Massachusetts.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Massachusetts [Mr. KENNEDY] is recognized.

AMENDMENT NO. 3573

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, I send an amendment to the desk and ask for its immediate consideration.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

At the appropriate place in the bill, insert the following:

"(1) except as otherwise provided in this section, not less than $4.25 an hour during the period ending July 3, 1996, not less than $4.70 an hour during the year beginning July 4, 1996, and not less than $5.15 an hour after July 3, 1997;"

Mr. KERRY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

Mr. KERRY. Mr. President, I ask for the yeas and nays.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there a sufficient second?

There is a sufficient second.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

Mr. KENNEDY addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Massachusetts [Mr. KENNEDY] is recognized.

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, I just heard from the majority leader a few moments ago that we were not going to be able to have an opportunity to debate and take action on the minimum wage.

We are required now to use whatever parliamentary means we can to try and permit working families to see a judgment about whether this body is going to make a statement about increasing the minimum wage. The majority leader had been a leader in 1989 when we restored the minimum wage up to the small increase in its purchasing power. If we could gather from the majority leader—I see that he is moving into the cloakroom at the present time, so I guess that is an indication of what the answer would be.

We were going to try and get at least some agreement as to when we might be able to bring this up. We are denied even that opportunity to do so, in spite of the fact that there was an indication from the Republican leadership that we were going to have the minority leader or his designee be recognized to offer an amendment. And we understood, since that was not a fixed order, that that was the intention of the Republican leadership at that time. We were denied the opportunity to have the bill before us.

Now we have the bill before us, and we were denied the opportunity to be able to debate that, or at least get a short time agreement. We are quite prepared to do it, as has been pointed out by my colleague from Massachusetts, Senator KERRY, and Senator WELLSTONE.

This is not a new issue. We were prepared to enter into a short time period, or at least have the opportunity to set a date for consideration of it. If the majority leader would let us have a fixed date for discussion on it—we were able to persuade the majority leader earlier on the health care bill to set a time for debate on it—we would certainly accede to the leader's recommendation, if we would have a precise time when we would be able to debate it. So if we were able to get a time definite, we would certainly respond to a request by the leader to have a time definite to be able to vote on this.

Mr. President, raising the minimum wage has broad support among the American people. The question is whether it has the support of the Republican leadership here in the U.S. Senate, Senator DOLE and the rest of the Republican leadership.

As I mentioned earlier, Senator DOLE supported this in the past. So the question is whether he is willing at this time to give an opportunity for us to vote on this measure now, or in the very near future.

We believe that working families deserve a raise. Minimum-wage families deserve a raise most of all. Nobody who works for a living should have to live in poverty.

It is basically the leader's decision that is going to make all the difference as to whether we are going to be able to act together, as we have in the past. We saw Republican Presidents, like Eisenhower, Nixon, Bush, who all supported that increase. And Republicans here, with some exceptions, supported that increase in 1989. All we are waiting for—and I think what the working families in this country are waiting for—is the majority leader to indicate that he, like others in this body, is on the side of working families. I hope that we will have a chance to do this because, as we have said, this issue is not going to go away. We understand the full agenda that is necessary for action.

I would certainly ask the minority leader if the time could be established definite, if he would work out a precise time with the majority leader so that working families in this country would know when the Senate was going to debate this issue. We will have to try to do the best we can under the circumstances that we have, but I deplore the fact that we are effectively denied the opportunity to debate this issue and to take action. I think it is an issue of fundamental fairness and justice. It is an issue involving families, women, and children, and the Senate should not turn its back on those families this afternoon or in these next days.

Mr. WELLSTONE and Mr. KERRY addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Minnesota.

Mr. WELLSTONE. I will defer to my colleague from Massachusetts. I will take 1 minute.

I have been in the Chamber since this morning with my two colleagues. This amendment is simple and straightforward. It would increase the minimum wage from $4.25 an hour to $5.15 over 2 years—90 cents over 2 years. I will say it one more time. Senators and Representatives gave themselves, a few years ago, a very hefty salary increase from about $100,000 a year to about $130,000 a year. It seems to me we can give heads of working families the same kind of increase.

I do not think this is too much to ask. I think this is very much about economic fairness. While we are putting off a vote on this, there are many people who have to live with this minimum wage. This is extremely important to 200,000 working families in my State, much less their children, and I believe this effort to just block having an up-or-down vote goes against the grain of what is called accountability. We will bring this amendment up over and over and over and over again until there is a vote.

I yield the floor.

Mr. KERRY addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Massachusetts.

Mr. KERRY. Mr. President, we came to the floor this morning with the understanding that, while not as an official order, the minimum wage amendment was going to be offered. The minority leader was going to have time and the minority leader's designee was going to have an opportunity to submit the amendment. Senator KENNEDY was the designee and, indeed, the Senator intended to offer the minimum wage amendment.

We were blocked this morning from doing that, and now this afternoon a parliamentary process of what is called filling up the tree, putting in two amendments behind each other, which locks in the debate again, precludes a debate on the minimum wage at this time. But Senator KENNEDY has submitted an amendment to the underlying amendment, and I have submitted a second-degree amendment to that not because we are trying to tie up the Senate and not because we are trying to delay the process of resolving this other legislation but simply because, as Senator KENNEDY has said, we would like to have an answer. We would like to have a time.

We work this out in the Senate all the time. We have an agreement with respect to the health care bill. We know there will be a time certain for debate on an issue of major importance to the American people. All we are asking for is some kind of bipartisan agreement and understanding as to when we can have a vote, a debate and a decision, on whether or not we are going to give working people at the lowest end of the income scale a pay raise. Corporate America has had a pay raise almost every day of the year last year. The stock market went up 34 percent in 1 year. The chief executive officers of companies are walking away with, what, 200 times the salary of workers. It used to be only 50 times and now it is 200 times.

The stark reality is that in the United States of America in 1996, the minimum wage earns you a record 40-year low, or is about to earn you a record 40-year low. It is a 25-percent reduction over what it was in 1979. Through the 1950's, the 1960's, the 1970's, and finally even in the 1980's, as the minimum wage gap got bigger and bigger between what you earned working and the poverty level, we lifted it. All we are suggesting is that when a worker on the minimum wage earns three-quarters of the level of the poverty rate in this country, let us at least lift it up to permit them to get out of poverty.

If you are going to give meaning to the notion of work and you are going to give meaning to the notion of welfare reform, if you are going to give meaning to the values we talk about in this Chamber, you have to give meaning to work and the money that people earn for working. Nothing is more fundamental, and we hope that the Senate will have the opportunity to have a bipartisan vote on this issue.

Mr. KENNEDY. Will the Senator yield for a question?

Mr. KERRY. I would be happy to yield for a question.

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, as I understand, the pending issue before the Senate is now the Kerry amendment. I was just wondering whether the Senator, my colleague and friend, would be willing to vote on this so that we are not going to delay this with the idea that we would vote at, say, 4 o'clock with the time evenly divided between those who support this measure and those who would be opposed. Would the Senator—

Mr. KERRY. Mr. President, let me say in answer to my colleague, I would be delighted to have any fair amount of time on both sides. I think it would be good if we could have that. I ask unanimous consent that we have a vote at a time certain and have a vote on my underlying amendment on the minimum wage at 4 o'clock.

Mr. DOLE. I object.

Mr. MURKOWSKI. I object.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Objection is heard.

Mr. DOLE addressed the Chair.

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, will the Senator yield further?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Massachusetts—

Mr. KERRY. Mr. President, the regular order is—

Mr. DOLE. With no intervening action, I ask for recognition.

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, are we going to get taken off our feet now?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator will suspend.

Mr. KENNEDY. Is the Senator going to be taken off his feet?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. If the Senator will suspend, the Senator from Massachusetts has the floor.

Mr. KERRY. Mr. President, I was going to yield for a question of my colleague. I believe he wanted to ask me a question. I yield for the purposes of answering the question.

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, I just ask my colleague then if we are not able to get a time definite, which the Senator requested of the Senate—there was objection to that—has the Senator reached the conclusion that it is those who are objecting who are filibustering consideration of the minimum wage legislation? Would that be his conclusion, as it is mine?

Mr. KERRY. Mr. President, let me answer the question of my colleague before I draw a conclusion. I wonder, since the majority leader is in the Chamber, if, without yielding my right to the floor, I could ask the majority leader if he believes it would be possible for us to work out some kind of agreement as to time for a vote.

The majority leader was not in the Chamber, but I did say while he was out in the Cloakroom that this is not an effort to try to tie up the Senate. This is not an effort to try to delay the progress on this important legislation that we need to debate. This is simply an effort to try to see if we could reach a time certain for a vote on the minimum wage issue. I would ask the majority leader, without losing my right to the floor, if he would be willing to answer a question with respect to setting a time certain?

Mr. DOLE. Let me indicate I would be happy to discuss it. I am not certain we could reach an agreement. But, obviously, this bill, this amendment will, in effect, defeat the Presidio bill. There will not be any vote on the amendment today. There will be a cloture vote tomorrow. I assume cloture will not be invoked. Then the bill will come down, and I assume then there will be an effort to offer it on the next measure sometime this week. But I assume with the AFL-CIO in town and with their pledge of $35 million, it is probably a fairly appropriate time for Democrats to discuss this measure.

Mr. KERRY. Mr. President, without yet responding to the last comments of the majority leader, I again might ask, again without losing my right to the floor, I wonder if I could inquire of the majority leader why it might not be possible to set a time certain sometime in the future, perhaps a week or 2 weeks so that we could have at least a consideration of this issue on the floor of the Senate. I wonder if the majority leader might be willing to commit to that?

Mr. DOLE. Well, again, I will be happy to explore it. I have always been willing to explore any possibility. Maybe we could couple it with something we would like to do on this side of the aisle, something the majority leader might like to have happen. We could work some agreement like that. But, again, I have not—nobody has made a proposal except the amendment has been offered.

I assume that sooner or later the issue will be voted upon, directly or indirectly, but not today and not tomorrow and hopefully not this week, because we have a number of issues before us and this will take, as everyone knows, considerable debate. It is an unfunded mandate. It is subject to a point of order, according to the Congressional Budget Office. We all voted to end unfunded mandates, and here we are about to impose, or would like to impose, at least some would like to impose, another unfunded mandate on the very political subdivisions we said we would not mandate different costs and expenditures, whatever. Unless somebody has a proposal to make, now there is an amendment pending, and my view is that we should debate it. If there is to be debate, that is fine. There will be no vote. We will just wait and have the cloture vote tomorrow morning.

Mr. KENNEDY. Will the Senator yield?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The junior Senator from Massachusetts has the floor.

Mr. KERRY. Mr. President, I would be happy to yield for a question to the Senator from Massachusetts.

Mr. KENNEDY. Will the leader be willing to find an agreeable time with the minority leader, the two leaders find an agreeable time, say, by June 10, to consider this legislation in the Chamber?

Mr. DOLE. Again, I would be happy to discuss it with the distinguished Democratic leader, Senator DASCHLE. I am not certain I would make that agreement.

I know it is important on that side of the aisle. It may be important to some on this side of the aisle. But it is also important to many small businesses in America. It is very controversial.

I just do not believe it should be on this bill unless the intent is to kill this bill. Maybe it is. I happen to support it. There are 23 States involved in this legislation: West Virginia, Massachusetts, California, Louisiana, Tennessee. I do not think the State of Kansas is involved, but there are a number of States—Colorado.

So I hope we might dispose of the pending legislation and then complete action on a number of conference reports this week and get the omnibus appropriation bill passed and the debt ceiling extension. That would just about complete the week.

Mr. KERRY. Mr. President, could I reiterate? We were able to work out, obviously, a very agreeable approach to the question on health care which stymied us in a similar way for a period of time. I want to reiterate to the majority leader, we are not trying to kill this bill, at least for this reason. And we are not attempting to delay.

Would it be possible to have an agreement that we will vote on this issue on a date certain between now and, say, the beginning of June? In a discussion with the majority leader, the minority leader and majority leader could arrive at a date certain for a vote?

Mr. DOLE. Again, I am always willing to try to resolve some of the problems. This is not going to be an easy one because, as I recall, the first 2 years of the Clinton administration, when the Democrats controlled Congress, we did not have any votes on minimum wage. The Democrats did not bring it up. They controlled everything. They controlled the White House and the House and the Senate.

Now, suddenly, after the AFL has their meeting and pledges millions and millions of dollars, we want to bring it up on the floor. I can imagine what would happen in the liberal media if the corporations came to town and said we are going to put $35 million in the Republican campaigns. There would be headlines in all the papers. All the talk shows would stop in midair to get it on the air.

I think there is also a very logical argument. There are going to be a lot of young people who lose their jobs. Many are black teenagers and many are young people whose parents live below the poverty line. So I think, if we are going to have this debate, it ought to be a lengthy debate. It ought to be on the merits. In my view, it cannot happen—I do not see how it can happen this week.

Obviously, the Senator is entitled, as he did, to offer an amendment to the underlying bill. That was our mistake. We should have taken care of that. It will not happen again.

But notwithstanding that, we can prevent a vote and we will prevent a vote because we do not believe it belongs on this legislation. There are 23 States that have an interest in the pending legislation. I do not believe even the Democrats, who have very important projects in this legislation, are very excited about having the two Senators from Massachusetts offer this minimum wage adjustment to their legislation.

Mr. KERRY. Mr. President, let me say, in all respect, in response to the majority leader, we had a vote in the U.S. Senate last year and 51 U.S. Senators voted that we should take up the minimum wage before the end of the last session. We did not do that.

Now we are back. I did not even know about the AFL. I am glad you told me. Maybe I can arrange to get to the meeting. But I did not even know they were in town. We announced our intention to offer an amendment some time ago—Senator KENNEDY, who has been leading on this effort, together with Senator WELLSTONE, a group of us—this has been something we have been trying to do for a number of years. The fact is, it is getting more necessary, not less, as a consequence of the fact that the wage each day is worth less.

So, I say to the majority leader, we can always find a group that is in town at some period of time when some legislation is on the floor, and we all know Republicans collect far, far more money from interest groups than Democrats ever do. If we want to start pointing fingers at whose money comes from where, that is a different debate.

The fact is, working people do not get the kind of money any of us get from anywhere, even from their work. That is what this debate is all about. Folks who are working and cannot even pay for medical insurance, let alone rent, let alone food.

So I regret the majority leader will not say we can have a vote on this, will not even say we could have one by June. Therefore, Mr. President, I move to table my amendment.

Mr. President, I ask for the yeas and nays.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there a sufficient second?

Mr. DOLE. Mr. President, I suggest the absence of a quorum.

AMENDMENT NO. 3654 TO AMENDMENT NO. 3653

Mr. DOLE. Mr. President, I send a second-degree amendment to the motion.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Kansas [Mr. DOLE] proposes an amendment numbered 3654 to amendment No. 3653.

Strike all after the first word in the amendment to the instructions to the pending motion and insert in lieu thereof "report back by April 21, 1996 amendments to reform welfare and Medicaid effective two days after the effective date of the bill."

Mr. DOLE. I ask for the yeas and nays.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there a sufficient second?

There is a sufficient second.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

Mr. DOLE. Mr. President, we are prepared to vote on this motion at this time. Medicaid reform and welfare reform are high on everyone's priority list in America, particularly the voters and the taxpayers, and we would be prepared to vote on this motion, say, at 6 o'clock or 5 after 6 or 6:15, or whenever.

But I do believe now we are back on an issue that the American people are really concerned about: how we can save maybe $50 billion on welfare over the next 7 years by sending it back to the States, and maybe as much as $85 billion over the next 7 years on Medicaid by sending it back to the States, all in accordance with the 10th amendment to the Constitution, which says unless the powers vested in the Federal Government are denied to the States it belongs to the States and the people.

That is what we will debate at this time, unless there is a willingness to accept the amendments, or we can debate tomorrow after the cloture vote, whichever the Democratic leader prefers.

But I am prepared and now ask that we stand in recess until 9:30 tomorrow morning.

MOTION TO RECESS

Mr. DOLE. Mr. President, I now move the Senate stand in recess until the hour of 9:30 a.m., Wednesday, March 27, 1996.

Mr. DASCHLE. Mr. President, I ask for the yeas and nays.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there a sufficient second? There is a sufficient second.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to the motion. The yeas and nays have been ordered. The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk called the roll.

Mr. LOTT. I announce that the Senator from Vermont [Mr. JEFFORDS], the Senator from Delaware [Mr. ROTH], and the Senator from Wyoming [Mr. SIMPSON] are necessarily absent.

Mr. FORD. I announce that the Senator from New Jersey [Mr. BRADLEY], the Senator from Delaware [Mr. BIDEN], and the Senator from Connecticut [Mr. LIEBERMAN] are necessarily absent.

I also announce that the Senator from West Virginia [Mr. ROCKEFELLER] is absent because of illness.
